Day Care funding and ASBSU budget discussed by Senate

by Helen Christiansen

Day Care funding, stadium seating, Idaho Student Lobby expenditures and the ASBSU 75-76 budget were the major considerations of the April 22 student senate meeting.

In a 6-6 vote, the senate defeated a bill advanced by Howard Welsh, senator from the School of Health, Wellness, and Sciences. Welsh proposed that the senate allocate $10,000 from the ASBSU reserve account for the funding of nutritional services in the planned BSU Child Care Center.

According to Welsh, the $10,000 would provide lunches and snacks for the first year of operation, based on a 30-child occupancy, 15 full day and 15 drop in. He stated that the money would be a non-recurring expense, since the center anticipates an approximate $14,000 in first year revenue.

The money would be the students only financial contribution to the project, since Health, Education, and Welfare funds are presently available for Child Care Center funding, Welsh said.

During discussion, several senators raised objections to the bill. If the $10,000 was allocated to Child Care, $800 would be left in the reserve fund, and some senators felt this would not be adequate in case of emergency financial needs. Risks of over-crowding and over-burdening guarantees of continued funding were other considerations.

Senators voting "no" were Royanne Klein, senator of Arts and Sciences, Doug Gochnour and Dave Wynkoop, Business, Mary Jane Jorgensen, Business, Jim Crawford, Business and Rod Brown, Vo-Tech.

Voting "yes" were Sylvia Scribner, Education, Lyle Mosier, Education, Howard Welsh, Health Science, Lenny Hertling, Arts and Sciences, Mike Hoffman, Arts and Sciences and Scott Whipple, Senator at Large.

ASBSU Vice President Ron O'Halloran stated that the Child Care proposal can be reconsidered by the senate only if a senator who voted no brings the matter up for further discussion.

The senate then delegated to Welsh the responsibility for $200 left over from the previous senate's $300 budget for a BSU Child Care feasibility study.

Responding to student discontent over administrative negation of the stadium seating referendum, student body President Nate Kim reported to the senate that a compromise was reached during an April 11 meeting between BSU President Dr. John Barnes, Lyle Smith, and Ron Stevenson from the Athletic Department and Nate Kim, Ron O'Halloran, Ron Buchanan, Lyle Mosier, Lenny Hertling, Ron Brown and Dave Wynkoop from the ASBSU.

According to Kim, Barnes has set the location of student and student guest seats on the lower portion of the upper deck and the upper deck of the lower deck inclusive of all seats within this area ranging from goal line to goal line. Barnes and the Athletic Department also agreed to increase the total student guest tickets from a total of 2,000 to be available Monday noon to Friday noon at a cost of $1.50. All remaining guest tickets will be sold at general admission on Saturday, and seating will be in the student sections.

A total of $300,000 will be made available to students, but no full-time student will be refused admission to any home game, said Kim. The combined total of student and guest tickets, 6,400 will be made available to students at each home game. Kim also stated that these decisions can be reviewed and revised, if necessary, as to the needs of the students at the end of fiscal year 1975.

While Barnes' proposal does not provide a referendum for the ASBSU referendum, it is a $25 per cent increase over last year's student seating, and Kim stressed, "This is not a compromise proposal. We get as much as we could," he said.

O'Halloran stated that the referendum was meant only as advisory, although it was not stated as such on the ballot. "If we had gone over Barnes' head to the State Board, we may have gotten even fewer seats. I think what we got was good seating."

In another action, the senate heard Barb Bridwell, Public Relations Director for the Idaho Student Lobby, who asked that the ASBSU Senate allocate $100 to help cover the ISU $500 deficit. Bridwell stated that ISL had over-spent its $2,000 budget set aside in arts, BSU, and UI. Bridwell advised the ASBSU to sit on the contingency that $50 be withheld until such time as ISU and the UI of guarantee to pay part of the deficit was considered and rejected. Bridwell was advised to take the matter to the Finance Board.

The Finance Board's budget proposal for Public Relations, MECHA, Theatre Arts, Band, and Appointments was discussed. The proposal was considered. No final vote will be taken until budget proposals for all ASBSU boards and activities have been considered.

The senate also heard Tony Chilton, Student Relations Director, who stated that the "Bo-Bo March", Vo-Tech's annual scholarship fundraising project, sponsored by the Ram Pub as a fund raising project on campus, has only sold 200 tickets at a dollar a piece.

Since the cance cost $300 and only money raised above the cost of the cance is available for scholarships, the project had been unsuccessful.

Chilton said that he will be resigning as Public Relations Director as soon as the Personnel Selection Committee has found a replacement.

Ron Combs, Election Board Director, told the senate that the Students for Students petitions needed 1,000 signatures from ISU students and that they would like to hold the referendum election during the last week of school. The senator called the election May 14 and 15, if the needed signatures have been obtained.

In another senate action, Royanne Klein was appointed to the Faculty Senate and Doug Gochnour was confirmed as Senate Parliamentarian.

Deadline nears for Campus in Spain

BSU News Bureau
Campus in Spain officially at Boise State University issued a "last call" for enrollment as deadline for the 1975-76 Basque country study program nears.

Program Director John Beitia said the school is concerned that many students who have applied for admission to the unusual foreign campus program have not yet met the $2,000 advance deposit required for acceptance.

May 1 is the deadline for acceptance of the deposits, he said. Students will fly from Boise in September, spend the full academic year in Onate in general university studies and special Spanish country study trip.

"The problem is that we must have the $100 deposit to assure the applicant will show up for the program next fall," he explains.

Further, says Beitia, budget for the program cannot be set until a definite enrollment level is known.

After May 1, says Beitia, the program will be organized and budgeted for those who did show up for the program next fall," he explains.

For a majority of the students at BSU, parking is an emotional issue. For me it is more than that; it is an oppressive burden that has inflicted me with bitterness. It is an unfair and intolerable restriction that has left me stifled and frustrated. It is a symbol of the iniquities that abound on the BSU campus and in our society. It is a thorn in my side. Perhaps a little explanation would help clarify why I feel so intensely about parking.

Firstly, the present parking policy is at best, confusing and flagrantly unequal. Why are tickets normally levied at $2.00 for campus, and only $1.00 in the commercial area downtown? What are the zones specified strictly for faculty and staff parking, and what are the zones reserved for students? Is a faculty member ticketed when he parks in a student zone? What constitutes a violation for which a $4.00 ticket is levied? These and a myriad of other questions confronted me when I first came to BSU, and since then a number of others have cropped up. So initially, my reaction to the parking situation was one of confusion. This led to lively and literally "Fourth Judicial District Court to have a cup of coffee."

So initially, my reaction to the parking situation was one of confusion. This led to lively and literally "Fourth Judicial District Court to have a cup of coffee."

I was being punished for my beliefs and for my willingness to be manipulated or intimidated. The original reason for even being in this situation seemed so small and insignificant. The subsequent events had escalated far beyond what I had at first envisioned. As Craig Krause of the Fourth Judicial District Marshall's office put it, "You just can't fight City Hall."

It all started on February 4 when I received a $2.00 ticket for parking in the lot south of the administration building. I was not aware that it was illegal. I ignored it. After two warning letters and a number of phone calls which I considered harassment, I received a visit from the marshall's office. As the marshall and I in the living room, I climbed out a back window and escaped. I simply wasn't prepared to present my arguments to the judge, and I certainly wasn't ready to pay a $50 bond.

The next morning, Tuesday, April 22, Dan Coughran of the Photo Bureau and I appeared at the Fourth Judicial District Court to present my case. The judge, L. W. Wood was not receptive to my point of view and before I knew it, I was in my way to the Ada County Jail for charges of contempt.

At the jail I was processed just like any other criminal; mug shots, finger prints, and questioning were all done, and recorded. You might say that I got the works, but I was never abused or rebuked. The county officers were no nonsense and strict, but they were also fair. Looking back on the experience, I can say that I am glad that I stood, for what I believed was right. Perhaps if many more individuals would stand against our discriminating parking policy and voice their beliefs fervently, a change might be elicited. I think we can fight City Hall. All it would take is a concerted effort by those who oppose the present arrangement.
Senate denies $10,000 for child care services

by Helen Christensen

In a 6-6 vote the ASBSU Senate during their April 22 meeting denied a motion to approve the expenditure of $10,000 for the establishment of child care services on the BSU campus. Student body Vice President Ron O'Halloran, who has the option to vote in case of a tie, did not do so because "it would not have been fair for one person to decide such an important issue. I don't believe there is a senator on the board who does not want to see some kind of child care facility established on the BSU campus, the trouble is that they just can't work under this proposal. The motion failed because the senate didn't get the right answers to their questions," said O'Halloran.

Senator from the School of Health Sciences, Howard Welsh, stated that the $10,000 was to come out of the ASBSU reserve fund and would be spent for one year of nutritional services which would include a lunch program for 30 children and a snack program for 75. According to Welsh, the money would be a one-time, nonrecurring measure of support by the ASBSU for the first year implementation of a child care service on campus. It would be set aside in a surplus account pending the outcome of negotiations with the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare for the purpose of acquiring additional contractual funding.

Welsh has stated that he anticipates an estimated annual revenue of $14,000 minimum for each year the program is in operation. "We won't be coming back to the senate for more money, all we need is their help getting started," he said. The child care proposal would be set up as a matching funds program under which Health and Welfare would provide three dollars for every one invested by BSU, explained Welsh.

"The $10,000 for nutritional services represents the only cash outlay the ASBSU will be asked to contribute. "We are in the process of solving the money will come from already existing BSU expenditures and Health and Welfare," he said.

In a child care feasibility study, Welsh proposed that BSU and Health and Welfare cooperatively establish a five year demonstration program to develop a child care center on or near the university campus. Welsh sees the major objective of this project as the development of a quality training program for Day Care Center operators and an educational program for pre-school youngsters.

According to Welsh, the first year implementation of the Child Care Center would accommodate 30 children at a time, 15 full day and 15 drop-in, and 30 children in the evenings. Also, by using already the existing Vo-Tech facilities, there would be another 15 drop in children in the evenings.

"We are not talking about child care services for just 30 children. Student parents can schedule their classes for Mon.-Wed.-Fri. or Tues.-Thurs. During the first year of operation this program could conceivably provide services for over 100 different children," said Welsh.

"By the planned expansion of the program over the next five years we can move from a 30 occupancy facility to one that can handle 120 children at a time. We can also work towards facilitating child care for the ages of 0-5 years instead of keeping the planned 2/1s to 5-year olds program," he said.

Welsh also explained that the Child Care Care Center intends to use a sliding scale of payments based on an ability to pay program. "The average cost per occupancy would be $2.50, however a parent can pay anywhere from $4.50 for faculty use of the center to 50 cents and non-monetary contributions for those unable to pay."

Another factor to consider in the child care services is the location. Welsh had stated that there are several sites under consideration for the services. The First Christian Church was considered and rejected because, according to Welsh, the limited facilities were "too institutionalized and there was no room for any sort of playground, only an asphalt parking lot. However, once the program expands to include infants, the church's nursery would be a possible locale. Their property is directly across the street from the Vo-Tech building which could fairly easily be used as the Center. The lot contains several buildings, rights for possible offices, workshops, etc., and a large grassy yard that would make an excellent playground. The property is being purchased by BSU and it might be a possible location for the BSU Child Care Center," Welsh said.

According to Dr. David Taylor, Vice President of Student Affairs for BSU, the property would be a possible consideration for child care facilities but, "Our first obligation is to house all the new faculty. Our space situation is pretty cramped, and we cannot make a firm commitment to child care until the faculty needs are taken care of," he said.

"We are studying the proposal whereby faculty offices can be combined with child care services within the same facility," said Welsh.

Welsh has stated that the program would never get off the ground without student support and ASBSU funds. "I believe the need is there and the majority of students on this campus are aware of these needs, and support this project. We now need to convince the senate," he said.

Taylor stated, "this proposal has an excellent chance of being a successful program, assuming all parties make it work. It depends on student funds and is incumbent upon student support. Until the money is appropriated by the student senate, the proposal can't start going anywhere," he explained.

"One of the unique advantages of this program is that it benefits both the parent and the University; it is a combination of day care facility and curriculum program," Taylor said.

Welsh explained that the proposed child care program is not a baby sitting service. "It can provide a day care program for both the child and the university student. Undergraduate and graduate students who are in programs which directly or indirectly relate to, day care and day care training, nursing programs, teaching aids, psychology and social work, all of them could conceivably be implemented into this program," he said.

Dave Wynkoop, senator from the School of Business, states that he has four primary objections to the child care proposal. "In the first place, there is no guarantee of continued Health and Welfare funding. Government programs and appropriations are so changeable that after one year of operation, child care could lose its financial support and might come back to the senate for more money. By funding them now, we run the risk of getting a precedent whereby they might return to us for financial support. If we didn't help them out then, we would have wasted the first $10,000 for a supposedly expanding program that failed after the first year," he said.

"Secondly, what about the risk of over-support from the students? If too many want to use the center, whose children do you turn away and who do you accept? With only a 30 at a time occupancy, the chances are high that some student's child is going to get turned away, and then we're going to have angry parents down here complaining that their money was used to pay for a service that they can't participate in. There is also a great potential we abuse a part of this service, people wanting to put their child in all day, five days a week. What kind of limitations are there going to be and who is going to make those decisions?"

"Funding is my third concern. If we appropriate $10,000 for child care, we are left with only $680 in our [as indicated on page 7]."

LYLE MOSIER, School of Education--"...nothing else would be more of a student service, and our money would be well spent in this area."

Subal production lauded

by Mike Riddlemoser

The BSU Theatre Arts Department presents its annual spring production this season with the play titled "Dracula," directed by Dr. Charles Daniel Peterson. The play, based on Bram Stoker's classic novel of the same name, opens on April 28 at 8:15 p.m. in the SUB Auditorium.

The opening night of "Dracula" promises to be a night of terror and suspense, with an eerie atmosphere created by the set design, costume, and lighting. The cast, under the guidance of Dr. Peterson, is composed of seasoned actors, including a mix of upperclassmen and lowerclassmen.

The plot follows the story of a young Londoner, Jonathan Harker, who travels to Transylvania to meet with Count Dracula, a mysterious figure who has recently been appointed as the new vicar of the village of Bronte. As Harker arrives at Dracula's castle, he encounters a series of strange occurrences, including the mysterious death of his landlady, Lucy Westenra, and the strange behavior of the locals.

The production is expected to be a thrilling and spine-chilling experience, with special effects and makeup designed to create a sense of terror and suspense. The audience is advised to arrive early to secure their seats and prepare for an evening of terror and suspense.

Percussion Ensemble presents concert

The BSU Percussion Ensemble and Keyboard Percussion Ensemble, under the direction of Dr. John Baldwin, will present their spring concert on Tuesday evening, April 28, at 8:15 p.m. in the SUB Auditorium. The concert will feature a variety of percussion works, including solo performances and ensemble pieces.

The concert will open with an arrangement of Vivaldi's "Winter Concerto" for string orchestra. Following this, the ensemble will perform "The Sounds of America," a piece composed by Dr. Baldwin. The performance will feature the full ensemble, with members playing various percussion instruments, including drums, cymbals, and glockenspiel.

The concert will conclude with a performance of "God of Love," a work composed by Dr. Baldwin. The performance will feature the ensemble playing together, with a sense of unity and coordination.

Student works now being shown in gallery

From April 21 until May 9, people interested in the art works of BSU students will have the chance to view them during the ongoing Student Art Show exhibit in the gallery of the Liberal Arts building. The art works are presented in the main gallery as the Best of Student Show. Other exhibits representing many art techniques line the halls of the Liberal Arts building for all to see and enjoy.

Philharmonic tickets on sale

Season tickets for the Boise Philharmonic Orchestra's "75-76 season are now on sale. The season opens on October 7, 1975, with guest violinist Sidney Harth performing Beethoven's Violin Concerto. Senator Frank Church will narrate Aaron Copland's Lincoln Portrait on December 2. The Philharmonic presents William Schalk in a performance of Gordon Jacob's Bassoon Concerto on February 3, 1976. JoAnn Oates, soprano, and Neil Wilson, baritone, will be joined by the Boise Master Chorale in a performance of the Brahms German Requiem on March 9, 1976. In the final performance of the season, Against Anieves performs Rachmaninoff's piano Concerto No. 3 on April 13, 1976.

In addition to the five series subscriptions, season ticket holders are offered special rates for the Season 21 orchestra benefit performance of Handel's Messiah at St. John's Cathedral. All regular concerts are on Tuesday evenings at 8:15 p.m. in the Capital High School Auditorium. Season tickets, priced at $20, $15, and $10, are available at the Boise Philharmonic office, 1020 W. Franklin, Boise, Idaho 83702.
Piano work premiers April 28

Students of Professor Carroll Meyer, Madeleine Hau, and Sara Blood, will premier a new piano work by Professor C. Griffith Bratt, on Monday, April 28, at 8:15 p.m. in the BSU Music Auditorium.

Professor Bratt, composer-in-residence since 1957, wrote the new work during his 1973-74 sabbatical leave. The composition is case in eight parts, containing three related pieces. They range in length-from less than one page to six pages, in a style from folksong settings to toccatas and fugues; and range in mood from humorous to serious. An addenda to the set of 24 pieces is Prelude and Fugue on the BSU Fight Song. This will be the first Boise premier of a work of Mr. Bratt's event, received several years ago in Caldwell.

Library plans extended hours

The BSU Library will have pre-finals extended study hours on Sunday, May 4 and Sunday, May 11. The Sunday hours will be 10:00 a.m. to 10:00 p.m.

The final concert in the BSU Student Ensemble Series will be presented by the Meistersingers and the Wind Ensemble on Sunday evening, May 4, at 8:15 p.m., in the Music Auditorium.

The five selections being performed by the Meistersingers will be The Road Not Tack, Come Into, The Telephone, Stopping by Work and The Rake's Progress. By choosing Something Like a Star. by John H. Best with the Boise Gleebein and College Choir; the opera, A Season For Swallows; and a number of choral works premiered by the Boise Choristers. The opera, A Season For Swallows, written about an Idaho historical episode, is performed by the Boise Symphony.

McCollouch wins at Firebird

by Bob Brickwell

A dream came true for Ed McCulloch last Sunday at Firebird Raceway as he finally sped past his old foe, Don "The Snake" Prudhomme in a shut down. McCulloch raced down the quarter mile with a 6.82 second elapsed time, and 146 miles per hour. Prudhomme's time was 7.42 and 148.71. Earlier in the day Jerry Ruth of Seattle defeated Tom McEwen. Ruth's elapsed time was 6.87 at 222 miles per hour.

The two losers in the preliminary runs, McEwen and Prudhomme were scheduled for a consolation run, but Prudhomme damaged his engine in the first heat therefore preventing him from making the run. In order to let McEwen race anyway local powder puff racer Linda Brooks challenged him to the run. Surprisingly, Brooks won the heat. However, she had almost a 7 second head start and was half way down the track before McEwen even left the starting line. Another high point of the afternoon was Richard Schroeder and his candy apple red wheel stander, the Bad Bossa Nova. Schroeder went the entire length of the track on his rear wheels.

Other winners of the day included Linda Brooks in powder puff and Richard Van Papergan in midget.

Wilcox to appear at alumni game

Dave Wilcox, all pro linebacker for the San Francisco 49ers, and former Boise State football player, will be the head coach for the Boise State alumni football team at the Alumni Game May 3 in the Bronco Stadium. The game will start at 5:00 p.m.

The game, which raises funds for the BSU Alumni Association, will feature the 1975 Broncos under head coach Tony Knap against former Broncos players.

He attended Boise Junior College where he was an All-American and then finished his collegiate career at Oregon. Wilcox played in the Hula Bowl, Coaches All American Game and the College All Star game.

Prior to the 1964 season he was selected by the 49ers as their third round draft choice. Wilcox has played in seven Pro Bowl games and in 1973 was selected All-Pro for the fifth time.

"We are very pleased that Dave will be the head coach of the alumni for this game," commented BSU Alumni Director Dyke Nally.

Alumni tickets are available at McU Sports, Riley's Store for Men, the BSU Varsity Center and the BSU Alumni Office.

Lettermen's Banquet

John Brodie, All-Pro quarterback from the San Francisco 49ers will be the featured speaker at the BSU Lettermen's Banquet Wednesday, May 7, at 7:30 p.m. in the Rodway Inn.

Tickets, $7.50 each, are on sale at the Varsity Center.

Tickets for this year's Alumni Games are available at McU Sports, Riley's Store for Men, the BSU Varsity Center and the BSU Alumni Office.
