BOISE STATE UNIVERSITY

MONDAY, JANUARY 27, 1975

News in Brief

A small group of Harvard scientists think they have unraveled the mystery of sleep. They have found that a small protein from the special class, peptides, cause deep and lingering sleep in normal animals. If the substance can be isolated and produced the scientists believe that this discovery could be beneficial in the manufacturing of sedatives.

Dr. Charles Lein, dean of the School of Business at Boise State University, stated that he believes that the shift of women from the fields of nursing and education to business fields such as accounting and public relations is evolutionary rather than revolutionary.

Sen. H. Dean Summers, R-Boise, has introduced a bill which would enable Boise State University to receive thousands of dollars from state endowment funds. Milton Small, executive director of the Office of Higher Education, said that if the bill does pass, the amount of endowment monies allocated for BSU would be taken into consideration when the general fund is divided among the state institutions.

In advancement of brotherhood and scholarship, the KAPPA SIGMA Fraternity will begin its spring rush for membership the week of January 27-February 1. Orientations will be given on the nights of Monday, January 27, Tuesday, January 28, Wednesday January 29 and Thursday, January 30.

It's not too late

On Monday, January 20, 1975, Boise State University was invaded by the uniformed protectorate—also known as the pigs, the cops, the "bull", the men in blue and other names which shall remain unsaid. That's right, my friends, the "law" has outstretched its unflinching arm and has been embraced by our administration, our leaders and our apathy.

At the helm of your vehicle, which was aimed at destruction, was the Boise State University faculty senate. A group of well-meaning and knowledgeable people who only had your best interests at heart. They saw a bad situation and were given the assignment of alleviating the problem. If only they could have seen that the problem they were trying to correct was without solution; if only they would have recognized that problems without solutions should never be dealt with; rather, they should be lived with.

There were others involved, i.e. Dr. Barnes, the state board of education and other administrative and legislative people. All good people, trying their best to deal with the impossible, and inevitably they have failed. They made a decision which bled forth into a mistake and has culminated itself into a real problem that holds the members of this institution and the residents of Boise at odds with each other as its consequence.

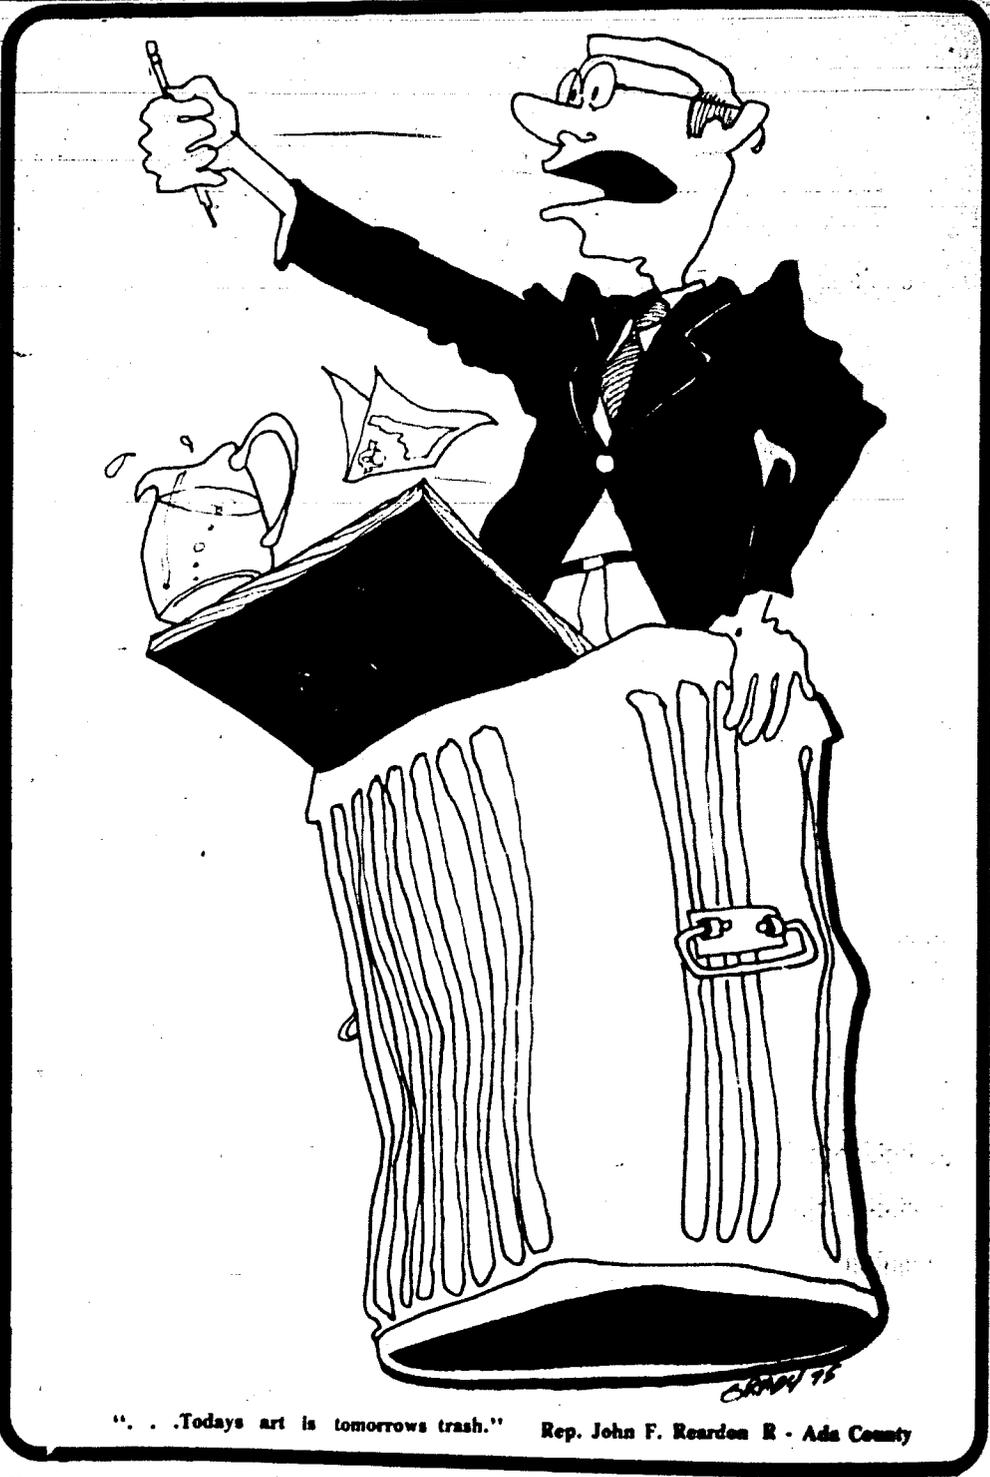

Their decision must be reviewed and then reconsidered or the court system of Boise shall be flooded by vagrant ticket complaints and a bitter animosity between the two separate entities (the university and the city) will result, tearing what little communication we have established with the monster that surrounds us into irreparably shattered pieces.

This editor suggests that the parking system of last semester be reimplemented with certain stipulations:

1. Parking in front of the Student Union Building be banned entirely. Barricading the entrance and exit of the lane should suffice in curtailing the problems in this area.

2. The maintenance of reserved parking for the handicapped students. (Handicapped students being the only people retaining the privilege of reserved parking.)

Ladies and gentlemen of the administration of Boise State University, capable leaders of the legislative factions, we do have a problem which has reversible consequences. You must reconsider what you have created. The students expect action. The community is laughing at us now, but when the repercussions begin to surface in the form of vagrant ticket violations clogging the courts, they will stop laughing, and ladies and gentlemen it will be your heads the community will ask for when it comes time to pay the piper whose tune you now dance to. It will be your heads that roll, not ours.

Towers resident replies to disgusted Driscollian

Editor, the Arbiter

As a resident of the Towers, I enjoy the shenanigans that are involved in living with other girls. I've had many practical jokes played on me, including: short sheeted beds, midnight telephone calls with my phone covered with toothpaste, a dissected frog in my toilet, frozen bras and underwear strung out the window halfway down the dorm; but I've never gotten upset about it, because I've been in on my share of pranks, too.

These are memories I'll remember and laugh about, and they have helped me make friends

I'll cherish forever.

I don't think any of the previously mentioned pranks are "petty". The up turned furniture was most likely turned right side up by Driscoll residents, not the housekeeper. The housekeeper has to vacuum the rug anyway, so the confetti wasn't much extra work. Besides, I've never seen a dorm housekeeper do any extra work. They gripe at us until we do it.

I will admit we're all here for an education, but when it's time for a study break I'm damn glad I live in a dorm with people like those "friends" in Driscoll Hall. Rowdy Resident

Reader declares yearbook disaster, suggests remedy

Editor, the Arbiter,

From the same people who gave you the trike jump, now we have another first, but this story started a long time back. Seems to me (if I can recall) that someone was asked to send something somewhere but didn't have enough postage to send it the right way, so he sent it third class. Well, how about that, I recalled it!

Now that that's over with, I have an announcement to make: after two years in preparation in which 200 pages were lost, your friends at BSU have something that will give a lift to your life, a bounce in your step, and a bunch of other things so in 1975, they bring you (are you ready) THE 1973-74 YEARBOOK!

Well, isn't that nice of them!

Now, yearbooks are mostly to look at and maybe to learn from. Could I make the suggestion then, that the school never get into that mess again. You might say after you read this "If you have any good ideas, tell us". Well, I may have one, how's this, that the lawmakers who are in town right now, give BSU enough money to get the equipment they need to print the 1974-75 yearbook on campus and at the same time, the ASBSU can print the student directory and then maybe they won't take so long to put it out next time.

I wonder how many people agree with me? Dan Lawrence

Student calls on Arbiter to clarify plans for events center

Editor, the Arbiter,

In addition to Huck Hovey, I'm interested in that earth-moving monster on campus near the SUB. It could be looking for a button or a pin-head but the rumor reached me that IT is working on something that will eventually be a film theatre. According to the Statesman of November 1, 1974, "the thing" will be designated as the Special Events Center and is being constructed with student funds. Quoting the Statesman, "It will house a 350-seat theater for college plays and concerts as well as special speakers and the college film series."

I was informed that after the necessary "feed-in" by the Music and Theatre Arts Departments, the offices of President Barnes and ASB made the final decision and the plans were drawn up.

The Theatre Arts Department is optimistic that the building will be suitable for their needs, though there is some doubt about which plans finally prevailed. The Music Department is also uncertain of what is being built and there is reasonable doubt that the stage will be inadequate for big musical affairs like the BSU Symphony and the University Singers.

How about some clarification, details and a drawing of what the floor plan of the building will be. The students are interested in how their money is being spent and if Dr. Barnes' office as well as the office of ASB will provide the information to the ARBITER, then we will all know what to expect.

Land and student funds are one-time things and should be utilized in the most profitable manner for all concerned. It is sincerely hoped that the film theatre rumor is false as that is a luxury we can't afford at this time of inflation and depression.

Citizen glad issue failed

Editor, the Arbiter,

After having read the Arbiter editorial on the civic center complex it touched me some. As one of those taxpayers who voted for it's passage, I'm suddenly glad the issue failed.

Incidentally, it would be helpful if you could spell. Flagmatic, indeed. Don R. Kayborn

Editor's note:

Thanks for the letter Don. Always glad to hear noise from the community.

Huck's Realm

Hucks mind boggling answer

by Huck Hovey

As you well know, the newer, better than ever Parking Enforcement Program and Student Inhibitor (PEPSI) has been a tremendous financial success since its implementation January 20. So successful, in fact, that Boise State planners have begun laying foundation for the eventual establishment of a local university television station, KSUC. Existing solely from parking ticket profits after a cut with the city, naturally, the station will elect airings in complete correlation with current University and community standards, both of which are indistinguishable.

We were fortunate enough to infiltrate the tight security and secure a copy of future program listings following with a synopsis of each. The following excerpt is a portion of that document:

As The Campus Years

A daytime drama concerning the frustration, woe, and challenge of the average dormitory man and woman.

The Bureaucrat

the development of a crisis when an administrator faces the agony of a misplaced typewriter.

Mental Clinic

a production depicting anxiety-ridden students trying to find salvation through shock treatment.

SPIT

(Special Police Investigation and Tactics Unit) a look at the perilous law enforcement officer's task of maintaining automobile law and order on an average campus. Starring Sack Quickpen as Herb Sundae and Garden Fillups as his pal, Gander, who consistently pinpoint enemies of the people.

Crappy Days

a look at BSU college life in the roaring 20's before the institution was founded. The trials and tribulations of existence while waiting for BSU to be founded.

Boob Madeyes, M.D.

a doctor faces challenge in disseminating Venereal Disease information in a celibate university.

The Bookies

epic of students trying to prove that education is a gamble.

Combat

Sgt. Sandburrs leads his squad into constant parking spot fire fights.

Telly's Heroes

adventure drama concerning an impossible team of executives headed by President John Television who make a wild dash to legislative chambers while behind the Moscow lines.

Petrochardelli

story of an ethnic trying to adjust to a high powered complex Archie Bunkerian BSU campus.

These are just a few of the many wonderful presentations KSUC will offer this fall. Be assured that your parking fines are helping create a wonderful media of enrichment and culture for the average deceased human being.

Student recommends ASB abolishment

Editor, the Arbiter,

This letter is motivated by the recent resignation of the election board chairman, Steve Mengel. If only our other officials and student bureaucrats would follow his example, we could save a vast amount of money.

We should force the administration to administer the functions that are now being performed by the student government. After all, that's what they are paid for and think of how nice it would be to have only one heirarchy to deal with.

I would like to propose a referendum for the February 7 election to abolish all paid student offices. Any public minded student, who wants to have an office for resume purposes, should be given the title of executive vice president as soon as he or she has paid the $10.00 fee. No higher or lower office should be allowed and this office would have no duties or privileges.

If this plan is enacted, I feel sure that the great economics that result will encourage other universities to follow suit and BSU will have done something worthwhile for the student body.

Richard M. Layne

The senate was called to order at 3:35, January 21 by Dave Ward. The minutes from the previous meeting were read and approved. President Kit Christensen announced appointments to the Personnel Selection Committee, the Finance Board, Commencement Committee and a Business Manager-designate, Ron Buchanan. These appointments were accepted.

Scott Harmon, a previous candidate for the position of Business Manager was recognized.

He gave a brief statement consisting of personal grievances aimed at the Personnel Selection Committee. Harmon thought that 'a conflict of interest' existed in the case of certain board members and he felt that the senate should be aware of the fact and look into his accusations.

The matter of the Election Board was again brought to the senate's attention by President Christensen.

He proposed funding for the board, but the measure failed a role call vote. Christensen brought the subject up at the end of business, and the original proposal was amended. As a result of the amendments the bill passed.

The amendments dealt with the people who man the polling places and count the ballots. These people will be chosen from Job Placement.

Senate Bill 40 to establish the Photo Bureau passed a voice vote.

Gary McCabe from the Radio Club came before the senate to get a positive statement of endorsement from the group for licensing purposes. McCabe also requested Radio Club funds for licensing expenses. Both requests passed.

Doug Gochmour asked that letters be sent to all ASB committees concerning seating at movies and other campus events. This request stemmed from the overcrowded situation that occurred during the recent showing of the last tango in paris. The motion was seconded by Jim Crawford and was voted upon. The motion passed unammended.

High school festival causes student problems

Editor, the Arbiter,

This is a letter to inform the administration of both the university and the Theatre Arts Department of certain problems that occurred during the recent High School Theatre Arts Festival held on our campus. Not only was the property of students of the university jeopardized, but the time and jeopordized of the students of this university was held at bay because the classrooms in several of the buildings were tied up for two full class days.

Now, I believe that the purpose of the theatre festival was beneficial for the high school students, and I am sure they learned a lot from the experience, but it is not the high school students that pay for the Student Union Building which they nearly burned down, the liberal arts building which was left in a filthy mess, or the Business Building which was totally rearranged by the rampant nubility during the scheduled events.

I ask both the administrations (university and theatre arts) to evaluate the real PR value to the students of this institution in context with the PR work done to recruit these young "bubblegummers". You must remember, WE COUNT TOO!!!

R. W. (Call me Bob) Hoppie

Reader expresses concern over pass

Editor, The Arbiter,

Six Idaho colleges and universities will be receiving second-hand legislative information on important student issues this legislative session because Barb Bridwell is being denied a press pass.

Barb Bridwell is the Public Relations director for the Idaho Student Lobby. Her most overriding responsibility is getting unbiased information to the seven member schools of the ISL.

Without a press card, Ms. Bridwell cannot gain access to either the Idaho Senate or House of Representatives. Thus she cannot report accurately to the ISL about any major piece of legislation.

The position of Public Relations director is a new one that was initiated this year by the ISL in an effort to keep Idaho students better informed. Bridwell is not aware of the intricacies involved in getting a press card and was consequently shuffled through a line of people before eventually ending up with Bob Leeright of the Associated Press.

Leeright, in no uncertain terms, informed Bridwell that she was in no way eligible for a press card. According to him, the only criteria used to establish a person's eligibility for a press card, is if that person is working for a recognized publication or electronic media station.

The ISL has a monthly newsletter that is read on every campus in Idaho.

But Leeright also told Bridwell that involvement with any lobbying group automatically excludes a person from receiving a press pass.

Bridwell is not able to lobby for the ISL as PR director. No where in the Sunshine Initiative does it state that PR directors for information groups are to be denied a press pass.

As stated previously, Leeright said, the only measurement of eligibility for a press card is the backup of a recognized media publication or station.

Apparently, the one and only standard used to decide a person's right to a press card, as explained by Leeright, is arbitrarily enforced at the expense of Bridwell, the ISL and the students of the seven member universities and colleges.

A redefining of the criteria used to establish a person's eligibility for a press card and consistent enforcement of that criteria is definitely a necessary action that should be taken.

Society of Silly Goose awaits senate approval

Awaiting final approval by the Student Senate, the Society of Silly Goose is an organization that claims to be a refreshing change from the usual campus club.

The purpose of the SSG is a bit confusing unless read four or five times. It is, as stated in their constitution, thus: A. To clarify, assemble, disseminate, and perpetuate audio-visual practices and processes on BSU campus as pertaining to students, staff, and faculty. B. To promote honesty, logic, and integrity in all respects of BSU students, staff, and faculty as well as the community at large.

Now, if one can figure that out and is interested in joining the "Society", just get in touch with Bob Davis, Huck Hovey, or Ed Pancoast. Any of these "people" can get the process started toward making one an associate gosling, which is what a member is called prior to passing initiation.

One more interesting item should be made clear. The officers of this organization state that anyone is eligible for membership regardless of age, sex, race, or what have you, with the one exception of those born somewhere other than this planet. Those "aliens" who fit this description are required to take a written and oral test given once every leap year by Dr. John Allen, the astronomy professor in the Physics Department.

SUB receives sub-space message from Vo-Tech

The BSU campus today, received a message from the somewhat remote Vo-Tech school to substantiate that V.T. is still a part of the BSU campus.

The message indicated that even though the V.T. portion of the university is operated in a slightly different manner than the other portions of the school, it none-the-less exists as a valuable link in the over-all perspective of BSU as a form of higher education.

The thing that makes Vo-Tech so strange to those besides the crew personnel is that very little is known about the station by the average individual on campus, and that very special factors in its makeup tend to make it different.

Therefore, I, Dr. Ion Spoc Jalias Alan Jones (have appointed myself Commander in Voice of the Star

While you will be receiving inter-campus messages from the Star Building VO-TECH explaining its existence, operation, purpose, and problems, you may also receive messages of other interest dealing mostly with the campus and its activities.

Even though these messages are based on facts they will also consist of opinions from many sources, and will always attempt to give the most accurate account of both sides to any story conveyed, stating which is and which is not specific opinion.

It is most important that these messages are received and understood for the sake of all concerned, and all should be concerned. So please look forward to the next transmission.

Until such time as proper sub-space communications allow for a new transmission, this is Commander Ion Spoc of the Star Building VO-TECH* SAYING TA TA* OVER AND OUT* /?/4* AND ALL THAT ROT!

Students get look at special education problems

Students in a special Boise State University class are getting a first-hand look at problems they might face as they continue their academic careers.

"Orientation to Higher Education", taught in Nampa as a part of BSU's off-campus program, is designed for older Chicano students who have not been able to continue their college studies because of work, military, economic or personal reasons.

Elias Alvarado, a social worker at the Migrant Education Resource Center (MERC) in Nampa, is the main instructor. He is assisted by personnel from Boise State.

In the class sessions the students and visiting BSU administrators examine such things as enrollment procedures, financial aid, use of the library, career opportunities, and university structure. Students are also improving their writing, communication, and study skills in the class.

Radio club to meet

The Student Radio Association held their first official meeting this year in the Teton room Thursday, January 23.

The meeting was opened by Duane Campbell, vice-president of the organization. Plans were discussed for the proposed student funded radio station. Gary McCabe, president, discussed the business plans.

The club is currently involved in applying for a broadcasting license.

Faculty decal holders only. If green decal fails to stick to bumper, place decal on inside rear window left side.

According to Alvarado, the course should better prepare students who have had little encouragement to enroll and be successful in higher education.

Once the class is completed, says Boise State off-campus programs director William Jensen, "Students will have a good knowledge of the university and its procedures as well as a personal acquaintance with many administrators who can help them with problems that might arise."

Jensen added that the course, which began in November, will finish in early February, and that similar classes are possible in the future.

RA positions available

The office of Student Residential Life is accepting applications for the Resident Advisor Program. All applicants must have a cumulative GPA of 2.5 or above and be upper-classmen.

The Resident Advisors and Assistant Resident Advisors in each hall are responsible for the development of an effective hall unit. RA's and ARA's have similar responsibilities and authority which include advising students, identifying individuals who may need special help with personal problems or study skills, referring students to various campus services, and assisting new students in their orientation to the campus. The staff also is responsible for implementing University policies and procedures within the residence halls.

If you are interested in the program, like people, hard work, and enjoy helping others, please come to the office of Student Residential Life, Room 110, Administration Building and pick up an application.

Women's center to be held at BSU

The Women's Center of BSU is beginning a brown bag lunch series, which will cover a variety of topics on women's concerns, on a weekly basis throughout the spring semester.

This newly formed group is in the process of establishing a Women's Center on campus which will serve the needs of the BSU community. Until the facilities are found for this center, the series will be held at the Minority Cultural Center at 211 College Boulevard every Thursday at 12:00 starting February 6.

The presentations for the noon hour series are going to be divided into several general areas of interest such as the Political Power of Women, Career Opportunities for Women, Marriage and other Life Styles, Discrimination and the Law, Herstory, Control of Our Bodies, Education, Athletics, and Religion.

Some of the people who will be involved in these presentations are:

Ms Rose Bowman, Dr. John Mitchell, Dr. Phyllis Smalljohn, Dr. Wylla Barsness, Dr. Carol Harvee, Ms Phoeby Lundy, Dr. Bob Sims, Ms Jan Buehler, plus many others. A definite schedule will be published soon so all those who are interested can attend the series.

If you would like to know more about the Women's Center, be sure to attend the first of the series on February 6 or contact Marie Young at 385-1583, Administration Building, Room 114.

Winners of high school theatre festival announced

Winners of superior ratings in the sixth annual Idaho Invitational High School Theatre Arts Festival were announced late Saturday afternoon, January 25, in the ballroom of the BSU Student Union. Scholarships and trophies were presented by festival supervisor Larry West and student coordinators Eric Bischoff and Royanne Klein.

This year's festival attracted 632 students representing several Idaho secondary schools. Over ninety teams competed for awards in the modern duo acting category alone.

Recipients of theatre scholarships to Boise State University were David Willes of Highland High, Pocatello; David Perry, Clackamas High, Milwaukie, Oregon; Mark Frewalt, Lapwai High, Lapwai, Idaho; Lori Santille, Highland High, Pocatello; Craig Callahan, Capital High, Boise.

Superior ratings in modern individual acting were awarded to David Perry, Clackamas High, Milwaukie, Oregon; Mark Frewalt, Lapwai High; Lori Santille, Highland High, Pocatello; and Pam Nielson, Twin Falls High.

Modern duo acting awards went to Craig Callahan, Debbie Hill, Capital High, Boise; and Alice Lewis, Warren Sager, Meridian High.

In the Shakespearean individual acting category awards were earned by Rose Camacho, Highland High, Pocatello; Heidi Esplin, Shelley High; David Willes and Mark Mickelson, Highland High, Pocatello.

Winners of the Shakespearean duo acting competition were Mike Bogert and Becky Vanleck, Pocatello High; Liz Russell and Mary Knight, Twin Falls High.

Musical solo winners were Jana Sherwood, Idaho Falls High; and David Willes, Highland High, Pocatello.

Musical ensemble groups from Pocatello High and Idaho Falls High earned superior rankings.

Cited for superior rating in oral interpretation were Laurel King, Madison High; Lauri Burns, Dubois High; Larry Murray, Shelley High; and Briggs Hawley, Shelley High.

Technical theatre awards went to Laurie Corbett, Pocatello High; and Don Rhode, Idaho Falls High.

The high school theatre arts festival is made possible by the efforts of BSU theatre art students assisted by the faculty and administration. It is the only event of its kind in the state of Idaho.

Friends, exchanges, retreats, house dances, and loads of fun are some of the activities sororities are involved in. If you are interested contact Crista Bax at 385-1223/1224 about the sorority rush. Don't miss out on the fun.

cold-drill takes honors in contest

The BSU literary magazine, the cold drill, winner of previous awards, this year took first place honors for General Excellence in the Rocky Mountain Collegiate Press Association competition. In recognition, it was awarded a trophy which is on exhibit in the English Department according to Dr. Charles David Wright.

The short story "Warm Lake Trilogy" by Michael Ostragorsky, a BSU student, was selected for second place in the Short Story category. The RMCPA is sponsored by the University of Utah in Salt Lake City and includes colleges and universities from Montana to Texas.

In a national competition conducted by the Coordinating Council of Literary Magazines in New York City, the cold drill was a semi-finalist, which means that it placed in the top 30 of 150 entries, including those from Harvard and Berkeley.

Bruce Richardson and Eric Blischoff in a gleeful moment from a rehearsal for the BSU Theatre Arts Department production of Samuel Beckett's "Waiting for Godot."

'Waiting For Godot' to open January 30

Samuel Beckett's profound dramatic work, Waiting For Godot, begins a ten night run at BSU's Subal Theatre Thursday, January 30 at 8:00. This provocative show is known throughout the world for its intense, though obscure, message to modern mankind.

The play seems strange and almost incoherent to those unfamiliar with the so-called absurdist style, but anyone living in today's world who has ever waited for an acquaintance, for an event, for nothing in particular, for tomorrow - anyone who has experienced a lack of totality in their existence - brother - anyone who has ever sat around anticipating the next sneeze for lack of anything else to anticipate: YOU will empathize with the tramps in this play.

The company, under the guidance of Boise State's guest director Larry West has strived to achieve a unity of purpose enveloping the play in a total theatrical experience. The games the characters play, the banter that flows between them, the cruel, funny, endearing aspects of human nature that surface in each character are meant to create total living and breathing theatre. Come and see it.

The BSU Theatre Arts Department invites you to join them in a unique evening's entertainment you won't soon forget. The tickets for Waiting For Godot are available free to BSU students. Reservations may be made by calling the Subal Box office: 385-1462 between the hours of 3 p.m. and 6 p.m.

Tower of Power undergoes big change

by Bill Sargent

Tower of Power has undergone some big changes as of late. New drummer, guitarist and lead vocalist, plus a revised horn section so far. But the influence and direction of tenor sax E. Castillo is readily apparent.

To an old fan of TOP, the new personnel were an apprehensive addition. But further listening proves them to be a fabulous improvement with at least every other song being of the same fiber as former biggies. If horns, and plenty of them, is what you want, these guys are as funky as they come. Anyone who has experienced San Francisco's big sound, (i.e. Cold Blood when they played here) will be glad to know that the tradition is being followed in its truest sense.

KAID-TV broadcasts Statehouse Report

Channel 4 launched the third year coverage of the Idaho Legislature with Governor Andrus' State of the State message on January 13, 1975.

Scheduled weekdays at 6:30 p.m., KAID's STATEHOUSE REPORT brings viewers a half hour report on all the legislative developments as well as interviews with legislators, state officials and representatives of interest groups. KAID-TV will also provide live coverage of public hearings and legislative debates of the key issues of the 1975 session.

STATEHOUSE REPORT will be broadcast statewide through interconnection with Idaho's three public television stations (Idaho Public Broadcasting Network) originating with KAID-TV on the Boise State University campus, KBGL-TV in Pocatello and KUID-TV in Moscow. The legislative coverage is made possible through a special legislative appropriation. The three stations will reach a statewide audience of about 70 per cent of Idaho's total population.

Legislative reporters for the 1975 session are Jeff Seward and Mindy Cameron. Jeff is KAID's writer-reporter-moderator and co-hosted STATEHOUSE REPORT last year.

Jeff has a B.A. in Political Science from the University of Texas and spent a year of graduate work at MIT. In addition to STATEHOUSE REPORT Jeff has hosted IDAHO CAMPAIGN '74 and 4-Tell.

Mindy Cameron is well-known by legislators having covered the legislature the past two years for the Idaho Statesman. Currently, she is on a leave of absence from the Ada Council of Governments where she has been a public information officer for the past six months. Mindy holds a degree in Journalism from Pacific University in Forest Grove, Oregon.

Boise State's 6'11" center Elaine Godfrey on the tip-off against Eastern Oregon last Friday night. The BSU women won the contest 69-34.

Women to vie with NNC Tuesday night

by Johanna Reeves

The Boise State women's basketball team increased their season record to 6-0 after taking first place in the Idaho State Women's Basketball Tournament in Pocatello, January 17 and 18.

Plagued by poor shooting in their first game, Boise State used a strong man to man defense to hold off Northwest Nazarene and went on to beat them 53-28. Joanne Burrell and Elaine Elliott shared top scoring honors with 13 points apiece. Deanna Brower had 12. Miss Burrell pulled down 10 rebounds, while Elaine Godfrey grabbed eight. Arlette Childs had ten points for NNC.

In game two of the tourney, Boise played Idaho State, and after a slow start BSU exploded to crush the Bengals 73-27. Miss Burrell led the Broncos with 21 points, shooting 71 per cent from the field, followed by Kendra Falen with 17. Deanna Brower, hitting 66 per cent of her shots from the floor ended up with 13 points while Elaine Godfrey added 11.

Miss Falen led the Broncos in their 60-10 win over the College of Idaho with 14 points, 12 of them coming from outside the key. Deanna Brower hit 13 and Bette Will added 10.

The final game of the tournament found Boise State matched with Ricks College. The Broncos put together a great team effort, using an effective zone press. Elaine Elliott stole the ball from fumbling Ricks opponent seven times and served as play maker for the Broncos, as they went on to win the game 68-39. Joanne Burrell grabbed 11 rebounds and scored 19 points, nine of them free throws, a perfect effort from the free throw line. Elliott was flawless from the foul line as she scored 14 points. Maureen Hirai shot 100 per cent from the field for 10 points. Kendra Falen had 10 points and Elaine Godfrey added 9.

The Bronco women averaged a 43 per cent field goal effort in the tournament.

The Bronco B team also participated in the tournament, but were edged out by Ricks College 40-42 in their first game. Connie Coulter hit 12 points, Theresa Anderson had 11 and Cindy Fralich hit 10 and pulled down 11 rebounds.

In their second game the B squad Broncos, sparked by Theresa Anderson's 16 points, stampeded the ISU Bengals 48-9. Karla Merrill tossed in 15 and Connie Coulter had 10.

The Bronco women will host Northwest Nazarene College, Tuesday, February 4 at 7:00 p.m. in the gym.

Big Sky race starts to jell

The Big Sky Conference basketball race is getting a full head of steam, and so far the biggest surprise has come from Weber State. The perennially powerful Wildcats have yet to jell as a team. The Ogden-based school was shocked last Friday when head coach Gene Visscher tendered his resignation, citing his loss of the control of his players as the main reason. The Wildcats then, under the control of new head coach Neil McCarthy, were beaten 77-76 Saturday night by a rejuvenated Northern Arizona ball club. The loss dropped the Wildcats further down into the lower division of the conference standings, and put a severe crimp in the Weber State title plans.

Montana owns first place with an undefeated record, but the Grizzlies have yet to travel into Idaho. Their performance in this state could well decide if they stay on top or not.

The Grizzlies did very well last weekend when they journeyed to Hawaii to play two games against the highly regarded Rainbows. On that Rainbow team were such ex-College of Southern Idaho stars as Victor Kelly and Ronny Fryson.

After a close loss Friday night, Montana blew the home team off the floor, which is no small feat. Center Ken McKenzie is the key to the Grizzlie success, and if Montana is to continue to be successful, McKenzie will have to be as effective as he has been.

Boise State, meanwhile, rebounded from a disappointing loss to Gonzaga to hand Idaho its third conference loss. BSU has two more home conference games this weekend before embarking on the road, and the Broncos cannot afford to drop another contest at home, since winning on the road is so difficult in the Big Sky.

For you lady-watchers out there, about the neatest group of them around this time of year is the BSU ladies basketball team. The team is unbeaten so far this year, and has to be rated as one of the top teams around the country.

The girls are led by Ms. Elaine Elliot and Ms. Joann Burrell, but everyone on the team is contributing well, as shown Friday night when the Connie Thorngren-coached team methodically took apart Eastern Oregon State College 69-34. The entire team deserves congratulations for being such a great group of representatives for the school.

Again, congratulations ladies, and keep up the good work.

Gal gymnasts take third place

The Boise State University women's gymnastics team took third place in a triangular meet held Saturday, January 25 in the Bronco gym. The Boise women finished with a team total of 51.4 points. Capturing top honors with 86.8 points was Pacific Lutheran University, followed by Lynn-Benton College, who took second with a team total of 81.0 points.

High scorer for Pacific Lutheran was Cindy Wacker, who nabbed first place in All-Around competition.

High scores in the Boise State efforts were: Holly Christopher, 5.35; Pam Waddell, 3.50; Cindy Woodworth, 5.50; Carol Quinney, 3.95; Teri Martin, 4.0; Lori Jukich, 6.1; Denise Zundell, 6.0; and Diane Sanders, 2.75.

Boise State will travel to Provo, Utah for a meet with Brigham Young University Saturday, February 1 starting at 9:00 a.m. The girls' next home meet will be February 15 for the All Idaho Invitational. Starting time will be 10:00 a.m.

Football coach resigns; to take post in Yuma

by Melinda Scharf

Charlie Dine, defensive coordinator for the Boise State football program, announced his resignation Thursday to take over as head football coach for Arizona Western College in Yuma.

The move to Yuma will not be a new one for Dine, who was a coach at Arizona Western before signing with the Broncos in April of '73.

When asked about his decision, coach Dine said "I express my deep appreciation to the community of Boise, the University, and the staff for the opportunities which I have enjoyed for the past two years. I have sincerely enjoyed my working relationship with Coach Knap, whom I have respected and admired for many years both as a man, a coach and a leader. I give my sincere wishes for the best of everything to the Athletic Department and I sincerely hope that the programs continue to progress for excellence which I believe they will."

Coach Dine's new job will be effective on February 3, but he plans to leave Boise on Thursday to help with the recruiting for his coming season at Arizona Western.

Cagers split Big Sky weekend

by Michael Conroy

The BSU Broncos had an up and down weekend. The home court spell that the youthful Broncos had possessed this season was broken Friday night by the Bulldogs of Gonzaga University, but reappeared Saturday night against the Idaho Vandals.

They hope to continue the "new home streak" this Friday and Saturday night when Weber State and N.A.U. travel to Boise for two Big Sky games.

Connors Cagers dropped their first home game of the 1974-75 season Friday night to the Gonzaga Bulldogs 81-84. The Broncos shooting was a little blurred as they could connect on only 43 per cent of their floor shots. The Zags on the other hand were right on target as 52 per cent of their efforts found the basket. Each team nailed down 42 rebounds. The efforts of Trent Johnson, Pat Hoke and Scott McIlhenny kept it close, but to many forced shots and turnovers proved to be the Broncos undoing.

It seemed for awhile that the Cagers were settling for a 30 foot offense, and though some of shots found their mark far to often they went astray and were captured by the zigging Zags.

Trent Johnson was superb. While his 8 points and 9 rebounds may not appear impressive the freshmen from Seattle Washington played a non-statistical game. Many times Johnson copped the ball or kept it in play. Johnson harrassment of his opponent proved to be too much for Gonzaga; However it proved to be too much for the officials as well. With 2:06 remaining in the contest Johnson committed his fifth foul and headed for the bench.

Johnson was not the only Bronco to leave the game prematurely. Midway through the second half Terry Miller turned a chase for a lose ball into a one-on-one confrontation with the bleachers. The gutsy sophomore from Calif left the game with 6 points 8 rebounds and a large lump on his head

He was ably replaced by Scott McIlhenny. Although he scored just 5 points during his short time of play he gathered in 8 rebounds and had 2 assists. When he could not get the ball himself he would get a piece of it and flip it towards one of his teammates. To bad Basketball is not played with 6 men so we could see more of McIlhenny.

Pat Hoke retained the Big Sky scoring lead as the Bronco big man dropped in 26 points. He was aided by Steve Connor who hit 24.

The Zags were led by Ken Tyler, who was eight of nine from the field and two freebies for 18 points. He was one of five Bulldogs who scored in double figures. One of Tylers freethrows proved to be the undoing of the Broncos as he dropped it in with 26 seconds remaining to give Gonzaga its three point victory.

Saturdays game against the Vandals of Idaho proved to be one of 'run and gun' with the Broncos finishing on top 83-78. The eyes of Connor's Cagers that were blurred the night before against Gonzaga were now crystal clear. The B.S.U. team hit 29 of 56 from the floor (51 per cent) and 25 of 34 (73 per cent) on the freebies. It was Idaho's night for poor eye-hand coordination, as the Vandals could only connect on 36 of 85 shots for a meek 42 per cent. The game was decided on the freethrow line as the Broncos dropped in 25 to the Vandals 6. In fact those 25 charity points negated the brilliant of the Vandals Henry Harris, who scored 25 points. The 6 Idaho freebies came no where close to the 27 points scored by Pat Hoke. the Big man of the Big Sky shot from all over the court but was most effective in close were he would just muscle up his points. The weekend gave Hoke 52 points and hopefully a chance at the Big Sky Player of the Week award.

The boards were controlled by jumping jack Trent Johnson who out leaped the taller Vandals to pull down 18 rebounds, tops for the night. Trent also made a tip-in with an errant shot to break open a see-saw scoring binge and give the Broncos a 78-74 lead with 1:32 remaining in the game.

Other Broncos in the scoring ranks were Steve Connor with 19, James Smith with 15, and Terry Miller, who showed that a lump on the head does not hurt your scoring hand, as he popped for 11 points.

Boise State forward Terry Miller hangs on to the basketball in Saturday night's contest with Idaho. Miller had 11 points in the game, which BSU won 83-78. [photo by Don Hay].

IN THE SPOTLIGHT

STEVE CONNOR

Steve Connor is the second leading scorer for the Broncos and the Big Sky with an 18.9 per game average, and leads in assists with 58. The graduate of Borah High in Boise is starting as a freshman and chose BSU mainly because his father, Bus Connor, is head coach.

Steve has been playing basketball all his life. In fact, on the day he was born, his father "looked at my hands to make sure I had all ten fingers".

Steve is optimistic about the Broncos' chances this season and the next few years. Right now, he said the young team is "playing on ability, but in a couple of years we'll have the experience to help us use that ability better". He enjoys listening to soul music in his spare time, and hopes someday to play pro ball.

JAMES SMITH

James Smith is perhaps the quickest player on the Bronco squad. The junior from Sacramento, California played junior college ball at Spokane Community College, has an 11.8 scoring average and has 44 assists. James was All-City, All-State and All-American in high school, and an All-State junior college selection last year. He is also confident in BSU's chances, saying "We're in it as much as anyone else". James chose to attend BSU because his brother John plays football here. John and James played all sports while growing up in Sacramento, and James acknowledged his brother as one of the toughest basketball players he's played against (the other being BSU football player Lester McNealy). James enjoys listening to soul music in his spare time, his favorite being Marvin Gaye.

Intramural News

The Intramural Men's basketball leagues will start as scheduled; however, late entries will be taken for all sports. Get you entries into Ross Vaughn, intramural director. His office is in the main gymnasium. Get your late entries in before Friday evening. Starting times for ladies basketball will be Monday, Jan. 28, 7:00; men's basketball, Tuesday, Jan. 28 at 7:00 and co-ed volleyball, Wednesday, Jan. 29, 7:00.

The swimming pool is open for recreational swimming 2 1/2 hours during the week and 8 hours on the weekend for a total of 29 1/2 hours swimming time available. This schedule has been built around PE swimming classes during the week and recreational activity. It is limited by budget and life guard

BSU wrestling Matmen gallop to winner's circle

by Rick Christian

In the past, Big Sky Conference wrestling championships have been as much a part of Idaho State University as artificial grass and sooty buildings. The Bengals ran off with a string of seven straight championships from 1967-1973. Then last March the BSU Broncos galloped into the winner's circle and signaled their emergence as a conference and national powerhouse. At the reins was second year head coach, Mike Young, who ended the season with a 19-win, 5-loss, and 1-tie record and coach of the year honors.

With four individual conference champs including three time winner, Dave Chandler, all in action again, this could be a banner year for the Broncos. Coach Young is optimistic, but states that the team needs to acquire confidence and experience. He hopes they can develop these traits over a grueling 21 dual meet schedule that he has set up and which includes such formidable opponents as Oregon State, Colorado State, the University of Wyoming, and BYU.

Initially, it was very difficult for Coach Young to even talk with the larger schools; many would not answer his letters of inquiry. Then as the victories mounted up, so did the opportunities for scheduling a higher caliber of competition. With their amazing victory at the Beehive Invitational last year, the Broncos gained a measure of national publicity which has given Coach Young's recruiting program a real boost. Fourteen of the 33 wrestlers on the squad are from out of state and 24 are either freshmen or sophomores. This talent has great potential, but needs refining.

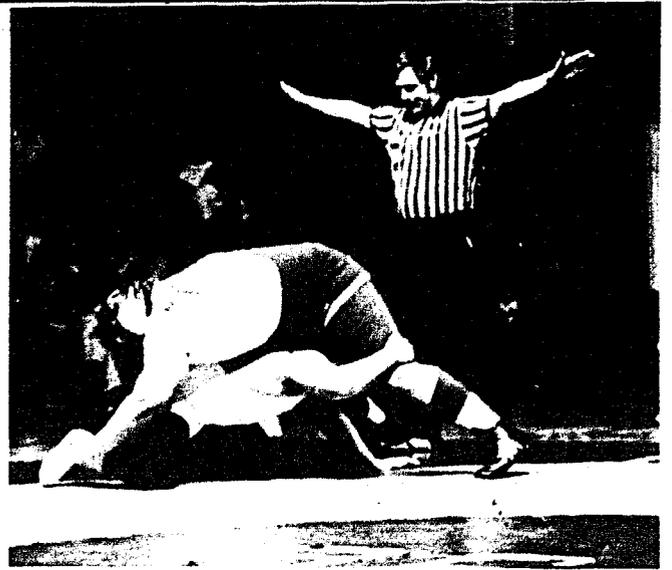

Coach Young tackles this problem as he does most things, aggressively. As a wrestler under the tutelage of the great Fred Davis of BYU, he developed a coaching philosophy based on hard work. His practices routinely run three hours in length and are characterized by exhaustive "combat wrestling". Although running, weight training, and specialized diets are important, competitive wrestling forms the cornerstone of his training program. He also stresses fundamentals such as the correct take-down technique, and being "good on your feet". Over a long arduous season, he does feel that it is best to ease up occasionally to keep the wrestlers loose.

A perfect example of his coaching philosophy is Chandler. A senior from Aberdeen, Idaho who started out "just wrestling my brothers", Dave has matured into a very dedicated athlete.

He has learned pinning combinations and riding technique that have made him the best overall wrestler on the squad.

After all the accolades of the last season and a national ranking of 14, what are the goals left to be conquered? Coach Young feels that with both the new and old faces coming on, the rest of the season is still full of plenty of action and excitement. With superheavyweight Mark Bittick, ready to improve on his current 6-3 record after being nagged with a sore knee, anything can happen. On February 15, BSU meets the University of Wyoming Cowboys at Laramie in an important dual meet, and if things go true to form the Broncos will be doing most of the riding.

Superheavyweight Mark Bittick shows how it's done.
