The “New Normal” for Higher Education

"For universities the new normal means the budget crunch is not going away," Gergen said. Seventy percent of all U.S. college and university students go to public institutions using state funding from budgets so stressed that "more than half of the states anticipate deficits for fiscal year 2011," added Muriel Howard, president, AASCU. "We're not going to spend our way out of this budget crunch," Gergen said. "We're not going to tax our way out of it. We're going to have to innovate our way out of it as a country."

David Gergen, professor of public service at Harvard's JFK School of Government and a director of its Center for Public Leadership, speaking at the TIAA-CREF Institute conference, "Smart Leadership in Difficult Times," on November 5, 2009. <http://www.tiaa-crefinstitute.org/press/news/120309helc.html>

New Library Missions and Roles

“Our current mission affirms that the library is no longer the center of the information universe; rather, its strategic advantage comes from a broader portfolio of assets: our expertise and value-added services have become paramount. The University Libraries have two roles: as leader in areas such as information literacy, copyright, and authors’ rights and as provider of extraordinary information experiences — that is, engaging fundamentally in the lives of students, scholars, and citizens to improve individual productivity and the achievement of their goals.”

Karen Williams. “A Framework for Articulating New Library Roles.” Research Library Issues: A Bimonthly Report from ARL, CNI, and SPARC, no. 265 (August 2009): 3–8.

The Library Environment: Change

- Accelerating rate of change for libraries.
- Change is not just technological.
- Many of our past roles have become or will rapidly be obsolete (and ultimately dysfunctional...).
- Many libraries are expending precious energy and resources trying to hold on to old roles.
- Libraries that don't change will become irrelevant to their organizations.

Aligning Library and Campus Mission and Vision

- Libraries must aggressively realign resources to align with their university's mission, vision, and strategic goals and priorities.
- Universities are changing directions and emphasis and libraries must be part of those changes.
- The library must be seen as an integral player in fulfilling the university mission and vision.

University's Role In the Dissemination of Research and Scholarship

The creation of new knowledge lies at the heart of the research university and results from tremendous investments of resources by universities, federal and state governments, industry, foundations, and others. The products of that enterprise are created to benefit society. In the process, those products also advance further research and scholarship, along with the teaching and service missions of the university. Reflecting its investments, the academy has a responsibility to ensure the broadest possible access to the fruits of its work both in the short and long term by publics both local and global.

AHSAHTA PRESS

Ahsahta Press, a not-for-profit literary publisher, was founded at Boise State University in 1974 to preserve the best works by early poets of the American West, including many underpublished women poets. Beginning with the works of "Objectivist" writer Norman Macleod in 1975, poetry by Peggy Pond Church, H.L. Davis, Hazel Hall, Gwendolen Haste, Haniel Long, Genevieve Taggard and others was restored to print. Ahsahta Press editors Dale Boyer, Orvis Burmaster, and Tom Trusky soon added works by contemporary Western poets to their list, including David Baker, Linda Bierds, Richard Blessing, Wyn Cooper, Gretel Ehrlich, Ken McCullough, and Carolyne Wright. The Modern and Contemporary Poets of the American West series was continued until 2002, when The New Series was established under the editorship of Janet Holmes. It comprised 56 titles, of which 45 are contained in ScholarWorks.

Quotes from Shelter Volunteers

"The best way for people to understand, is to strip them of I.D., S.S card, birth certificate, cash and credit cards. Give them a change of clothes, a sleeping bag and a list of services around town and turn them loose for 30 days. That would give them a taste of what homeless is like!"

"I have personally helped and enabled individuals to no longer be homeless."

"I have a special care for underprivileged and mentally slow people, people who are trying to exist after illness, addiction, or past wrong living who are trying to recover."

Michelle Nielsen, Nicole Underwood
Social Studies Methods 330- Dr. Teresa England

The learning objective for this course was to demonstrate how teachers can integrate service-learning into the elementary social studies curriculum.

"From my service at Corpus Christi I gained new appreciation for a sandwich with meat and cheese. We felt quite blessed when a generous donation of sandwiches arrived. Being homeless reflects the money in one's wallet not the value of their soul."

Michelle Nielsen

Can We Afford it?

“Some may wonder if libraries can afford to develop repository services, especially in a time when research institutions face shrinking resource bases. The Task Force members believe that neither research libraries, nor the institutions they serve, can afford to do without repository services. Such services have a powerful potential to enable key work and enhance the effectiveness of a wide range of functions across research institutions. Researchers and scholars with access to a spectrum of repository services will possess a substantial advantage in conducting cutting edge research, delivering high quality teaching, and contributing valuable services to society.”

The Research Library's Role in Digital Repository Services. Final Report of the ARL Digital Repository Issues Task Force, p 41. January 2009. <http://www.arl.org/bm~doc/repository-services-report.pdf>

Libraries Must Invest in the Future

- Investment in institutional repository+ services is one of the most strategic investments a library can make in this change environment.
- Libraries must make reallocations from lower priorities to fund institutional repository services and support scholarly communication initiatives.
- There is a short window of time for libraries to make themselves indispensable to their institutions in this change environment.

Concluding Thoughts

- It's all about the students, staff, and faculty.
- It's not about the library; it's all about the university.
- Accountability is key.
- Change is constant and the rate of change is immense.
- The university's strategic priorities are the library's strategic priorities.
- This IS the new normal for libraries.
