LES BOIS
Les Bois 1946, published under wartime limitations and restrictions, portrays Boise Junior College at the conclusion of a period—the beginning of another. Let the events of the last few years be forgotten now; we must look to the future, to bigger and better activities and the realization of ambitious plans.

We offer in this annual a view of the college at the end of an era; with our blessing and hope for a better era to come.

THE STAFF—Les Bois 1946
DEDICATION

To Dr. Eugene B. Chaffee; first, in his own right as president of Boise Junior College; second, as a veteran, representative of the hundreds who are returning to make the American educational scene "veteran conscious," we dedicate this year's Les Bois.

ADMINISTRATION
EUGENE B. CHAFFEE

Eugene B. Chaffee came to Boise Junior College as an instructor in 1932 when the school was still a private institution. Made president four years later, he remained until called to active duty with the Navy in June of 1942.

Rising to the rank of Lt. Commander, he was given charge of the academic training at the Naval air base at Ottumwa, Iowa. He returned to the college last September to resume his duties here. Under his capable direction and earnest zeal B. J. C. expects continued growth and prestige in the community.

To the Students of Boise Junior College:

The first post-war year at Boise Junior College has been completed, and this institution stands on the threshold of greater service to the young people of this area. This is the time of inventory taking for students and faculty. We have just finished a second war to insure democracy. Most of the two hundred and fifty service men who have enrolled know the cost of that effort in a very personal way. The remainder have felt that same cost in a less direct, but nevertheless, real sense. Twenty-three young men from this institution, who made the supreme sacrifice, attest that fact.

One of those who fell on “D” Day in Europe stated the duty and aim for all Americans when he wrote in the Les Bois in 1941: “Student Body and Faculty at Boise Junior College are loyal. If sacrifices are to be made, this group will be glad to make them to perpetuate those principles and institutions for which our fathers have made great sacrifices. We believe that democracy is worth defending.”

He and his fallen comrades backed up their words with deeds. It remains for us, the living, to “carry on” and bring to fruition the work they started. We must not falter or fail our generous benefactors. Each one of us by his individual living must justify that faith. We must respect and honor the rights of our fellows and thus truly make the world safe for democracy.

EUGENE B. CHAFFEE, President
Boise Junior College.

President Chaffee discusses peace problems
To that group of public-spirited individuals, the Board of Trustees, we tender our sincere gratitude and appreciation for the splendid work they have done in helping to maintain high standards of education in this institution. In a period when many schools have been hard pressed to continue their present understaffed faculties and custodians, B. J. C. has been able to increase its employees to meet the demands imposed upon them by a mounting enrollment. The Board of Trustees has at all times cooperated fully and understandingly in the management of the school.

We consider ourselves fortunate indeed to have had the interest and guidance of these outstanding citizens. They are Mr. J. L. Driscoll, Mr. E. D. Baird, Mrs. Alfred Budge, Sr., Mr. H. W. Morrison, Mr. Oscar Worthwine, and Mr. C. F. Potter. Mr. Worthwine was appointed to succeed Dean Calvin Barkow, who resigned last year.
For three years Boise Junior College has had no Dean of Men. Now the time has come when this office will be re-created; it is expected that next year a new Dean will be appointed.

This year the duties of the Dean of Men have been divided and the responsibilities assumed by President Chaffee, Mr. Nash who has been advisor to the Executive Council of the Student Body, and myself.

Office 211 opposite the Dean of Women's office will again be occupied by someone qualified to advise all male students and assist them in problems of housing, part-time work, academic problems, personal difficulties, or just someone with whom you can talk when you have either the time or the inclination.

We express appreciation to our Dean of Women, Mrs. Burke, who has carried a heavy load this year with the many extra-curricular activities; these responsibilities should normally fall on both Dean of Men and Dean of Women.

CONAN E. MATHEWS.

The Dean of Women's office is a busy place; in it is located the Social Calendar, and from this office originate the Social Permit and the Union Building Permit which contribute to the smooth operation of our activities.

Room 212 serves as headquarters for the Associated Women's Council and as a meeting-place for committees or other groups small enough for its accommodations. It is, of course, a clearing house for the discussion and planning of all types of events, as well as organizations and social policies, and serves as headquarters for the committee appointed by the Student Council.

Last, but not least, there is always a welcome and always time for any girl who has a problem to discuss and to solve. All of these comings and goings make this office a very interesting one. The friendliness and unfailingly cooperative spirit of the students of B. J. C.—both men and women—make my duties pleasant and my days full of deep satisfaction.

ADA P. BURKE.

Deans report on activities of their offices
First to greet the incoming enrollee at B. J. C. and last to bid him official farewell is the office of the Registrar, presided over by Mrs. Mary T. Hershey. Here the new student is accepted, and his transcript from other schools evaluated. He is assisted in the planning of his classes and given academic counselling as needed. Individual records of the student’s records and grades and general information concerning him are kept on file by the Registrar. She plans the class and examination schedules, prepares and distributes the college catalog, and gives information about other colleges. Most important of all, she registers the student when he enrolls and issues his transcript when he leaves.

A hundred different inquiries a day come to the Registrar and each receives the same patient and understanding consideration at the hands of Mrs. Hershey.

As custodian of funds, the Bursar, Miss Rubylee White, has charge of receipts and expenditures of the Associated Student Body fund, the Student Union fund, the general fund, and the petty cash fund. All bills payable by the college are handled through this office. Administrative officers, Student Union workers, faculty, student assistants, and janitorial employees alike look to the Bursar for their monthly pay envelopes.

Miss White and her assistant, Bill Prescott, also handled the vouchering and the records of the service men. This phase of the work has greatly increased with the enrollment of many veterans. Starting the year with but forty veterans, their number increased to one hundred sixty-two in the winter term and two hundred nineteen in the spring term. The veteran enrollment is a good index to the growth of the school from three hundred twenty pupils in fall term to the four hundred sixty-three registered for spring term.

Faculty enlarges curriculum to serve growing
The B. J. C. Student Body has grown by leaps and bounds since the beginning of school last September, requiring a corresponding increase in faculty. To faculty members recently returned from the services, we say "welcome back," and to newcomers we say, "Welcome, and we’re glad to know you." Mr. Merritt Nash has been with the B. J. C. faculty since 1940, except for a three-year leave of absence from 1942 to 1945. Taking his B.S. from Oregon State and his M.S. from New York University, he majored in Business Administration and Education. Mr. Nash has taken an active part in student social activities and has earned the affectionate sobriquet of UNO because of his stand on the Peace Council.

The Student Council, under the able leadership of Fred Reich as president, handled the affairs of the student body with great dispatch. This year the Council added to the Union by purchasing some card tables. It also sponsored a skating party and instigated a Union Night every Friday when nothing else was on the social calendar.

The Council handles the student body funds and finances the baseball and basketball teams. It also appropriates money to all school organizations, to the Roundup, and to the Les Bois.

Fred Reich, president, was assisted by Fred Griffin, vice president, Loreta Martindale, secretary; and Katie Zupan, treasurer. The sophomore class representatives were Mary Riedel, Betty Jo Jackson, and Don Roberts, who replaced Bill Woods when Bill left school in the second term. Mary McLeod, Sherm Nesbitt, and Betty Jo Cole were the freshmen representatives.
Miss Corrine Hansen, the president’s secretary, graduated from Boise Junior College. While studying at the University at Moscow, she majored in art; then, transferring her credits to B. J. C., completed her business curriculum here. She has been working for President Chaffee since his return from the Navy in November of last year.

Keeping affairs running smoothly in the office under the direction of the Registrar is a smooth-working staff of two full time employees and two student assistants. Their efficient and cheerful service keeps the routine going easily and simply. Although the increased enrollment at the school keeps them very busy, they are always willing to give advice and help to students, particularly the many veterans whose return to school presents many problems.

Miss Betty Smith, receptionist, and Mrs. Beth Tucker, secretary, are graduates of Boise Junior College. Miss Smith has served in the office since last September, while Mrs. Tucker returned last January to the position she had occupied previously, both during and after her student days.

Part-time workers in the office are Mary Riedel, secretary to Dean Mathews, and Cora Dean Bates, assistant to the Registrar. Mary will graduate this spring, while Cora completes her studies here next year. Both girls spend three to four hours daily at their office work.

Library Staff

Always ready to help aspiring scholars on the road to knowledge is our library staff. Mrs. Bedford and her assistant, Mrs. Kallenberger, know all the answers to the despairing questions of research students, literature lovers, and fact finders. Their unfailing good humor and helpful consideration of individual problems have won them a place in the hearts of Junior College students.

Two student assistants, Sara Mae Stearns and Alice Goin, have assisted the regular librarians this year, putting in long hours guiding befuddled scholars through the intricacies of the Dewey Decimal System and the “stacks.” To all of these faithful workers we extend our deep thanks.

Charlie Brown, Chief of Campus Custodians, now completing his eighth year for Boise Junior College. Zink, Brown, Turner, Grout, Masters

Custodians

The cleanliness and fine appearance of the campus, grounds, and buildings are due to the workmanship of an enterprising group of individuals. The landscaping of the grounds and the maintenance of the buildings are monuments to their diligence and hard work.

Students who return in the fall will be able to enjoy about thirty acres of new lawn northwest of the Administration building. To the custodial staff goes the praise for keeping our campus green and attractive.

The custodians are under the foremanship of Charles C. Brown, known familiarly to the students as "Charlie." He is aided by Mable Wilmoth, David Grout, Frank H. Turner, C. A. Waggoner, and F. C. Zink. Howard Waterman is the student assistant.

Custodians landscape and beautify campus
A steadily increasing sophomore class, piloted by Maxine Gross, sailed through the 1945-46 school year with many successful activities to its credit. Beginning the fall term with sixty-three students, the class climbed to seventy-six in the winter term, and finally to its peak of eighty-six in the spring term, the largest sophomore class in the annals of B. J. C.

Highlighting the social calendar was the Christmas semi-formal dance, with Gordon Bourner and Ruth Sandmeyer as co-chairmen. The sophomores sponsored the first mixer of the school year—that ice-breaking occasion which makes friends of erstwhile strangers and lends a feeling of comradeship to incoming students. Campus Day, when mental activities defer to window cleaning and shrub planting, was also directed by the class, and the campus has sparkled with appreciation ever since. Finally, with the celebration of its annual Picnic Day the class ended its activities for the year.

Officers this year were Maxine Gross, president; Gordon Bourner, vice-president; Marie Campbell, secretary; Ruth Sandmeyer, treasurer; Mary Riedel and Betty Jo Jackson, representatives. Bill Woods filled the position of representative vacated by Betty Jo Jackson when she left school, with Don Roberts taking over upon Bill’s departure from the college.

FRESHMEN
The freshman class of B. J. C. spent a good deal of the year getting caught up with itself. That is to say, when school opened last fall there was a small handful of freshmen and a smaller handful of sophomores. So far so good. Then came the winter term and a big influx of new freshmen, mostly veterans. So everybody had to start over again, more or less, getting acquainted.

Now, in the spring term there was another flood of newcomers, again mostly veterans. To be specific, there were 180 freshmen in the fall and at the end of the year this number had doubled. Glory be—that is, for the women. After y’ars and y’ars of being in the overwhelming majority, they once again this year found themselves in the midst of the masculine stalwarts.

Of course, they loved it. And the men weren’t heard to complain much, either. After all, college is better than fighting Japs and Germans, and ever better than languishing in some foreign country with nothing to do.

Freshman officers this year were: President Marty Wilson; vice-president, Marjorie Jordan; secretary, Margaret Adkins; treasurer, Mary McLeod; and Sherm Nesbitt and Betty Jo Cole, Student Council representatives.

The Associated Women's Council is the guiding hand of the all-girl functions at Boise Junior College. The eight girls are elected by the freshman and sophomore girls and they retain their positions for a year. It is up to this group to plan the women's year. During 1945-1946 they successfully sponsored "The 1946 Revue," the Sweetheart's Ball, the Big Sister tea, and the Faculty tea. All the money made from these activities is appropriated by the council to benefit all the girls in school. Annually, they give a scholarship to an incoming student.

Mrs. Ada Burke, Dean of Women, aids the council as advisor. Serving the girls this year as president was Betty Jean Feeney and assisting her were vice-president, Elvira Chaney; social chairman, Jean Barber; secretary, Martha Lindstedt; treasurer, Edith Mays. Representing the sophomore class was Virginia Wheelock, and Merle Collins and Violet Ebert were freshman class representatives.

Valkyries

Every Thursday, dotting the campus in their colorful blue skirts and white sweaters, are twenty-five sophomore girls known as the Valkyries. This organization is the girls' service club. Members are chosen on the basis of their scholarship, initiative, dependability, and activities in the freshman year.

During the year the club sponsors various projects and activities. Of prime importance are the used book store and the union supply store managed by the Valkyries. In addition to ushering at open house and other school affairs, the girls this year assisted in a program of weekly entertainment for crippled children.

One of the most impressive dances of the year is the Valkyries' dinner dance held in May. This dance is for the members and pledges. Informal sport dances were numerous on the campus this year, and the Valkyries sponsored one of the coke dances, the Victory Bond dance, and with the Knights, put on the Half-and-Half dance.

Officers of the Valkyries for 1945-1946 were Isabel Jones, president; Catherine Zupan, vice-president-treasurer; Frances Gibbons, secretary; and the historian was Maxine Gross. Those holding other important positions include Mary Riedel, supply store; Dolores Hochstrasser, publicity; Ruth Sandmeyer, hospital service; Catherine Zupan, book room; Eileen Brewster, Ruth Sandmeyer, Lois Willy, initiation committee; Edith Mays and Gail Coffin, scholarship.

Valkyries stage hilarious initiation
With their pledge of "Service, Sacrifice, and Loyalty," the Intercollegiate Knights have proven themselves worthy of their fine tradition at Boise Junior College as a fraternal organization dedicated to service, both for their school and their community.

Officers elected at the beginning of the year were Bob Bush, duke; Sherm Coffin, scribe; Aurelius Buckner, exchequer; and Bill Wood, recorder. Dr. Joseph Spulnik was elected faculty advisor.

On Thanksgiving Eve the IK’s honored Betty Jean Feeney as Queen of their Golden Plume Ball, one of the outstanding dances of the year.

This year, as every year, the Knights published their student directory, a small booklet containing all the important facts about our campus, students, and faculty.

The annual Ad Dance, sponsored by the Knights, was a great success this year and it will not be forgotten soon by the students who attend. The Half-and-Half dance sponsored jointly with the Valkyries served as a get-acquainted party for new students beginning third term.

The Knights have helped with many other projects as well, bringing honor to themselves and their school. Bush and Coffin attended the national convention of the Knights at Salt Lake City this spring and made arrangements for the convention to meet here on Junior College campus next year.
The latest addition to our list of school clubs, the Bronco Club was reorganized during the winter term by men interested in promoting major sports at the college.

Under the able leadership of Prexy Bill Onweiler, who piloted it through all of its major social successes, including several dances, the club has arranged the purchase of letter-sweaters for athletes participating in basketball and baseball.

Other officers are James Stover, vice-president, and Aurelius Buckner, secretary-treasurer. James Stover left school at the end of the second term, and Wilford Overgard, recently back from the Marines, was elected vice-president. Coach Carl Warner was chosen by the group as their advisor.
The "Cubes" sponsored dances, food sales, rummage sales, freshman party, and the annual Cotton Swing, a highlight of B. J. C.'s social calendar. The "Cotton Swing" was held May 17, under the direction of Shirley Glimp and Barbara Turner. This girl-ask-boy dance is an annual affair.

Miss Adella Christensen was faculty advisor.

B Cubes

The "B" Cubes, freshman girls' club, completed another successful year as the leading pep organization of B. J. C. President Clairelaine Swanholm, Pat Bryant, vice-president; Shirley Glimp and Joyce Currie, secretary and treasurer respectively, piloted the "B" Cubes into an all-out attendance at many Bronco sports contests.

Success of the Women's Athletic Association this year can be attributed to the quality of its leaders, Dolores Hochstrasser, president; vice-president, Gail Coffin; treasurer, Eileen Morris; and sports manager, Thelma Stewart.

The fall term was highlighted by the freshman initiation and December 7 W. A. A. sponsored a successful dance, “Down on the Farm,” under Eileen Brewster’s chairmanship.

In the three basketball games that were played against the College of Idaho, team spirit and cooperation were commendable. In February, a progressive dinner, which was headed by Mary Helen Rounds and Maxine Cummings, proved that W. A. A. members can cook, too. One of the year’s most successful dances was the Bronco-W. A. A. Levi dance, “Ye Olde Hay Loft,” March 8. Marilyn Saxton and Wilford Overgard shared the co-chairman spot.

A formal initiation, announcing new officers, was held March 20. Marilyn Saxton was named president; Dorothy Finder, vice-president-treasurer; Ruth Wilson, secretary; Mary Helen Rounds, publicity chairman, and Bethel Reynolds, sports manager. Miniature basketballs were awarded to all members.

Baseball, along with tennis, was played spring term. The last of March, a bike ride to Rocky Canyon and a weiner roast were held.

Press Club

The Press Club, sponsor of our student publication, The Roundup, and promoter of aspiring students' journalistic interests, completed another successful year, culminating in a district journalism conference held April 17 and 18 at Boise Junior College.

This conference, reinstated after a lapse of several years, proved highly successful, with over 140 delegates attending from all parts of southern Idaho and eastern Oregon.

The club's past calendar is marked with outstanding events. It has sponsored, for instance, the Sadie Hawkin's Day dance and the Winter Formal, highlight of the second term.

Past Prexy Bill Onweiler piloted the club through the fall and winter terms, to be succeeded by Wilford Overgard, commander-in-chief for the spring term.

The club brought its social activities to completion for the summer with a picnic open to members and their guests.

Spanish Club

In an effort to help the Good Neighbor Policy between the United States and Latin American countries function more smoothly, the students of the Spanish classes formed the Spanish Club of B. J. C.

At the meetings of the club once a month the members discuss in Spanish the problems between the two hemispheres. Occasionally, speakers who have visited our South American neighbors are invited to inform the club about life in Latin America. This year the members were fortunate enough to have the opportunity to meet and speak with the Mexican nationals who were engaged in the labor camps. Mrs. Roland Power is the advisor of the club and the monthly meetings are held in her home.

One of the activities of the club is to produce annually the Spanish play. This year, "Rosina Es Fragil" by Martinez Sierra, was given. The cast included Catherine Zupan, Edith Mays, James Barnes, Gene Reusser, Elvira Chaney, Charles Massie, and Marvin Bryant.

Virginia Wheelock is the club's president. Mary McLeod, vice-president; Gloria Rogers, secretary; and Jean Barber, treasurer; aid her in planning the club's meetings.

Spanish club promotes friendly relations
French Club

In the postwar world, friendly relations between nations are becoming increasingly important. To further this aim, the students of the French class formed the French Club. During the meetings of the club at the home of their advisor, Mrs. Roland Power, the students speak only French in an attempt to understand the language and thus the French nation better. Annually the club produces one of the language plays and this year it produced "Antoinette, ou le Retour du Marquis," by Tristan Bernard.

The French play cast were as follows: Maxine Gross, Phil Obenchain, Bruce Leiser, Ruth Sandmeyer, John Gerhauser, Harold Allender, Betty Jean Feeney, and Mac Thiessen.

Elected by the club this year to serve as president was Ruth Sandmeyer. Assisting her were John Gerhauser, vice-president; Betty Jean Feeney, secretary; and Maxine Gross, treasurer.

French club presents startling play
Since its organization at the beginning of the year, the Association of Student Veterans has completed its metamorphosis and stands on its wobbly infant legs at the threshold of its career as a permanent organization of Boise Junior College.

The Vet's Club held a first meeting in November with ten charter members attending. Increased enrollment of veterans during the second and third terms has expanded the club until they now stand fifty strong and look forward to next year with anticipation and a desire for accomplishment.

Through fellowship and the sponsoring of several social functions including a hay ride, a sport dance, and a smoker, the club has attempted this year to help the returned veteran readjust himself to the role of student. Discussions have been held concerning the instituting of a flying program at Boise Junior College, and at times during the school year, guest speakers from the Veterans Administration discussed subjects which applied to the Student Veteran.
ACTIVITIES
Nineteen hundred and forty-five and nineteen hundred and forty-six brought reconversion to the campus of B. J. C., and our annual has reconverted, too. After many trials and tribulations, Les Bois 1946 is now before the Associated Students of Boise Junior College.

For the past few years, Les Bois has been published under wartime hardships. This year it faced instead the problem of reconversion. During the year, we had an ever-increasing enrollment to cope with, which brought difficulty in both distribution and copy-writing. Extra copies had to be ordered and the list of students checked constantly.

During Christmas vacation, Faculty Advisor Harold Wennstrom, Business Manager Bill Onweiler, and Art Editor Bill Mathisen, made a visit to Western Engraving and Colortype Company in Seattle to further plans on our layout. After their return, the campus saw the staff busily snapping pictures, seeking copy information, and canvassing for ads.

It all sums up to the presentation of this annual. Appreciation is extended to Charles Graham for his able assistance in setting up the first dummy; to George Shaber for doing such a grand job on copy; to Don Sterner in assisting Franklin Carr with photography; to Adelaide Schodier's editing of Student Life; and to Bill Mathisen and Willard Overgard. Mathisen directed art procedures and Overgard concocted our clever cartoons. Not to be slighted are our copy writers and typists to whom we say—thank you. However, it was under the capable leadership and needed instructions of Mr. Wennstrom, Faculty Advisor, and Mrs. Chapin of Syms-York, that the staff was able to operate efficiently and conscientiously.

Nineteen hundred and forty-six presents a larger annual than the campus has seen since war-time shortages restricted the production of a college-size year book. Les Bois, meaning “The Trees,” like them is steadily growing, and we hope will continue to grow ever increasingly bigger and better all the time.

The Roundup

The Roundup has undergone continuous improvement this year, largely because of the increasing number of students associated with it.

Beginning the year with a scant half dozen active workers under the editorship of Bill Mathisen, the paper brought more than one headache to the diminutive staff, but, to their credit, it never failed to make its weekly appearance.

Conditions improved in the winter term when an enlarged enrollment at B. J. C. produced a proportionate increase in the journalism class, to whose members The Roundup is entrusted. Dolores Hochstrasser and Marilyn Carlock were appointed co-editors, with Bill Mathisen taking over the business management. Reporters were more plentiful, and the editors managed to get in a night's sleep prior to the day of publication, a not-too-common occurrence formerly.

With the coming of spring term and a record enrollment at the college, The Roundup staff rose to a membership of thirty and felt safe at last. Alice Uda was named editor, Ross Chastain assuming the post of business manager. Good work has been evident from the outset with reports coming in from a score of beats and features developed to a higher quality than ever before.

The Roundup staff desires to express its gratitude to the student organizations and to the faculty for their cooperation, and especially to Mr. Dwight Mitchell, under whose journalistic leadership The Roundup has attained its present prestige at B.J.C.
Delta Psi Omega established a tradition of dramatic production at B. J. C. this year which it hopes to maintain for many years to come. Purpose of the society is to encourage dramatic activity by as many students as possible, and to this end three large scale plays were presented. The Broadway comedy hit, "Junior Miss," was the season opener, followed by the French classic comedy, "Le Medecin Malgre Lui," and the heavy psychological drama, "The Silver Cord," in the third term. It is hoped that the same variety of program and successful production will continue.

Social activities of the club included the midwinter formal initiation held at the Union, spring initiation dinner-dance held at the Owyhee hotel, and a "fireplace" picnic held on the last day of spring examinations to begin construction on the proposed campus fireplace.

Membership in the club is based upon participation in college productions and activity in other related fields such as radio programs, language club plays and college assemblies or reviews.

B. J. C. productions win acclaim through year
Any student who wishes to participate in dramatic work may join Alpha Mu Omega, the all-school drama club. This year, under the leadership of Judy Rose, president; Lois Perkins, vice-president; and Sue Murphy, secretary-treasurer, the members assisted in many dramatic and social activities.

First play of the year was a one-act drama, “The Jade Madonna,” presented for the Westminster Guild. Lois Perkins directed and Cummings, Pinder, Kinney, and Martindale from Alpha Mu took parts.

“Junior Miss” gave us an opportunity to see Duree, Holman, Cummings, Rounds, Craven, Murphy, Putch, Martindale, Dean, Mathisen, Barnes, Coffin, Cone, and Sabatine in action.

The costume ball, “Mardi Gras,” was the highlight of the midwinter social season.

“The Reluctant Doctor” in March, was a revival of the early French classical comedy by Moliere, “Le Medecin Malgre Lui.” Those who saw it will long remember the pompous Dr. Sganarelle (Tillotson), the angry father (Kohls), and the mute daughter (Rose). Other character parts were played by Graham, Brewster, Everitt, Roberts, Martindale, Fletcher, Siron, and Leiser.

The first serious play to be presented for several years at B. J. C. was Sidney Howard’s “The Silver Cord,” a dark foreboding piece composed of attachments, fixations, mother love, and Freudian complexes. The small, compact cast included Fletcher, Hutton, Kohls, Rose, Everitt, and Murphy.

"Judy" Cummings and "Fuffy" Rounds exchange Christmas gifts in scene from "Junior Miss."
Plot unravels in “The Reluctant Doctor” (via Wennstrom), as Dr. Sganarelle (Tillotson) prepares a prescription for nurse Jacqueline (Brewster).

Valere (Graham) and Lucas (Everett) attempt to convince Geronte (Kohls) that Dr. Sganarelle is “the greatest physician in all France.”

Martine (Martindale) discovers the hideout of her husband (far left), and bursts into a private family party as the oblivious Emilie (Rose) and Leandre (Roberts) plan their future.
May 10 marked the celebration of the fourteenth Annual Foreign Language Night. One of B. J. C.'s oldest traditions is the yearly presentation of one-act plays by the French, German, and Spanish Clubs. The lively comedies are characterized by rapid action which holds the attention of even an English-speaking audience.

Cast of the German play, “Die Kleinen Verwandten” (The Poor Relations) by Ludwig Thoma, included Barbara Terry, Catherine Nordquist, Evelyn McDonald, Glen Seibel, Fred Griffin, and Louis Leidl, under the direction of Dr. Robert de Neufville. The rather shy suitor (Glen Seibel) was safely brought into the family circle of a higher official. But previously all the plans that the family had made for hooking him went haywire, thanks to the untimely arrival of the poor relations (McDonald and Griffin).

The French play, directed by Mrs. Camille B. Power, was cast with Maxine Gross in the leading role, supported by Phil Obenchain, Charles Hummel, Harold Allender, John Gerhauser, Mary Reidel, and Betty Jean Feeney. This comedy, “Antoinette, on le Retour du Marquis,” by Tristan Bernard, was a play within a play, where a number of the actors, seated in the audience, produced a startling effect when they spoke their lines from various points in the auditorium.

“Rosina es Fragil,” the Spanish play, was written by the famous modern playwright, Martinez Sierra, and was interpreted by the following cast: Catherine Zupan as Rosina, James Barnes, Edith Mays, Gene Reussner, Elvira Chaney, Charles Massie, Ted Nydegger, and Marvin Bryant. Frequent serenading on the accordion added to the Spanish touch. Mrs. Powers directed this play also.

This performance was the first dramatic experience for the majority of the three casts, but they demonstrated a surprising degree of talent in the interpretation of their roles as well as in their ability to seem at home in speaking a foreign language. We offer congratulations to the foreign language clubs for their splendid performance.
George Hopkins, piano instructor of the University of Oregon, appeared at B.J.C. during the winter term for an all-Chopin piano recital. The concert was sponsored by the music department.

Mr. Hopkins, many years a piano instructor at U. of Oregon, is one of the outstanding musicians of the northwest.

Successfully continuing the Lyceum project established last year, B. J. C. sponsored a series of five entertaining and instructive programs this year, each well attended and pronounced highly worthwhile by its audience.

First in the series was an illustrated lecture, “Palestine Today,” presented by a correspondent of The Christian Science Monitor. This was followed with a lecture on Russia, given by Jerome Davis, well known diplomat and former professor at Yale University. Sir Hubert Wilkins, veteran Arctic explorer, gave the third and final lecture of the series. The Lyceum next presented Miss Iva Kitchell, dance humorist, and a week later the Fisk Jubilee Singers won the admiration of their hearers, to conclude the series.

The camera catches dance humorist Iva Kitchell in a high leap during one of her modern interpretations.

Co-chairmen Conan E. Matthews and James L. Strachan, faculty members largely responsible for the success of the Lyceum series.
J Cappella Choir

The a cappella choir of B. J. C. has distinguished itself this year by its many excellent performances. During the war years it had been discontinued because of a woeful lack of tenors and basses, but with the return of peace these voices were once again to be had, and a full program was scheduled for the choir. Besides singing before numerous civic organizations in Boise, the choir made a three-day tour of the surrounding towns of Parma, Emmett, Weiser, Cambridge, Council, New Meadows, McCall, and Cascade. It capped the year's activities with its contribution during Boise's annual Music Week, one phase of which was so popular that a repeat performance was delivered a few weeks later.

At the beginning of the second term, the group chose officers, naming George Poulos as president and Ed French as manager. Mary Faris, Betty Hull and Clairelaine Swanholm were selected to be music and gown custodians.

Mr. James Strachan, head of the B. J. C. music department since its inception in 1932, has built up the choir to its present state of effectiveness and prestige. It was with regret that the College heard his announcement that he will leave here in August to accept the position of organist and choir director at Trinity Episcopal Church, in Portland, Oregon, one of the largest Episcopal churches in the West. Although rejoicing with him in this opportunity to serve a larger field, the choir will feel the loss of his able management and guidance which have been so valuable in the past.
Women’s Ensemble

Much sought after by civic organizations, the Women’s Ensemble was kept very busy this year. The Ensemble presented several programs during the Christmas season. They were also featured on a radio program sponsored by the Tuesday Musicales, a prominent Boise music club. Their program this year was highlighted by a comic grand opera which was given at a school assembly and also by popular request to several organizations. The operetta was included in their repertoire when the Ensemble accompanied the choir on its tour this year. The year was climaxed by a performance at the commencement exercises.

The Ensemble is directed by Mrs. Lucille T. Forter and members are Gerry French, Muriel Stille, Muriel Bevington, Betty Jane Hull, Elaine Carringer, Barbara Fraser, Irene Rogers, Edith Mays, Shirley Glimp, Judith Ward, and Viola Woodruff. Accompanist is Margaret Adkins.

Edith Mays, Barbara Fraser, and Gerry French are a trio, formed within the group for special presentations.

The success of the Women’s Ensemble is one more indication that B. J. C. is rightfully proud of its musical accomplishments, and can look forward to a prominent position in college music.
The high spot of the year for the Art Department is their annual exhibition in the spring, held in the Boise Art Gallery and open to the general public. It consists of the outstanding drawings and designs made by the art majors and students during the entire year.

Besides submitting their regular art assignments the department cooperated with the many clubs and organizations of the school by making posters and decorations for dances and assemblies and helping with advertising for lyceums and other school activities. Particularly effective were posters prepared for the Red Cross.

The B. J. C. Red Cross Chapter operating committee is made up of Katie Zupan, chairman; Helen Jeker, vice-chairman; Katherine Norquist, secretary. Marie Campbell was in charge of the Canteen Corps; Sally Belt, Junior Red Cross; Erma Rae Harley and Pauline Davis, Camp and Hospital Corps; Marilyn Carlock, Publicity; Jean Barber and Jackie Morris, Fund Raising Committee.

Mrs. Margery Kallenberger was advisor; Mrs. Camille Power served as Junior College representative on the local Executive Board.
Basketball season rolled onto the Calendar in December and found many eager basketball players waiting for it. New men for the start of second term added height and strength to the team. This enabled the college to turn out a team which was almost as good as the ’41 and ’42 teams. At first the team was slow and won few games, but as the season went on, they showed promise of winning some of the tussles. They showed their power in the final game and really brought the season to a grand end. Nampa’s Nazarene College was the opponent and they went down to sound defeat.

Men who made up the first string were: Aurelius Buckner, Dudley Williams, Wilford Overgard, Marty Wilson, and Jim Reed. Player Buckner was the outstanding star of the season this year, carrying the load by scoring 286 points in the twenty-six games played. Close at his heels was a late comer to the season, Wilford Overgard, who scored 190 points in his eighteen games. Aurelius bested Wilford in point average per game by less than half a point.

Battling broncs bolstered by sharpshooters
With a triumphant victory over their popular rivals, the Northwest Nazarene College at Nampa, the Junior College basketball team climaxed their court season with a 62-39 victory, February 28, at the Boise High School gymnasium.

Although the Broncos won only five out of twenty-six games, they provided stiff competition for their opponents. Many of the games went into overtime periods and were lost by two and three points.

The squad was strengthened at the beginning of the winter term by the enrollment of many veterans, whose basketball ability proved essential in building up the squad.

The Broncos pulled the upset of the year by defeating the Eastern Oregon quintet, who previously had won sixteen straight games before coming up against the B. J. C. squad.
Totaling 1096 points in the 26 games played last season, the squad had an average of 42\(\frac{3}{4}\) points per game, against the total of 1257 points and an average of 48 \(\frac{1}{3}\) points that their opponents scored against them.

Aurelius Buckner, captain of this year's squad, was high point man for the season with 286 points scored in 26 games for an average of 11 points per game. Wilford Overgard was next with a total of 194 points in 18 games for an average of 10 \(\frac{7}{9}\) points per game.

Other averages are: Marty Wilson, who was inducted into the army at the close of the basketball season, 166 points in 26 games for an average of 6 \(\frac{5}{13}\) points per game; Jim Reed, 75 points in 16 games for an average of 4\(\frac{3}{4}\) points per game; Jim Thompson, 80 points in 24 games for an average of 3 \(\frac{1}{3}\) points per game.
This year has produced one of the best if not the best baseball team that the college has had. The players are men who have played in high school, for the American Legion team in Boise, and also in the Army. Lewiston Normal, Eastern Oregon Normal of LaGrande, Nampa Nazarene College, and the College of Idaho were our opponents and the Broncs won a large share of games, chalking up a very good record.

The outstanding pitcher and player of the team is Arnold Beebe.
Women's Sports

Gym classes were enthusiastically attended this year by most of the freshman and sophomore girls. Approximately 120 girls were enrolled.

In the fall, volleyball was the main event on the sports calendar. Inter-class competition was keen with Barbara Bronken’s team taking the laurels from Grant Dean’s team. (Incidentally, Grant was the only male enrolled in the otherwise all-female class.) Members of the winning team were Marilyn Rushfeldt, Ruth Wilson, Bethel Holman, Maxine Gross, Jeanne Bell, and Barbara Bronken.

During the winter term, the classes were engaged in basketball, folk dancing, and badminton. A basketball tournament was held with teams representing the Valkyries, W. A. A., and B Cubes participating. True to tradition, the W. A. A. team took first place.

Folkdances from nearly all the European nations were performed by the gym classes. Marilyn Saxton and Rowena Gardner were winners of a badminton tournament which was held during the winter term.

In the spring term, attention was focused on tennis, softball, archery, and tumbling. Bethel Reynolds, Jean Carlson, and Blenda Lindstedt were among the most promising potential Robin Hoods.

The P. E. classes were taught by Miss Adella Christiansen, a B. J. C. graduate.

THE STATESMAN NEWSPAPERS

Two New Records

Last year the town and farm homes in the Snake River Valley enjoyed domestic electric service at the lowest rates in our company's history—37% below the national average.

And they used electricity more than ever before to make living easier and more pleasant. In fact, they used more than twice the national average.

IDAHO POWER
 Electricity...Does So MUCH...Costs So LITTLE!
NOTWITHSTANDING the delays and the scarcities which plague our efforts, we are making progress in the construction of projects related to improvement of the economy and security of the State and the Nation. We surmounted obstacles in War. We shall surmount them in Peace because our efforts are rooted in the same faith which inspired us to build for Victory—faith in the future of Idaho, faith in the future of our Nation, and faith in the principles of the men who fought to keep us free.

We Honor the Patronage of Youth ★★★

YES... the Owyhee Hotel is honored by the fact that through all the years it has remained the favorite dining and stopping place of discriminating young Idahoans. We accept this patronage as pleasing proof that though the Owyhee is deeply steeped in tradition, its many services and accommodations continue to be modern, cheerful and progressive.
