FOREWORD

I am happy to welcome back to Boise Junior College those students who have been with us before and to extend greetings to those who are new to the campus.

This college offers an unusual opportunity for every student to participate, not only in the regular academic activities, but in the extracurricular ones, also. If you have a strong desire to do a certain type of work, you will find faculty and students encouraging you to do just that. There is no limit to the amount of leadership you can assert if you have made up your mind that you are willing to put forth the effort.

The coming year offers a chance for each of you to build a substantial milestone in your life, one that will serve you and society. I hope that you will make the most of the opportunity offered to you.

President Chaffee.

INTRODUCTION TO THE HANDBOOK

As a student enters a college, whether a junior college or a university, there are always certain questions he asks: "What is the campus like;" "Are my credits transferable?"; "What regulations are there?", and many more.

This handbook has been printed to help answer the questions of new students concerning BJC.

As this is the first attempt to publish such a book there are no doubt many omissions. If students have more questions whose answers they feel should be included in the handbook, give them to the Student Council to be included in the next printing of the handbook. The handbook will then be of greater value to other students entering Boise Junior College.

A BRIEF HISTORY OF BJC

Boise Junior College was organized in the spring of 1932 to answer the demand for higher education in Boise. During the first two years of operation, the Episcopal Church sponsored the college. Then in response to an appeal from the Right Reverend Middleton S. Barnwell, Bishop of Idaho and first president of the college, a group of public spirited citizens assumed the responsibility of directing the school. The result was a non-profit organization of Boise citizens interested in education. The Episcopal Church donated the buildings formerly housing a girls academy for the first Boise Junior College.

In the fall of 1949, Boise Junior College opened as a public institution. In February of 1949, an enabling act permitting the formation of junior college districts was passed by the legislature, and signed by the governor. The qualified school electors of a designated district voted by a large majority in favor of the establishment of Boise Junior College district.

HANDBOOK

A city bond election for funds to build a college plant was approved in the fall of 1939 by a 10-1 majority. The city of Boise donated the old municipal airport on the south bank of the Boise River for the new campus. By September 1940, the administration building had been completed. During that school year a heating plant and a gymnasium were built, followed by the erection of the student union building financed by the student body and the board of trustees of the private Junior College, the assembly-music building, and a vocational shop. The Junior College city-county health unit building is also located on the campus.

THE CAMPUS

Boise Junior College is located between Capitol Boulevard on the west and Broadway on the east, on the south bank of the Boise River across from Julia Davis Park. The campus, spacious and beautifully situated, is near the business district where many students find part-time employment.

BOISE JUNIOR COLLEGE

In this central location, the campus is easily reached by bus, stage and train.

The administration building contains 22 classrooms, completely equipped laboratories, general administration offices, a library of approximately 12,000 volumes, and an educational film library.

The assembly hall seats 750 and provides a place for assemblies and social activities. It also houses the music department, with practice rooms and studios and musical instruments, including an electric organ.

A student union provides a place for the students' social activities. There are a large dining room, modern kitchen and fountain, and lounges. The student supply store is located on the balcony of the union building.

The gymnasium is equipped with dressing rooms and showers and facilities for indoor sports. Adjacent to the gym are the athletic fields and the concrete tennis courts.

The health clinic houses the offices of the college physician and nurses. Facilities of the building are available to the college for laboratory and class use. Students may go to the health clinic at any time for minor medical treatment.

Vocational classes are held in special shops on the campus. Radio classes are held in a special building equipped with a broadcasting studio and recording facilities.

Two temporary buildings house the biological science labs and lecture rooms.

THE PURPOSE OF BJC

The purpose of the junior college is to meet the needs of students who have graduated from high school and desire to continue their education with one of the following goals in view:

1. Those who plan to enter a senior college and desire courses of a general nature, university parallel or pre-professional courses.

BOISE JUNIOR COLLEGE

2. Those who are interested in carrying their education a year or two beyond the high school level in preparation for immediate entrance into the general field of business and the professions.
3. Adults who wish to continue general or special education; when it is desirable night classes can be arranged for this group.

ACCREDITED STANDING

Boise Junior College has been since 1932 an active member of the American Association of Junior Colleges. It is a member of the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools, and is fully accredited by that organization, by the State Board of Education, and the University of Idaho. Credits are accepted anywhere through the association.

STUDENT ACTIVITIES

As any other college, BJC has its social life and the events which are held annually.

To begin the year is the Mixer dance. This is the only dance during the school year to which students may come stag. This is to get the students acquainted with each other.

The big event of the winter semester as with all schools, is Homecoming. It is generally held the last part of October or the first part of November. Homecoming is a two day event with a bon fire starting the activities the night before the game. Wood for the bon fire is gathered and guarded to prevent other schools from setting it off early. The IK's sponsor a flaming B on the side of Tablerock which can be seen all over the Boise valley. The following day is the parade at noon and the afternoon Homecoming football game. In the evening is the formal ball during which the Homecoming Queen, chosen by the football team, is crowned.

HANDBOOK

Other dances in the winter semester are the IK Ball and the Christmas Formal held during Christmas vacation.

Second semester is the time for "Bach to Boogie," the annual college musical. Preparations for "Bach to Boogie" begin several months in advance and result in one of the most popular shows to be put on in Boise. In this show anything from long-hair to low-brow goes.

Dances during the second semester are the Sweetheart Ball in February, the Spring Formal and the Graduation Ball.

The Spring Formal always brings out something new in dances for the year.

During the year there are two major dramatic productions. One in the first semester and one in the second semester. These productions are open to anyone who is interested and has the time to devote to the work.
