Attacks Nixon, Ford

Church formally announces candidacy

By Barb Bridwell

Standing on the same spot where his father-in-law announced his candidacy for Governor in 1940, Idaho's senior Senator Frank Church formally declared his candidacy for the U.S. Presidency last Thursday before a crowd of over 2,000 in Idaho City.

During his half-hour speech, interrupted several times by applause, Church said his first priority was the restoration of the Federal Government to legitimacy in the eyes of the people. He said that no one, "no matter how highly placed in government, has the right to break the law, to open our mail, to photograph our cables, to spread false propaganda for the purpose of discrediting decent citizens in their own communities; to open tax investigations against persons not even suspected of tax delinquency but targeted for political harassment, instead."

Church attacked the Ford and Nixon administrations, saying "our tragedy in recent years springs from a leadership principally motivated by fear, from men of little faith. It is leadership of weakness and fear that grants a full pardon to a former President for whatever crimes he committed in the White House, but looks the other way while his subordinates stand trial."

The principle difference between himself and President Ford, Church said, is that Ford is concerned about the exposure of such crimes, "while I am concerned about their commission."

Church said the United States must strive for better, not bigger government. He said there is no excuse for citizens having to wait months for the government to determine their eligibility for a governmental service. "Decisions delayed are decisions denied, and the people have a right to demand timely and efficient response from those they pay to serve them."

He said this problem stems not from refusal of Federal employees to do their best, but from a system grown too remote and complex. "Today there are more than a thousand grant-in-aid programs, run from Washington. Together they account for more than $50 billion in annual expenditures."

Church said many of these programs do not fit into the localities they are intended to serve.

Under his administration, Church said, the Treasury doors would not be thrown open to handouts for large corporations in financial distress. "There is no justice in catering to the rich at the expense of the poor," Church stated.

In a like manner Church said, he would stop stimulating the movement of American Capital to foreign lands. "During the past two decades, American multi-national corporations have invested $200 billion abroad, in the most modern manufacturing plants that American technology can design." In the process older plants in our country have been displaced, at an annual average loss of 150,000 jobs a year, "he said. "It is no accident that the United States is presently victimized by unemployment twice as high as any other industrial nation," Church stated.

As a member of the Interior

Committee, Church said he has learned the importance of conserving air, water and land. He said there is a need for a crash energy program "if we are to grow less dependent on foreign sources for our vital fuel

Special Events Center opens with speeches, musical fantasy

On Wednesday, March 10, 1976 BSU's newest facility had its official opening. The new Special Events Center opened with the Theatre Arts/Music Department's production of Harvey Schmidt and Tom Jones musical fantasy Celebration.

Prior to the production Dr. John Barnes, BSU President, delivered the dedication speech where he termed the building the only "true" theatre facility in the state. "This building will be the home for many years to come for films, lectures, concerts and theatre presentations," said Barnes.

The ribbon cutting ceremonies were handled by the Chairperson of the Student Union Programs Board Robert Hoppie and the ASB President Nate Kim. Chairperson Hoppie stated that for many years we have had theatrical excellence at the Subal Theatre, but now we could achieve theatrical elegance at the Special Events Center.

The opening ceremonies were emceed by Special Events Center Student Manager John Elliott who stated that the infant facility had now been given its proper birth, baptized and its umbilical cord cut. Elliott also stated that the Center would not be open for general public tours until later in the year. "We feel that the Center is too valuable to leave open for all concerned parties to just come in and roam around. There is, after all, over $80,000 tied up in equipment."

Elliott went on to say that the building would be governed by the same policies more or less set down by the Student Union Board of Governors and that the facility would always be open to students of this university for their events.

The next production set for the Center is the Miss BSU Pageant on March 30.

BSU's newest building, the Special Events Center, opened to a capacity crowd with a production of "Celebration" March 10. The next production is the Miss BSU Pageant which is set for late March.

BSU receives permit for FM station

by Dave Outsen

On March 8, 1976, the Federal Communication Commission (FCC), granted permission for BSU to begin work on a class D non-commercial educational FM station. The application was submitted in May of 1975. The construction permit allows BSU one year to have the radio station in production.

The BSU radio station will have its studios located in the Communications Department building on College Blvd. There will be two studios, a broadcast and a production studio. The antenna will be located on the roof of the Student Union Building. The station will broadcast at 10 watts, and is expected to cover most of Boise city. According to Gary McCabe, chairman of the BSU Broadcast Board, the station should begin broadcasting in the fall of 1976. The call letters

KBSU have been applied for, but there has been no answer from the FCC.

The funding for the station was supplied by the ASBSU. The station has approximately $15,000 with which to purchase equipment. Most of that money will be used to buy equipment for the broadcast studio. "It will depend on the cost of the equipment, of course, but we hope to broadcast in stereo," McCabe said. The Communication Department has used equipment that will be used to outfit the production studio.

The station will be governed by the BSU Broadcast Board. This board, comprised of students and faculty, will control policies and programming for the station. The actual day to day operations of the station will be in the hands of a station manager, who will be

A legal kind of blackmail

The Idaho Legislature has chipped away still another citizen freedom; that of the right to see and experience what kinds of entertainment you wish. This particular form of blackmail came in the form of a bill to outlaw "obscene and pornographic" entertainment in establishments requiring liquor licenses.

In reality what the bill does is threaten bar owners with the loss of their license if they encourage or even permit one person to "touch, caress, or fondle the breast, buttocks or genitals of any other person." The bill makes no exceptions. If stringently enforced, this law could force any establishment with a liquor license, including those featuring dancing, to close if someone's hands stray.

This bill came as a result from a push by Governor Cecil Andrus, who wished to eliminate what he termed obscene entertainment at a night club near Post Falls, Idaho. The question is, why pass such a far reaching law with seemingly little debate on the actual merits of the bill, to stop entertainment at one bar? This bill makes police out of bar owners who must keep tabs on their clientele when those patrons are disturbing no one.

One of the first priorities of the next session should be to amend this legislated morality or stores retailing beer may find themselves closed if they don't watch what shoppers are doing with their hands and eyes. It is possible, this poorly written bill makes no distinction. If this bill cannot be amended or done away with, perhaps the holder of a liquor license will test it's constitutionality. It's time a small group of people stopped determining the morals of another.

Make your mark with a Tootsie Roll

By Jack Bryson

It was good to have a week off of school because it gave me the opportunity to set back and think about life, or rather how it's been passing me by. Do you realize I am in college and no one has ever heard of me. I haven't made my mark in life. I have been living in Boise for years and the city is still sending letters to "Dear Occupant, our records indicate you are a resident of..."

Take for instance Olga Korbut; she is still a teenager and already she is an internationally known celebrity, and by just her first name, or Mark Spitz, or Donnie Osmond or many other people who have made their marks in the world. Not me, I got a letter from my mother last week and it was addressed to "Dear Occupant", our records indicate you are a resident of..."

One of the best ways to leave your mark in life is to write one of the heavy philosophical sayings like you have read on a poster in someone's bathroom--something like "Your life has two big moments; your birth and your death; all the rest is just filler." Or better yet, "if your parents had taken birth control pills, you wouldn't have to." Heavy stuff, huh?

From now on you are going to be hearing from a changed person who is destined to make his mark on the world, be it with a crayon, tootsie roll, or whatever. I can come up with those heavy thoughts. How about: Few people have a weight problem until after they are born; short people are just like tall people, only shorter; one great thing about being ugly is that you never have to worry about losing your beauty. Those are just starters; how about: You can lead a horse to water, but keep in mind what a wet horse smells like; one man's pollution is another man's breath; there are two ways to spread the light-one is to be the candle, the other is to have an Eveready.

Those words of wisdom are enough to start, but to successfully make my mark I must create theories. The theories I am referring to use science for a basis and expand it with rational human logic. Of course, most great theories are rejected at first and I'm sure mine will be no exception.

One such scientific fact is that almost everything expands when it gets hot and contracts when it cools. The warmer it is the more it expands, the cooler it is the more it contracts. Using rational logic with this scientific fact of contraction, we can quickly understand how on a cold winter morning the clock tower above the administration building will be as much as a foot shorter than it is on a hot summer day; or how the sidewalk, on this same cold morning, between the Science building and the SUB will be reduced by contraction by a couple of feet. Using logic, we can easily understand that a person walking this distance will not notice how much shorter the distance is because everything is contracted. Therefore a person who is 6'4" will, on a cold day, be only 6'2" tall. But that is easy to understand. If I am ever going to make my mark in this world then I will have to come up with something better than that.

Science has long been trying to establish what is alive and what is not alive. Using elaborate methods to categorize, science has to some extent, proven that things that reproduce are alive-but are they? Using rational logic it can first be established that in order to be alive something must realize it exists. At some point in its life it must consciously conclude that it is alive. Take for example a spider. A spider has no rational thoughts, it cannot realize that it is alive. A spider can only react by instinct, not by rational thought. We know we're alive, but a spider walking across a floor doesn't know it's alive. If we step on this spider and squash it, have we killed anything? No. The reason we didn't kill anything is because the spider never knew it was alive; logic follows that if the spider never knew it was alive, how could it possibly know it is dead.

In the science world there are basically two types of lenses. One is concave, narrow in the middle and thicker on the edges, the other is convex which is narrow on the edges and thick in the middle. People who wear glasses have their vision corrected by one or the other of these two types of lenses. These lenses bend the light in exactly the opposite ways. Concave lenses reduce the light, whereas convex lenses increase or intensify the light. It is easy to keep these straight; a magnifying glass is a convex lens. Most people as a child have taken a magnifying glass and held it in the sun so as to intensify its rays and start a fire. Using rational logic and the knowledge that a concave lens does exactly the opposite of a magnifying (convex) lens we could start a fire with a magnifying lens and put out that same fire with a concave lens. That is sound logic, but of what value is this knowledge if it isn't put into productive use. My idea then is to install huge concave lenses on helicopters and fly over forest fires and put out the fires.

Of course, you must realize that I am new at this and am just getting warmed up. In a few years I should be rolling. And after reading this there should be no doubt in your mind about what kind of mark I am going to make in this world.

Roundballers garner praise

Editor, the ARBITER

My wife and I had the pleasure of attending the Conference play-off game last Friday between BSU and ISU in Ogden, Utah. I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate the Bronco basketball team for an excellent and exciting victory. The sportsmanship and efforts of the players and coaches was very complementary to this school. Although we did not attend the Saturday game, I can appreciate the caliber of ball-playing necessary to defeat

Weber State in their home gymnasium.

I was prompted to make these comments after reading the ARBITER's coverage of the event by John Steppe. His travels in and about Ogden may have excited some readers of this paper, however, I feel that most people expect some news about the game from the sports writer.

The performances of Pat Hoke and Steve Connors were commendable, however, the Big Sky trophy was a team accomplishment. The Broncos won because they played together and utilized all of their resources. Coach Connors has good depth on a bench that aided tremendously. Regardless of what happens in Las Vegas, I join many others in thanking the team for a fine basketball season. We can be proud of a title that was well earned and well deserved.

Gochnour says No to day care

Editor, the ARBITER

For the past year the ASB Senate has been plagued with the idea of spending student money for the establishment of a Day Care Center on the BSU campus. I have three major arguments against spending student money.

(1) Last years' proposal was a request for $10,000 which, with matching funds, would allow for a maximum occupancy at any one time of only 30 children.

(2) I am not in favor of spending ASB funds for anything that is not open to all students. We non-parents will gain nothing from our monies. Only a special group will benefit and this seems unfair to the rest of us. I can't think of any other ASB funded project that is not open to all students, not just a special interest group.

(3) I was raised with the idea that when one starts a family, that family is their responsibility.

I was not involved in making those kids so I don't feel I should be paying for their babysitting.

For these reasons I hope all students will think deeply of better ways to spend ASB funds and will vote NO on the Day Care opinion poll during the general elections next week.

Political check-off urged

Editor, the ARBITER

You can help make sure the system represents everyone—not just the big campaign contributor.

Any student who pays Idaho income tax can designate one dollar of their taxes to go to the political party of their choice. Or, if you're filing a joint return, you can designate two dollars.

Obviously, I would hope you designate the party of "the new realism," the Republican. But whoever you designate (and you are given the choice of designating neither party), be sure to check off the appropriate box on your state income tax form.

In addition, remember to check off the appropriate box on your federal income tax form—although the federal money is split up according to the last election results, rather than any designation.

Senator's credit load questioned

The question of whether or not a Senator carrying six credits is considered full-time and eligible to run for an ASB office was the issue at the March 11 meeting of the Judiciary.

In a letter to the ASBSU Election Board, Barbara Hood and several other students pointed out that Arts and Sciences Senator Lenny Hertling had recently dropped to six semester hours and was, in their opinion, no longer eligible for ASB office.

Ann Hansen, Co-Chairperson of the Election Board, referred the matter to the Judiciary, quoting section 703.6 of the State Board of Education policy, which allows ASB Senators to carry a minimum of six hours and remain full-time. It was their opinion that Hertling was still on the ballot.

After lengthy deliberation, Chief Justice John Flewelling announced that the court upheld the Election Board decision, unanimously.

The court also referred the Social Worker's Club Constitution, to the Senate for approval.

BSU student to participate in National Student Symposium

Boise State President John Barnes has selected Claudia M. Swanson, a senior elementary education major, as BSU's first participant in the annual "National Student Symposium".

BSU was one of 400 schools selected to participate this year by the program sponsor, "Center for the Study of the Presidency".

The meet, to be held April 23-25 in Arlington, Virginia, is titled "A Bicentennial Symposium on American Institutions".

Claudia is very excited about the trip to Arlington. "I've never been to the east coast before", she says, "and the Bicentennial year is a great time to study American institutions. I just wish more students from BSU could get the opportunity for a trip like this, because I think it will be a good learning experience.

"I know it will broaden my own background and experience a lot, and this will be especially good when I begin teaching. For example, government is one of the things you really have to know to teach at that age level. I'm also really looking forward to being able to inter-act with the other college students from across the country, and comparing our experiences."

Dr. Mech, coordinating the program as director of BSU's honors program, agrees that the symposium, like BSU's Smithsonian Internships, "represents one of the finest educational opportunities available anywhere."

"This is an opportunity for any student," he emphasizes, "but especially for those from remote parts of the country like Idaho. They'll have a chance to see and hear directly some of the country's most important leaders, which is a first-hand opportunity that very very few people have. It's a way to bring the country to us, and us to the country."

The symposium speakers Mech refers to will include leaders from all three branches of the federal government, as well as leading media people and students of the presidency.

For example, Chief Justice Warren Burger and Attorney General Edward H. Levi will represent the judiciary.

Executive leaders will include Vice-President Nelson Rockefeller, Commerce Secretary Elliot Richardson, HEW Secretary F. David Mathew, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff George S. Brown, and former Defense Secretaries Clark Clifford and Melvin Laird.

US Senators Bill Brock, John Glenn, Mark Hatfield, and Hubert Humphrey will represent the legislative branch for the symposium.

The Center for the Study of the Presidency, founded in 1965, is an educational non-profit corporation based in New York. It publishes the Center House Bulletin and the Presidential Studies Quarterly.

SUPB receives additional funding

by Jim O'Malley

The ASBSU Senate, in an emergency meeting March 12, approved a motion to fund the Student Union Programs Board (SUPB) an additional $6614. The special session was called before spring break to prevent the cancellation of a number of activities planned for late March and early April.

Royanne Klein from Arts and Sciences moved to allocate the funds. In the ensuing debate, Business Senator Dave Wynkoop asked for more accountability from the SUPB, particularly from the Pop Films committee. Senator Klein commented that if anyone's hands should be slapped, it should be the Senate's.

"If we were aware of Senators in the first place, when we walked in here, we would have known that this problem was going to come up again this year, because we've done absolutely nothing to revise the SUPB to alleviate their problems," Klein stated.

SUPB Publicity Chairperson John Elliott cited "internal ignorance of our own problems" and called for a complete restructuring of the board.

After the allocation was approved by a 6-2 roll call vote, Health Sciences Senator Howard Welsh made a motion to require ASBSU Senate authorization for all expenditures and reporting of "any incident of overpayment or shortfall." The motion died for lack of a second.

Senate Report

Programs Board funds almost exhausted

The Senate was informed March 9 that the Student Union Programs Board had just about run out of money. Projected expenses for the rest of the year are $10,966; currently there is $548 in the SUPB account. The Senate was informed by Treasurer Ron Buchanan that in order for the remaining year's scheduled programs to take place, $9,818 would have to be allocated. "If the money is not allocated, the programs board cannot put these events on," he said.

Dave Wynkoop brought up a resolution asking for the censure of the SUPB and its charimen for their "fiscal irresponsibility" and demanding that all financial activities of the board cease. "Apparently this is an annual event," noted Wynkoop, "some people wanted more of the pie than the Senate determined."

Bob Hoppie SUPB Chairperson said that approximately $9818, about as much as was needed to finish out the year, had been lost on concerts. He said that if the Senate wished he would come up and have his hands slapped.

Howard Welsh, observing "slipshod management," said "they had practically absolute discretion of what they could do with their budget." Lenny Hertling disagreed saying, "I think we'll find we had a good Programs Board."

Nate Kim, ASB President, said replying to Welsh, that "you have to know what's in the background. Revenues go back to their own programming. It's not a mismanagement of funds." Bob Hoppie and Scott Whipple asked for a business manager to conduct the Board's financial affairs.

"Do we allow the Programs Board to go in the hole year after year?" asked Wynkoop. Lenny Hertling observed, "It's like New York City; are we going to continue funding or not?" Wynkoop replied, "New York City hasn't been bailed out of the hole three times in the last three years."

Wynkoop's motion to censure the board and stop activities failed.

A motion to fund the Buckminster Fuller lecture and the Three Musketeers movie at a cost of $3,404, passed.

Howard Welsh brought up a bill which would put an opinion on the next election ballot. The opinion poll would ask students that since $18 of their registration fee goes toward the Athletic Department, would they like to be able to control how that money is spent. Welsh wanted to include a fifty per cent representation on the Athletic Board of Control until he was told that the one student allowed on the Board is invited, and that the Board is part of the official University, not the ASBSU. Welsh, quoting Ron Stephenson, a member of the Board, said that the Board is a "rubber stamp body."

Jim Crawford referred to the recent Idaho State University student poll where students overwhelmingly voted to have an accounting of where their funds were being spent in the Athletic department. The vote was to enable access of the students to the policy, and not to usurp it. Wynkoop agreed, "Dictate to them our wishes, not usurp."

The Senate voted to include the question on the next ballot.

In order to bring pertinent issues before the administration, Lyle Mosier and Welsh asked the Senate's consideration for the formation of a Health Sciences steering committee.

Referring to the Student Senate, Welsh said that the body "never has and never will" represent the Health Sciences before the administration. "You guys are out of your brains," he said, if they were to deal with small matters better handled by the committee.

John Elliott, SUPB Publicity Chairman, said that a similar committee in the Theatre Arts Department "doesn't work any more efficiently than this (the Senate)."

Mike Hoffman said that as the Health Science Representative, this duty was Welsh's.

The motion to accept the Health Sciences Constitution passed.

Nate Kim referred to a request of Dr. Guy Hunt, Office of Admission and Records, that eleven Medical Technology students be allowed to participate in ASBSU activities. The students, who pay a one dollar fee per credit hour, are considered full-time. They would receive full privileges except for medical insurance, and medical center visits, of which they are already covered.

The new status would allow them to get financial aids, library privileges, and others which require full time standing. The motion to allow full time status passed.

The Inter-Faith Council Constitution passed the Senate. Ron O'Halloran mentioned that a new procedure would be employed asking groups requesting Senate attention submit enough copies for both the Judiciary and the Senate. If they want the copies back they would be returned.

A CAREER AFTER COLLEGE...

Young people are faced with many decisions, not the least of which is the choice of a career after college.

It should be one in which you will find satisfaction-not just for the money it brings, but for the opportunities for accomplishment it represents. Ideally, it's a career in which your spouse can be much more than an onlooker.

Don't overlook one important career that offers all this-financial reward in direct proportion to ability and a sense of achievement in a worthwhile undertaking.

It's a career that provides liberal compensation and benefits-even while you're learning. It's a career in which qualified young people are outstandingly successful.

National Student Lobby to hold conference

Washington, D.C.-- For the fifth consecutive year, students from around the country will lobby members of Congress during the National Student Lobby's (NSL) annual Lobbying Conference to be held April 2-6 in Washington, DC.

Students will spend two days on Capitol Hill conferring with members of Congress and their staffs on economic and educational issues affecting students. Of significant concern is the issue of financial aid appropriations.

The Lobbying Conference comes at a crucial time because the Congress is presently considering a supplemental appropriations bill that could add as much as $792 million to the Basic Educational Opportunity Grants program for the coming school year. NSL is calling for a strong student turnout in order to demonstrate to Congress widespread concern about the need for the Basic Grants supplemental funds.

"Congress is constantly hearing from the lobbyists working in Washington, including the Student Lobby," remarked NSL Co-Director Steve Pressman. "The lobbying impact is greatest when the constituents speak on their own behalf. Students are their own best spokespersons."

supplies." But, Church said, "No program will be sufficient unless we begin to discipline ourselves. We must curb our habits of waste."

When it comes to dealing with foreign governments such as China and Russia, the Presidency is no place for "on the job training," Church stated. "I learned that in the conduct of our relations abroad, there is little that is foreign in our policy. Every decision a President makes sends ripples or waves back across America."

The mistakes in foreign policy during the past decades, Church said, have had more to do with spreading divisiveness at home, with spawning a generation of cynicism and resentment than any other Presidential decision on domestic affairs.

As President, Church said he would strive to keep the United States sufficiently strong. "The safety of our people will be assured against any foreign threat and our vital interests in other parts of the world will be adequately protected," he stated.

The United States cannot successfully serve as trustee for the broken empires of Europe, Church stated. "The foreign policy of this country must be wrested from the hands of that fraternity of compulsive interventionists who have involved us in too many futile, foreign wars."

In the rational pursuit of improved relations with any adversary, Church said he would observe one cardinal standard, "that we get in return fully as much as we give."

Idaho Governor Cecil Andrus introduced Church saying that this is "One of the greatest chapters in our state's history. It is very fitting that this place (Idaho City) is chosen to make this announcement to you and the world."

Jon Vestal resigns post

Jon Vestal, BSU Director of Housing, during the past six years, has resigned that post, effective this month, to enter private business with a Boise law firm, the university announced March 4.

Coinciding with Vestal's resignation will be a shift of supervision responsibility for the school's housing operation from the office of Financial Affairs to the office of Student Affairs, according to Student Affairs Vice President David Taylor.

Dr. Taylor said a "change in staff will result in a minor reorganization of placing all management and assignment responsibilities of residential facilities under the total program of Student Residential Life."

Under Dr. Taylor as Director of Student Residential Life is Mrs. Sue Mitchell, who will thus assume major responsibilities for the housing operation at BSU. She will work with the housing agencies, needs in advising, counseling, programming, and management, explained Dr. Taylor.

Of Vestal's departure from a post in which he supervised the period of major growth and construction development in BSU student housing, Dr. Taylor said, "Mr. Vestal leaves behind many student and staff friendships... a part of his approach of maintaining close relationships with all occupants of university residential facilities."

Lawmakers say hands off

by Barb Bridwell

Following an afternoon filled with parliamentary maneuvering, the Idaho House of Representatives passed 44-25 last Friday, a bill designed to outlaw obscene and pornographic entertainment in establishments retailing beer.

A large part of the debate centered on whether the actual bill, which included a section describing the various erotic actions and dress to be prohibited, should be read. This problem stemmed from a gallery filled with young people, considered by the representatives, to be too innocent to hear the bill in its entirety.

Among the prohibited actions described in the bill are "Any acts or simulated acts of sexual intercourse, masturbation, sodomy, bestiality, oral copulation, flagellation or any sexual acts which are prohibited by law." Also prohibited is "Any person being touched, caressed or fondled on the breast, buttocks, anus or genitals." If any such actions occur, the establishment may lose its liquor license.

Representative Robert Hosack (D-Moscow) said he had difficulty seeing why, "as adults, the representatives are so squeamish." He said he was amazed that people opposed to obscenity should have any objections to reading a bill to outlaw it."

Butch Otter (R-Caldwell), attacked the representatives for their "Incessant haste to pass laws against the private lives of people. I'm not squeamish about listening to something we may make illegal," Otter stated. He said he hoped the House would vote against it.

Otter further stated that "It is wrong for the state to assume the position that it can or has the right to control the people's morals." Otter also objected against the section of the bill prohibiting any person to touch the breast or buttocks of another person.

Another representative opposing the bill was Peggy Bunting (R-Boise), who called the bill hard-core pornography. Bud Lewis (R-St. Maries), opposed the bill because it was discriminatory and would not stop such entertainment.

Governor Cecil Andrus is not expected to veto the measure because earlier in the Legislative session, in his State of the State address, Andrus had urged the adoption of a bill to deny liquor and beer licenses to establishments offering obscene entertainment.

A gesture as innocent as this could have serious implications for bar owners; the bar could be closed under Idaho's new obscenity law.

Solons battle over tenant-landlord, final vote fails 51 nay, 17 aye

The hard fought battle for an owner-resident code is over—at least for this Legislative session. House Bill 368, a codification of laws applying to tenants and landlords, failed miserably in the House of Representatives 17-51. Last year a similar bill fell short 34-35.

The bill specified such items as limitations on rental agreements and practices, resident and owner obligations, owner and resident remedies for violations, prohibited provisions in rental agreements, required owners to maintain a fit premises, provided for security deposits and set a limitation on owners liability.

Landlord organizations opposed the codification saying it heavily favored tenants. House Bill 531, a similar bill but which landlords viewed more favorably, was held up in committee, and is not expected to be out this session.

Representative Ralph Gines (R-Canyon County), said his objections to the bill were that it didn't apply to government subsidized housing, it complicated what constituted a legal contract between owners and residents and that it excluded state property. He said it didn't repeal any current laws, just added to them. "It isn't doing anything to take care of the problems existing under the current law," Gines said.

Representative Dan Emery (D-Boise) said that the bill dehumanized his right to rent property. He said HB 368 would prevent him from allowing a tenant to live on his property while he was temporarily unable to pay rent.

Dorothy McCann (D-Wallace), told the representatives the bill would prevent incidences of illegal entry by landlords, and tenants living in unsafe dwellings.

The bill, which would have become law in July, was amended twice to improve its chances of passage.

Tutorial assistance receives new work - study funds

New work-study funds have been made available for tutorial assistance, according to Margarita Mendoza de Sugiyama, assistant dean for Student Advisory & Special Services.

In the past, she says, tutorial services were provided only on "a very limited basis". Now, Career & Financial Services has increased the allotment available for student hiring.

She lists the requirements which must be fulfilled by BSU students wishing to tutor in the expanded program. "The first requirement", she says, "is that the student complete an ACT form with Career & Financial Services. Then, a counseling session will determine the number of hours the student is eligible to work. After that procedure, students go to the department they wish to tutor in for consent of the department chairman, who will help determine which specific courses a student is qualified to tutor."

The advisory program, started in 1972, now lists 36 certified tutors. Nine of those students are assigned permanently to the Learning Center to assist in math and chemistry. That emphasis, she says, is due to the volume of requests for help in those two areas.

She advises that, when students request help through their office for department areas not assigned specific tutors, the office will contact instructors or the department chairman to try and find students able to tutor in that area.

She also emphasizes that the success of the Tutorial & Referral Service depends mainly on cooperation between their office and faculty members, who can refer both students needing extra help and those whose course work could qualify them as potential tutors.

Students interested either in tutorial assistance in any course, or work-study employment as tutors, are requested to contact Student Advisory & Special Services, room 114 of the Administration building, or call 385-1583.

BSU HEALTH CENTER ANSWERS MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Q. What contributes to anxiety or "nerves"?

A. Anxiety or "nerves", tension and depression are common for everyone. You may be confronted by problems with school or work, financial worries, or interpersonal problems with your family, spouse, teachers or friends of either sex.

All of us use defense mechanisms (conscious and unconsciously) to reduce internal conflict, but these may not always be adequate to cope with the problems. Anxiety or depression may decrease performance, making problems even harder to deal with.

In sight and self-help are always important but sometimes help from others may be necessary. Both the Student Health Center and the Counseling Center are available for support.

Q. How good are "nerve pills"?

A. Pills for anxiety are rarely the answer. Unfortunately, there is no medication that eliminates anxiety easily. Drowsiness is a common side effect and is especially disturbing to students. Dependence is another concern. Valium, librium and barbituates, for example, resemble alcohol in their effect on the brain. They may calm most people briefly but when used longer become less effective and often cause or worsen depression.

Medications for severe depression and schizophrenia are different and much more effective but take days or weeks to work. They too have unpleasant side effects. Nevertheless, they have enabled many people to return to functioning well at home and work. Dependence or addiction are not problems with these drugs, probably because they do not produce the pleasant feeling that the "anti-anxiety" drugs produce.

Q. What else worsens anxiety or "nerves"?

A. Coffee and cigarettes are stimulants and increase anxiety, and their use may worsen the problem. Some people falsely believe that cigarettes have a "calming" effect because abstinence from smoking also produces anxiety and jitteriness and returning to cigarettes relieves these "withdrawal" symptoms.

We're looking for one political activist on this campus.

That's right—just one individual committed to liberty should be reading this ad. Could it be you?

We're the Young Libertarian Alliance—the college affiliates of the rapidly-growing national Libertarian Party. We're organizing YLA chapters on every major campus, and we need a coordinator right here.

Are you qualified for the job? The YLA coordinator must be someone who's dedicated to achieving a free society through political action. He—or she—will be responsible for establishing a YLA chapter, organizing meetings, rallies and demonstrations, and publicizing libertarianism.

The Libertarian Party, though less than five years old, is now organized in all 50 states. Our platform calls for a strict respect for civil liberties, a non-interventionist foreign policy, and a free-market economy.

Roger MacBride, our presidential candidate, is a non-politician who recognizes that the Republican and Democratic Parties are entrenched, establishment institutions whose only goal is the perpetuation of their own power.

The Libertarian Party is a new alternative—a young and dynamic political force that's committed to individual freedom and opposed to government oppression in every form.

If you think you've got what it takes to be a YLA coordinator, write or call us collect. We've got a campus information kit that will get you started. And we'll give you all the help and advice we can.

One final word: As a YLA campus coordinator, you'll do a lot of hard work. And the salary is zilch. But there is one small compensation: You'll be helping to achieve Freedom in Our Time.

HEADHUNTER™

HEADHUNTER clues have to be broken down. Rarely do they make sense taken as wholes. The "real" definition, the one actually sought, is almost always at the very beginning or very end of the clue. Constantly search for SYNONYMS for every word or phrase, however vague or far-fetched the connection, until the logical, illogical answer with the right number of letters emerges. The three main types of clues are:

ANAGRAMS, often signaled by words like broken, scrambled, tangled, mad, sort of, perhaps, now becomes, crazy, stupid, new, changed - anything indicating disorder or rearrangement.

DOUBLE DEFINITIONS, as in "Game for a traveler (4)" = POLO.

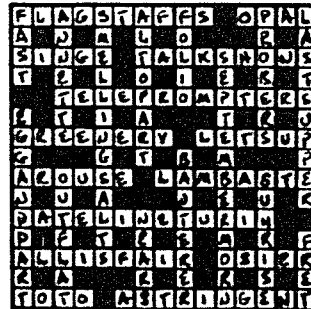

HIDDEN WORDS, found in a word for spanning words; in the clue and sometimes signaled by among, in, between, etc. Example: "In here, reward" A remuneration (6) = REWARD.

Some clues use more than one of these construction methods.

Clue words often are literal. "embraces" can simply mean one word surrounding another; "that is" may indicate an "I" and an "S" in the answer. "short" may hint at an abbreviation, and so on. Punctuation in a clue has no bearing on its solution.

Jean-Luc Ponty — 'piss poor production'

by Rich Landucci

I am saddened regarding Saturday night's Jean-Luc Ponty performance at the "acoustically perfect" Ada Theatre. No blatant negativism is intended when I say that it was a piss poor production; that's just the way it was.

Apparently the bands had little post-production time, so at audience expense, the first adjustments were made on the equipment for an hour and a half. It was around midnight when Chaussee Swan, a local group sharing the bill with Ponty, appeared on stage and did a thirty minute set not really worth relating. Perhaps I was too annoyed at the whole situation to enjoy the music. No one enjoys waiting in a warm, packed theatre for such an anticipated occasion.

However, the concept was/is excellent; the acoustics are nice at the Ada. So, when Jean-Luc Ponty finally arrived on stage at 1:00 a.m. and picked up his violin and played, the vibrations were overwhelming. Aside from occasionally poorly mixed volume levels, Ponty's performance was okay. It's obvious that more time is needed for preparation, and now that Roxoff Productions has experienced this type of show at the Ada, they'll know how to cope with future situations in a more organized manner.

There is no official word about future concerts of this caliber at the Ada, however, I do understand that consideration is being given to the possibility.

BSU art major wins design contest

The winner of the recent BSU Stamp Club envelope design contest is Gregory Berg, an art major at BSU. He received $25 for the use of his design on the envelopes which will be available at the Bo-Idapex Stamp Show on April 24 & 25 in the SUB. The show is sponsored jointly by the BSU Stamp Club and the Boise Stamp Club.

The envelope design commemorates 50 years of contract airmail service in the United States. The first flight was from Pasco, Washington to Boise to Elko, Nevada on April 6, 1926 and was flown by Varney Airlines, a predecessor to United Airlines.

Jean-Luc Ponty appeared in concert at the Ada Theater last Saturday.

Little Theatre to host 'roof raising ball'

What Boise Little Theatre officials describe as a "Roof-Raising Ball," will be held March 27 from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m. in the Rodeway Inn Convention Hall. Music will be by Today's Reaction. The reason behind the event, according to BLT Business Manager Lum Gerner, is repair and refinishing of BLT's leaky roof.

Jim Branson, project chairperson, presented the idea several months ago, saying that since it is the Bicentennial year, and the BLT has not held a party-dance for several years, "we should plan for one soon."

Local merchants are contributing crafts to be auctioned during dance intermissions. In addition, prizes will be offered to those twelve persons displaying the best costumes, although dressing in costumes is not required.

According to Vera Cederstrom, publicity chairperson for the BLT, 500 "more or less" balloons will drop from the ceiling unannounced during the evening. Some of the balloons will contain prize notices. There will also be no-host refreshments.

Boise Little Theatre's box office will be open for ticket sales Wednesday, March 24, Thursday, March 25 and Friday, March 26 from 12:00 until 5:00 p.m. Tickets are also available at the Allied Arts Booth in the Bon Marche and at the door. Admission price is $4.00 per person, and is tax deductible.

Season tickets for 1976-77 BLT productions will be available in the Rodeway Lobby during the dance.

BSU Chamber players to perform March 26

A program of small ensemble music will be presented by the Boise State University Chamber Players and the Duo-Piano Ensemble at 8:15 p.m. on Friday, March 26, in the BSU Music Auditorium.

The Chamber Players, directed by William Hsu, is a group of string majors, with John Best, faculty, as cellist. The Chamber Players will perform Bach's Brandenburg Concerto #6 and Barber's Adagio for Strings.

The 12-member Duo-Piano Ensemble is directed by Madeleine Hsu. Its program will include works by American composers: Samuel Barber, Alan Hovhaness, Vincent Persichetti, as well as Bartok and Rachmaninoff.

The concert is part of the Ensemble Series presented by the BSU Music Department. Admission is by season tickets or by tickets purchased at the door. Proceeds benefit the Music Scholarship Fund.

WHAT'S NEW IN THE BARGAIN BINS... Some nice new items (and reorders) in the $1.99 to $2.99 LP and tape sections this week, including LP's from Donna Fargo, Melanie, Country Joe, Beach Boys, Carly and Lucy Simon, Johnny Carson, 3 Dog Night, Beatles, Frank Sinatra, Buffy St. Marie, Hawkwind, Fifth Dimension, plus dozens of one-of-a-kind goodies. Many are also available on 8 track and cassette, and we've gotten over 100 new reel-to-reel tapes, also just $2.99 each. Altogether, we received hundreds of new bargain priced LP's and tapes this week, with still more on the way.

The paper industry says maybe (later this year) so don't be surprised if album covers start getting less elaborate soon... Eddy Arnold is returning to RCA, after several years on the MGM label... Last week was the first week since early December that Columbia didn't have the No. 1 LP on the Billboard chart, as the Eagles' Greatest Hits package made it to the top... RCA has expanded their $4.98 list price "Pure Gold" series of LP's. We're reducing our everyday price on these to $3.33 and adding a bunch of new titles to our stock... Country star Mel Tillis has signed with MCA records, while Melanie has made a long-term deal with Atlantic.

NEW ALBUM UPDATE... Steely Dan's "The Royal Scam" is complete and due out within weeks. April 9 is the announced date for Joe Cocker's "Stingray" and the Tubes' second album, "Young and Rich"... Also due over the next few weeks are Santana's "Amigos", and the newest from Frankie Avalon and James Taylor... Current recording activity also by Elvis Presley, Keith Moon, Tanya Tucker, Minnie Riperton, Dr. Hook, Orleans, John Sebastian, and the Manhattan Transfer.

CLASSICAL NOTES... How many of you with Quad equipment are aware that some Angel LP's are compatible SQ pressings? If interested, we'll show you how to spot them. Scratch San Francisco from the list of symphony orchestras in search of conductors after last week's signing of Edo de Waart to replace Seiji Ozawa. Coincidentally, this keeps everything in the Phillips Records family, since the S.F. Symphony, Ozawa, and de Waart all record for Phillips. Andre Previn has major recording and TV plans when he takes over as conductor of the Pittsburgh Symphony this September, this in addition to his London Symphony assignment. The Pittsburgh orchestra hasn't recorded in over a decade. The Westminster Gold label is one of our steadiest sellers, which led us to expand the number of titles we carry just this past week. NOW THROUGH WEDNESDAY THEY ARE ON SALE FOR JUST $2.33 PER DISC.

ONCE UPON A TIME a few years back, while living in Southern California, we caught a local stage musical called "Mother Earth". The show was a big success and went on tour with New York City as its eventual destination, but disagreements between the writers and the new producer over changes in the original concept led, in an indirect way, to last year's biggest hit single. You see, the leading performer/co-writer left during these hassles to tour with the Beach Boys. She later married their keyboard player, David Dragon, and after a couple of years of trying, they became, as The Captain and Tennille, the record industry's latest "overnight" sensation. As good as Tomi Tennille was in "Mother Earth", the only surprise is that it took so long. (The new Captain and Tennille album, "Song of Joy", is on sale for just $3.99 at THE MUSICWORKS through Wednesday.)

by John Steppe

On the evening of March 13, Boise State entered the gym of the University of Oregon for a game with the nationally ranked Rebels of the University of Nevada at Las Vegas. This match-up was a first-round game of the National Collegiate Athletic Association's regional basketball playoffs.

With in the first few minutes of the game the Rebels took control of the ball and blasted out an early lead (which they held until the final buzzer) to keep the Broncos in check. Bus Connor directed his cage squad to the point where they were keeping up with the Rebels in scoring. BSU was able to stay with UNLV, but never were they able to pass them. With the halftime show under way, the scoreboard read UNLV 48, BSU 39.

Second half action saw several players fouling out of the NCAA contest - the list includes BSU's Pat Hoke and UNLV's Smith, Owens and Theus.

Late in the second period the Rebels began to run away with the game with good outside shooting and hard pressing of BSU players, the final score was UNLV 103 - BSU 78.

The games leading scorer was Bronco Steve Connor with 26 points for the evening. The number two man for the BSU group was Dan Jones with 18 points coming from his efforts.
