ACADEMIC DRESS

For centuries academic dress has been associated with learning. Its origin is considered to be ecclesiastical, though the gown of the medieval scholar may have developed out of the ordinary civilian costume of an earlier period. The medieval scholar was often a monk, who found the hood and gown a protection against the cold of his cell. The sleeves of his gown were used for carrying his books and supplies.

In the United States, three types of gowns and three types of hoods have been devised for the bachelors, masters, and doctorates, respectively. The square caps are the same, except that the doctorates may be made of velvet and have a tassel of gold.

The distinguishing characteristic of the gowns is the sleeves: pointed and hanging to the knee, for the bachelor; closed (the arm coming through a slit at the elbow), square at the end, extending well below the knee, for the master; full, round, open, bell-shaped, adorned with three bars of velvet, for the doctorate.

The colors on the hoods represent two things: the wearer's Alma Mater and the department of learning. The lining of silk is in the color or colors of the college or university granting the degree. The trimming of velvet is the color that represents the department of learning in which the degree was obtained. The velvet trimming on a doctorate gown may also be of the departmental color or it may be black.

BOISE STATE UNIVERSITY

1932-2007: Celebrating 75 Years

It all began on a Tuesday morning in the midst of the Great Depression - September 6, 1932, the day after Labor Day, to be exact - on a tree-lined Idaho Street near downtown Boise. Led by its founder and president, Idaho Episcopal Bishop Middleton Barnwell, Boise Junior College opened its doors for the first time. The numbers that first day: four buildings, 15 faculty members, 41 male students and 37 female students.

Despite the nationwide economic downturn at the time, Barnwell was undaunted in his belief that Boise was ripe for a two-year college - and he was right. Thanks to the clergyman's initiative and persistence, BJC survived the hard times those first few years and eventually gained solid community support.

Barnwell's fledgling two-year school is now Boise State University, which celebrated its 75th anniversary in the fall of 2007 with a series of signature events and affiliated activities. The number today: more than 165 owned and leased buildings at various sites, a 175-acre main campus in the middle of Idaho's largest city and state capital, a full-time faculty of more than 600, and an enrollment of 19,540.

Boise State University is the largest institution of higher learning in Idaho. Today, the breadth of programs and services Boise State offers and its unique location makes it one of the nation's best places to live and learn. Long heralded as an institution devoted to classroom teaching, Boise State is adding another dimension to its mission as a metropolitan research university of distinction.

Every Gift Counts

Boise State University is emerging as a Metropolitan Research University of Distinction. This transformation is being powered by the university's first comprehensive campaign to support students, faculty, strategic initiatives, research and infrastructure. That's why the campaign to raise $175 million in private gifts is called Destination Distinction.
