1-1-2014

Recruitment Talk for UF 200 sec. 06/ISLE 297: Making a Difference in Solidarity

Sara W. Fry PhD
Boise State University
UF 200 sec. 06/ISLE 297: Making a Difference in Solidarity
An Intensive Semester Learning Experience
Fall 2014: Mo/We, noon-2:45 p.m.

What motivates individuals to be deeply and actively involved in their local and/or global communities, making a difference and serving others in solidarity?

From charity to solidarity

Theresa Grant, Hailey Native & BSU alumnus, founder and director of Make a Difference Now

Jean Kirshner, founder and director of the Belize Education Project

Rose Beal, Holocaust survivor and Human Rights Activist – "even" in her 90s!

Course Description:
UF 200 sec. 06/ISLE 297: Supports the Foundational Studies Program by engaging students in discussion of ethics, diversity, and internationalization, with an in-depth, interdisciplinary inquiry into the motivations and contexts that lead women who are actively involved with Treasure Valley organizations to “Make a Difference in Solidarity.” Course includes service-learning, research, and writing assignments. Students enrolled in this 6-credit course earn 3-credits for UF 200 and 3-credits for ISLE 297. Based on major/interests, students may apply to have the ISLE credits count as: Gender Studies, English, or History, and earn Honor’s Designation. PREREQ: ENGL 102, UF 100, sophomore status, and instructor permission.

Interested? Contact sarafry@boisestate.edu for details!