To the Student Body of Boise Junior College:

Permit me to congratulate you students of Boise Junior College on your accomplishments during the school year of 1942-43.

The importance of a thorough education for our young people is re-emphasized by this current national emergency.

In our schools and colleges such as Boise Junior College you young people are receiving many phases of technical training that will assist in prosecution of the war. Many of you well-equipped young men and women are going into the armed services, while others are taking up important assignments in war industries.

The same emphasis on education will be exhibited, I am sure, in the post-war period.

When peace returns, America must look to you clear-thinking men and women to guide her destinies through what, if we are not extremely careful, may be a chaotic period. Carefully laid plans are no better than those who carry them out, and so in the post-war period of readjustment America must depend upon you and other well-educated citizens to again "see her through."

Again, please accept my hearty congratulations.

Sincerely yours,

C. A. Bottolfesen,
Governor.
Dedication...

It is in a spirit of appreciation and pride that this book, the 1943 Les Bois, is dedicated to the memory of Mr. Oliver O. Haga, who was chairman of the Board of Trustees since the school was organized as a public institution, and to Mr. J. J. Chapman, * who was a member of the Board since 1936.

On October 28, 1942, only a few months before his death, Mr. Haga addressed the following words to the Junior College faculty:

The effect of the war on the schools and colleges is becoming more and more serious as time goes on. It presents so many problems that disturb the normal course of procedure that it seems necessary to resort to new means in an effort to stabilize, if possible, the attendance of students and get more effective team work from students, teachers, and our citizens generally in order to keep Boise Junior College in the foreground of the community's most important institutions.

The inspirational leadership, vision, and faith of these two men, exemplified in these words, suggest the debt which the College owes to Mr. Haga and Mr. Chapman. Their memory will remain as long as the College lives.

* We regret that time did not permit publication of Mr. Chapman's picture on this page.

He is wise who can instruct us...

—CARLYLE
Boise Junior College is a growing and progressive institution, upholding the American tradition of education, and as such stands as a tribute to the efforts of its Board of Trustees.

These prominent Idaho citizens have for many years unselfishly given their time and energies to the realization of their vision—a vision of a college to serve Boise and its surrounding communities. Their interest, too, has been a warm and human one, a desire for greater opportunities for today’s youth.

That this desire has to a large extent come to realization is shown by the splendid plant which has grown up on the banks of Boise river in the past few years.

B.J.C.’s Board of Trustees has had a specially important part in the development of the school because in the early years it had to watch over the infant institution almost daily, in its struggle to become firmly established. War conditions being what they are, the Trustees have somewhat the same kind of burden even today.

Space does not permit us to express here the debt we owe to these men and women who are so devoted to our beloved college.
Early in the summer of 1942 B.J.C.'s president, Dr. Eugene B. Chaffee, left us to serve as a Lieutenant in the United States Navy. But, although he is gone, he is certainly not forgotten. Most of the Sophomore class knew him last year, and remember him as the friendly, inspiring dynamo of constructive energy that he is. We look forward with pleasure to Lt. Chaffee's return to Boise Junior College.

However, in his absence, we here at the college feel extremely fortunate to have as our head Conan E. Mathews, who assumed the Executive deanship upon the resignation of last fall's Acting President, Dr. Francis D. Haines.

An artist and an educator, Mr. Mathews is also an organizer. Everyone in the Junior College, whether student or teacher, has confidence in his quiet, friendly capacity to get things done, in the way that will best serve the interests of the college and the community.

We firmly believe that under the leadership of men like Eugene Chaffee and Conan Mathews, Boise Junior College will continue to be an integral part of the vital education for tomorrow.

The Executive Committee of the Faculty acts with the Administrative Head in an advisory capacity, formulating general policies of an instructional and educational nature.

The Committee was elected by vote of the Faculty in accordance with a suggestion made by the Board of Trustees of Boise Junior College, in November, 1942. Regular meetings are held with the Executive Dean presiding, during which questions brought before the Committee by faculty, students, and administration are considered. The Committee takes action on some of these matters and passes on to the Board and the faculty recommendations on others.

The Committee is composed of Mrs. Ada Y. Hatch, Dale Arvey, Harold A. Reed, and Executive Dean Conan E. Mathews. The Registrar acts as secretary, ex-officio.

Student Executive Board

Last fall Charles Richards, elected student body vice president in the spring of 1942, took over as head of the executive board when President-elect Earl Mathews did not return to B.J.C. Rich Horsfall was vice president and Frank Mather, treasurer.

In December Bill Adams was elected president for the rest of the year; Wade Fleetwood, vice president; Connie Prout, secretary, and Frank Mather, treasurer. Class representatives were Don Day and Shirley West, sophomores, and Dixon Caine and Rich Horsfall, freshmen.

Budgeting and authorizing the expenditure of all student body funds, and the supervision of all student body-sponsored activities were the main activities of the student executive board.

War activities caused about as many problems in keeping student body offices filled as it did in other activities of civilian life. Last year we elected officers during the spring, but our elected president went to the University of Idaho because he thought he would better prepare himself for military service that way. Then this year several other of our key men were called to active duty, including Charles Richards and Rich Horsfall, who joined the armed forces during the middle of the year.

Social Committee

Headed by Mrs. Mary T. Hershey, registrar, the office force is one of the most important, and at the same time taken-for-granted groups, on the campus. A major duty of this staff is to keep the records we, the students, make.

Custodians

Every member of this hard-working, obliging squad deserves honorable mention. Day after day, they have turned in "service with a smile." Never too busy to lend a hand or add another job to his responsibilities as coordinator, Chief Charlie Brown and his cheerful grin are a well-loved pair at B.J.C. Orchids to you, Charlie!

lab and departments
Library

Spacious, well-lighted, and very restful to the eyes, the college library affords students an excellent study, as well as access to a steadily growing supply of reading and reference material. This year alone, nearly eight hundred new books were added to the stacks. Mrs. Mary D. Bedford, head librarian, is assisted by Leona Belknap, Gloria Elder, Marietta Grimes, and Virginia House.

Chemistry

B.J.C.'s modern, well-equipped chemistry department is certainly in tune with the times, especially in this wartime of chemistry and chemical warfare. And the counterpoints: here tomorrow's dieticians learn the formulae for health. This is also a laboratory for the pre-medics and nursing students. Dr. Joseph B. Spulnick is department head.

Occupying most of the top floor of the Ad building, the art department is an integral part of the Junior College. One highlight in its creative year was the department's fall exhibit of the work of Norma Gimlin, art major, and Margery Potter, art education major, who was a part-time instructor in design and color.

Business

The typing room, shown here, the office machines room, the head’s office, and the lecture room comprise the large, well-equipped business department. Vocationally streamlined, this department draws one of the largest percentages of the Junior College’s enrollment.

Zoology

The Zoology laboratory offers a feast for the analytical mind and a shock to sensitive nostrils, but these budding scientists are oriented to the latter. There, with the aid of fine instruments, the fleeting facts of life are pursued and pinned down for observation.
classes

The secret of education lies in respecting the pupils...  —EMERSON
The decrease in size of the class of '43 tended only to bring the members closer together in friendship and in enterprise. Under the leadership of their officers: Jack Anacabe, president; Vernon Brassey vice president; June Coffin, secretary; and Greta Lindstedt, treasurer, they worked together capably and smoothly.

Early in the year a new sophomore class constitution was written and ratified.

Two sophomore dances—the annual Sophomore Christmas Formal on December 12 and their "Club '43" informal mixer on February 20—were valuable parts of the year's entertainment.

The annual sophomore assembly was put on in good form, and many Sophomores took part in the annual exchange assembly with Boise High.

The Sophomores’ year was climaxed by their "day of days"—the sophomore sneak on May 5; one of their last good times together before being graduated on June 2.

Catching on quickly to college life, the Freshmen soon proved to be a united and forceful class. The leaders elected early in the fall term were: Wade Fleetwood, president; Bob Brown, vice president; Kay Gardner, secretary; and Jerry Lawhead, treasurer. Sparked by these officers, and aided by adviser Bob Latimore, the class proudly presented as a contribution to our student government a new document, "The Constitution of the Freshman Class." Never before in the history of Boise Junior College had the Freshmen been given more specific statements of rights and activities.

Upon the democratic constitutional basis formed by this enterprising class, future Freshmen of B.J.C. will be insured of stability and unity on which to build a successful year.

Among the year's freshmen activities are the Hallowe'en dance, "Goblins' Gallop," the annual freshman assembly presented to the student body early in the winter term, and the freshmen-sponsored second annual exchange assembly at Boise High School.

Officers for the last two terms were: Bob Vaught, president; Lorraine Johnson, vice president; Kay Gardner, secretary; and Deva Chisholm, treasurer.

From September to June, the Associated Women has been one of the most active of all our clubs. Outstanding activities were the Big Sister movement and tea, selling badges in celebration of the annual Homecoming football game, and selling hot dogs at those cold fall games.

In October and November a series of informal parties in private homes served as one of the best methods of getting all the students acquainted. Defense stamps were sold in the halls every Wednesday so that everyone could have a chance to do his part. A rummage sale was held to raise money for the scholarship fund, which goes to a girl interested in coming to B.J.C. next year.

The Sweetheart’s Ball, under the chairmanship of Marjorie Diamond, was one of the most beautiful ever witnessed in our assembly hall.

In February and March a series of teas were sponsored by the council. A special Washington’s Birthday tea was given in honor of the faculty. The tea for Boise valley high school students ended the year’s activities.

Guiding the affairs of this federation of all girls was the council, composed of June Coffin, president; Barbara Ward, vice president; Shirley Kroeger, secretary; Greta Lindstedt, social chairman. Serving as representatives were Hermie Kroeger, sophomore, and Marjorie Diamond, Ione Labrum, and Janet Patrick, freshmen.
All freshman girls are united in the organization of the "B" Cubes. Being a member of this large organization gives each girl a chance to meet and know her classmates as well as to put across her ideas in school activities.

Outstanding in the "B" Cubes' services is the forget-me-not sale which the club sponsors each fall on Columbus Day. During the winter the "B" Cubes offer their services in the check room. Each spring the club gives a "cotton swing," which is a girl-ask-boy affair. This year the dance was on May 14, and the theme was Ten Famous Bands.

Officers are elected at the beginning of the fall term. Junella Sanford was president; Betty Mellor, vice president; Marguerite Curtis, secretary; and Helen Gimlin, treasurer. Barbara Maxfield was elected early in the winter term to replace Helen Gimlin, who did not return.
The Valkyries is a sophomore women’s honorary service club made up of twenty-five members chosen the last term of their freshman year.

Women in the club perform such services as ushering at college functions, helping civic organizations, selling candy at games, operating a used book store, sponsoring dances and giving scholarships. This year, Valkyries initiated B.J.C. Stunt Night in which many clubs and departments at the college had a part. A Valkyrie was on duty each day to transact business for the club and to help students, teachers, and organizations.

Uniform of the Valkyries is a white sweater, blue and orange "V," and blue skirt. Membership in the club is based upon initiative, dependability, cooperativeness, student body leadership, participation in student clubs, service in the city, attendance at student body functions, grooming and general bearing.

Margaret Badgley headed the organization as president for the year 1942-43. Shirley West was vice president-treasurer and Gail Work and Norma Gimlin served as secretary, each for half of the year. Mrs. Ada Y. Hatch was adviser.
"To uphold and encourage and preserve the honors and duties which this order holds as its most sound obligations . . ." These words tend toward realization of a Knight’s goal, "service, sacrifice, and loyalty."

Freshman pledges were announced October 18, initiated December 4. Among activities was the IK formal on November 13, appropriately called "The Golden Plume Ball," at which Barbara Ward was chosen Duchess and presented a pearl locket. Under the direction of Ernie Retzlaff, an IK male student loan fund was created. April 16 saw the annual Ad dance sponsored by the Knights.

The Knights also constructed a new flag pole and dedicated it to the campus of B.J.C.

Officers for 1942-43 were: honorable duke, Ray Wagoner; worthy scribe, Charles Richards, succeeded by Frank Mather; chancellor of the exchequer, Clair Bush; and worthy corresponding scribe, Bob Davis. Dr. Joseph Spulnik was adviser.
"Watch out! Here comes a pail of water!" and SWISH! half the girls in the women’s locker room at the gym stand dripping from head to toes. But it’s no use trying to accuse anybody; everyone present is always as innocent as a new-born babe. Ditto when all the left shoes and socks have disappeared, come time to get dressed.

But with all the excitement, all year there is a round of sports: baseball, tennis, field hockey, basketball, archery, and badminton. The women also have many hikes, swim meets, barn dances, bike hikes, hay rides, and just plain get-togethers.

The women also find time for intercollegiate competition. This year, of six hockey players sent to Portland, five made the all-star team.

Selling candy and pop at ball games and sponsoring a play night were also important activities.

Installation of officers and presentation of awards came at an annual banquet in April. This year’s officers were Marjorie Priest, president; June Coffin, head of sports; Marjorie Rowlette, secretary; Virginia Reckamp, treasurer; and Virginia House, publicity manager. Miss Helen Lewis and Mrs. Alta Mae Ingalls were advisers.
The Future Officers club was organized this year by a group of fellows who had a common goal. All were in a reserve program, preparing themselves for the time when they would be active officers in our armed forces. The many problems and questions they faced could best be met and answered if they all met together to discuss them.

Under the guidance of Dale Arvey, faculty sponsor, a definite membership and system of meetings was worked out. Requirement for membership was to have been formally sworn into any of our armed forces' reserves.

Officers for the year were: Lewis Westbrook (navy V-1), president; Bill Adams (navy V-1), vice president; Vernon Brassey (marines), secretary, and Rich Horsfall (E.R.C.), treasurer.
French Club

The French Club, under the advisership of Dr. de Neufville, presented a French movie, with the proceeds going for the relief of French children. On March 6 the group presented "Rosalie," a one-act French comedy. The club also had a Christmas party.
La Liga Hispanoamerica is an organization of second and third year Spanish students. The most important activity of the club is an annual Spanish play which this year was "La Careta Verde," presented on March 6 in the assembly. The club also had a Spanish dinner during the Christmas holidays.

The officers of the club are: president, Regina Garmendia; vice president, Mac Thiessen; treasurer, Bob Remaklus; secretary, Kenneth High.

German Club

The purpose of the German Club is to have a better understanding of the language and of the social customs of the real Germany. The group did not have a play this year, but they did have a Christmas party and also a game party. Meetings were held at the homes of the members.

The officers of the club are: president, Greta Lindstedt; vice president, Heloise Rhea; secretary, Margery Potter; treasurer, Judy Harris.
Organized in 1940, the Eugene B. Chaffee chapter of Future Teachers of America purposes to bring about a more professional attitude among cadet teachers. The group, composed of both first and second year students, served as ushers at the assembly of the Idaho Educational Association delegates in Boise this spring.

Officers were: Gladys Bryant, president; Susanna Stearns, vice president; Mary Beall, secretary; and Leona Belknap, librarian.

If you see a group of men trudging along carrying surveying instruments, setting them up and peeping through them at what looks like each other, yelling and making motions at each other, they are probably these men, members of the Engineers club.

Or, you may see them all sweating together in the calculus class. You can bank on it they know they are doing work that fits into the war effort just like a glove, and the more they can do now to get ready, the more they will be able to do for Uncle Sam when they get out in the war zone, if it comes to that; and also the better they will be able to do for themselves.

Robert Baird is faculty adviser and Walt Saxton was president this year.
The purpose of the Club Eta Epsilon, organized in 1941, has been to give the girls a better understanding of home economics and an added opportunity to develop personality, leadership, and social poise.

This group of "home makers" has spent the year proving itself a valuable group. The main project of the year has been sewing for the Red Cross. This club sponsored and was in charge of all desserts and drinks for the spring Campus Day.

Their last major undertaking was the dinner they gave honoring the group of B.J.C. men who were taken into the armed forces in April.

Officers for the year were: Florence Earl, president; Phyllis Walker, vice president; Midori Nishizaki, secretary-treasurer; Marietta Grimes and Virginia House, social co-chairmen. Mrs. Eunice Aust, head of the department, is adviser.
Boise really started something with the idea of having "minute maids" to sell war bonds and stamps. That idea swept the country. So naturally B.J.C. women got right in there and sold bonds along with the other maids. Mrs. Conan Mathews was this group’s supervisor. And who could have furnished a better name for them than Paul Revere? Here they are, B.J.C.’s Paul Revere Minute Maids.
The naval aviation cadets of the Civil Aeronautics Authority War Training Service were more familiarly known on the campus as the "CPTers." During their comparatively short time here at B.J.C. we got to know most of the boys fairly well, and enjoyed having them with us. The last group, mostly from the Middle West, left us in April for further training and combat duty.

The group picture below is complete except for Bud Howell, who, at the time the picture was taken, had been called east by his father's death.

The Junior College has been proud of being a war training center for these aviation cadets.

Orchestra

Under the skilled baton of Kathryn Eckhardt-Mitchell, the Boise Junior College String Symphony played the Mendelssohn "Octet in E Major" on the Christmas Concert.

In the spring term, Mrs. Mitchell added the necessary wind instruments to enable the orchestra to play some of the well known symphony compositions during Music Week as well as some accompaniments for the choir.

A Cappella Choir

Under the expert direction of James L. Strachan, Boise Junior College's A Cappella Choir of 25 members has spent a very active year.

On December 7 the choir took part in the annual Christmas Concert, given this year in the College Auditorium. Then on March 7, the choir gave a spring concert at St. Michael's Cathedral. In addition to these performances, the choir has appeared on various civic concerts, including Music Week. It also appeared on the Commencement program.

Due to transportation difficulties this year, the choir had to abandon its annual tour of the Northwest. The group spent a day in Nampa, where it gave three successful concerts.

Choir officers were Bob Vaught, president; Edward French, manager; and Barbara Ward, Judy Harris, and Don Roberts, executive board.
The largest of these groups, the Women's Vocal Ensemble, composed of members chosen by Lucille Forter, director, has been very active this year, singing at various school and civic programs.

The vocal and instrumental trios had also appeared frequently. Some of their performances include the choir concerts, school assemblies, at the various luncheon clubs, and at other civic organizations.

The sophomore vocal trio included Bettie Marley, Margaret Badgley, and Marjorie Haines. Lucille T. Forter was director.

Margery Potter, flutist; Stella Margarete Gorton, violinist, and Inez Miniely, pianist, composed the instrumental trio. James L. Strachan was director for this group.

Graduation recitals were presented by Inez Miniely, organist; Bettie Marley, soprano, and Stella Margarete Gorton, violinist. A piano recital was given by Patricia Smith.

In February the members of the music department faculty presented an interesting recital of violin, voice, and two-piano compositions.
Les Bois Staff

Working under stringent war-time conditions, The Les Bois staff this year is less one of titles, and more one of excellent group cooperation, each member performing what was most expedient. In appreciation of this spirit of willing cooperation, the editors extend sincere thanks to each staff member named here, and to Adviser Dwight E. Mitchell. Without them, the book would not have been possible.

Whether it be early Monday morning or Friday afternoon, soon after the school paper is "out," every student is the possessor of a Roundup.

Bob Reed was editor-in-chief during the fall term. When Gloria Williams took over for the winter quarter, the paper was revised to a tri-weekly edition. Olivia Smith and Bob Remaklus headed the staff for the spring term, during which time the possibilities for publishing the newspaper were cut short.

Staff meetings were held each noon in the Corral at a special reserved table, which was high-lighted by D.M.'s quart bottle of milk.

Dwight Mitchell was adviser of the staff.
"Rosalie"

B.J.C.'s biggest dramatic contribution of the year was presented by the French and Spanish clubs. This was the 11th Annual Romance Language Night and the second in the new auditorium.

The French play "Rosalie," directed by Dr. Robert de Neufville and assisted by Inez Mimiely, was a one-act comedy. The cast, Noah Levine, Virginia Worthen, and Shirley Martindale, did a convincing job.

"La Careta Verde"

"La Careta Verde" or The Green Mask was the Spanish play. It was a two-act comedy, under the direction of Camille B. Power. The roles were taken by Barbara Cornell, Eldred Renk, Virginia Elliott, Robert Remaklus, Mr. Dwight Mitchell, Foster Cronyn, Glen Seibel, and Wade Fleetwood. Intrigue, melodrama, romance!

During the intermission between plays and acts, solos were furnished by Bettie Marley and Betty Meagher.

Voting unanimously early in the season, the basketball boys agreed that the new coach, John Glasby, was one of the swellest fellows yet. He remained that way all year, and under his earnest guidance the players rapidly united into a smoothly operating team. Although handicapped by a lack of numbers, the squad turned in a good season; and small chance there is of any one of them forgetting the good times they had together. "Pocatello" has come to be a password among them. Besides the small trips to Nampa and Caldwell, they journeyed to Albion, Rexburg, Pocatello, and to the E.O.C.E. at La Grande, Oregon.

Following is the squad’s tally card, with B.J.C.’s the second score named in each case:

Other members of the squad not pictured are: John Breach, Harry Kendall, Chuck Richards, and Dick Mosman. High point men for the year were Horsfall, Kendall, and Breach with 198, 178, and 166 points, respectively.
By spring the number of men at B.J.C. had dropped to a new low; but spring means baseball, and baseball they would have. With just enough men to fill all nine holes, Coach Glasby did a good job of turning out a team that could hold its own.

Neilsen was the only veteran to report for action this year. The freshmen were in the majority; particularly in our battery, which was made up of Silver and Willy.

During the season our squad met Boise High School, Franklin High School, the College of Idaho, Nampa Nazarenes, the Boise "All Stars," and five teams from Gowen Field Air Base. To date they have played ten games, winning four and losing six.

Not pictured are: Scott Brown, Joe Cooney, Bob Gossett, Perry Silver, and Hugh Chalfant. Rich Horsfall, Pete Papez, Bob Brown, Phil Obenchain, and Bob Remaklus were called to active duty with the armed forces during the season.

Editor’s Message, or The Foreword In The Backward

To Whom It May Concern:

Happily or not, you now have your yearbook; there for a while, you know, we sometimes wondered. As if War were not enough, The Les Bois was also besieged by Fire and Flood. But the staff managed in spite of the war, rejoiced when our printers, Syms-York Company, took the fire in their stride, and then we survived the flood unscathed. So perhaps you will pardon us when we are inclined to think The Les Bois leads a charmed life. Because, you see, we think we know why.

When the present staff was organized in the winter term, we were faced with serious shortages: time, materials, production facilities. There was, however, one invincible thing in our favor: the spirit of cooperation and good will, the spirit in which men and women are willing to work together for the good of a common purpose; in short, the American spirit.

We appreciate this and would like to express our appreciation here, for all. We might begin with the student body and the faculty, who made possible the success of our photography drive. There are also our advertisers, whose implicit support of this war-time book will surely have its reward. And there are the many men and women who, though busy enough, still gave much of time, energy, and thought, things money can not pay for. Of these are our printer, Ralph York; our photographer, Walmar Dehlin; Albert P. Salisbury of Western Engraving Company; and Conan Mathews, Mrs. Mary T. Hershey, and Dwight Mitchell of the faculty. Then, too, we must mention those special few whose contribution is also of incalculable value, those who gave us moral support. We thank you all.

But here the road forks. We sincerely hope that you like this 1943 Les Bois, that it will continue to be a source of pleasure to you in your declining years, and that you will be able to display it to your grandchildren with pride. If so, the editor shall not have flunked Economics in vain.

Norma Gimlin, Editor.
We who are building a powerful America with steel and stone and timber and sand pay fitting and constant tribute to those who are building a mightier America with books and science and intellect and study.

Though we both build toward a finer America, construction’s job is one of TODAY. Ours is the task of harnessing the mighty rivers; spanning the nation with highways and airports; uniting cities with bridges; building the ships of trade and the structures of commerce.

Education’s job is one of the future. It is shaping the minds which will know better than we how to fully utilize what we have built; instilling the will to continually improve and expand; stimulating the courage to accomplish the seemingly impossible; fostering the pride of country that will carry America to victory over all.

Educational institutions such as Boise Junior College bespeak the fact that America’s future is in good hands.

For three centuries . . .

Through three Crises . . .

America's System of Free Enterprise returned the Nation to Greater Prosperity than ever

What America has done once, America can do again. For 300 years, before and after we became an independent nation, through three major and countless smaller crises, the American system of free enterprise has won its way.
Each time it has afterward brought the American people to still greater heights of prosperity.

This is the system of free business and free labor that has made America today the war production center for the world — and after victory America will be the peacetime industrial center of the world, leading the people of all nations to a happier and fuller life — the American way of life!

This is the system we MUST preserve. It can — and will — meet the problems of the postwar period. And once again the system of American free enterprise will carry this country to still higher pinnacles of greatness!

Look Americans! Since the beginning of time, the only road to prosperity has been P-R-O-D-U-C-T-I-O-N and exchange of goods and services at a profit
— the American system of labor and business.

From it you have earned personal benefits — your home towns have enjoyed increasing advantages — and your nation has become the richest on earth.

The American System has created these tangible things for you:

— the highest standard of living in the world:
— the accumulation of personal savings and worldly possessions — your schools, your highways, your buildings — your life insurance, your home, your automobile:
— money to pay the cost of government, local, state and national, including the payment of governmental debt.

And with it, you have the right to think, to speak and to worship as you choose — rights forbidden to millions not living under the free
American system.

Young Minds and
"Young Ideas"

America and her allied nations could not be so definitely pointed toward victory were it not for the young minds which have developed faster and better ways to produce the transportation, armament, food and other essentials of victory.

And in the years to come, the success we make of the Peace will depend largely upon the ability of young American minds and young ideas to help conceive and construct the economically, intellectually, and spiritually sound basis of life which will banish want and war from the realm of possibility.

Truly, the future of the world is being shaped in such cradles of progressive thought as Boise Junior College.

We, an Idaho business institution, salute Boise Junior College, an Idaho educational institution—and the salute carries far. When liberty hangs in the balance, as it does today, a salute to an institution of liberal education is basically a salute to the Nation which is offering its all in the fight to determine whether or not liberal education and all worthy fruits of liberty shall survive.
