Campus Store defends prices

By Barb Beldwell

Dr. Richard Bullington, rounding out his summer as BSU’s interim president following Dr. John Barnes’s resignation, said that despite increased responsibilities he is enjoying his role.

“It’s very exciting and challenging for me to look ahead to this coming year. I hope that I can work with all of us toward our goal of excellence,” he said.

Bullington said he has no major problems thus far. What problems have cropped up “seem like child’s play compared to some of the problems I had in the former position.” Bullington is the former vice-president of academic affairs.

Bullington said he sees carrying forward the “natural momentum that characterizes this young university” as his primary function.

“I would be foolish if I thought this was going to be a year where we would battle with students andAdministration Building. The price of a reserved space is $30.00 for the entire nine-month academic year, with $28.00 of this amount going into a scholarship fund for freshmen.

Parking decals on sale

Faculty, staff and students are reminded that reserved parking spaces are on sale August 25th on a first-come, first-served basis in the Parking Control Office, Room A208.

The price of a reserved space is $30.00 for the entire nine-month academic year, with $28.00 of this amount going into a scholarship fund for freshmen.

Parking decals are on sale also at $3.00 for the year for campus parking in other than reserved spaces.

All campus parking, except Stadium Lot parking, requires a parking decal. Enforcement of the Parking Control Program is administered by the City of Boise.

Full details covering the Parking Rules and Regulations may be found in the brochure issued by the Parking Control Office.

The publishers set the prices for the books, and the store doesn’t have anything to say about it," states Musgrave. The Campus Store sells books at a lower margin of profit (difference between what the Campus Store sells the books for and what the store pays for those same books) than the store can operate on without losing money.

"Right now, they’re paying $25,000 per year rent, which goes into the Student Union operating fund...they're still paying off debts (increased by) parking decals. They stated that the site was considerably more valuable.

"The incident occurred on the Campus Store is primarily there to help the business show an overall profit. Even if the store is willing to take a loss, Musgrave commented, they can’t.

"So, we’re not able to lower our costs, We must be self-supporting."

Alpha Kappa Phi Business Fraternity, Students For Students and the ASBSU Senate have each recently investigated the bookstore "with the idea that we could operate selling books alone, without all the other things. They all came to the same conclusion: that the Campus Store has to sell all those non-book items in order to make it work.

"We don’t like to raise prices," says Betty Brock, manager of the Campus Store. "It’s annoying to all the students. But right now it has to be lived with."

"I think now that we’ve had the opportunity to look into athletics that it is my responsibility to let people know, through a good program in public relations, what Boise State is academically."

"I think the old registration system archaic, Bullington deferred to BSU’s new system of freshmen pre-registration. This system allows freshmen to register after they graduate.

"It’s real difficult for freshmen to stand lines and compete with other classes for classes. We thought we could make life a little easier for them the two ways especially when they’re first tasting university life."

"One of these ways was a complete pre-registration system for them which has been taken care of. The balance of freshmen will register the same day as seniors although ahead of them. It will certainly be less traumatic for freshmen."

"We were not anxious to do this at the expense of sophomores, juniors or seniors," he said. "We are working to make sure the system is efficient so that no other student is inhibited in making normal progress in meeting the requirements of his program."

Bullington said this new system will be tried this year.

"I feel it is very important that I do all I can within my set of capabilities in terms of general overall leadership to the institution to carry it forward to its eventual destiny.”

Bullington said that at the present time he has no intention of applying for the presidential position. "I think I need to access myself in this particular position and I will need several more months do to this. I think it also important that two months from this date faculty, staff and students have an opportunity to assess the performance of the person in this office. I really think so much of this institution that the best possible person needs to be selected to fill this position." But, he added, he is not ruling out the possibility at a later date.

One of the specific items on Bullington would like to accomplish this year is to let the people of the State of Idaho and the regents know what Boise State is academically. That’s the first line of attack, he said.

Bullington emphasized that this has become absolutely necessary. Athletics can do this for an institution. But I think now that we can make life a little easier for them the two ways especially when they’re first tasting university life.

Library offers quiet place to study

Students needing a place to study this fall should try the BSU Library Learning Center. Here students can spread out on large tables or use individual study carrels as their needs dictate. Several lounge areas allow reading in comfort. A few rooms are available for group study.

In addition to study space, the Library Learning Center offers a wealth of other resources and services available at the library circulation desk. Students are encouraged to ask freely for whatever assistance they feel necessary in order to use library resources effectively in their work. Assistance is available at each service point in the Library Learning Center. Library hours for fall term will be:

- Monday-Thursday: 7:30 am-11 pm
- Friday: 7:30 am-5 pm
- Saturday: 9:00 am-5 pm
- Sunday: 2:00 pm-10 pm

Students who have listened to class lectures on the Pyramidal System or who have used the stereo listening system for music assignments will face no required facility accessing these resources in the Library Learning Center this fall. The Curriculum Resource Center (CRC) desk is now the distribution point for the tapes and music system previously, available from Educational Media Services (EMS). Taped lectures and required listening material formerly on the Pyramidal System are available for loan at the CRC desk for use in listening stations nearby. While using a tape, a student will be required to deposit his/her ID at the desk. The ID will be returned to the student when the tape is brought back to the Desk. Music selections may be requested at the desk or by phone near the stereo listening stations.

The CRC has undergone another major change during the summer. The collection, consisting of print and non-print elementary and secondary instructional material, has been rearranged to allow more space for books and facilities and greater accessibility by the handicapped. The wheel-like arrangement has given way to a straight row of shelves but the sequence of the materials remains the same. Student teachers should find previewing the CRC greatly improved.

Tutoring available for vets under G.I.

Add to your list of government help available to students a $65 per month allowance for a tutor if you are a student under the GI Bill or VA's Dependents' Educational Assistance Program in need of tutorial assistance.

The only requirements, according to Harold Kuyper, Director of VA regional office, are that you be studying at the post-secondary level on at least a half-time basis under one of the VA programs and have a deficiency in a subject required in an approved program of education.

Kuyper said that VA will pay up to $780 for required tutoring, and it isn't chargeable to GI Bill entitlement.

Getting help for course deficiencies is especially important now, he pointed out. A recent amendment to the GI Bill requires that VA retroactively cancel assistance payments for a course dropped without a grade. This applies also when a course is completed but the grade assigned is, in effect, ignored by the school for graduation requirements.

Application for tutoring reimbursement should be made to the VA regional office where your records are maintained. You must apply within a year of the time you got the tutoring and your application must be certified by the school and the veteran.

Kuyper guarantees 'new deal'

Veterans seeking loans to meet higher education expenses this fall will get a new deal from the Veterans Administration if they act quickly, Harold Kuyper, Director of VA regional office, said today.

The VA streamlined its student loan procedures by preprocessing student loan applications from veterans.

'The key to making sure the student receives his loan promptly, however, is the veteran himself,' Kuyper said.

VA will make loans of up to $1,500 each academic year to qualified students. In the past, loan applications were not processed until after the student started school. Now, Kuyper said, the agency hopes to reduce the 30-day waiting period by accepting applications and determining loan eligibility before school starts.

'Under the new procedure,' Kuyper explained, 'VA will be ready, to issue the loan soon after the school confirms the student is in class.'

Two conditions must be present for a veteran enrolled on at least a half-time basis to qualify: to apply for a loan to help pay educational expenses that his essential expenses during the school year will be greater than his income; he must have been turned down by two banks in the area, or the school must certify that area banks are not making guaranteed student loans.

Bob Gurrett, BSU Veterans Affairs director, urged veterans who plan to apply for a loan to contact him at Room 114, Administration building or the campus financial aid officer at RN 117 Administration. He emphasized that early applications are essential if the student wishes to have the loan available soon after school starts.

Mail room relocates

The BSU Mailroom, formerly located in Room A-118, Administration building, has been relocated to 2021 UNIVERSITY DRIVE, in the building formerly occupied by The Other Bookstore.

Delivery of mail will now be made from this location to all departments and units, and pick up of mail will be at the new location, to be known as 'BSU Mail Service.'

Window service to individuals has been discontinued. Stamps may be purchased at the Information Booth in the Student Union Building. First class mail and interoffice mail may still be dropped at the new location after the final pick up by the carrier is made, and inserted in designated slots.

It is hoped that the new service, when in complete operation, will be more efficient than the former operation. MAIL SERVICE BEGINS AUGUST 29TH IN NEW LOCATION.

Course offered in Human Sexuality

The extended day program is offering a new course this fall entitled "Human Sexuality." The course is a lecture series offered Tuesday nights 7:00-10:00 p.m. in room 100 Liberal Arts Building. Topics include: sexuality, psychology and anatomy, the sexual response cycle, child-birth and contraception, homosexuality, adolescent sexuality, deviant sexuality and a look at different cultural views. Many guest speakers will be covering the variety of topics. The goals of the course are to broaden people's factual information regarding sexual functioning and to increase understanding and awareness of the role of sexuality in human life. The course is designed not to threaten personal values, but to help students understand them. For more information please contact Glowy Grafton at the Counseling Center, 247 Library, or phone 385-1601.

Editorial

Newspaper's purpose

By way of introduction, my name is John Prisicello, editor of the A.R.B., and many philosophical questions inherent to editors of student publications are: What are the primary responsibilities of the newspaper? What do students prefer to read about? And finally do the answers given for the first two questions complement each other? If they do, Eureka! The newspaper will probably be successful and an asset to the campus. If not, the environmentalists probably would have hung the entire Arbiter Staff for littering.

Ideally, you are attending BSU to obtain a quality education at a price you can afford, therefore the number one responsibility of the Arbiter is to inform you of any activity that could alter that goal. Because of that belief, the Arbiter will watch over the Idaho State Legislature, State Board of Education, and the BSU Administration with a close eye. (Proposals from those entities might have had dramatic effects on higher education and devastating consequences to you.)

Next, I assume that each and every one of you will wish to participate actively in the social functions offered at BSU. Therefore a feature editor has been added to the Arbiter staff to forecast upcoming events as well as providing human interest stories. In addition, letters have been sent to over 100 student organizations to invite them to contact the Arbiter if they wish news coverage of their activities. I do not presuppose that I can produce a paper that will satisfy everyone; however, it is my hope that the Arbiter will prove to be of value to you. J.P.

Why are they screaming?

By Chuck Bufe

As the Great Radio Voice of Insincerity once put it: "How ya doing'? Name's Chuck. Be here till six. 'Yes, I've returned, and it's good to be (somewhat)..."

The people of Idaho have recently been privileged to witness an exceedingly unusual governmental process...a regulatory agency actually regulating the industrial sector which it is charged with overseeing in an energetic and conscientious manner.

The regulatory agency is the Idaho Public Utilities Commission, and those being regulated are the Idaho Power Co., and the Utah Power and Light Co., both of which have been screaming bloody murder because of a recent PUC decision. At issue is the desire of the utilities to inflict upon their customers the danger and expense of a much needed power plant.

Earlier this year Idaho Power and Utah Power and Light proposed to the PUC that they be allowed to charge their customers expenses up to a total of $200,000 per utility (a total of up to $400,000) for the purpose of conducting a study of the feasibility of constructing a jointly-owned atomic power plant. In May the PUC approved the request for the study, but the following or the study, but with the following stipulations: payment of the money collected, as a result of any rate increase necessitated by the feasibility study, to the utilities be deferred until after the PUC determined whether the cost of the study was a legitimate operating expense; and that the consultant chosen to conduct the study be subject to PUC approval.

Those two eminently reasonable conditions have prompted both utilities to introduce motions before the PUC to withdraw from the proposed study. The reasons behind Idaho Power's and Utah Power and Light's attempts to withdraw are not difficult to surmise. The first PUC stipulation threatens the utilities very reason for being: profit; and the second PUC stipulation, very much connected to the first, goes a long way towards insuring that in impartial consultant would be hired.

It's easy to understand why Idaho Power and Utah Power and Light are upset at such a prospect -- the usual practice of utilities when hiring consultants, is to hire individuals of groups with close ties to the nuclear industry. For example, many consultants work for such major nuclear contractors as G.E. and Westinghouse.

The instant conflict of interest in which such consultants are placed the conflict between producing a fair study and drumming up as much business as possible for their companies when conducting feasibility studies for utilities has generally been ignored by the regulatory agencies. Thus, the serum of rage over the PUC's decision to have a say in the choice of a consultant are easily understandable. An official of Idaho Power and Light put it like this: "Some states where along the line this intrusion into what is essentially a management perquisite must be halted." (quoted in the August 19th Idaho Statesman)

If you're wondering why Idaho Power and Utah Power and Light would respond this way, remember this: the more utilities have invested in facilities, the higher their profits. The reason for that is that rates are based on the amount of money that utilities have invested in their facilities, and that includes borrowed funds. So, as long as they can borrow money at an interest rate lower than their allowed rate of return, utilities have an incentive to build new power plants even if there is absolutely no need for such plants.

Given those facts, energy prospects for the future will remain dismal as long as the utilities remain in private hands. Prospects for the immediate future in Idaho are not very bright either; Idaho Power's friends (there are a lot of them) will attempt to get the PUC that the PUC decision will probably take form in an effort to reduce funding for the PUC staff to negative numbers. If PUC staff funding is slashed, it would have the effect of making the PUC much more dependent on information supplied by the utilities in its decision making.

If you're puzzled by the title of my column here's the story: it's a derivative of the title of the Beatles song "Back in the U.S.S.R." I chose it because I thought it might stimulate people into considering how similar the social systems of the U.S.A. and U.S.S.R. are: both countries are ruled by swollen bureaucratic systems; both bureaucracies are engaged in an insatiable arms race which is not only diverting huge amounts of resources from human needs, but is quite probably leading to a nuclear holocaust.

In both countries ordinary people have very little control over their own lives; in both countries the economic systems are thinly disguised forms of slavery... in the U.S.A. people are kept in line by the AFL-CIO, repressive labor legislation, and an 8 per cent unemployment rate - in the U.S.S.R. the government is the sole employer and controls all the labor unions; in both countries the governments have attempted to stifle dissent, the ruling elite in the U.S.S.R. more successfully than the ruling elite in the U.S.A.

Hoffman welcomes back students

Fellow Students:

I'd like to take this opportunity to welcome everyone back to campus with the hope that you are better prepared to begin class than I am. It's always difficult to make the adjustment from summertime, and the freedom that goes with it, to the rigid schedule of the school year; however, once we're over that initial hurdle I'm sure the year will be a good one for us all.

One method of insuring a good year is to get involved.
There are a great many opportunities for involvement on campus. Of course, the student government needs to fill a number of important positions and is looking for good people for these spots. If you would be interested, please apply to the student body offices, second floor of the Student Union.
There is something for almost everyone so I hope you will at least check to see what positions are available.

As was the case last April and May, I will be writing a short column each week to let you know what your student government is doing. This first article can probably best be utilized to discuss the issue of alcohol on campus. There have been some very important developments concerning this question over the past three months. First let me give a little bit of background. Nearly a year and a half ago, the students of Idaho's state institutions of higher learning (BSU, U of I, Lewis-Clark) filed suit against the State Board of Education over the right of students to possess and consume alcohol on campus. This suit was initiated not because the student associations were advocating drinking or drunkenness but rather because they were advocating student rights.
As soon as the suit was filed, the State Board immediately entered a motion to have the case dismissed on the grounds that the various student associations were entities of the state and therefore could not sue the state. The motion was denied, thus establishing the right of students' associations to sue.
This, in itself, made the suit worthwhile, but there was more to come.

In the early days of the suit, the students' attack was aimed at the constitutionality of the prohibition of alcohol on campus. As the case progressed, however, it became apparent that the state board policy governing alcohol on campus had been incorrectly adopted.
On these grounds, the judge ruled the board's policy null and void in May of this year.

Yes, the students have won the alcohol suit. There is, at this time, no policy at any level prohibiting alcohol on campus.
The campus is governed solely by the laws of the State of Idaho, I.e., alcohol may be consumed by anyone over the age of nineteen. (The one exception is the classroom, where all food and drink are prohibited.) It must be remembered, however, that the students did not prevail due to favorable resolution of the constitutional questions.
The suit was, won on a technicality. The issue of constitutionality was never even addressed.

This means that our position at this time is a tenuous one.
The State Board has decided not to take action. This, however, leaves the decision in the hands of a very conservative legislature.

The reason I went into all of this detail is to impress upon you the fact that the newly acquired right to drink could easily be taken away during the next legislative session. Of course, the student government will be working diligently to stop any bill outlawing alcohol on campus, but our best safeguard against prohibition is our own behavior. We must, over the next five months, prove that we are mature enough to handle alcohol on campus. Any incident of disorderly conduct while under the influence of alcohol on BSU's campus will put our chances to maintain the right to drink in jeopardy.

The alcohol suit cost the students of Idaho quite a bit of time and money, but it has paid off. We have proved that we can stand up to high level administration and win. We have established ourselves as a viable legal entity. Now that we've come this far, let's not blow it.
Any negative incident involving alcohol will not only endanger the right to drink but will seriously damage the credibility of students on many other issues.

As was the case last April and May, I will be working a short

Viewing the question from all sides

By Jean King

Much has been said about "Women's Lib" and the "Liberated Man..." "Child..." "Dog..." etc. ad infinitum; ad nauseam. In society's mad rush to categorize and label everything, once again the forest is ignored and much attention is lavished upon the trees.

What about all the people out there? All of those millions of people who, when motivation is sufficient, can become united into a force too great to be described? Individuals need to be treated individually, this is true. But a world so divided and at odds with itself does not need further division and classification. An attempt should be made to present all sides of a question, problem or situation in a manner that can bring people closer together. Too much has already been done to drive them further apart.

With this goal in mind, your columnist will endeavor to present any and all available views on any question ARBITER readers may care to pose. Suggestions (other than where I can put this column) may be written or called into the ARBITER office. Requests for anonymity will be honored. These questions will be presented in this column as time, space, and the availability of valid research materials allows.

"Women's Lib" or "Feminism" as the movement has become more popularly known is a topic uppermost in the minds of a large number of people. An explanation of what "Feminism" is all about will be attempted. Some of the goals of feminists will be examined and delineated. Male, (chauvinists too) attitudes toward "Feminism" will be outlined. Arguments for and against "Feminism" from both male and female readers will be welcome and will be presented as they come in.

Minority problems and racial attitudes toward minorities will be the topics of several columns. Hopefully some constructive suggestions for dealing with these areas will be born as a result of the input of the readers of this column.

Single parents, often have problems or find themselves in situations which are not normally faced by couples, with or without children. How does the present-Day Care situation aid or fail to aid the single parent? Is single parent divorce a viable solution to the problems which are unique to her/him?

How has divorce changed the lives of so many of us? Now that the incidence of divorce is steadily rising, is it more average to be married or divorced?

What happens when the wife is the one who packs the suitcase and runs away? Why does she do it? How does a single father cope with full time custody of children? Does he have problems that a single parent mother doesn't have?

Look around you and count the number of R.S.U. students who are over 20...over 40...over 50. The age of returning and/or first time students is steadily climbing. These students must have very different motivations and life styles than those of the average younger student. Exploring this particular field could help to narrow the generation gap. Perhaps a closer relationship between the younger and the older student could result.

Some people feel that marriage, at least in its standard form, is a dying institution. How widespread is this opinion? What are the alternatives? Is "living together" a viable option or is it another form of marriage? What are the advantages and disadvantages of both legal and illegitimate marriage and the "living together" option?

Then there is the theory o people with "multiple personalities" or "incapable" children. The word "illegitimate," when applied to children, gags me personally and I use it advisedly. Are unattached women, who choose to rear their children, faced with the same prejudicial attitudes which were prevalent a few years ago? If not, how have they changed? What are their special problems? How do divorced fathers feel about their children and what are their special problems?

The rise of "feminism" has focused attention on "gay" issues. A great many people feel that to be a feminist means to be a Lesbian. How true is this concept? How do "straight" feminists feel about "gay" feminists? It will be interesting to discover just how much is known or understood about "gay" women by the average heterosexual being.

Male homosexuality is and has always been with us, but it has seemed to fade into the background because of the emphasis placed on Lesbianism.

How much is understood about either facet of homosexuality? If we knew and understood more about both male and female "gays" would we be more tolerant or less?

How does a heterosexual person feel when temporarily placed in a "gay" world? How does that person cope? Would such a situation change that person's opinion about homosexuality?

The questions mentioned in this first column are a sample of the many, many questions that concern the people on this planet Earth. While the more illustrious members of our society set their sights on the outer limits of the universe, perhaps we here at the ARBITER can take one infinitesimal step towards understanding the rest of us so that we may face whatever is "out there!"
LDS Institute lists activities for school year

For those who are new at Boise State or would like information about LDS activities, here are the answers to a few basic questions about the campus LDS Institute:

WHAT IS INSTITUTE?
The Institute is the religious education arm of the Church of Jesus Christ for young adults.

WHERE IS INSTITUTE?
The Boise LDS Institute is located at 1929 University Drive, right across from Boise State University. The phone Number is 344-8549. The Student number for social cards etc., is 344-8549.

WHO MAY ATTEND?
Institute classes are primarily designed for Young Adults, ages 18-25, who are no longer in high school and are attending a university, vocational-trade school, or working full or part time. Students of all ages are welcome. Young Adult age and are not in school may attend classes by paying a higher tuition fee. Classes are open without concern for race, sex or color to any person willing to maintain LDS standards while attending.

WHAT DOES IT COST?
Registration fee for adults is $18.00 per person for each semester, Texrbooks, manuals, and materials used in some classes are not included in the registration fee.

WHERE AND WHEN MAY I REGISTER?
Registration will take place at the Institute building between 9:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. on August 29 and 30th, immediately after registration of the first week of the course. Classes begin August 29th. See description of courses for class schedules.

The 120 member Blue Devil drum corps of Concord, California, scored 90.9 points to take the Western Regional competition. The annual event, held August 11th at Bronco Stadium drew 5500 interested spectators, who witnessed the near flawless performance of 1976's International Champions. Long regarded as the finest drum corp in the United States the Blue Devil's collected $500 first prize and an invitation to Denver, in which to defend their title. The Blue Devils captured the high horn award, the high general effect, as well as the marching and maneuvering award on the way to the regional championship. Santa Clara's Vanguard collected 87.9 points and $300 for second place, followed by La Crosse, Wisconsin's Blue Stars who captured the third place prize of $200 with an accumulative $3.9.

Students doubt wisdom of registration format

DEAR EDITOR:

We sincerely feel that proposed changes in registration policy at Boise State University are limiting the opportunity for continuing students. Changes of this nature should be fully disclosed during the planning phases, so that students may make the intelligent informed decisions vital to planning their educational careers.

Students were stunned to discover that their years at Boise State University were rewarded by a loss of priority in obtaining the dwindling number of specific classes needed to fulfill graduation requirements. If an institution is administered with students uppermost in all phases of planning, there is no need for stop-gap measures to lure freshman into remaining at that university. If the university is insensitive, however, it cannot expect students to attend to their own volitions.

The reputation of a school rests upon the quality of its graduates, and ignoring the needs of upperclassmen will cause more students to look elsewhere to continue their education. We certainly hope this change in policy will occur before registration plant is finalized for spring and subsequent registration.

Sincerely yours,
Leilie Taylor

dale came out and people saw the changes that were taking place that there would be some consternation but I don't think this is a situation peculiar to Boise State."

Advisors also cause registration problems, Bulington said. "Advisors will allow juniors and seniors to delay taking some 100 and 200 level classes until the last moment before graduation, this is taking away from freshmen who really should have the classes."

In the area of funding, Bulington said Boise State should be grateful to the State Board and the Legislature for supporting the needs of the institution. "Since Boise State came into the system and there was another hungry mouth to feed we have done well and should be grateful. We obviously haven't gotten everything we wanted when we wanted it but then neither have the other institutions."

"I really feel that the state, with respect to the resources it has available, has done a very good job in providing for the needs of Boise State. As long as we are realistic in our request we'll get what we need," Bulington said in the 1968-69 academic year, Boise State had about 160 fulltime faculty. "This year when we open our doors we will have 414 full time faculty and that is a tremendous increase. It is no small expense. Higher education in Idaho is like having a city of 800 thousand trying to support 4 institutions."

This year Boise State's top priorities before the State Board are support staff for occupying the new science-education building, additional faculty to implement a bachelors degree in radiologic technology, a new program in construction management and computer upgrading.

The most important academic facility still needed, according to Bulington, is an arts and humanities building. "This is to give appropriate facilities to the music, drama and communications departments," he said.

Currently these departments are housed in various offices around the campus. The communication department, for example, has some faculty housed on the second floor of the administration building and some faculty offices are in houses in the outlying areas of the campus.

Dr Bulington has been with Boise State for 9 years as vice-president of academic affairs. He did Doctoral work at the University of Arizona and also held positions with the Air Force. He held the position of principal in several public schools in the Phoenix and Scottsdale, Arizona area. He was also chairman of the department of elementary education at Arizona State University.
Carole King: a sound to behold

by Freddie Vincent

Carole King was truly appreciated by those who attended her concert at BSU’s Bronco Stadium Monday night. As soon as she appeared on stage, the audience gave her a standing ovation lasting five minutes before her performance in front of 5,000 raving fans and personal friends.

King sang some of her hits from the “Tapestry” and other past albums (“It’s Too Late,” “Jazz Man,” “Will You Love Me Tomorrow?” and selections) from her latest LP, “Simple Things,” released a month ago.

The new LP, released on her own record label, Avatar (Capitol Records), contains a variety of melodies written by Miss King and partner Rick Evers, who writes some of Carole’s newer material. The album also features Navarro, the back-up group, or, as King puts it, “side-by-side band.” Navarro makes their debut on their own album “Listen,” which is also being released on the Avatar label.

Navarro hails from Boulder, Colorado. The group consists of Mark Hallman, acoustic and electric guitar and keyboards; Robert McEntee, who also is an excellent guitarist, plays keyboards and sometimes shares lead roles with Hallman; Rob “Pom” Galloway on bass; Guatemalan Miguel Riveras on percussion, Michael Westen on drums and Richard Hardy playing flute and saxophone.

Navarro’s style of music is a mixture of that jazzy rock feeling which blends naturally with King’s style and produces a sound that doesn’t detract from her reputation as one of the biggest stars in the music industry.

“Tapestry,” the all-time best selling album in history, was released in 1970 and is still today one of the most popular LP’s in the record business.

Chances are this concert will be recorded as the best in the history of Boise. King’s first three selections were done without the aid of Navarro. She simply sat at the piano and sang — as though she was in a kaleidoscopic trance. The audience was captivated by her voice which demanded undivided attention. Even the acoustics were unbelievable. Every note was as clear as if it was being recorded in a soundproof studio, considering the problem of echoes at previous concerts held at Bronco Stadium.

When Navarro finally joined King in other selections, they formed a unit that was truly part of her art.

King’s concert will end a national tour of sold-out performances. She is a temporary resident in the Boise Valley, but her commitments keep her on the road much of the time. Maybe in the near future she can return and perform for the many Boiseans who love her. She will certainly be welcomed with a standing ovation.

Fair open at registration

Everyone is invited to the Organizational Fair this Thursday and Friday between the Student Union Building and the Gymnasium during registration. The fair will be set up in two large tents. Inside the tents will be a band, Black Rose; popcorn, hot dogs, free watermelon, hot dogs, free watermelon, cold drinks, bottled water, snow cones and representatives from between 30 and 40 various campus organizations and interest groups.

love fresh, dripping with butter, corn on the cob? Think perhaps you can eat more than anyone else? Well, if you can, you can win the opportunity to try on Saturday, Sept. 3rd at the Western Idaho Fair. A corn eating contest will be sponsored on that day by Idaho Mountain Search and Rescue and Radio station KGEM!

The fresh corn for the contest will be supplied by Idaho Mountain Search and Rescue and the corn entry booth on the food midway. The sale of fresh corn on the cob during the annual Western Idaho Fair is Idaho Mountain Search and Rescue’s major fund raising effort each year. Since the unit receives no funds from any other agency, the public is asked to patronize the corn booth to help Mountain Search and Rescue continue its volunteer work.

Remember the date for the corn eating contest, Sept. 3rd at the Western Idaho Fair!

Northern Arizona

We all chuckled about NAU bumbling in the cellar again last season. The 6-6 mark including an 8-3 rout of Boise State, Northern Arizona proved they were for real. It wasn’t an idle joke that coach Doc Criner’s Bobcats, with their usually impressive teams, this policy of playing the freshmen and nonreturning starters has turned all heads to the Pullsang campus in amazement. The Bobcat’s problem is: What do they do at Quarterback? Salem’s team is man for man the most experienced in the Big Sky. The high scoring offensive returners Herb Daniel at quarterback, Carl Golden who averaged 83.2 yards per game rushing, along with vet backs Alan Clark and Robert Fouler, both of whom are Juniors and have two varsity years behind them. Daniel is the heralded star in the state, leading the state and speed within the twentY yard line. Size and speed are the most important attributes in the game of football. The offense of the Bobcats was at its best, but the defense, in fact, just one man and looking to spoil every ones fun. His year may be better, but away, but he’ll have to settle for third in the grid wars of 1977. The Lumberjacks open the season Sept. 3 hosting South Dakota State. This may not be the true test of NAU’s potential, but it will give the Bobcats a week to work in their ‘new’ offense. In all the Broncos sport one of the most experienced defensive team, but the anable interstate电路 doesn’t look like it is going to be an easy one. There is no time for gloating in the Bobcat camp, only a long, difficult eleven weeks ahead. Sonny Holland has received a lot of national attention, but the anable interstate circuit isn’t likely to let him celebrate status stand by the fact that he lost only four men this season. The support will be strong at tailback but is being overlooked due to the lack of a suitable back up. The team doctors have advised Hogan is slated as the number one slot as is Pickett. Hoskin Hogan, Dee Pickett and Randy Britzman and Shawn Beaton return to the Bobcat camp, only a long, difficult eleven weeks ahead. Hollands club has a less than beamng outlook, i.e. a ground attack that cannot equal last year’s 2600 yard attack and the loss of its defensive stand outs. Sonny Hollands system is one of the best in the country, patching the enormous offensive front, finding a capable returning center Larry Polowski, working 24 high school recruits into his system. Though he bypassed the recruitment of All-Americans, his younger players show depth, speed and quickness. They will be indoctrinated early into Sonny’s brand of football and progress, replacement of his capables starters in seasons to come. Hollands club is riding high, but cannot afford to get sluggish. In typical Holland style they will be strong, but if they don’t step it up, they have no ambition of letting last season become a recovery of the year when.

The Independent Aggies return 25 people to camp, boosting Coach Bruce Snyder’s hopes for a winning season. After a dismal start in ’76, the Aggies rallied in the second half of the season to finish 3-3. The record belies the strength of the club though, and they will definitely give the “Broncos trouble come October 29. From USC comes tailback Kurt Hellmer, joining starting QB Keith Myers in the backfield. The line is stocked, with transfers Ernest Cealona and Dan Jackovich, but otherwise remains one of the weaker points of the over-all club strengths.

The defensive front keys around new faces, particularly Joe Wills and Dennis McCal-lies. Linebacking is strong with Will Withers, Kelly Streich and home grown Claude Nelson. By the virtue of their independent status, Utah State is not governed by rules pertaining to red-shirt status. With the flood of transfers from large schools that Aggies can’t help but benefit from their presence.

That 3-8 record may change for the better, but the same menaces that caught the Aggies short last year are back: San Jose St., H.Y.U., Wyoming, to name a few. Add to that Memphis State, then Penn State (Yup, them too) 3 weeks before the B.S.U. game, you might see that Utah State is no pushover and don’t play as such. And help as all if another Louie Giammona lurks on the bench somewhere.

Nevada -Reno

Coming off an impressive, yet deceptive 8-3 ’76 effort, the Wolf Pack boasts impressive people, in two works. Jeff Tisel. Coach Chris Alt is placed the burden on Tisel’s should-ers to carry the club in 1977. Tisel directed a wing offense responsible for 470 yards per game, that made up a good part of his 2,542 yards in the air. Sophomore Jeff Wright snared a school record 55 passes as a freshman, and will return to form this season. Wayne Fer-guson (672 yards) is in the backfield with standout Steve Senuri back at tight end.

David Han and Roberto Salmer make up the strength of the offensive front, while Roberto’s brother Carl (6-3, 245) joins Casey Stevens as holwarks on the defensive line.

Howard Dodge is a capable linebacker, with Alex Willis is the plus in the secondary.

Reno hosts B.S.U., Oct. 15 in windy Mackay Stadium. The contest will prove a pivotal match-up for both teams, in particular Reno, to see if that remarkable ’76 effort can be realized, again.

Coach Tony Knap (name ring a bell?) moves into his second year at the Rebel helm and his first outing in Div. I football. Gone is QB Glen Carano, but returns senior Greg Van Ness and 31 year old sophomore Calon Kelly. Well, along with those two, Knap returns backs Brian Cobb, Darrel Moore and perhaps ’76’s top club rusher Raymond Strong. The line is back luster, with exceptions at tight end where Eric Anderson returns. Dave Reali, Randy Rizo and Alphonso Williams are back on the defensive line, while Aaron Mitchell and Andre Jones are tops in the secondary.

Knap has a long history of winning (71-19 B.S.U.) football teams, but going in is a little tougher by virtue of newly acquired states. The Rebels play a host of Big Sky teams, plus Div I toughs San Diego State and Troy State.

Coach Tony Knap (name ring a bell?) moves into his second Terry Falco (6-4, 270) and Guy joins Betters on the line that in very long to find that right combination to tighten up his front. Sam Martin (6-3, 235) Carlson has a host of linemen to form and hold up the defensive tackle positions. Converted full-back for his senior year along with Washington State transfer Steve Bingham (6-5, 230) will open at to tighten the ailing back field. backfield along with Greg Bitancourt and Doug Egbert steps into the backs, Tim Kerr, Mike Roban of it's top pass receivers Paul" ald and one begins to see just again tangles in the Big Sky.

Ron Hand are back from hist ship (or escape). But in truth some measure of respect:ibiIity, ences' finest rifle, passing for 240) and nose guard Tim Townsend (6-1, 270) to fill the gaps left by the departure at tackle. Juro transfer Curt Didier looks to snare much at tight end; its the Bengals' design to dump the week in favor of a pass oriented T formation. The defense (that in the past claimed ISU's reputation) lost linebackers Preston Millard, Billy Reed another set of valuable players, not easily replaced. The line is shot and must be filled fast, as must the porous secondary which sustained five graduation losses. The Bengals, under Hake, shall improve; we all remember the sudden growth of N.A.U. from loser to scourg. The Bengals might surprise everyone in three years.

The Wildcats left Bronco Stadium last November with nothing to look forward to, but the next season; even that didn't seem so promising. Lost was Rod Backwoldt, the conference's finest rifle, passing for 2,268 yards in 1976. Behind Backwoldt the Wildcats managed some measure of respectability, including a victory over Idaho State for the cellar champion ship (or escape). But in truth Weber State isn't that bad of a ball club. Transfers Pat Ford and Morris Bleidt remain on the inside track to become the heart of Backwoldt's passing throne. Ruinger are Eric Hill and Mark Linnemen, a capable duo in the backfield, who could pick up the slack if the passing game should falter.

One defensive front is highest on Coach Pete Riehlman's list, seeing that five of his seven linemen finished their careers. Don Williams, Jack White, and Ron Hand are back from last year along with transpons Buck Clark and Ted Looney. Riehlman will have to make a thorough unit of these men at defensive end if offense is to get the ground and into the air, preferably whole. Former head coach Dick Queian threw his hands up and couldn't see it when his defense just couldn't hold up. Kevin Coles (6-3, 240) a juc newcomer joins Kevin Harnum and John Connelly on a beefed-up defense. Tight end Mike McGraw and picture-perfect McGreavy and John Merl, both of whom return, All Big Sky pick. Doug Battershill is joined by Dennis Dunnson, Makey Boss and Mark Barlak, who should shine at an alluring secondary.

Wildcats will open the season, (6-4, 240) at guards, with Steve Franklin at fullback. Chuck Shepman's" team fairs against one of the toughest in Bronco history. The Bulldogs are the first of three Div I squads on the B.S.U. schedule. How well Criner's crew fares against Fresno could very well shed light on their success for the rest of the season.

The Pacific Coast Conference may not be the caliber of sister Pac-8 yet the quality of play is just as excellent. Jim Sweeney swings into his second season as head coach and is hoping to bypass San Jose State State on the way to the PCAA title. This is a school that can surpass his predecessor by the virtue of returning personnel, in particular QB Dean Jones. Running the 'rec', Jones compiled 1342 total offense as junior in '74. Dayton looks strong at tailback with Steve Franklin at fullback. The Idaho Defensive backfield returns seven lettermen, notably All-Coast selection ChuckSher mick and Mike Harper, who return also. No one begins to see just again tangles in the Big Sky.

The Offense looks to snare much at tight end; its the Bengals' design to dump the week in favor of a pass oriented T formation. The defense (that in the past claimed ISU's reputation) lost linebackers Preston Millard, Billy Reed another set of valuable players, not easily replaced. The line is shot and must be filled fast, as must the porous secondary which sustained five graduation losses. The Bengals, under Hake, shall improve; we all remember the sudden growth of N.A.U. from loser to scourg. The Bengals might surprise everyone in three years.

The line spoken of will see Joe Dahlen (6-3, 300) and Dave Wiggam (6-6, 240) at guards, with Nick Mayer and Brian Zimmerman, both Juro trans- fers at tackles. Tarno's depar ture opens the way for senior Joe Kramer (6-3, 237) to battle at center with Mike Clark, junior (6-3, 234).

Trues's choice at quarterback could very well decide the over-all performance of his club. Rocky Turtle, who saw off and on action last year, will share duties with senior Greg Turner. Jutener, who gained fame as a Juro passer, led the Vandals last year with 2200 yards. Turtle has the edge as of now, running a newly installed veer offense.

Defensively, Trues lost line- backers Bill Kieland and leading tackler Kiel Klinsgurad.

But with the return of D.E. Chris Torney (6-4, 230) along with B.S.U. all too many times with the very sparkplug that Trues feels can put his club into contention with the rest of the div. Rutgers to spoil Nittany Lions' Top 10 debut

By Jerry Richards and Tate Simmons with S. L. Lewis

The afternoon of September 3 will kick off what promises to be one of the more enigmatic and less predictable college football seasons to date. Consider:

--- Notre Dame, the always powerful but usually overrated football Mecca of the Midwest, comes back from a national 12th spot fully loaded and could make Ohio State and Michigan look silly in comparison— but watch for the usual overrating.

--- Pittsburgh, undefeated in twelve games (including the Sugar Bowl) last year, is plagued with ghosts, not the least of which are rags-to-riches head coach Johnny Majors and Heisman Trophy winning running back Tony Dorsett. Can rookie head coach Jackie Sherrill come up with the strength necessary to exercise these unsevered visitations and get the fans’ minds off this year's team?

--- The Southeastern Conference, bastion of the South's famed perennial name-brand teams as the Alabama Crimson Tide, Georgia Bulldogs, Tennessee Volunteers, Auburn Tigers— would unexpectedly be over-shadowed by (who?) Mississippi State. And watch out, God help any team who is willing to wager on one of the other three.

--- Now, with all this drama just left to unfold, what's going on in college football on September 3? No telling. Well, next to nothing.

--- Rutgers, 11-0 last season and never invited to a bowl game, entertaints Penn State in a game scheduled at the last minute.

--- South Carolina at Appalachian: A pair of Carolina teams squaring off usually means defense takes a back seat. These two feel lucky. Neither has a defense.

--- USC vs. Arizona State 31 Dayton at Miami (Ohio): More than anything, a matter of pride. Miami had its first losing season in 35 years in '76, and nothing looks to indicate anything but a repeat of last year's thrashing of the Flyers.

--- Memphis State vs. Mississippi (at Jackson): The MU Tigers are a rising, young squad that should be a real Top 20 threat within at least a year. The Rebels were mediocre last year, and if anything will probably sink lower.

--- Penn State at Kent State: Two teams with the talent to be Top 20 threats, and the same problem— no defense.

--- Tennessee at Georgia: A pair of Georgia teams, both with no defense.

--- bridal rosters due September 15

--- September 15th marks the last day to submit rosters for the annual Intramural Program at B.S.U. Among the sports offered are men's flag football, coed tennis and softball. Flag football will be played on evenings in the turf in Bronco Stadium with teams composed of fraternities, dorm clubs and all interested individuals willing to play.

--- Softball will see its action taking place on the north green, next to the auxiliary gym. Scheduling is such that those who are interested may play in both men's and women's softball and the co-ed league action.

--- Men and women are urged to participate in singles, doubles, and mixed doubles, during the tennis tournament on the courts by the main gym.

--- All interested are urged to submit complete rosters, no later than September 15th, to room 203 in the gym. The play commences September 19, and all are invited to participate.
