Jordan Says NO to 'Tricky Dicky'

Senators, meeting in lame duck session, put the clamps on the Administration proposed Supersonic Transport project, a pet item of the President, that would cost the American taxpayer $290 million.

The GOP lost 12 of its backers when the vote came to bear. One of those votes came from Idaho.

Len Jordan argued that the S.S.T. would be just too expensive a piece of hardware. He also levied a blast at the danger such a "monster" would bring to the environment. It's not the first Jordan has bolted the sacred White House block to vote his convictions. The vote on Nixon's nominee to the Supreme Court, Clement Haynesworth, is another example of Jordan's conscience speaking out.

In the last two terms as a senator, Jordan has demonstrated his maturity as a representative for all Idaho. He is nobody's man but his own. No group controls his movements. His seat on the Senate ethics committee describes the courage of his convictions.

In this age of fear and repression, it is uncommon to find such a representative in the "hallowed halls of our Congress." Len Jordan is such a man. He cares.

No Cop Hassles in Dillon?

We were reading the Boise State College ARBITER the other day, and came across an article which should be of interest to some of the students and clubs at Western Montana College. The article is about the Boise Police Department having been guilty of harassing and threatening people in general, and students in particular.

After reading said article, we gained some respect for the Dillon Police Department. The college students here are harassed very little when compared to those at Boise State. We as college students at Western must try our best to keep this peaceful co-existence in effect.

At a recent meeting of the Central Board the Dean of Students mentioned the DPD might begin to bust some of our "informal, unofficial off-campus functions" if certain behaviors and actions are not terminated. They probably will not bust a function unless they receive a complaint or unless they hear that laws are being grossly violated.

Stop and think. If you invite (by selling tickets) and someone who is underaged, specifically high school students, DPD will probably receive complaints. If functions get out of hand and personal property is destroyed or damaged, DPD will probably receive complaints.

We need these informal functions here at Western if we are to keep people on the weekends, there just aren't enough things to do otherwise. Let's let the local youth find their own entertainment and maintain our good relationship with the law-enforcement people.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor, The ARBITER

I am a mother of the girl who started on drugs when she was 14 years old.

She said no one really cared what she did and maybe she really felt that way. Maybe a better world would have been no one really understood, because I cared very much but I understood very little.

Yes, I was divorced and there were five younger children to care for. And I was the victim of my previous environment, too. My ignorance was a result of many things, some of which I had no control over.

No one can know the agony of seeing someone you love, someone who is potentially beautiful, bright person slowly destroying herself, while you stand helplessly by, trying to understand, but not being able to.

Since that time I have made a tremendous effort to learn, to understand, not only myself and my children, but many other problems in our society. I feel I am beginning to be successful when my daughter and I can communicate now and I have hope now that it will continue to improve.

I would like to say to her, and others like her, that there are a lot of us who care and care very deeply, but we need your help to help us understand. We too are victims of this brainwashed, conditioned society and we want out of this trap as badly as you do.

So please don't shut us out. Let's work together and maybe we can help make the world better for everyone.

Editor, the ARBITER:

Does Boise State College have a parking problem? I don't think so. There is a lot of parking space on and around campus. The real problem is not inadequate parking, but the unwilling people who refuse to walk any distance at all to get to class.

Most colleges throughout the country would consider themselves lucky to have parking facilities as close as we do. Times are changing and Boise State College is growing. Everyone can't park at the front doors.

Sincerely,
C. K. Lang

BSC Students ... You're invited to the Inaugural Ball!

Each and every Boise State student has the unique opportunity to make his or her educational, political or social debut when BSC has the greatest happening since it became a four year institution. On Jan. 4, 1971, BSC will be the honored host of the newly-elected state officials' Inaugural Ball.

Governor elect Cecil D. Andrus strongly feels that without students and college campuses, the state would have a limited future. The government is not an establishment just for the elite or the wealthy of our state, but for all the people. Therefore he urges everyone to attend and join in the festivities of Inaugural Day, 1971. One of Andrus' greatest joys is to greet and get to know the people that make Idaho the progressing state that it is, and this means all students.

Inaugural Day will begin at High noon with the swearing-in ceremony of newly elected officials. In years prior to 1960, the ceremony was conducted inside the Capitol and was only open to close friends and relatives of the elected officials. This year it will be held on the front steps of the Capitol Building and the public is urged to welcome our new Governor. The ceremony will be coordinated by Maj. Gen. George B. Bennett, adjutant Idaho General.

The legislature and the House of Representatives will be sworn in as mass groups. Only the individual and outstanding officials will be sworn in separately. After the oaths, the 125th Army Band of Caldwell will salute with music speeches will be made and a cannon salute will be given on the front lawn.

At 3:30 p.m. Boise city, the Greater Chamber of Commerce, The City Council and Mayor Amyx will conduct a reception in the Rotunda of the Capitol and will greet citizens of Idaho.

The most anticipated event of the day will begin at 8:00 p.m. as the military band strikes up the Grand March of the Inaugural Ball. Because of the large crowd of students and other residents of Idaho expected to attend, two Inaugural Balls have been planned. They will be identical in content except for different times, place and dance bands.

Ball number one will be held in the BSC gym and will begin at 8:00 p.m. Dance music will be provided by Hap Miller band of Sun Valley.

The decor of the gym will be pure elegance. The band will be centered in the middle of the basketball court. The lights will be hidden from view and replaced with a huge rotating ball of dimmed lights. The whole gym will be transformed into a flowing paradise. Misty draperies will camouflage the dankness of the gym. On stage with stairs leading up to a platform will be a gold 9 ft diameter replica of the Idaho State Seal. On the steps leading up to the Seal will be large words depicting the economical assets of our state, such as agriculture, mining, wildlife, forestry, industry and education.

High above the proscenium arch, suspended in majestic splendor will be the heart felt belief of Governor-elect Andrus, "Idaho for all the people. All the people for Idaho."

At the opposite end will be shadow boxes containing art forms from leading Idaho artists depicting scenes from our Gem State. The balcony will be used for seating guests, during the Grand March. The portion not in use will be draped with historical paintings of Idaho, showing the progress made in the 80 years.

In use during this important event will be the valuable USS Boise and USS Idaho silver service, which consists of a huge silver service punch bowl and mugs. Since the service is very valuable and can not be replaced, it will be carefully watched during use.

Throughout the evening service of several BSC clubs will be utilized in different areas.

Dress for the occasion in years past has been formal. It has since been changed to black tie optional. Those who do not wish to wear formal dress will be welcomed in suits or presentable school clothing. No one will be refused admittance.

At 9:00 p.m. the Grand

March will begin at the second ball at Boise High School. Dance music will be provided by the Smith Foundation who are presently palying at the Plaza Inn. The decor will vary. Guests expected will fill the capacity of both ballrooms and then some.

Early in the year, long before campaigning began, Boise City's Greater Chamber of Commerce was busy rounding up a non-partisan Inaugural Ball Committee. After preliminary voting, the committee went into full swing. Chairman Ralph J. Comstock, Jr. got his executive committee, composed of Democratic Party Chairman Joe students and Republican Chairman Roland Wilbur and started on the lengthy, limited tunded process of planning. Tickets for the event are $5 and will have two stubs, one for each ball. Tickets in recent years were higher in price but have been lowered to encourage college McCarters to attend.

Among the committee chairmen we find BSC's Dr. Richard Bullington is in on the action along with Dean William Hendry and others.

Dr. Bullington is a member of the still existent Boise Junior College Board of Trustees. Because of bond indebtedness, the board still exists. Upon the retirement of the bonds, the board will be dissolved.

Idaho state law in accordance with the constitution, states that the Inauguration will be held on the first Monday after the first Sunday in January. This was adopted two years ago in the creation of annual session of the state legislature. And the legislature by law will convene on the second Monday of January. Therefore, there will be a one week separation for the Inauguration and Legislature.

It was felt by the sponsors to be a historical event and should be conducted on the foundation of Idaho's future, for one of Idaho's greatest assets is higher education. "It was just too important to be held in a commercial establishment," stated Roger B. McGinnis, president of the Boise Chamber of Commerce.

Another reason was for student participation. Due to some unknown element, participation of students in campus activities is almost nil. But now there is no excuse for not getting with it. This is a rare opportunity for students.

ATTENTION STUDENTS: WE ARE PLAYING HOST TO THE INAUGURAL BALL, HELD ON JAN. 4, 1971. PARTICIPATION REFLECTS SCHOOL PRIDE IN OUR SCHOOL, OURSELVES AND GOVERNMENT! SO LET'S BACK ANDRUS WHEN HE SAYS THAT EDUCATION AND STUDENTS ARE A BIG ASSET IN OUR FUTURE PROGRESS AS A STATE AND NATION.

Librarian terms bomb threat a "hoax"

The Boise State College library was the object of what was termed a "hoax" bomb threat Thursday night, according to officials.

Head librarian Ruth McBirney said a student in the periodical department answered a phone call and a female voice on the other end was said to have stated the word "bomb."

She said the student may have been mistaken because he only heard what sounded to be "bomb" and then there was just a growl and the caller hung up.

Personnel called Miss McBirney at home, who in turn called Dean of Student Personnel Services William Hendry.

He notified police and fire department officials who were dispatched to investigate. He ordered that the 35 to 40 students be evacuated from the building to protect their safety, the school's responsibility, according to Hendry.

The library was closed at 9 p.m. and investigators said the building was too large to cover to look for a possible bomb device.

Miss McBirney said Friday "If it had been something real, we would never have forgiven ourselves. It could possibly have been an excuse for a student to get the library closed because of a report due on Friday."

She added it may have been the call of someone who did not like the services of the library, and noted it was strange the person called the periodical department rather than the loan desk.

Dean Hendry said there is always a possibility of something like this happening, and added it only takes one of the real things to make people realize it.

Boise State Social Chairman Airs His Views On Campus Entertainment

Boise State Social Chairman Ed Weber says his biggest gripe about entertainment on campus is no support from the students.

He says students want and expect big-name, high-powered groups, but they are just too expensive. He has a $28,000 budget to work with and if two $15,000 acts were contracted, that would blow the entire budget.

Weber says they really tried to charge the season with a variety of different performers, and they feel not one bad show has been produced. He says students have the wrong idea to boycott a concert because they have never heard of a group or performer.

Communication seems to have faltered this semester along with partial blame going to an unfinished Student Union Building. Their point can be defended with admission of posters being used, concerts mentioned in new media on campus and use of the arrows to point toward coming events.

The Social Committee wants students, faculty and administration opinion, to see why these concerts cannot be supported and suggestions for improving the schedule.

The committee has a few questions to ask:

1. Would students attend concerts if they were moved to Friday and Saturday nights?
2. Would dorm students stay on campus for events if they were scheduled for the weekend?

Weber says students may not appreciate their efforts because they don't realize what kind of a job it entails. Do you realize concerts are set up on a five-week programming basis, involving getting a contract, locating a gym or other facility, setting up equipment, staging lights and sound and working with the musicians?

Just to see how much work they do, reflect back on the B.B. King concert.

A piano had to be moved from the SUB and specially tuned in the gym, four special speakers, eight microphones, cords, stands, six horns, three amplifiers had to be provided and special equipment had to be shipped from San Francisco. And after all that, the audience was filled with only half BSC students. Those who went will remember how King had everyone on their feet screaming.

If we continue to have these small audiences out of a 9,000 member student body, it won't be worth it next semester to even have a social program, Weber says.

He says it's discouraging to have only 250 BSC students turn up for the "Friends of Distinction" one of the top performing acts in the nation.

"It boils down to students don't really care what's going on on the campus. If we have something they should want, they don't go anyway. Then they complain there isn't anything to do," Weber emphasizes.

"It sure would help if the rotten situation in the SUB was cleared up and also if grippers would turn to doers.

Weber says students expect too much and their committee cannot tell production agencies when they want a group. They have to work the social schedule around the group's tour. Agencies, sometimes as crooked as they can get, Weber admits, are out for every penny. Many times they will schedule a good group with a lesser known one, just to clean up the profits.

Weber says Boise has a bad name, and performers don't like to play in the city of trees. Two of the biggest marks against us are the lack of a facility for them to perform, and the reputation for bad crowds. Like it or not, these factors play heavily in the price agencies charge.

Weber admits the social program is geared to the general public because the students won't support it.

We have to make some money each time to carryover for the next show. When the students don't attend we have to depend on the public, he says.

BSC students, here's your chance to have a say in what kind of entertainment you would like to see on campus. Weber had submitted a list of available performers through Variety Theater for entertainment in the United States and Canada. Check the groups you would like to see storm the campus and return it to the ARBITER OFFICE, A117, poll outlet. This is your chance to get involved in decision making. Do your part to get the program off the ground.

Ed Weber, ASB Social Director, has said that attendance at college concerts has been less than acceptable and he fails to see the reasons why students don't attend. The ARBITER asked five students, "Does BSC have an adequate social program?"

Roving Reporter

Tom Dreschel, Senior Social Science Business Secretary

RR: Does BSC have an adequate social program?

Dreschel: "The problem lies in the fact that this is a commuter school. With all commuting students you have a problem of attendance."

Inadequate attendance has been the big problem here before. There has been a lot of money spent that shouldn't have been spent for a lot of concerts that they possibly shouldn't have had.

Sheri Plumb, Sophomore, Social Work

"I think needs some changes."

RR: In what areas?

Plumb: "Well, I can't help but think that there should be more of an average student voice in what does happen, in the selection of what they do bring in the way of the music groups and in the way of the movies."

Dr. Gould, Professor:

"I think it will be adequate when the facilities of the Student Union Building are completed. I have noticed this year for example that because of the cramped quarters, students don't have an opportunity for dances and things like they used to when we had the snack bar area and the Friday night sessions and things like that. But I think as soon as the Student Union Building is done and the facilities are expanded again, I think you will find an expanding

I think probably the No. 1 thing to do looking at it from my standpoint, is to have fewer concerts, and concentrate on about three key concerts with some of the best entertainment you could possibly get, don't charge the students for it. In other words, give them the best for their money, the dollar that is going into the social committee fund. ISU is currently operating their social committee and their social budget and their social program along these lines. I think this is the best idea, considering the

The kids here know what they are going to want to see."

RR: You're saying that they should upgrade their movies with more recent productions?

Plumb: "I'm saying that the students should have more say as to what should be shown. I don't know exactly what the arrangements are now in the way of social committee, a student social chairman or something."

interest in social functions.

I think, as I have observed in the past four years that I have been at Boise State College, that our social situation is well cared for when there is a possibility of so doing and it looks right now that we are under a very temporary situation that is not to the best advantage of our students."

RR: As an instructor, what part should a social program play in the academic view?

Gould: "Oh, I think it has a large part to play. Students go to Annecker: "Well... I think that they ought to get somebody that's popular besides on KYME."

RR: Any other areas you care to comment on?

Annecker: "Well, it would be nice if they didn't charge college students."

have the concerts, if it's possible and I imagine it would be, because there are a lot more night classes on Thursday than they think. I have a night class and I get out too late to go to them.

"I think they have them scheduled at a bad time of the month. Very often, they have them just before the scheduled pay-day of the students and a lot of the student work part-time and don't have that much money and they might not have

RR: What kind of programs would you like to see initiated that are not presently being undertaken here in the social program?

Shonny: "Well I think that there could be more along the art program, more liberal arts type of thing, I think that you could initiate some sort of art program that would be beneficial to the art students and the liberal arts majors in general. I also think, being a writer myself, there could be some sort of fact that this is a commuter school."

RR: Tom, do you think that the days of the week and the time of the month be taken into consideration where money is concerned?

Dreschel: "Definitely, as long as they are going to have fewer concerts, they should definitely have them when all can attend or at least as many as possible."

RR: You are aware of the Talent Guide productions here in Boise, and their big push for community entertainment. Should this area be explored for

RR: Do you think that the social committee includes all the students on campus, or is it designed just for a few. How would you classify it.

Plumb: "I think it's really pretty equal about that... it does seem to schedule functions with the idea of serving either the dorm students or students living at home or in apartments, college to get a few facts pounded into their heads, but they also go for the association with other students and the social life is a part of it, and I think in any well-balanced college you've got to provide for the students social needs. I think that's fine so long as they study for my examinations, I'm quite content to let them have all the social life they want."

RR: What recommendations would you make after viewing the programs here at Boise

RR: Would you like to comment on the social committee as a whole?

Annecker: "Well, I guess it's young and will develop with time, but I hope somebody runs for social chairman this spring who will give the students more of what they want."

the three dollars or whatever it is to get in. It's something to think about. It's happened to me before and I would rather just not go than not be able to drive to school the next day."

RR: Any other comments about the social programs?

Earther: "I think the plays are really something, I really do! I would like to see more people get interested in it because they are fantastic, I think."

summer program plus a continuing program during the year that would get the writers involved with each others works."

RR: Any other areas?

Shonny: "Not right off hand, I can only say that I'm dissatisfied with it. I don't have any solutions, but I've seen from another college that I've attended that people seem to be more involved in everything that is going on, maybe it's just Boise, I don't know."

relations?

Dreschel: "Well, you have the competition definitely from Talent Guide. I think possibly that this is the reason why they shouldn't have as many concerts because they are coming in direct conflict with that group. So what we should do is not concentrate on the general public and gaining their money and their support, we should concentrate just on the campus area and gain the student support and let them get the best for their dollar."

one or the other but not both. I don't know why I got that impression."

"The plays again are great, I wish that there were somehow that they could get better publicity. They get publicity but it's not the type which makes people think: "Hey, I'd really like to go see that?"

State? Do you think their should be a program emphasized to the on or off campus students? You know, we have a heavy commuter population here at Boise State.

Gould: "I think both on campus and off campus students should be taken care of if you want to know what should be emphasized more. I think for one thing, I should have more pretty girls in my class that I could choose for dating myself, how would that suit you?"

David Annecker, Junior, Sociology

"No."

RR: Why?

Annecker: "It seems to me that it assumes that everyone is sort of square and doesn't appreciate heavier music."

RR: Do you have anything other than the music that you feel needs changing?

Help for Pakistan

The Pakistan Fund Raising Project is in full swing on the Boise State campus, and more than 50 persons are involved in collecting money for the country ravaged in the national disaster.

Letters have been written to high schools in the area, publicity has been distributed throughout the area on television and radio.

BSC students are working with businesses, churches, professional people and clubs and organizations in the Boise area.

Chairman of the drive is Mayur Sheth who feels strongly the project will be a success. The total funds projected by Dec. 25 are $25,000. The Idaho Student Government Association is heading the drives on all Idaho college and University campuses.

Funds so far gathered are $52 from the Esquires, plus a $100 check from a valley resident, and other donations from organizations.

Student Ski Association Establishes Program

Thousands of college students will be skiing at special rates this season, thanks to the Student Ski Association, and a young graduate engineer and famous skier, Kim Chaffee.

The Student Ski Association has designed a program to bring down the cost of skiing, thereby enabling college students around the country to ski more, or take up this growing winter sport.

Chaffee admits the association's college rate program and Student Ski Card system was inspired by the airline youth fare card concept. He said they are able to provide college students across the country with a large selection of prominent ski areas offering special low rates on lift tickets, lessons, rentals and lodging. Last year Chaffee signed up 34 ski areas around the nation, all granting half-price skiing to his first year membership of more than 8,000.

This season the number of North American ski areas participating in the national SSA college rate program has climbed to more than 100, with additional areas entering the program each week. Areas like Waterville, Glen Ellen, Mount Snow and Jay Peak in the East; and Aspen Highlands, Jackson Hole, Squaw Valley and Alpine Meadows in the Rockies make this the most extensive college ski program of its kind in the nation.

Most all areas grant one dollar off the all-day lift ticket every weekend and holidays, plus half-price tickets during the week, half the weekend lift ticket price.

Many participating areas, almost 80 percent, also provide college students with half-price rates on ski school lessons and equipment rentals during the week on a space available basis. The association's staff is currently signing up lodges in the country that will grant 25 percent savings to Ski Card holders during the week.

The Student Ski Card program is open to undergraduate, graduate and professional school students of any age. High school students, faculty and students' wives and husbands who are not in school are as yet not eligible.

Typical savings on a two-day ski trip during the non-holiday week can net a college student more than $17 with the use of a $4 Student Ski Card. With most major ski areas charging more than $6 for an all-day lift ticket, plus $6 for complete rentals and $4 for a lesson, it's easy to see how half-price skiing through the Student Ski Card can save many times the small $4 cost.

A nationwide Student Ski Card promotional campaign is underway on some 1,000 college campuses in North America. Students at many colleges will find posters and application coupons on bulletin boards, ads in college newspapers and Ski Card sales being handled by students.

Information on the national program and the Ski Cards themselves for $4 may be obtained by writing to SSA's National Office in West Dover, Vt., 05356.

Gary Kleiman, assistant director of the SUB, said the student activities program "needs help." He asked that any students wanting to help with concerts or any student activities contact him or Ed Weber.

All organizations budget requests for the 1971-72 school year are to be turned into Doc Cazier by Jan. 29. Cazier said his financial board will work out organizational budgets for next year. Placed on the ASB financial board were Jean Axelson and Don Rainey.

Colts take it In the end

The BSC Colts found themselves on the losing end of their season opener Dec. 1 as they fell to the powerful CSI Eagles 85-50.

The experienced Eagles wasted no time in testing the young Colts as they soon opened up a comfortable lead behind the accurate arm of Ron Behagen and a pesky defense lead by 5'6" guard Vic Kelly. This well-balanced combination allowed CSI to go ahead at half 51-24.

The Eagles continued to dominate throughout the second half although the Colts slowed their output to 34 points for the period. However, the Eagle defense never faltered and held Colt leader Bill Cottrell to nine points making for the CSI win.
