New ASB administration takes office

by George Neils

A new ASB administration was sworn in Tuesday following the last meeting of the 1975-76 ASBSU Senate. The new president, Lenny Hertling, was sworn in by John Flewelling, Chief Justice of the ASBSU Judiciary. The same vows of responsibility were repeated for the other officers of the executive branch: Mike Hoffman, the Vice-President, and C. Murray Jenkins as Treasurer of the ASBSU.

The sixteen Senators, four more than last year, were sworn in all together. Immediately following the ceremony, Hoffman, whose job includes President of the Senate, called his group together for the first business meeting. Lenny Hertling was called before the Senate for his first report as chief executive officer. He called for cooperation between branches of the ASBSU government, hoping that this would be a "good year."

Jim Beebe and Julie Sturdavant were nominated for the Personnel Selection committee by Hertling. Nate Kim was appointed to his former position as director of Student Services, and Mary Jane Jorgensen was included with the Financial Advisory Board. The Senate gave its assent to the appointments.

Hoffman appointed three new Senators, Christiane Rudd, Holly Welsh, and Robert Naugler, to the Financial Advisory Board.

In the final meeting of the old Senate, Nate Kim informed the Senate that the State of Idaho had filed for a dismissal of the Alcohol Suit. The state, according to Kim, contends that the ASBSU is not a "recognized legal entity". The ASBSU supposedly cannot sue, be sued, and cannot enter into contracts. Kim pointed out that in that case all of the contracts of the ASBSU over the years have been illegal.

"I really don't think it'll be dismissed," stated Kim. Howard Welsh observed that the original feeling of the State Board was that the case would be a friendly hearing to determine the legality of the Alcohol Suit.

"If (it's) a friendly suit, we should have them stop filing for dismissal," Welsh said. "They have led us down the primrose path and wasted our money." Welsh said the Senate "should at least come up with some kind of direction."

Doug Gouchnor observed that the State Board has to cover their backs. Welsh said that according to the original understanding "It was a matter that would be dealt with in the courts, not (in the) preliminary hearing."

Nate then told the Senate that the lawyer for the Students feels that the case would positively go through. He mentioned that in the case of the State Board's lawyer, "He's going to do his damndest to protect the board."

When a motion to send a letter to the State Board failed passage, Lyle Mosier directed a statement at the members of the future Senate sitting in the gallery. He hoped that the new Senate would not "be afraid to show their feelings on a simple letter like this letter." Many members of the Senate and gallery applauded Mosier for his stand on the issue.

Mike Hoffman reported that the Faculty Senate had passed a resolution demanding that all F's, if they are to be changed, go through the Academic Grievance Board.

A highly praised resolution dealing with academic principles was brought out of the Academic Affairs committee. It

Saga replaces ARA on campus

by Dave Outzen, Brent Dunstan

It was announced last week through Vice-president of Student Affairs, Dr. David Taylor, that the food service concession at BSU will change from ARA to Saga Food Services. The change over from ARA to Saga will be effective at the end of the present semester.

The food services at BSU are let out for bids every three years, according to Taylor. At that time, various food service companies are sent descriptions of the type of service requested by BSU. The companies then submit bids stating how they can provide services and for what cost. The company that receives the contract does so on a three year contract with the provision that they can re-negotiate prices each year, Taylor said. This allows for increases in the cost of living.

ARA foods won the contract after bidding at the beginning of the 74-75 school year. This year when ARA submitted their figures to re-negotiate their costs for the 1976-77 year, their request was to raise their fee 24 per cent. Taylor's office said that the figure was too high. After a two week period ARA submitted another figure that was 18 per cent above this year's costs. ARA said this was their lowest possible bid. ARA justified their high raise, saying they were going to bring in new equipment and technology that would save money.

Saga foods also sent BSU a cost estimate, but according to Taylor, there was no official contact between BSU and Saga prior to the receipt of the estimate. Saga sent the estimate in an attempt to keep their records up to date, according to Taylor.

ARA was notified that another company had been contacted. ARA then submitted a third bid that was 12 and one half per cent above this year's costs. Gary Ribeiro, head of ARA food services, said the reduction to 12 and one half per cent was cutting down to the bare minimum.

Officials of Saga met with Taylor and negotiated a deal where the new rate would be 3 and one half per cent above the present cost. On April 14, 1976, ARA foods was notified at their Los Angeles offices that BSU intended to terminate their contract. No contract has been signed with Saga, however, BSU has expressed an intention to sign. Saga will take over the remaining two years of the three year contract.

ARA employees on campus have expressed concern over the fact that they did not realize they were in a bidding situation, according to Ribeiro. They had assumed they were negotiating and had not realized another company had been brought in. When Ribeiro heard of the intended termination of the ARA contract, he said "It came as a total surprise, and I was shocked to hear it."

Taylor said the university is attempting to preserve a high quality of service for the least amount of money as a reason for changing food services in the middle of a three year contract. Jon Vestal, former head of Residential Life, said he felt the school should "stick with a company that is doing a good job," rather than "switch to save a few pennies."

Saga is currently operating the food services at all the remaining colleges in the state except the University of Idaho, who operate their service with an on campus organization.

Saga foods was operating the food service at BSU four years ago. They lost their job to ARA when their quality dropped and their prices became too high, according to Vestal.

The Arbiter contacted the Associated Student Body at Idaho State University and received conflicting answers. Steven Towell, past senator from the ASISU, said he was pleased with the service provided by Saga.

"We have steak night every week," Towell said. ARA provides the same meal at BSU. Towell also said Saga provides special dinners "a couple times a semester." ARA provides such dinners every month.

However, Andria Peroni, ASISU past senator, said the ### Budget considered

by Helen Christensen

The Finance Advisory Board trimmed $52,881.94 off of $247,183.96 in budget requests during a ten hour ASB budget finalization hearing Saturday. The FAB, whose membership includes the ASB Treasurer, C. Murray Jenkins; Business Manager Gerald Michaelson; student senators Scott Whipple, Holly Welsh and Bob Naugler, and three students-at-large, acts as an official advisory board to the ASB Senate on all financial matters. The final budget request will be presented to the student senate by ASB President Lenny Hertling at Tuesday's senate meeting.

According to Hertling, the ASB is planning on a projected income of approximately $250,000 for 1976-77. They receive $18 out of each full time student's fees. The student budgets came to a combined total of $193,302.02 at the end of Saturday's meeting. "These budgets have to be cut further," stated Hertling. Budgets not yet considered include those for the Student Services Department and the Les Bois yearbook.

The ASB Judiciary Council requested $4,500, to cover service awards, reference materials, travel and miscellaneous expenses. The FAB cut the budget to $1,530, which will cover service awards only. Chief Justice John Flewelling had originally requested $60 a month for himself and four justices for nine months at a total of $2,700. "I say $60 a month for each member of the Judiciary is bullshit," stated Hertling. "These people should not be trying to get rich at the expense of the ASB," he added.

"Philosophically speaking, the judiciary should be paid on an equal scale with the senate since they are an equal branch of student government," said ASB vice-president Mike Hoffman. At the suggestion of Senator Welsh, the FAB will recommend that the Chief Justice receive $50 a month and other justices receive $30 a month service awards.

Regarding senators salaries, the FAB recommended $8,640 to be allocated to cover service awards of $60 a month for nine months for 16 senators.

Hertling's administrative budget request was approved at $24,967, which includes service awards for the ASB President at $200 a month for 12 months; Vice-president at $185 a month for 12 months; Treasurer at $185 for 12 months and Business Manager at $125 a month for nine months. The position of Administrative Coordinator at $125 a month for nine months was cut by the FAB. Welch stated "This position should not be funded until we see who the person is, how he is selected and exactly what his job description will be." Hertling explained that the coordinator would work in the areas of program development.

Also included in the Administrative budget is $7,134

The cheapest is not always the best

The administration has made a decision they may later regret by terminating their contract with ARA Food Services. The powers that be may find that just because one food service is cheaper, it isn't necessarily better.

Several years ago when Saga Food Service was under contract to Boise State, then Vice-President of Financial Affairs Roger Green did a special study of Saga. This study turned out to be somewhat uncomplimentary of the service. The study passed from Green to Gordon Phillips to Gene Blackwelder. Of course, Green and Blackwelder are no longer here. When the Arbiter attempted to see the file, they were informed it "could not be found."

In the process of selecting a food service the last time, student input was sought and valuable in determining who the food service would be. This time no input was sought; indeed, students, even the dormitory students, were not told of the change until too late.

In order to call attention to Saga's poor methods of food preparation, past Arbiter editor Phil Yerby offered a monetary reward to anyone who could find a foreign object in the food served. There were a lot of takers. It all started when Yerby took several outside people to lunch and found a fruit fly in his cottage cheese. That incident started an investigation of the food service which ended in a contract with ARA. And now the administration wants that same food service back to try it again.

ARA has gone out of its way to help the student body in any way possible. The same did not hold true of Saga. Gary Ribeiro and his staff have done much more than they had to in order to provide Boise State with food service.

Perhaps by now Saga has cleaned up their act, but it isn't likely, judging from comments made by students at Idaho State University, where Saga has a current contract. What will undoubtedly happen is Saga will get through the year with their 3 and one half per cent increase, but next year hit the administration and the students alike with a whopping increase in price. ## Students on governing boards in over twenty states

(CPS)--Some people say the protest of the sixties gave way to the apathy of the seventies and cite the mood on campus as the perfect example. Although some colleges can muster enough students together for a convincing show of force on tuition increases, few schools are hotbeds of action for more student power. Student power, it seems, has been lost to the scramble for jobs.

But working within the bureaucracy for more student influence over the university administration, many students have won places for themselves on the school's governing boards. And statistics indicate that the impetus to provide a chair for students at the regents' round table is increasing.

At last count in 1974, at least 20 states had student members on their governing boards at public colleges and universities.

About seven of those states allowed their student members to have full voting power. About seven others allowed their students to participate in the decision-making process only until it was time to vote. The remaining states permitted student representatives to serve on committees but not to attend full-scale governance meetings.

But the struggle for more student representation on these boards continues in earnest. A bill now before the West Virginia state legislature creates a non-voting seat on the state's Board of Regents for a student to be appointed by the governor. Although members of the West Virginia legislature thought they were acting progressively by putting a student in an advisory capacity to the regents, many students believe it only goes halfway.

"The Board of Regents is afraid students and faculty would take over if they receive voting rights," said one West Virginia student body president. "This is unfounded." Without the vote, he added, the bill is a waste of paper.

Since the 1972 "sense of Congress" resolution which was passed at the same time as the Higher Education Act, more states have been considering the idea of putting students to work at governance. Congress had indicated that the governing boards of public institutions should reassess their representation of students and many states even went so far as to mandate student participation in governance.

But seating those students on boards and giving them full voting powers has been a slow process. Many university administrators believe that students represent a special interest group and would be incapable of voting on crucial issues as representatives of society's best interests. Furthermore, critics of student representation say, students aren't around long enough to become effective members who can view the university's problems in the long run.

"A student is transient, usually immature and not too knowledgeable," said one opponent of students having votes on governing boards.

Finally there is no point in trying to appoint a true representative of students because students are such a diverse group.

But advocates of student regents argue that the decisions of the governing boards significantly affect the students at the school. Adding the student voice to regent's discussions would provide regents with a better idea of how students will react to their decisions.

Where students have failed to seat one of their own representatives on their college's governing board, other tactics to keep the regents responsive to students have been tried. Several students at the University of Nebraska have initiated a campaign to drum out four members of that school's Board of Regents. The leader of the group complained that regents were just not concerned or sympathetic to the needs of the students after the board rejected revisions of visitation and alcohol policies for on-campus housing.

ROTC...

'Last thing needed'

Editor, the ARBITER

The proposal to institute an Army ROTC program at BSU is totally unwarranted. Such a program is absolutely the last thing needed on this campus.

BSU is currently plagued by a chronic shortage of classroom space. BSU does not have several departments that any university should, and offers advanced degrees in only two fields, Education and Business. Many other departments, e.g. Music, are woefully short of space, yet we are being asked to provide "$8000 a year...as well as classroom, storage and office space." for an ROTC program.

Further, at a time when it is becoming increasingly clear that the main threat to the freedom of the American people comes from their own government, it is extremely difficult to understand why anyone would propose institution of a program designed to extend the influence of the military arm of that government. Watergate, the murders of Fred Hampton and George Jackson, the shootings at Kent State, the shootings and bombings in San Diego instigated by FBI agents provocateur, the infiltration and disruption of nonviolent leftist groups by the FBI, the illegal wiretapping and burglaries committed by the FBI, the use of the IRS against "political enemies," the internal spying by the CIA, and the concerted effort by the government to cover up all of these activities should provide enough evidence to convince anyone of the truth of the preceding statement.

The government, however, has not remained indifferent to the exposure of its wrongdoing. Currently pending is a bill, S.1 --revision of the U.S. criminal code, which would legalize crimes such as those listed above as long as those committing them believed they were "following orders." S.1 doesn't stop there, it would make the disclosure of such actions a crime. Such information should make it obvious to all Americans that the primary threat to our freedom is not Russian "communism" (state-capitalism actually) but our own government.

No, we do not need an ROTC program at BSU.

S.W. Idaho Dental society demands MacInnis' resignation

by David Outaen

An organization of southwest Idaho dentists has demanded the resignation of Jean MacInnis, an instructor with the Boise State dental technicians program.

The Southwest Idaho District Dental Society sent a letter to BSU President Dr. John Barnes, dated April 13. The letter read:

"We recommend that Jean MacInnis be removed and replaced from the Boise State University Dental Assistant Training Program at the end of the 1975-76 school year or terminate this program at the end of the 1975-76 school year. Otherwise, the Southwest Idaho District Dental Society will recommend that its members withdraw support of the program."

About one-third of the society membership were present at the meeting when the resolution to send the letter was passed according to Richard Melers, President of the dental association. If the dental society were to withdraw their support the dental technicians program would have to be discontinued, according to Don Miller, head of the vocational-technical school.

Melers explained reasons for the action taken by the society. He said the graduates of the program were inadequately trained, and often had a negative attitude towards dentists and dentistry in general. He added that graduates of the program have expressed concern over what they felt were inadequacies in their training, and that they felt the curriculum and facilities were outdated.

Dr. D. L. Pape said he has not hired any graduates in recent years "because of poor training in virtually all the girls" he interviewed. He added he had hired some girls but only when he felt it was worth the time to retrain them.

Shirley Williams, president of the Southwest Idaho District Dental Assistants Association, has accused the dentists of wanting to oust MacInnis because she will not teach dental assistants illegal procedures.

She claims the dentists want the technicians to perform such duties as polishing teeth, taking impressions, cementing crowns, carving and condensing amalgam fillings. Dental technicians are presently prohibited from doing these duties in Idaho by the Idaho Board of Dentistry and the Idaho Code.

Pape stated, "The laws covering a dental technicians duties have changed so much in the past three years, even in the past year. I feel the girls should be trained in these areas." He added that while it is presently illegal to perform these duties in Idaho, many surrounding states do allow dental technicians to perform these operations. Pape commented, "I feel the girls are being cheated out of an education."

Barnes, and Dr. Dick Bullington, executive vice president, were contacted in January by the dentists. It was decided then that a survey be sent to the individual dentists to determine the number of dentists and their areas of concern. "Only now are we ready to send out the survey," Bullington said.

MacInnis said she was shocked to hear of the letter. "No dentist ever talked to me about this. I operate the program according to the guidelines of the Council on Dental Education...We have ordered some new equipment, but this is not my sole responsibility."

Miller confirmed that the survey is being sent out to determine the problems with the program. He added that a new X-ray unit was ordered two months ago, and that new light fixtures and new equipment stands were ordered a couple of weeks ago.

MacInnis received tenure this year, according to a member of the Promotions and Tenure Committee. There will be a meeting this week of the Competency Review Committee to review the curriculum being taught for the program.

Pape added "the dentists are anxious to help the program," and that "by forcing the issue with the letter the result can not help but benefit the program at Boise State."

Dr. Matthies resigns

BSU Health Services Director, Dr. Robert Matthies will leave the health center and accept a position with the Family Practice Residency Program.

Matthies will terminate his duties as medical director of the Boise State University health services at the end of the current semester. After a two week vacation he will take over the post of Associate Director of the Family Practice Residency Program, located in Boise.

The F.P.R.P. will serve to teach young doctors how to operate a family practice. Matthies' duties will include overseeing patient care, and to monitor these examinations by the use of video taping equipment. This way he will be able to review examination procedures with the interns. He will also help interns to recognize underlying psychological problems as causes of physical health problems.

Matthies will continue to see patients on his own. He feels this is part of a "sound philosophy as an educator."

Matthies' replacement will be chosen by a committee made up by Dr. David Taylor, Vice President of Student Affairs, Dr. Phillip C. Dutt, M.D., student health center physician, and Jerine Brown R.N., supervisory nurse at the health center.

FAB trims $52,881.94 in budget hearings

for a state secretary in the ASB offices, a $500 executive expense account and $2,080 for travel expenses.

The Student Union Programs Board requested $123,723 and was cut to $85,081. The SUPB's $28,292 request for their pop concerts series ignited a heated discussion over whether rock groups should continue to be brought in to perform at BSU. One board member commented that he was not willing to allocate thousands of dollars to finance a rock star's heroin habit. "Frankly, we're taking it in the shorts on rock groups," stated SUPB representative Randy Birkinbine. "I would like to see a more diversified program to include symphonies and jazz established," he added.

The consensus of the FAB was to open up concerts to outside promoters. "If you let outside promoters take over, the price of student tickets is going to go up," warned Birkinbine. The FAB decided to recommend that the senate place $20,000 in a contingency fund until the SUPB can present a budget providing for a Homecoming band and a more diversified music and concert program.

Other changes in the SUPB budget included a $4,900 allocation for a Performing Fine Arts Program, down from an original request of $14,135... $3,580 for the Coffeehouse, down from the $5,600 original request, $11,938 for Foreign Films, up from the original request of $11,400, $1,675 for Homecoming, down from the original request of $6,363 and $3,041 for Outdoor Activities, down from the original request of $12,191. A $1,500 cinematography program was cut and the Special Events budget was eliminated until a more specific program is established.

Service Awards for the SUPB members will be recommended at $100 a month for 12 months for the chairman, $30 a month for nine months for the directors of Pop Concerts, Pop Films, Foreign Films, Lectures, Coffeehouse, Art Committee and Outdoor Activities. The directors of Homecoming and Special Events are each to receive a flat service award of $100 for the year.

The Broadcast Board, which will begin operating a campus radio station next fall, received a recommendation of $8,825. Their original request was for $17,109.95. The major change occurred with the elimination of a state secretary. The Broadcast Board will attempt to get a work study secretary, according to Peer Jensen, Broadcast Board representative.

The FAB recommended $5,885 for the Photo Bureau budget. The bureau had originally requested $7,134. The FAB eliminated $598 in travel expenses to send a photographer to three state board meetings. "I can't see spending this kind of money to get pictures of a bald headed old man," said Michaelson.

"Those bald headed old men make important decisions regarding the future of this university," stated Barb Bridwell, Arbitrator Editor.

The Arbitrator received a recommendation of $25,423, down from their original request of $26,463. Despite two efforts to cut Arbitrator service awards, they remained at the original request level of $8,181 total for the entire staff. The Arbitrator will be expected to make $9,500 in ad revenues to help pay for the paper production costs.

The Theatre Arts Department budget request of $18,367.50 was approved without change.

$6,000 was approved for a lawyer in the Student Services Department and $400 was passed for a service award of $100 a month for four months for the Student Lobby Director.

The Public Relations request of $3,998 was cut to $3,248. Public Relations also were approved for $2,490 for service awards.

The Election Board received a recommendation for $1,995, down from their $2,052 request.

Hertling requested $540 for a service award of $60 a month for nine months for the Personnel Selection Director. The FAB decided to recommend $50 a month. "The Personnel Selection Director is a very important position," said Hertling. "This person puts in as many or more hours than a senator and should be paid for it," he said.

Career, Financial Services announces awards delay

Career & Financial Services announced that processing of financial aid awards for the academic year 76-77 is delayed. Students named for scholarships are now being notified. However, the Basic Grant payment schedule for the year ahead is not available to college financial aid offices. The U.S. Office of Education is waiting for Congress to act upon a request to appropriate additional funds for Basic Grants.

Determination of other forms of Federal aid is delayed since Basic Grants must be calculated first.

Career & Financial Services request that students defer inquiries, as the flood of calls is delaying work in progress. Awarding will proceed upon receipt of the Basic Grant payment schedule from the government. C & FS has been unable to obtain any definite prediction as to when the government will provide the payment schedule.

Tom Hayden...

Ex-student activist running for Senate

by Allan Rabinowitz

(CPS)--Asking "where have all the radicals gone" is a favorite game among many people. But one of the foremost activist leaders of the sixties does not have the time for idle speculation about those days--because these days he is too busy running an election campaign.

Tom Hayden is running for the U.S. Senate in California, challenging the incumbent Democrat John Tunney for the Democratic nomination.

The contest is drawing increasing national attention. Here is a radical who, after many years of attacking and working outside the traditional political structure, is now vying for power within that same system.

Hayden has been in the lead of radical politics for fifteen years, since he co-founded SDS (Students for a Democratic Society) in 1960. SDS grew into the most influential mass student organization of the decade, with chapters on innumerable campuses.

Hayden later helped plan the massive demonstrations at the 1968 Democratic Convention, and was subsequently a defendant in the celebrated Chicago Seven conspiracy trial. His conviction in that trial was ultimately overturned.

Hayden visited North Vietnam several times, and after American troops pulled out of Vietnam, Hayden protested continued American complicity with the military actions of the Thieu regime, when most critics were ready to let the issue die.

The two questions people are asking about Hayden are: Can he win? And will he end up just another compromising politician?

Yes, he can win.

Although the polls show Tunney leading by about 50 per cent to 15 per cent, more than 25 per cent of California's Democrats are still undecided. Hayden claims that more than 30 per cent of Tunney's supporters are "movable."

The Hayden campaign received a tremendous boost when the California Democratic Council, a left-leaning group within the Democratic Party, spurned Tunney's pleas for support and overwhelmingly endorsed Hayden.

Moreover, Tunney, who considers himself a liberal Democrat, has been losing support recently for switching stands on issues or not making his stands clear. After co-sponsoring a Senate bill for a national health plan with Sen. Edward Kennedy, Tunney decided to oppose the bill, claiming that it would cost too much. That action has alienated many older, poorer and minority Californians from the incumbent senator.

But will Hayden become just another politician? That, of course, could only be answered if he won. But one thing he cannot be accused of is vacillating on his views. Unlike most politicians, Hayden has put out an elaborate, lengthy platform. The 268-page platform outlines in detail proposals which would overhaul America's economic priorities and the role of corporations in government.

Hayden's programs of "economic democracy" call for:

--Break-up of the massive multi-national corporations;

--The withdrawal of support of "rotten dictatorships" which benefit U.S. corporations;

--More economic control of companies by the companies' workers;

--Closing tax loopholes for corporations that go to foreign countries to utilize cheap labor--these companies, says Hayden, help contribute to unemployment at home;

--Cutting back defense contracts and the Pentagon's budget, and using that money to create jobs in such fields as public housing and transportation.

Hayden's programs are tied together with a political philosophy in which vested interests are denied the control of government, and the disenfranchised public--students, consumers, minorities and senior citizens--plays a greater role in decision-making.

In addition to support by students, radicals and minorities, Hayden states that his base of support is widening to include "the people most recently swindled, the people who voted for Richard Nixon instead of George McGovern."

Fuller on humanity

by Barb Bridwell

The world now has enough resources and technology to feed itself and bring each person to the standard of living enjoyed by the Americans in 1972, R. Buckminster Fuller said last week.

The 81-year-old author-lecturer-philosopher-designer spoke as part of the Bronco Days celebration at Boise State. Fuller's recent honors include the 1968 Gold Medal Award of the National Institute of Arts and Letters and the Royal Gold Medal for Architecture. In 1968 he was appointed University Professor at Southern Illinois University, the second faculty member to be so honored in the University's history. In 1969, Fuller was nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize.

Fuller said that humans have always learned by mistakes, but now mankind has "made the total mistake of making mistakes intolerable. It is seriously hampering a source of learning," he said.

The educational system has been remiss in teaching, according to Fuller, because schools teach specialization rather than generalization. "We should be teaching the generalizations because the specifics will follow," he said.

Fuller also said the educational structure has evolved so that the best students are persuaded to take more advanced courses to the point where "they can't talk to each other. They need something to talk about so they invented baseball."

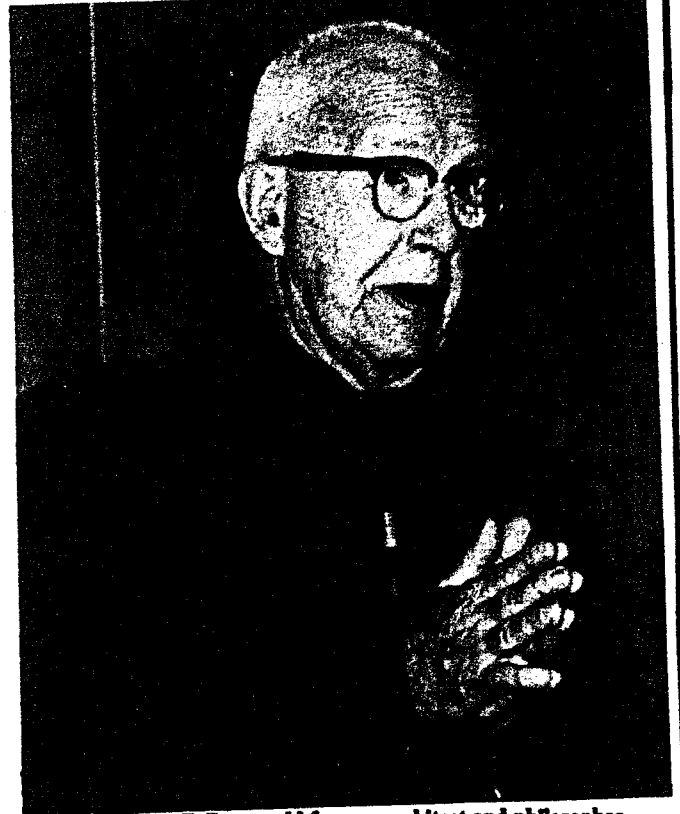

Quite clearly the human race is a failure, Fuller said, because they are producing faster than the environment or "life support" can replenish. "Society should be dealing more with fundamental scarcity-- doing more with less."

Fuller also said fossil fuel could be phased out and North America would have the same standard of living, only the type of fuel would be changed. "If you think in terms of what it costs nature to produce a gallon of fuel, man would be paying over $1 million a gallon."

Man will soon reach a stage of development where war and politics are obsolete, he said. Now, however, the world is spending in excess of $200 billion per year for destruction.

The need for war, "that there won't be enough for everybody and therefore you have to keep someone else from getting yours," has been eliminated by technology. The barriers to wealth and food exchange will be broken, unless mankind turns on technology, Fuller said.

Fuller ended by urging his audience to "commit yourselves to the whole of humanity or we won't make it."

Buckminster Fuller, world famous architect and philosopher, lectured at the Ballroom last Monday night on man and technology.

HEADHUNTER™

1976 HEADHUNTER Puzzles - New York

HEADHUNTER clues have to be broken down. Rarely do they make sense taken as wholes. The "real" definition, the one actually sought, is almost always at the very beginning or very end of the clue. Constantly search for SYNONYMS for every word or phrase, however vague or far-fetched the connection, until the logical/illogical answer with the right number of letters emerges. The three main types of clues:

ANAGRAMS, often signaled by words like broken, scrambled, tangled, mad, sort of, perhaps, now becomes, crazy, stupid, new, changed--anything indicating disorder or rearrangement.

DOUBLE DEFINITIONS, as in "Game for a traveler (4)" = POLO.

HIDDEN WORDS, found in a word (or spanning words) in the clue and sometimes signaled by among, in, between, etc. Example: "In here, warden: A remuneration! (6)" = REWARD. Some clues use more than one of these construction methods.

Clue words often are literal: "embraces" can simply mean one word surrounding another; "that is" may indicate an "I" and an "is" in the answer; "short" may hint at an abbreviation; and so on. Punctuation in a clue has no bearing on its solution.

ACROSS

1. Little Maureen takes an age to go around a hill in her conveyance. (10)

Johnny Winter, Nugent meat and potatoes rock

by Rich Landucci

Well, meat and potatoes, ass kicking, no bullshit rock and roll stretched the eardrums of some 3500 concert-going "listeners" last Wednesday, at the Johnny Winter/Ted Nugent concert. Nugent wasted no time in waging a feedback war with his fellow musicians, accompanied by a methodic, heart-beating rhythm. As usual, in cases of this type of concert, there was lots of rowdiness and getting high in the parking lot prior to the concert.

What was most amusing is that only one gate and one door were used for admission, through which the crowd slowly milled and pushed its way. This was definitely not the crowd you would find at, say, a showing of "A Clockwork Orange"!

However, as one mounted police officer commented, "This is what they paid for, and that's what they want--it's not my thing!" And it's not mine either, but if one is into high intensity rock, the Johnny Winter/Ted Nugent concert was far from being unsuccessful, in respect to audience response--and bucks!

'The Madwoman of Chaillot' to be at BSU April 30 - May 3

The Boise State University Department of Theatre Arts will present Jean Giraudoux's modern comedy, The Madwoman of Chaillot, on April 30 through May 3 at 8:15 p.m. at the Special Events Center. Students are free, general admission is $2.00.

The Madwoman of Chaillot is perhaps the best known and loved work of the modern French theatre. It has captivated worldwide audiences since its first production in 1945. Produced on the Broadway stage in 1949, it won the New York Critic Circle award and has since been made into a major motion picture. This splendid and spirited comedy is a wonderful expression of the lightness and gaiety of Giraudoux's art.

The Madwoman of Chaillot centers around a plot by speculators and financiers to get oil from under Paris regardless of the destruction of the beautiful city. The greedy and exploitive men are confounded by the Countess Aurelia, a "madwoman," who leads the poor and humble of Paris against them to restore beauty and love to the earth. In this exuberant comedy, Giraudoux has captured the magic and wonder of the stage.

Madwoman under the direction of Dr. Robert E. Ericson features the largest cast ever assembled for a BSU theatre production. The two settings required by the play, a charming Parisian street cafe and a cavernous underground apartment, are the responsibility of BSU scene designer Delores Ringer. Lighting is by Frank Heise.

Appearing in major roles are Trish Coonts as the madwoman of Chaillot, Victoria Holloway as the madwoman of La Concorde, Stacy Ericson as the madwoman of Passy and Denice Sanzo as the madwoman of St. Sulpice, Sal Sanzo as the Sewer Man, Carol Prettyman as Irma, Bob Wallace as the Raggicker, and Mike Hoffman as Pierre. Also in the cast are Marv Cock, Joel Farmer, Kelly Greer, Dale Aspelund, Ann West, Jerry Fields, Harold Becker, Michael James, Bill Nagel, Robert Maughan, Jerry Bryant, Cheryl Hurrle, Liz Borders, Dan Peterson, Casey Schmidt, Tam Cudd, Jody Burton, and Maureen Cochran.

Phone reservations may be made by calling the Special Events Center box office between three and six p.m. daily. The number is 385-3566.

Trish Coonts, Victoria Holloway, Stacy Ericson, and Denice Sanzo are just a few of the characters in "The Madwoman of Chaillot."

Mitchell says dorms are a 'good deal'

The BSU Residential Life Office doesn't have the excess money various groups have charged they do, according to Sue Mitchell, director. "We have enough for on-going maintenance, but to go beyond that, we don't have the money," she stated.

All dormitories are close to capacity with approximately 780 students living there. "Financially, living in the dorms is a good deal," according to Mitchell. Both room and board are included in the price, which varies with the size of the room and the meal plan.

"An average price for a double room at the Towers for next year with the 20-meal plan is $1200," Mitchell said. This price takes into account a price increase OK'd by the State Board of Education earlier this year.

According to a poll, the "number one desire of the students is to have single student apartments," Mitchell said. Students would also like to see more residence halls and married student housing, she said. Boise State keeps listings for off-campus housing; however, landlords must meet certain requirements such as non-discrimination before they are listed. Mitchell said the Residential Life office doesn't have the staff necessary to keep a complete list.

The fact that BSU is a commuter school does pose problems for the housing office, Mitchell said, but her office is attempting to reach out into the community. "We are trying to do something with tenant/landlord, such as keeping sample leases and telling students what to look for." Other special programs which have taken place in the dorms this year include a VD clinic, breast cancer information, and a career workshop. "This has been successful," Mitchell said, "and I would like to see it expand."

The Residential Life Office would also like to set up classes for credit within the dorms, Mitchell said. "These classes would be like seminars. I would also like recreation facilities, exercise rooms and a darkroom. All these things could be integrated with the classroom. We should expand from simply keggers to educational things," she added.

Mitchell doesn't foresee any radical change in the coed dorm, Morrison. Morrison is not a coed dorm in the strict sense of the word, Mitchell said, because the hall is divided into male and female wings, rather than an every-other-room arrangement. "Morrison is a little different from the other dorms. Residents must be upperclassmen and have a higher GPA. There is a special feeling about the hall, a sense of unity and identity."

All dorm students must pay a social fee which is separate and above the regular room and board, Mitchell said, and this is likely to continue. This fee is used for programs that are sponsored by the dorm. "So far we haven't been able to accommodate students who do not wish to pay mainly because of the problem of control," Mitchell stated.

Food

Barb Bridwell, Arbitrator editor, said "It's a shame to change food services just to save a few dollars. They have cooperated with us and many other organizations." She went on to say "the change of companies is not going to save the students any money, their fees were set by the State Board of Education."

Students at BSU are circulating a petition which states that "ARA has volunteered an extraordinary amount of their free time to maintain a friendly atmosphere" and that "ARA has strived to maintain a close working relationship with the students and their organizations."

Senate

[cont. from page 1] was mentioned that this stating of principles would be a good tradition to start and keep. The resolution read, "The Academic Affairs Committee feels that the highest academic standards should be pursued at BSU. In keeping with this philosophy, we make the following recommendations: 1. Continued research towards the improvement of student evaluations of faculty and the possibility of their publication. 2. A Native American Counselor be obtained to serve in the Counseling/testing center and as an advisor to BSU native Americans. 3. Preservation of the No-D rule. 4. Support and expansion of tutorial services. 5. Searching out additional scholarship funds."

The Minority Cultural Board bill passed the senate along with the Constitutions for Namgyl, the BSU Social Workers, the BSU Leadership Honorary, and the President's Council.

The Cheer-Song Leaders were selected last week. The eight selected are (left to right) Laurie Holtz, Vicki Wood, Jerrle Slevers, Aleta Sales, Lealle Green, Brenda Foster, Lealle Fowler, Rena Bouza, and Liz Fitzgerald the choreographer.

Once again, the Tri-Delts are having their Traditional Bar Hop. The highlight of Greek Week, April 29th from 7:00 to 1:00 a.m. Join in the fun with beer chugging. "All you Greeks better practice up."

Your suggestions on any far out of the way favorite rendezvous hide-outs are welcome. Get in touch with the Tri Deltas early, so that we can contact the bars and get things squared away. $1.00 non-refundable fee will be charged in order to pay for those little yellow school buses. Most places don't check, but make sure you have an I.D. [valid I.D.]

We will be around to pick up your $1.00 in advance, so make sure you're there!

OLDIES BUT GOODIES...After several months touring under the marquee-busting name "The Great Golden Hits Of The Monkees", Mickey Dolenz is producing a TV special based on the act, which features, besides Dolenz, Davy Jones of the original group, plus the writers of several of their hits, Tommy Boyce and Bobby Hart... THE NEW SEEKERS, who disbanded a couple of years ago while one of England's top pop acts, are re-forming minus one member... BOOKER T AND THE MG'S, great "Memphis Soul" band of the 60's, are also heading for a reunion... Another name from the past currently recording, rock and roll pioneer BOBBY VEE... Back in England, competing labels and artists are frustrated by a revival of BEATLES singles that is dominating the sales charts. With 6 hits in the top 50, and 4 more close behind, the world's premier defunct rock group is making it look like 1964 all over again.

ALBUM NEWS... STEVIE WONDER'S "Songs In The Key Of Life" may have moved much closer to release as he finally signed that $13 million contract with Motown, despite rumors of still larger offers from other companies... JEFFERSON STARSHIP has completed the recording sessions for their followup to "Red Octopus", due out in 2-3 months... ELTON JOHN'S new "Here And There" LP should be here within a week. Half was recorded in New York, half in London... Delays have hit the new albums from NEIL DIAMOND and CHICAGO, both previously expected by now. Changes are being made on Diamond's LP, while the Chicago delay is due to the continuing strong sales on their Greatest Hits package... One or both of the new albums recorded recently by the BEACH BOYS should be out before July... Among currently expected new releases are albums by STEPHEN STILLS, CHARLIE DANIELS, MAHOGANY RUSH, and AEROSMITH.

"A CHORUS LINE", which swept virtually all the major Tony Awards for Broadway musicals, is available on a Columbia original cast album. Incidentally, if you're traveling to California later, you could catch "A Chorus Line" in San Francisco from May 6 thru June 26, and in Los Angeles from July 1 thru October 10... Speaking of musicals, we also noted that "The Fantasticks" will begin its 17th year in New York in May, duly certified by Guinness as the longest running musical of all time.

PIRATES GET TRICKIER...Faced with laws outlawing the unauthorized duplicating of tapes and LP's in most states, as well as federal copyright regulations, tape bootleggers in some parts of the country are reportedly turning to duplicating English albums. Even though they are usually identical musically to domestic releases, the pirates claim the legal restrictions cannot apply to foreign product.

CLASSICAL RAMBLINGS... Philips Records has released the first in the planned series of the complete Haydn operas, some 20 in all, conducted by Antal Dorati... Deutsche Grammophon plans to record William Russo's new "Street Music: A Blues Concerto" with the San Francisco Symphony next month... Columbia is expanding their Odyssey line into new areas, first with a "composer as performer" series, and in August with 8 newly recorded albums in a new "Modern American Music" series. They may also use the midprice Odyssey label for introducing new, young artists.

NEW AT THE MUSICWORKS... 401 fresh new budget prices ($1.99 to $2.99) LP's arrived this week, including bunches of titles we've never had before, plus a new stock of the BEATLES' "Let It Be" ($2.99). Don't miss these!

Varsity vs. Alumni coming soon to Bronco Stadium

by J. Elliott

"Most students do not recognize the fact that they are Alumni members at this university after they have completed just two semesters," according to BSU Alumni Director, Dyke Nally. "I also think that the students don't realize what the Alumni does for them through various functions during the year."

Most students would ask themselves, what does the Alumni do for me? The question is a simple one to answer. They provide scholarships for students while they attend the university and after they have graduated they are the primary link between the university and the out-side world. Through the Alumni Office, former students are kept informed as to what is happening at the university. They are also notified as to the time, place and type of events they can become involved in through the Alumni Office.

The major fund raising activity of the year is the annual Alumni/Varsity Football Game held in the spring at the BSU Bronco Stadium. This year's match is looking bigger and better than ever; it also appears as though the Alumni have a chance to win the contest for the first time in six years.

All proceeds from this event go toward scholarships and the maintenance of the Alumni Office. Last year thirteen academic scholarships were made possible by the proceeds from the game. This year, it appears as though even more scholarships will be possible.

The contest between the two factions (BSU Alumni and the BSU Varsity) will be the premiere of the new head coach for the Broncos Jim Criner. This will be the first major showing for the University of California Los Angeles transfer. The Alumni is being coached by BSU Assistant Coach Dave Nickel. This contest will be the last game for Nickel, and it looks like the contest will be a good match down to the wire.

For the first time in its six-year history, students are being given a reduced ticket price. General admission to the game is $3.00, but students and their guests may get in this year for $2.00. The game is scheduled for May 1.

What experience can you offer future employers?

A great opportunity presents itself to all full-time students who wish to involve themselves in the workings of the ASBSU. In most cases, no experience is necessary. In some cases, service awards are available. In all cases, valuable experience can be gained.

Applications for these and other ASB positions are available at the Info Booth or in the ASB offices. Those applying for Programs Board chairperson and Arbiter editor must return their applications to the ASB offices on the second floor of the SUB before noon on Wednesday, April 28.
