NOTE FROM THEATRE ARTS DEPARTMENT

Producing a major musical like "Cabaret" is an enormous undertaking for BSU's Theatre Arts Department. At the same time, it has been an extremely positive experience and a crucial component of the education and theatrical training of our students.

Presenting such an event requires involvement from many different communities -- from the efforts of our talented faculty, staff and students to your interest and support in coming to this production.

The Boise State University community has been involved in countless ways. Direct and indirect support has come from many sources and two deserve special recognition. College of Arts and Sciences Dean Phillip Eastman has been an invaluable supporter of Theatre Arts at BSU. He has provided necessary resources, advocated the department's growth and development and, most important, continued to be a loyal audience member. Pavilion staff, especially George Manning, have given generously their time and expertise to make this production happen. They willingly shared resources in the belief that our success was important to BSU and to Boise.

The Theatre Arts Department was very fortunate to receive major support from KBCI-Channel 2, the local CBS television affiliate. Account Executive Dick Brass facilitated that involvement. KBCI's support demonstrates that community interaction is essential in providing good theatre and good theatre education.

Finally, we appreciate you. Your participation as an audience member at this performance is irreplaceable; without your presence this would be only a dress rehearsal. It is our hope that you enjoy what you see, that it is engaging, thought provoking and prompts you to attend more theatre at Boise State University or wherever a play is given.

Dr. Kent Neely
Theatre Arts Department Chair

NOTE FROM MUSIC DEPARTMENT

Welcome to the cabaret! The Boise State Department of Music is happy to participate with Theatre Arts in bringing this work to the stage again. I have seen many performances of "Cabaret" including the screen version and look forward to the experience of this current production. Our performers are talented, energetic and excited to be on stage. Teachers and students have all put tremendous time and effort into bringing to you the best possible production - I know you will be happy to spend the evening with us.

Dr. James D. Cook
Boise State University

PRODUCTION HISTORY

"Cabaret" is based on the true-life observations of Christopher Isherwood, who spent his early youth in Berlin between 1929 and 1932. He recorded these observations in a book called "Goodbye To Berlin," later included in "The Berlin Stories," along with "The Late Mr. Norris."

Isherwood's acclaimed book drew the attention of noted playwright John Van Druten, especially the story entitled "Sally Bowles." Druten turned it into a play, "I Am A Camera." Produced on Broadway in 1951, it enjoyed a huge success with a run of over a year and earned stardom for actress Julie Harris.

The idea of turning this unlikely-seeming material into a musical began with playwright Joe Masteroff who took it to Hal Prince, producer of "Fiddler On The Roof." He in turn brought in song-writers John Kander and Fred Ebb. The original cast included Joel Grey, Lotte Lenya and Jack Gilford. The show opened November 20, 1966 and closed three years later after a total of 1,166 performances. "Cabaret" won the New York Critics Award and eight Tony Awards, including Best Musical of 1967-1968.

A film version followed, directed by Bob Fosse. It earned eight academy awards including Oscars for Liza Minnelli as Sally Bowles and Joel Grey, recreating his role as Master of Ceremonies from the original stage version. "Cabaret," on film and on stage, has been before the American and world public ever since. In 1987 the show was revived once again on Broadway and once again Joel Grey starred in his Master of Ceremonies role.

DIRECTOR'S NOTES FOR "CABARET"

by Richard Klautsch

Few musicals are as challenging to produce, or as unwilling to fit the comfortable molds of convention and formula, as "Cabaret." After all, there is no hero or heroine. The main action is fragmented and interrupted by periodic visits to the bizarre Master of Ceremonies' "Limbo" cabaret (what is this guy, anyway?). Some of the musical numbers are downright chilling (listen to the irony of "Tomorrow Belongs to Me" or the haunting refrain of "What Would You Do?"). The locale is Berlin, 1930, a bustling and malevolent city heavily brutalized by depression, unemployment, and political violence so extreme that murder in the streets is commonplace. The primary interior setting is the Kit Kat Klub, where the atmosphere is thickly decadent and licentious. Finally, "Cabaret" doesn't even have a happy ending.

How much more of a challenge could a director want?

None of this is what "Cabaret" is about, however. And, ultimately, what it's about makes this one of the great musicals in the American theatre. Now don't worry, I'm not going to tell you in detail what I think. You're entitled to your own experience, perceptions, and conclusions, and you'll certainly have your own ideas. Because through its unconventional settings, structure, and content, it is a musical that has a lot to say about us, about our darker impulses as well as the enduring strength of our nature.

"Cabaret" speaks to us because it is a human story depicted in richly textured, if often disturbing, situations. It introduces us to characters who are far from perfect and whose struggles to make the right decisions are as complicated as our very own. No matter how we judge or what we feel about Sally Bowles' self-indulgences, Fraulein Schneider's priorities, or Ernst Ludwig's nationalism, they persuade us to consider our own vulnerabilities. And to consider that circumstances have an insidious way of corrupting the moral balance of any society. At any time.

Now that's about as far I'll go. The backstage crew must set up, the orchestra and stage band must tune, the dancers have to stretch, and the cast must warm up. We have an evening full of great music, sensational dancing, and fine acting to share with you (I mean, this is one of the great musicals of the American theatre!). And now, like the memorable Sally, I invite you to leave your troubles outside and come to the cabaret, old chum, come to the cabaret. There is no other place quite like it.

In closing, I want to send my very personal and heartfelt thanks to the many, many individuals whose efforts and dedication have made this production possible. My friends and colleagues in the Music and Theatre Arts Departments far exceeded my highest expectations, contributing countless hours in preparation and production. The BSU President's Office, Alumni Association, and Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences have provided unwavering support and encouragement. Our friends at KBCI have generously demonstrated the priceless value of corporate partnership in support of the arts. The many BSU students involved in this production of "Cabaret," on stage, in the orchestra pit, backstage, and in the shops, have earned my respect for their talents and hard work. Hals und Beinbruch!

Boise State University has been very fortunate to have student designers who are willing and capable to design for the main stage season. So far this season I have had the opportunity to work with two outstanding student designers, Josie Jensen, who designed costumes for "Sly Fox," and tonight's scene designer for "Cabaret," Flint Weisser. Flint is a senior and Josie is a junior.

The Department of Theatre Arts encourages students who are acceptable to the design staff, to design in the area of their choosing. "The opportunity to design and see the project through to completion," said department chairman Dr. Kent Neely, "not only gives the student an outstanding experience, but also allows our productions to have a fresh and often an exciting new look."

Flint Weisser began his university career in the visual arts as a painter and sculptor. Soon he had gravitated to the theatre department where he found great satisfaction in working on productions. "I found the nature of working from the initial conception through the molding of the project and the collaborative nature of theatre to be very invigorating," notes Flint. "I believe the collaborative process of theatre improves the initial concept and design. I did not realize the importance of design until I had taken a directing class. I quickly found that the visual elements of the production completed the 'whole world' of the play as I began to plan the directorial concepts. I knew then that design, especially with my concept of theatre and my backgrounds, is my future," he said.

Flint notes that this opportunity to design a main stage production, especially on the Morrison Center stage, is a rare opportunity. "Students at Boise State University are lucky to have this kind of opportunity as an undergraduate," he said. "I love Cabaret," its dark, unstable world and its mature look at an unstable time in modern history. I usually dislike musicals and their romanticism, however I find that this production is an exception. I have designed the stress beams that cover the stage, to reinforce the image of the precarious world that these people live in. This is also a temporary world that will shortly change to a darker and more sinister existence," he remarked.

Mr. Weisser will graduate in May at which time he plans to continue his theatre studies in Europe before returning to the professional theatre or graduate school at a later date.

Although I teach design and design every semester, I am continually reinvigorated as I observe a student complete the realization of a production project. Although the talent is recognized in classroom projects and the student is receptive to the classroom challenge, the actual completion upon the stage of a design is the ultimate learning and motivational tool. Thank you Flint and Josie for fully realized design concepts.
