Four Honored At Appreciation Banquet

Three Boise State students and a BSU Administrator were the recipients of special honors for leadership roles in the life of the University. The occasion last Monday, March 12, was the Annual Student Recognition Dinner, hosted by BSU and held in the SUB Ballroom.

The program included dinner, prepared by the Sages Food Service, a welcome and introductions by Dr. David Taylor, Vice-President for Student Affairs, an introduction of former ASB Executive Officers by Dyke Nally, Alumni Director and entertainers by Sylvia Cotton and Donny Lowbar, the first and second place winners of last fall’s Great American Talent Show.

Keynoting the evening, Dr. John Keiser, President of Boise State University, spoke of the importance of effectiveness in leadership, the ability to state important issues in compelling language, an understanding and mastery of politics, and the rules of law with the conviction that peaceful resolution can lead to perfect results. Keiser also noted that student leaders are interested in the same issues as others “...constitutions on campuses. Only the perspective is different.” Concluding that “just plain good management should be able to handle most of our routine problems,” Keiser called for a return to spiritual and humanistic values; for an increase in self-development activities; for a new acceptance of our limits;...for a renewal of scientific and humanistic inquiry; and for a move toward a more realistic, linear planning to achieve the new paradigm of quality.”

Representatives of all areas of administrative leadership, students, alumni and administrators joined in the applause as was presented to outstanding students who have contributed toward a better BSU. The Director’s Award, presented by Student Activities and Student Union Directors, was presented to Dr. David Taylor, President of Boise State Public Relations Director, Patrick Thomas for his performance in the area of student activities, including an outstanding job of putting together last fall’s talent show.

The ASBSU Award, presented by Rob Perez, went to Chris Hansen, ASB Treasurer, for his role in advising the ASB President on numerous occasions and for his excellent job in setting up and maintaining the financial records of the student organization.

The “The Idaho Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee broke its longest budget impasse in eight years on March 8 by recommending that Idaho’s universities and colleges receive a 1.4 percent budget increase for fiscal ’79-’80. The recommendation of $59.1 million for Idaho’s four institutions of higher education is $1.5 million below the recommendation of Governor John Evans and $3.3 million below the recommendation of the House Education Committee. University President John Keiser also recommended that the recommended funding could result in a reduction of 33 non-faculty jobs at the BSU. He also noted that he did not anticipate a reduction in faculty beyond the twelve instructors notified last week of the non-renewal of their contracts. The $17.6 million that BSU would receive if it receives the same share of the general fund allocation as last year, is about $25,000 more than the current university budget.

In an attempt to inform university personnel concerning the choices available to BSU because of limited funding, Keiser will talk to all BSU personnel this Friday.

BSU students desiring to qualify for financial aid for the 1979-80 academic year should now begin submitting the appropriate forms to the Career and Financial Services advisor, Esperanza Nee. The final deadline for applications is April 1. Any applications received after that date will be processed on a first come, first serve basis.

To determine eligibility for any need-based grants or other types of aid, a student must file a Financial Aid Form (FAF) and an Idaho application for Financial Aid in time for that information to be received by BSU by April 1. Short term loans, Guaranteed Student Loans, and aid from the Idaho Migrant Council, or that obtained through a tribal agency require special forms other than the FAF. BSU Career and Financial offices provide these. Initial processing time takes between two and six weeks depending on what type of aid is being applied for.

Applicants for financial aid should receive their notification by June of this year. Students granted aid must return the necessary forms to be guaranteed that aid award will be made.

This year many types of aid are available. Funds have been increased for a number of them. They include: (1) Basic Educational Opportunity Grant (BEQG) which may allocate $200-1800 to eligible students. Recently Congress passed the Middle Income Student Assistance Act which lowered the eligibility criteria for this particular program. According to Ms. Nee, the BSU office will operate on an eligibility award increase of 40% over last year. Approximately 60% of the BEQG grants are selected for validation. Thus, the student must submit additional documentation to the aid officer before any BEQG payments can be made.

(2) Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant (SEOG) - These grants are designed for the student of exceptional need. It is necessary that either the student or his/her parents be able to provide half of the student’s educational expenses.

(3) State Student Incentive Grant - This grant involves funds from federal, state, and institutional areas and are reserved for the exceptionally needy.

(4) Work-Study Program, where students are paid to hold part-time jobs on the BSU campus and may work around their class schedules. There are two programs that fund this type of aid. First is the federally funded College Work Study Program which will be more available in the next year, and then there is the BSU Work Study Program. The BSU program may be eliminated as a result of the outcome of the 1% Initiative. (5) Scholarships are available to qualified students on both a need and an academic criteria. Awards of available monies are usually made by the affected University department. Deadlines for applications were set for March 1.

There are also a variety of loan programs and available loans for the coming academic year. Loans, of course, must be repaid following graduation.

(1) National Direct Student Loan program - This national program charges students an interest rate of 3% and has a repayment plan also has a tuition assistance program - This national program is designed for law enforcement-agency, and the federal and state government insures the state agencies involved.

(3) Short Term Loans - These funds are available for emergency and are loaned at a first come, first serve basis. The loan must be repaid within 90 days or a 5% interest will be charged at the end of that period. According to Ms. Nee, "We always run out of money around registration time."

Financial aid for the first semester of summer school will only be available in the form of National Direct Student Loans. Awards for the second session will be made based on the 1979-80 information. There are also special financial aid programs that fund this type of aid.

(1) Nursing Student Loan and the Nursing Scholarship grant - There will be no new monies for these two programs and their funds will be distributed this year. (2) Those students who are one-quarter Indian may apply through their tribal agency for assistance.

(5) The Idaho Migrant Council also has a tuition assistance program. Information on any of the programs mentioned here, may be had at the Career and Financial Services Office in room 117 of the Career and Financial Services Office in room 117 of the Student Services Building. Students are encouraged to call 385-1664. Help for students in filling out the FAF is available. Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 1:00 to 4:00 in room 117 and Tuesday and Thursday from 1:00 to 4:00 at the same location.
1% Strikes Art Gallery

Continued from cover source with major western museum, the Oakland Art Museum, Stanford Art Museum, Seattle Art Museum and a number of smaller galleries throughout the West. The total expenses for the past year for the programs budget alone was $74,986. In that time the city of Boise contributed $40,360, 33% to the Gallery's total income budget of $50,788.

The President's Award, presented by Dr. Keiter, went to Sally Thomas, Editor of the University Arbiter, for her active interest in the promotion of academic excellence on the campus. In addition to her dedication and work toward establishing the student newspaper as an example of professional student journalism.

A special award was presented by Perez and Mike Hoffman, former ABP President, to Dr. Richard Bunting, Assistant Vice-President of BSU, for his contributions toward the academic quality of Boise State.

The evening concluded with a note of mutual recognition and dedication as congratulations for a "job well done" were extended to students, faculty, and to all student leaders of Boise State University.

Academic Notice

The Boise State University Core Curriculum Revision Committee will hold open meetings and hear suggestions. Meetings will be held in the government and administration building, second floor, Room 223. Meetings will be held on Wednesdays at 4:00 P.M. beginning October 1 and ending January 31, 1980. Anyone interested is invited to attend, present their views on the core curriculum, ask questions, and to hear comments.

Openings for Residence Hall Workers

The Office of Student Residential Life is accepting applications for student employment for a variety of summer and year-round positions. The majority of openings are for jobs associated with residence hall operation, conferences and workshop facilitation, and general maintenance work.

Available positions include:
- Conference Coordinator, Housing Host, Resident Advisor, Resident Director, Senior Housing Host, Student Painter, Student Worker Supervisor, and Student Worker.
- Theoretical applicants should have a minimum of one year live-in experience in residence hall or applicable experience in a residential setting. Previous work experience in BSU residence halls or involvement in student government or programming is preferred. Applicants must be in good academic standing (2.0 minimum for undergraduate, or 3.0 minimum for graduate). Deadline is April 2, 1979.
- Also, the position of Resident Director is open for 1979-80. The position requires a minimum of a Bachelor's Degree in related area (masters preferred) or equivalent life experience, and experience in group living situation. Duties of the position include supervision and management of a residence hall, counseling, community development, conflict resolution, crisis management, promotion of student development, and programming.

Renumeration will be $5,000 - $7,000 (9 months), depending on size of the hall, education and experience; plus room and board.

Those who are interested, like people, and hard work, should apply at the Office of Student Residential Life, Room 110, in the Administration Building. Job descriptions are to the city's 1979-1980 budget will not be made until the state legislature has concluded its sessions.

Jury to Probe Nuclear Workers Death

PNS (Howard Kohm is currently on leave as an investigative reporter for Rolling Stone to write a book on the Karen Silkwood case.)

OKLAHOMA CITY— The troubling questions surrounding the death of nuclear worker Karen Silkwood were examined during an investigation into nuclear safety problems, will be probed before a federal jury here beginning this week (March 6).

The jury is being asked by the family of an $11.5 million suit by Silkwood's father against her employer, the Kerr-McGee Corporation, an energy conglomerate with headquarters here. But in the process, the nuclear industry's accountability and credibility may have its first legal test.

"For years the industry has been practically immune from scrutiny of any sort," said Danny Sheehan, chief counsel for Silkwood's family. "Now we're going to pull the mask off and let all regular people make up their minds about the dangers of nuclear power." Kerr-McGee has refused to comment on the suit.

Silkwood, driving alone in her tiny Honda car, ran off the road and crashed into a concrete culvert on November 13, 1974, while on her way to deliver a manila folder of Kerr-McGee documents to a New York Times reporter. Just a week earlier she had been contaminated with plutonium, a ferociously toxic substance, when something scintillated a microscopically small amount on a package of pugna, and cheese in her refrigerator.

From the beginning there has been a dispute over both the death and the contamination. Assuming the contamination caused by early March. "The station manager Dave Schwartz."

Schwartz said, but the equipment may be added to so the station may comply with a 100-watt minimum for independent operating FM stations.

PeoplePut KBSU Back In Money
By M. Hughes & Bud Humphrey
They sent it to the people, and the people have spoken. KBSU radio ran a week-long public fund drive, and by last Friday had come up with $5,000 goal. This practically assures the station will operate until more student money is available July 1, according to station manager Dave Schwartz.

Because of the $4,000 budgeting deficit, and what Schwartz called a communication breakdown, the station was broke by early March. "The situation," Schwartz said, "caused us some embarrassment, but instead of panicking we did some brainstorming and decided on a three-prong attack, the first part being the direct appeal.

Last week, the drive revolved around encouraging listeners to become Friends of KBSU. A $2.00 donation will give them the present bumper sticker identifying the donor as a Friend, while a $10.00 donation was worth a year's subscription to the KBSU Program Guide and a Friends of KBSU membership card in addition. Out of all this, Schwartz said he expects to collect a total of $5,000 but already hopes for $5,000 more. He added that the station has attempted to draw more student funds from this year's already deflated budget. "The students have come through with their share, and under the law the student senate isn't the group we're trying to reach. Fifty per cent of our current funds has to be affiliated with the school and the students are the people who always call and tell us with a great job we're doing."

Common Cause also has summer interns, though it's cutting back on the number this year. DC Interns, moreover, are volunteers. They typically arrange to get credit from their schools for the work, though. Deadlines are April 1 for the summer program, and August 1 for the fall program. In both cases, DC will take 30-35 interns for work in areas like administration, legislation, litigation, liaison work with state and local chapters, and issue research.

Students can also spend two months in Congress, earning up to $500 per month. But opportunities in House and Senate offices are sparse. The best way to get to the Hill is to contact a local congressperson, and strike up a friendship with the office manager.

Once in the office, you might find yourself doing odd things. Shari Koonick, an intern for Rep. Ben Gilman (R-NY), found herself performing speed-writing chores as well as serving as a part-time receptionist. Morris Udall (D-AZ) has a more typical operation. He has two or three students, all from his congressional district, answering mail, calling constituents, taking notes at hearings, and writing reports on bills before Congress. Udall in particular prefers people with an interest in political science.

All House and Senate offices can be reached at 202-224-3121. The Public Interest Research Group (202-785-4900) even has an intern coordinator, Florence Dembling. When the money's there, her summer crew gets a modest stipend of $50-$80. Generally, that crew is drawn from people in campus PRG chapters. Dembling requires a resume and writing samples with the applications. Though politics is Washington's cottage industry, there are other things going on here. The National Endowment for the Arts offers 13-week programs that have interns working with media, music, dance, architecture, design, and then extra help with exhibitions. The Carnegie Endowment offers 10-week programs that have interns working with media, music, dance, etc. Design and the National Endowment for the Arts also take 13-week interns that have positions open.

The Agency for International Development (AID), the State Department's foreign assistance office, also works directly through schools. The list of 78 schools is available through 202-632-0010. Quite a few federal agencies end up working through American University in Washington, where the internship program is pretty much one of the areas of interest in public affairs. Dr. David C. Brown (Washington Semester Program, American University, Washington, D.C., 2006) says students at other schools can take advantage of its area internships in economic policy, urban affairs, justice, science and technology, foreign policy, and world development. A course of study is combined with placement in a federal agency.

Ralph Nader's Public Citizen Visitors Center (1200 15th St., N.W., Washington, D.C., 2005) or 202-459-6500 also has a year- round internship program. An intern there might expect to work in editing, research, graphics, publicity and even guided tours, while working a minimum of eight weeks, five days a week. An optional program, linked to one of the special projects, is claimed to reduce drag and to enhance peace. It's a high-efficiency dust control farm that minimizes pollution.

Recent research has concluded several things about obesity: 1) environment is far more important than heredity; 2) fat people are more likely than normal people to eat less fat rather than the other way around; 3) replacing saturated fats with polyunsaturated fats reduces fat intake and in turn reduces hunger.

New photographic techniques produce sharp images of plankton on ships, which, in the future, will be used for controlling overfishing. Also being developed is a technique to produce motion pictures of live, moving plankton right in the ocean for the first time.

Regulars at the Carnegie Institute have been of the view that something in a resume that can be linked to one of the special Brooking's summer projects, lightning may strike. Further information is available at 202-597-6210.

The Carnegie Endowment has also changed its internship program, and now accepts only graduate students. But it works with poll sci departments at various schools, and the schools recommend students directly. For those who want a chance. Daniel Fischer is the man to reach, at 202-367-6480.

WILL BUSL ultimately be a winner along with the candidates who ran for the students who voted for them? The hope is yes, that the individuals who have benefited from their experiences will work diligently. There is talk of a renegade vote. It is true that the core curriculum should be and on whether or not BSU's present core is sufficient. This is a courageous one. There are probably many views on what a core curriculum should be. There are those who feel that, if not for those unselfish, highly motivated and knowledgeable instructors, the value of these experiences will now be used for the common good of BSU. The value of these lessons learned will multiply geometrically when students work together toward a better university for all.

With a larger-than-life task of examining Boise State's core philosophy and the current core requirements on the university's schedule, the Social Science Administration Committee has made reasonable progress toward that goal. It is now prepared to accept student perspectives on the core curriculum, especially views on what a core curriculum should be and on whether or not BSU's present core is sufficient. The move is courageous one. There are probably as many views on what a core curriculum should be as there are possible courses which could be included. And, the core could be considered sufficient if it carries "MY" class. Insufficient if it does not.

What will be of interest during next week's open hearings is the response which will or will not be made to the committee's question, especially the response of students. Generally, the response of students and the faculty of any university recognize that the core curriculum teaches even more of those skills that graduates need to succeed in the Third World-in Nigeria, Haiti, and the like. But the core curriculum touches every facet of that university's existence. Therefore, administration and faculty persons can be expected to be well represented at the hearings. The question bears repeating, what will be the response of students?

In an address given earlier this week, Dr. John Keiser stated that he could not feel sympathy for those who did not take the opportunity to express their ideas on the Pavilion, and who are now complaining because they are dissatisfied with the ideas that others expressed. The same statement can hold true for students who have as much right to be heard as anyone else. And, there is much vested interest in determining the shape of the core of Boise State's curriculum as does another person on the campus-if those students do not respond to the committee's invitation.

Inexperience can not be used as a reason for not responding-each student has had past experience of selecting courses from the BSU catalogue, courses including those required as part of the core. Ignorance can not be considered a valid excuse-committee members will be on hand to answer questions and the library provides a number of books and articles on the subject of core curriculum. If students, and faculty persons can be expected to be well represented at the hearings. The question bears repeating, what will be the response of students?

Dear Editor: [and other readers],

What does Boise have that most other big cities don't have? KBSU! KBSU has given its listeners the opportunity to hear artists such as Charlie Mingus, Tom Waits, Emmylou Harris, Antonio Vivaldi, DEVO, Bob Marley, Bruce Cockbain, Bessie Smith and many others. Listeners also enjoy the various types of music, from new wave to classical to jazz, and even comedy! KBSU! Who invented the idea of playing whole albums on the air-giving previews to all record buyers, in the area? KBSU!

A cultural oasis in a desert of "Top 40," this station truly has something for everybody. Its variety of musical content is very refreshing. When KBSU's programming fills the air with meaningful music, you'll wonder how you ever lived without it.

Please don't let that lifeline be cut. Support KBSU with anything you can. It's necessary.

Sincerely,
Aleta Fairchild

Letters To The Editor

THE UNIVERSITY ARBITER

Editor, The University Arbiter:

I think it is high time the students of B.S.U. knew that they are being deceived over the issue of the Multi-Purpose Pavilion and that one of the doers is a candidate for the office of Adviser. That fellow is Steve Botliner.

At the open forums considering the pavilion issue, I and other anti-pavilion students voiced considerable concern as to the role of the Bronco Athletic Association in the operation of the pavilion. I cited the way the B.A.A. has controlled Bronco Stadium as an example and also the appropriation by the B.A.A. of several hundred seats (President's Club) at the University Club section in the stadium for their private sale to "fat-cats". Mr. Botliner and Mr. Peter gave us their utmost assurance, as did the Vice-President for Student Activities at BSU, that in no way would anything like that happen in the pavilion without the consent of the student governing board. A little over a month ago I read in the Idaho Statesman that, indeed, the B.A.A. was granted 600 prime seats and were reserving them at $50 a pop. Upon receiving the assurance of our student leaders that this sort of back-stabbing wouldn't happen, and thus giving my support to the pavilion proposal, I betrayed, and I believe rightly so.

Today, March 8, 1979, I telephoned Botliner in his office to inquire as to why we, the students, had been lied to. Botliner, in classic Nixon style, said he couldn't recall ever giving assurance of that nature to this students concerning the role of the B.A.A. in conjunction with the Pavilion. When I asked him why the B.A.A. is being allowed to sell our seats to finance their "gift," thus actually donating our own money to us, Botliner replied with some vague reference as to the school helping the B.A.A. to help the school. After giving his reply much thought, I came to the conclusion that that sort of logic is fine for staying in business at the house, but selling one of your bedrooms to raise money? Also, when I asked Botliner why the students had not been consulted in the decision to give the B.A.A. 600 seats, he said that the student leaders (i.e. Botliner, Renee) had been approached by MacGregor and Fletcher of the B.A.A. and had acted in "the best interest of the students" in making that decision. Never mind the student-dominated control board we were promised.

I take this bit of Information clearly indicates the lack of concern for the students shown by the present student government.

Steve Botliner would like to give us one more year of this sort of middle- headed, rubber-stamp for the B.A.A. type of leadership.

The Boise State University cannot afford another year of Steve Botliner. I realize that there exists on this campus, as well as others, a sense of apathy concerning student government. But I must appeal to all students at B.S.U. to vote next week for Mike Cramer for Associated Student Body President. You can't afford not to.

Thank you.

Letters To The Editor

Editor, the Arbiter:
As budget time rolls around for us unfortunate in Student Government, it occurred to me that the students of Boise State University have a right to know just exactly how we would like to spend our hard-earned fees. I have submitted a copy of the Student Union Programs Board request for funding for the 1979-80 school year. This budget request is not in the least a finalized amount. Our budget has yet to be reviewed by the august body, the Financial Advisory Board, the new ASB president and the new ASB treasurer.

A small note of explanation is perhaps in order. In considering our budget this year the SUPB had to figure in the ten to fifteen percent increase in entertainment costs of the past year, the impact of the One Percent Initiative on student fees, what programming the student body enjoys most, and of course, how last year's budget was hacked to shreds by the FAB. This year's budget request totals $74,215.00 as compared to the $95,425.00 request of last year. We feel that this decrease is especially commendable in view of the increase in programming costs.

If you the students are interested in how your dollars are going to be spent, or what sort of entertainment features you can hope to see next year, why don't you drop by the Senate Chambers in April, when the FAB meets, to decide where your money is going to go?

Students at any university do not easily fall into categories. Boise State students are no different. BSU's students are drawn from a variety of ethnic, social and economic backgrounds and they represent all age groups from the recent high school graduate to community senior citizens returning to school to enrich their lives.

The wide range of student organizations on campus gives witness to the individuality and to the vitality of the student body. Some organizations trace their origins to the early days of the campus, while others reflect new student interests. All of the organizations pride themselves in offering BSU students the opportunity for fulfillment and self expression through a wide range of other-than-curricular activities.

There are more than 80 diverse student organizations on campus recognized by Boise State University. These organizations offer the student a chance to do many things: play chess, learn to skydive, compete in debates, be of service to the community, study the Bible, learn to square dance, enter the rodeo world, learn karate and judo, get involved in student government and politics and much more.

A recognized student organization on campus has many benefits. Among these benefits are: use of meeting rooms and facilities at BSU, access to the BSU Print Shop, use of the name of Boise State University to establish an affiliation, newspaper space in the Arbiter, centrally located campus mail box, and eligibility to apply for funding from the ASB Senate.

Procedures for organizing a group, writing by-laws, and becoming a recognized student organization at BSU are available in the Student Activities Office, located on the second floor of the Student Union Building, Room 204. Students are encouraged to call 385-1223 or stop by to discuss their interests and concerns about student organizations.

Panhellicin Council

The Panhellicin Council is a governing body providing support and assistance as a coordinating influence between the four sororities at Boise State University: Alpha Omicron Pi, Delta Delta Delta, and Gamma Phi Beta. It is composed of eight people, one major and one minor delegate from each sorority.

The primary responsibility of the Panhellicin Council is to plan and organize the formal rush, the scholarship dinner and the pledge dance in the fall of the year. Each sorority handles its own rush and pledge activities, but the Council okays the open rush for the Activities Council.

The International Student Union

The International Student Union was organized in October of 1974 to primarily assist international foreign students.

The Union currently has about 100 active members composed mostly of foreign students enrolled in the college, visiting scholars, and graduate students. Membership, however, is open to any other BSU students interested in upgrading international education.

The major purpose of the I.S.U. is to serve as a bridge between foreign students, faculty, and administrative members; to assist foreign students during their orientation to the social and cultural environment of the American society; to create a social environment conducive to intellectual growth and inter-cultural friendships; to ensure an organization which will try to overcome cultural misunderstandings; and to make foreign students aware of their rights and responsibilities.

The International Student Union has many activities planned for every school year. The biggest event that the I.S.U. sponsors is the Annual Festival, which usually takes place in spring semester. During this celebration, we try to present something unique from all the countries represented at Boise State University, including a preparation of an International gourmet, featuring American and exotic foreign dishes; unique presentations and performances by members of the I.S.U. and others in the community such as singing, dancing, instrumentalists, and so on; and displays of national customs, arts, and crafts, maps, posters, postcards, etc.

The I.S.U. is closely affiliated with the International Friends, an organization composed mostly of Idaho residents, interested in international education. The International Friends has provided such assistance as family host programs and other summer activities.

The International Student Union is searching for ways to expand the activities of the International Students in order that they can contribute meaningfully to the university and the public. The Union has organized P.T.O. and contributed to the activities of the International Friends.

In addition, it acts as a judge.

ment and social media entity when there is a disruptive act. It affects all the sororities, making the final decisions that would benefit the entire community.

This Council has instituted a basic constitution and written the by-laws by which the sororities must conduct their activities. But each sorority has its own individual personality and typically activities about itself. Therefore, the council provides a "hub-effect" between all the different houses and establishes the bottom line on what does and what does not happen (acting with the girls' best interest at heart.)

With skiing practically in our backyards, the Ski Club of BSU should be booming...and it was started up after a lapse of several years this last fall. At present, it has 45 dues-paying members (there is a $5 membership fee, plus dues), and one must be a full-time student.

This group comes under the auspices of the Northwest Ski and Snow Club. It is an all-ski club, and the administrative members are students. The club was organized in the fall of the last year to represent students at Boise State University with a social and sporting interest in cross-country skiing.

The Ski Club tries to participate in as many ski meets as possible, they went to Jackson Hole, Wyoming- ing at Christmas with the National Student Ski Organization. The ski team is6 composed of,
“When one thinks of Judo, a picture comes to mind of people thrusting hands, feet, and other people mightily into the air and emitting somewhat sub-human sounds. Okay, blame it on the movies.”

Alpha Eta Rho

The Aviation Fraternity (Alpha Eta Rho) was originally started in 1929 as the University of Southern California, the Boise Chapter was opened in 1970, with 35 members. It is currently comprised of 15 active members: the fraternity strives to stay small on purpose. To qualify, an individual must be a full-time student (undergraduate or graduate) and have earned at least a 6.0 grade point average (GPA). They are also required to have taken the aviation class and be a student of the school. The aspiring member must be a pledge for one semester, attend functions and then be voted upon by the rest of the fraternity.

BSU Conservation Information Group

One of Boise State’s most unique organizations is the Conservation Information Group (CIG) whose purpose is to provide information concerning current environmental issues and to keep members updated on those that may arise in the future. They also provide their members information concerning the actions of elected officials and public agencies influencing such officials and agencies. In the present time, there is one very important issue which is at the head of their priority list: the fate of Idaho’s River-of-No-Return Wilderness. This area includes the Boise National Forest and is located in the Middle Fork and the Lower Salmon River as well as important contiguous areas. Congress will have to decide whether to maintain the area as Wilderness or open it up to logging and road-building. A public hearing will be held in Boise in April or May—the last chance for the people of Idaho to influence the decision.

The conservation information group supports the 2.3 million acre River-of-No-Return Wilderness as the only proposal which will ensure that the integrity of the area is maintained. They will be setting up booths, tables, and will be providing more information to students on the wilderness area and how they can participate in the decision. They will also be announcing the date of the hearing in Boise and encourage students to participate and give short testimonies at the hearing, in order to help counter anti-wilderness groups.

Pi Sigma Epsilon

Pi Sigma Epsilon is the national professional marketing fraternity at Boise State University. It currently has 23 members and 9 prospective members who are actively expanding their market skills and knowledge. It is the professional counterpart to Pi Sigma Epsilon and they provide many important contacts in the Boise business community to P.S.E. members. The annual S.M.E. outstanding marketing student award is an example of one S.M.E.-P.S.E. activity. S.M.E. members provide information and guidance for the Beta Mu chapter of P.S.E. through panel discussions, employment counseling, and business tours of S.M.E. member organizations.

Organization of Student Social Workers

The Organization of Student Social Workers is an ambitious, forward-moving group of people, who are looking to better themselves and their situation. They are currently actively involved in conducting a self-study to develop a more complete and comprehensive student policy, and to regain accreditation of the Boise State University Sociology Department by 1980.

At the monthly meetings, officers of the club and students get together with faculty members to discuss issues related to social work. Guest speakers are often invited to present new ideas to the O.S.S.W. members. For example, at a recent meeting there was a speaker from the National Association of Social Workers (NASW). Members of this organization are also invited to participate and speak in the meetings and this organization is sometimes visited by the National Association of Social Workers (NASW). Members of this organization also attend social work students to learn first hand what they are interested in and what is available to them. Recently their newsletter continued on page 12.

Other facts of interest that their newsletter announced were the possibility of summer jobs in the Governor's Summer Internship Program, which employs 12 students each summer. In addition, the newsletter contained an interview with dean LeRoy, President of the NAACP, and other news items of the doings of the club.

Wrestlers Drop Matches In NCAA Tournament

All three Boise State wrestlers competing at the NCAA Championships at Iowa State University in Ames, IA, lost opening round matches last week and did not advance further.

Scott Barrett, BSU’s freshman 136-pounder lost a tough 5-4 decision to the tournament’s eighth-seeded, eventual seventh place finisher, Steve Perdue of Slippery Rock.

“Scott wrestled very well and gained valuable experience in national competition,” BSU Wrestling Coach Mike Young said.

Brad Allred, Boise’s 174-pounder, dropped an 11-6 decision to Auburn’s Ray Downey in the opening round. Downey lost his next match, a close 10-6 decision to the number one seed in the tournament, Mike Land of Iowa State.

According to Coach Young, Land was perhaps the most highly regarded wrestler in the tournament, and carried a 43-0 record. However, Land was upset in the finals and finished second at 134 pounds.

BSU’s 177-pounder Bill Braeth was eliminated from the tournament by the number two seed, Eric Moll of Louisiana State. Moll was upset, however, in his next match.

Consequently, BSU’s wrestlers were unable to get back into competition. After losing an opening match, a wrestler needs his opponent to win his next two matches, allowing the loser in the first round to enter competition once again.

Bill Braeth and Braeth were all Big Sky Conference champs from BSU along with Kevin Wood, the champ at 167 pounds. Wood, however, sustained a knee injury in practice and was unable to compete.

“Generally, I thought our guys wrestled well and just had some bad luck in getting back into the competition,” Young said. “All three of our wrestlers’ opponents placed in the tournament, so they were up against very, very good competition.”

The University of Iowa swept the team title at the tournament.

Gymnasts Take Regional Crown

“On to Topka” is the slogan for the Boise State gymnastics team for the next three weeks as they prepare for the AAIW Small College National Gymnastics Championships, March 20-21 in Topka, KS.

This year was the first time that Boise State gymnasts represented the National Championship Meet. Thirty-three teams converged last week in Kansas City, Mo., as Judy Ferguson and Nancy Wilkins competed in the Small College Championship events.

This season the entire Bronco team will enter National representative in the Northwest Women’s Sports Association (NWWSA) as Northwest Regional Champions in the Small College Division.

Boise State topped seven other Small College teams at the Northwest Regional Championships in Corvallis, OR, March 9-10 with their 121.05 score for first place. Spokane Community College was second with 119.76 followed by third place Eastern Washington with 114.45.

In addition to the team victory, two Bronco gymnasts qualified for individual Regional competition which were held Saturday night March 10 in Gill Coliseum at Oregon State University.

Lesia Baraton, a junior from Boise, and sophomore Patty Rintala of Portland, OR, WA were both finalists in the vaulting competition. Rintala was also a finalist in floor exercises.

Rintala’s 8.45 vault brought her a sixth place finish with Carol Harris of Oregon State, a dot high enough for recognition during the awards presentation.

Threlclads Compete in Oregon Invitational

Following a week of intense work but no formal competition, the Boise State track team looks forward to the Oregon Invitational Meet, Saturday, March 17 at the University of Oregon in Eugene.

In addition to Boise State and host Oregon, six other teams will be competing. Those teams are the University of Idaho, Portland State, Spokane Community College, College of Idaho, McMinville, M.U. Hood Community College and Lane Community College of Eugene.

“This is certainly a quality meet and we are looking forward to competing with these fine teams,” BSU Coach Track and Field Ed Jacoby said.

“We are not doubling a meet when we compete so that we can build confidence," Jacoby adds.

Jacoby said he had an excellent week of practice last week and that the team is in good health. He also said he will be looking for record breaking or bettering performances in the short relay, the steeplechase and the hurdles.

Hileman Wade Trophy Finalist

Vivid Hileman, BSU’s 5-4 point guard from Whitefish, MT, is one of the fifteen, final nominees nationwide for the annual Wade Trophy.

Golfers Begin March 19

The Boise State University golf team will begin play on Monday, March 19 in Seattle, WA against Seattle University, Washington State University, University of Washington and Oregon State University. The Broncos completed a 54-hole qualifying round on Friday, March 9, which decided the members of the 1979 squad. Rusty Martinson, a sophomore from Boise was the number one qualifier for the Broncos with a three-day, three-over par total of 219. Martinson was followed by freshman Toby Keirn, who finished the 54 holes at 221, including the first round lead with a fine day 54-hole qualifying round this past weekend. Toby Keirn, "We're going to have trouble if our pitching doesn't come around." BSU Head Coach Jim Criner said.

Golfers Begin March 19

The Boise State University golf team will begin play on Monday, March 19 in Seattle, WA against Seattle University, Washington State University, University of Washington and Oregon State University. The Broncos completed a 54-hole qualifying round on Friday, March 9, which decided the members of the 1979 squad. Rusty Martinson, a sophomore from Boise was the number one qualifier for the Broncos with a three-day, three-over par total of 219. Martinson was followed by freshman Toby Keirn, who finished the 54 holes at 221, including the first round lead with a fine day 54-hole qualifying round this past weekend. Toby Keirn, "We're going to have trouble if our pitching doesn't come around." BSU Head Coach Jim Criner said.

Board Members Reappointed

Governor John Evans recently announced the reappointment of two members of the State Board of Education. Janet Hay of Nampa and Dr. Lenio Seppi of Lews, Hot Springs, were reappointed until March 1, 1984.

Both appointments are subject to confirmation by the Idaho State Senate.

Seppi is presently the Chairman of the State Board of Education while Hay is a member of the Board Ad Hoc Committee for Public School Financing and School District Reorganization.

Forensics Sends Three Students to Nationals

BSU's forensics team will send three students to national competition in Ames, Iowa in early April, as a result of competition in the district speech tournament last week—if the money can be raised.

Three thousand dollars, which has not been budgeted by the university, is needed to send the students to nationals.

The competition took place in Monmouth, Oregon, at the Oregon College of Education and was the qualifying round of the district, which includes Idaho, Oregon, Washington and Nevada, for the national competition.

Cindy Hinton is the district champion in the Communication Analysis event as a result of her first place performance in Monmouth. Wade Hyder also qualified with his third place in the Communication Analysis event.

Undsey will travel to St. Louis, Missouri, for the Phi Kappa Delta National Speech Honorary, April 6-12.

The Boise State Forensics team has taken at least 15 individual trophies in competition this year. This is exceptional considering all competing students are freshmen and sophomores. The present team coach, Dr. Suzanne O'Brien, though, has been non-renewed as a result of recent staff cuts at the University. Next year's team may have no coach.

The $3,000 is hoped to come from community donations. Such contributions to support the team's travel expenses will go to the BSU Foundation and are tax deductible.
Internationaly known poet Galway Kinnell will be the fourth in a series of writer-dancing readings at the Boise Gallery of Art and Boise State University this year. Part of the Charles David Vingt poetry series, Kinnell's readings will be on Wednesday, March 14, at the Gallery and Thursday, March 15, at the BSU Student Union Building, Lookout Room. Both begin at 8 p.m.

Kinnell has published several volumes of poetry, a novel, and numerous translations, plus a book of interviews, Walking Down the Stairs. His most recent volume is a translation from the medieval French, The Poems of Francois Villon. His work has also appeared in numerous magazines and anthologies. He returned recently from teaching at the University of Nice, France, and has also taught in several colleges and universities in the United States. In 1963 he worked as a CORE (Congress of Racial Equality) field worker in Louisiana, and in the late sixties he was active in poetry readings protesting the Vietnam War. The poetry series, in honor of the late Charles David Vingt, poet and professor of English at Boise State, is funded by a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts with contributions from the Boise Public Readings Consortium.

Special Date: Two of Galway Kinnell's books will be on sale at the BSU Bookstore for your reading pleasure. They are "Body Raps" and "Book of Nightmare."

"Gastation"

"There's a real high energy thing going on here. It's heavy on the sensory overload. "When I walked in, I couldn't see anything; it was just a big blur. These observations, made by guests at the private opening of Boise's disco, the Gastation on Grove Street, tell it how it is.

The exterior is deceptively humble, with the black and white logo partially covering the cinderblock walls. But the dirty window pane setting a disco beat are a hint of things within.

The entrance is a chrome tunnel given a dreamlike maze by blue neon lights. Upon entering the dance area, one is reminded of the cluttered tM maze of beams that extend to the ceiling. The original walls. But the dingy window

"It's a bit of high tech. It's a new form of architecture and design right now. We did it because we had the notion that a very remote city like Boise has no reason for not using its culture's artistic potential. That culture's most interesting levels," explained Calvin Jensen of White Savage Associates of Boise. "We see no reason that we can't produce one of the best discos in the country-Northwest America. We expect to have--when the Idanha is finished--one of the nicest hotels in the country. We don't see any reason that we have to do a disco any differently."

"First they do the Idanha, then this disco, what kind? Where everybody is happy. Not the disco. What kind? Where proved in New York—which has no tables, no chairs, nothing. It's a concept that's called "Gastation"."

"They pay at the door, then get a drink and then they are free to do whatever they want. They have their dreams; this is a place for dreams."

"We raised a finger to the lounge's ceiling of Mirror infinity light. A sandwich of a two-way mirror, blue neon cell, and a one-way mirror create an illustration of the cells spiralling up infinitely."

"There is one room of comfort- able couches, a lounge. If you want to talk, you come here. If you want to dance, you go out into the dance room."

"Before I invented this type of disco, there were seats, you were directed to your seat by a wailer."

You will go dance and then return to your drink at a certain place. There you are a number. Here you are a free spirit."

The Gastation's revolutionary concept doesn't abide by the theory that a dance floor should be small and the room temperature high so that patrons will get off the dance floor and back to their drinks, the source of profit. From the National Endowment for the Arts is less conducive to drinking than other discos. It's advisable to finish one's drink before descending to the dance floor. When and if you decide to quit dancing, good luck in distinguishing your drink from the others littering the floor. It's a bit of high tech."

The Gastation is open 8 p.m. to 4 a.m. Friday and Saturday, 8 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. on Wednesday and Sunday 3:00 p.m. to 1:00 p.m. The $4.00 cover at the door includes $1.50 admission charge, hat and check cash, and the first drink. Small drinks are $1.50, tall are $2.00. There is no dress code other than for occasional crowd control purposes.

A few alterations have been made since the private opening; namely the lights and sound are now Underwriter's Laboratory approved. Fog shoots out of tubing in the ceiling, and "dancing dust," makes the dance floor easier to dance on. Also the coat check room is finished and lights are being installed on the dance floor.

The Kappa Rho chapter of the Kappa Sigma International Fraternity is the oldest Social Fraternity on the Boise State Campus, chartered on December 10, 1939. The Kappa Sigma Fraternity stresses scholastic achievement and personal development.

The chapter house is located at 1320 Grant Street, about 4 blocks south of Bronco Stadium. The chapter house is a place for housing a number of the men, serving as a meeting place and a center for social gatherings.

At present the Kappa Rho chapter has an active membership of 20 members and 6 pledges.

The president for 1979 is William Dale Sorelbeck.

Along with the activities that the chapter participates in, the chapter sponsors a Starduster chapter, which is a little sister slro. The Starduster program is open to all undergraduate women in attendance at Boise State and gives a chance for both sorority women and non-sorority women to get to know the Kappa Sig’s better.

Anyone interested in learning more about this fraternity or the Starduster program are urged to call the Kappa Sigma Fraternity at 336-3680 or drop by anytime at 1320 Grant.

A Coming Attraction

Humanities Fair

Appearing here on the BSU Campus, following spring break, will be a week-long celebration for the Humanities Fair. This "Fair" will feature Ripplin's Poc et Opera performing Pippin's own witty, idiosyncratic, singspiel translation of the delightful "Don Pasquale." A socio-fit feature will be the Elizabethan Balladry Ensemble, "Rainewind." The group combines early music, folk-song, and gallery with narrative, poetry and theatre in "text and jett" as they entertain after the old English fashion. A third major event will be a Medieval Mystery Play performed by cast and audience alike as the play moves from courtyard to chapel to balcony and back to courtyard again, taking their audience with them.

Directed by BSU's own Mike Hoffman, the play's star-studded cast contains members from the university and from the community. Included in the price of admission for this Mystery Play will be a supper: "...a light evening meal..."

In addition to the above events, Bergman's "Seventh Seal" will be shown, several scheduled tour will be offered at the KASD Studio, and there will be a three day Arts & Crafts Fair in the quadrangle in front of the Library featuring items for sale, demonstrations, food and entertainment.

Tickets are required for the Chamber Opera, one Renais cance Music Presentation, and the Mystery Play with Supper. The tickets can be purchased at the SUB Information Booth, Liberal Arts Building, room 102, or the Boise Gallery of Art. It is suggested that you purchase your tickets early in order to avoid disappointment as there is limited space available. Separately priced, the Opera costs $3, the Music Presentation cost is $2, and the Mystery Play cost is $1; by purchasing tickets for all three events, you can save $1 on the package.

Circle the dates of Tuesday, April 3 through Saturday, April 7 on your calendar and call now for your tickets to the BSU Humanities Fair.
