Faculty Exchange Program Established

The Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education (WICHE) has announced the establishment of a clearinghouse for faculty exchanges among western colleges and universities.

The Faculty Exchange Clearinghouse will publish in November and February free listings of "Exchange Positions Wanted" and "Exchange Positions Available" for distribution to colleges and universities located in the thirteen western states that WICHE serves.

Participation in the Faculty Clearinghouse can be initiated by either departments or individual faculty members.

All exchanges are required to be at least one term in length and must take place in one of the following states; Alaska, Arizona, California, Colorado, Hawaii, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Washington, and Wyoming.

Dr. Richard Jansen, director of the Graduate Education Project that is overseeing the clearinghouse has stated that all financial details and agreements must be handled by the individual departments and institutions involved.

The purpose of the program is to promote the sharing of educational resources among western states to allow faculty members a chance to use new research facilities, have contact with other authorities in their fields of expertise, and to provide experience in different teaching environments and with unfamiliar student-bodies.

WICHE is a non-profit regional organization devoted to the improvement of higher education in the western thirteen states.

Applications are available by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: WICHE, Graduate Education Project, P.O. drawer P, Boulder, Colorado 80302.

French Consul Visits Boise

by Denise Minor
Arbiter Staff

Nuclear energy in France and the influence of Charles De Gaulle were main topics of an open discussion led by deputy consul Jean-Francois Thiollier, Monday morning in the Néz Perce room at Boise State University.

Thiollier came to Boise from the French Consulate in San Francisco to conduct a lecture on French foreign policy since World War II but because of a small attendance, Thiollier said he preferred to conduct an informal discussion.

"I am sorry I drew such a small crowd. People in Boise should realize what is happening in France, Europe, and the world. They should become aware of what exists outside of Boise, Idaho," said Thiollier.

An audience of about ten listened to Thiollier speak about the independent foreign policy of France and why this policy caused conflict with the United States. He said Charles De Gaulle established a strong presidency, and De Gaulle's major goals were the restoration of the French economy, military and international prestige.

"The effect of World War II on France was devastating," said Thiollier. "De Gaulle felt we must build a strong military, including nuclear weapons, to defend ourselves in any war."

Thiollier said U.S. leaders opposed independent moves such as nuclear attainment and France's entry into the Common Market because they threatened the U.S. hold on Western Europe.

Another key aspect of France's foreign policy is the continuing relations with its former colonies, said Thiollier. The anti-colonial sentiment existing after World War II persuaded France to free her colonies, he said, yet most of the colonies wanted to maintain some ties with France.

"But the French people wanted to keep Algeria," said Thiollier, "and this is one of the problems De Gaulle had to face when he returned to office."

Algeria gained independence in 1958.

Thiollier said France gives mostly bilateral aid to its former colonies and other developing nations.

Energy is an important issue in France today, said Thiollier. France imports all of its oil, he said, and is very vulnerable to the rising cost of petroleum.

Thiollier said France will continue to develop nuclear and other alternative sources of energy. He said the French government projects 50 percent of its energy will come from nuclear sources by 1985.

"French people see nuclear energy as their only way out," said Thiollier. "The price of gas here in the United States is four times less than in Europe."

But European cars run ten times longer on the same amount of gas," said a member of the audience.

Thiollier said he enjoys working for the consulate in San Francisco because he can travel throughout the western United States. A consul stationed in New York, for example, would not get to see as much of this country, he said.

Thiollier said he is amazed by the lack of knowledge many Americans have about the affairs of other nations.

Social Work Dept Begins Re-evaluation

BSU—The Social Work Department achieved full department status in 1971 and in 1975 it was accredited by the National Council of Social Work Education for a maximum period of five years. The Social Work Department is currently engaged in a re-evaluation of its program in order to renew accreditation in 1980.

As a supplement to this re-evaluation a survey was conducted of persons who graduated from the social work program, between 1973-74 to 1977-78. The data was obtained during the period of January 10, 1979 to March 31, 1979.

During the five year period, 1973-78, 142 persons graduated from BSU with major in social work. Of this number the Social Work Department was able to obtain addresses for 129 graduates.

A mailed questionnaire was used, with two mailings. Sixty-six questionnaires were returned for a return rate of 51 percent. Graduates were asked about their employment history and they were asked to evaluate the social work program in retrospect.

Of the sixty-six respondents who graduated during the period 1973 through 1978, fifty-one (77 percent) have at one time been employed in a social work position, either full or part-time. Forty-five graduates (68 percent) are currently employed in social work positions, two graduates are attending graduate programs in social work, six graduates are unemployed and eleven graduates are working in other areas.

The mean length of time between graduation and employment indicated that while it took a long time to obtain a social work position a graduate is still employable in social work.

It was further found that there was a high degree of job stability with the average length of time employed in the current job being 20.75 months with a range of one to 60 months.

Eighty seven percent of the

Adventure Firm Seeks Students and Professors to do Research

ANNAPOLIS, MD—Expedition Research, Inc.—a new membership organization based in Annapolis, Maryland—is now conducting a campaign to register adventure-minded college students and professors. ERI is a placement service which matches outdoor enthusiasts to scientific and exploratory expeditions worldwide. ERI members include photographers, sailors, scientists, mountaineers, journalists, and others who love the outdoors and who have a taste for adventure, research and exploration.

Expeditions which have approached ERI for team members range from archaeological excavations to Himalayan mountaineering; from oceanographic surveys and cave exploration to scientific investigations on all six continents.

The firm also places registrants in paying positions. Commercial trip operators, outdoor leadership schools, yacht brokers, and film makers among others have employed ERI members as guides, instructors, captains and crew, etc.

Students, either undergraduate or graduate are in demand. They are often offered the opportunity to gain field experience by working with professors; others simply welcome the chance to take a semester or two off from their studies. Currently, for example, ERI is looking for 80 college students to assist a Smithsonian-sponsored dig for fossil man in India during December and January.

ERI registration costs $15 per year. Registrants receive a monthly newsletter listing expedition opportunities, and a variety of benefits including a 20% discount from Eastern Mountain Sports, the largest mail order outdoor equipment supplier in the United States.

Individuals may register by sending $15 to Expedition Research, Inc., P. O. Box 467, Cathedral & Franklin Streets, Annapolis, MD 21404 or write for further information. A registration card will be issued and a full packet of information, an EMS catalog, and application forms will be sent upon registration.

Social Work

respondents indicated that their current jobs were in their fields of interest. Salaries of graduates ranged from less than $5,000 (part-time employment) to more than $20,000 with the mode (49.05 percent) in the salary range $10,000 to $14,999. These findings indicate a positive profile of our graduates in their social work employment.

In addition to questions on employment, respondents were asked about their social work education. Most respondents were satisfied, (61 percent, N=66), or very satisfied, (29 percent, N=66), with their overall social work education.

Respondents were also asked to rate their social work education in relation to its benefit in their personal life. Forty-eight percent of the respondents felt strongly that the program had benefited them personally and only five percent felt that it had not been a personally benefiting experience.

In summary a high percentage of respondents were employed in social work within six months of graduation. Respondents had a high job stability, and they were satisfied with their employment.

The BSU undergraduate social work program was rated positively and respondents indicated plans to attend graduate school.

No correlation was found between employment in social work and sex, marital status, social work grade point average or overall grade point average.

Graduates who responded to the survey are able to obtain employment in social work if they are persistent in their pursuit.

Editorial Cambodia at Christmas?

They peer at you from every newspaper and magazine. They hover on posters and stare out from store windows. Those sad eyes and bloated bellies and bony bodies, lying lifeless—or nearly so—on dirty, fly-begrimed pallets, staring, staring at us as we prepare for the most important holiday season of the American Way of Life.

Whatever political view one holds to ascribe the mess in Cambodia to whoever's fault, one thing is certainly clear. Those pictures and stories are real downers. The time has come for the U.S. of A. government to do something lest the American Public fail to enjoy the Holy Holidays just ahead. The following 5-point play is offered as one resolution to this outrageous problem.

1.) No TV coverage on the plight of those starving people should be allowed during December. The memory of those gaunt faces slows down the consumer reaching for that bigger turkey and those extra pounds of sweet potatoes for the dinner table;

2.) Newspapers and magazines should be put under a month-long restriction against printing any more of those horrid pictures. They only distract the serious shopper going through the ads to find what to buy next;

3.) An immediate moratorium should be declared on shipments of food and supplies with the cargo left sitting in full view on the docks to remind the American Public that they still need to buy something for those relatives that have everything;

4.) The money that would have been channelled into any of the above efforts at publicizing the Cambodian situation or providing relief in it should be used to promote new gadgets such as the electric in-shell egg scrambler and the atomic powered kleenex dispenser lest our consumer economy go into a decline;

5.) All newspaper space and TV time normally used for Cambodian coverage should be utilized to urge the American public into their church where they can sing praise to the God of love and bow down in worship to the giver of life.

Unless the government moves immediately to protect the public from the ugliness of Cambodia, the jolly holidays of the U.S. citizens will all be spoiled.

We don't need it, man. January, with its cold and chills and flu, comes soon enough. January is time enough to think about all those foreigners with ways different than our own.

The Fun of Being Mad

The mob of so-called students who captured our embassy in Tehran is despicable and cowardly. That does not lessen the fact that mob cries in American cities have an ominous ring. There is a hurt desire for revenge that wants to erase the first enormity by replicating it—always a self-harming exercise.

Already we hear that the president ordered deportation for some Iranians to cool off mob feelings—he must be seen as “doing something” to prevent the mob from taking action on its own. Reckless candidates for office hint that they, unlike the current president, would know how to be tough enough. Carter is forced to think not solely about the safety of Americans abroad and the real interests of our country, but about keeping his leverage by out-bluffing the least cautious among us.

Foreign policy has often been made in this century by “internal blackmail” of this sort. When, in 1947, President Truman made possible all the McCarthyite suspicions with his draconian security procedures, worse than anything America had enacted in wartime, his defenders said he did it to placate Republicans, who would have done even worse things if they could wrest the presidency from him in 1948.

When John Kennedy not only aimed at removal of the missiles from Cuba, a goal reachable by an open tradeoff for our missiles in Turkey, but insisted on humiliation of Khrushchev by a draconian deadline and by refusing to acknowledge any tradeoff, Eugene Rostow said the president had to do that or the American right wing would cry “sell out” and take the White House away from the Democrats.

When Henry Kissinger, the Nobel Bomber, prolonged war in Vietnam for four years, he said that any quick settlement (available on the same terms in 1969 as were gained in 1973) would cause a new McCarthyism at home, with cries of “Who lost Vietnam?” to match the Nixon cries of “Who lost China?” back in the 1940s.

It is a sad game, beating up on others to cool ourselves off. It puts pressure on President Carter that partly cripples his effort at true efficiency and a wise self-interest. If he is forced to “do something” in the Mayaguez tradition, many will applaud, and some will die, and Carter may retain his office for another term. But the real sell-out will have taken place—not a sell-out to some foreign power but to our own dark side, the blind urge to hit back (hard but at random), to feel good by hurting others, even if that hurts ourselves most of all in the long run.

There is an unhealthy glee in the conduct of our photographed crowds while they burn Iranian flags and throw things at Iranian students. They look like the surreal crowds in the Reginald Marsh drawings of Coney Island. Venting frustration can be a dismal kind of fun—and it can be addictive. Being mad can, in fact, become such fun that it may, someday, bring down the world in a spasm of self-righteous indignation.

Letters to the Editor

Grades

Editor, the Arbitrator:

Like many of my former colleagues in the field of academic philosophy, Professor Alan Brinton allows an apparent facility in conceptual analysis to distract him from important facts.

On the question of grades, it is easy to understand how a professor can fail to recognize the games and dishonesties produced by the grading system, even in his own classroom. Flattery and obedience, the results of grading power, are of the unequal power distribution. It is less excusable to ignore the fact that there are dozens of viable options for evaluation and the encouragement of excellence. Our grading systems are quite recent and local to American education. There are many alternatives, some of them more humane and respectful of the complexities of learning. This would be obvious to anyone who was not blinded by the privileged status conferred by the current system.

On the question of goals and goallessness, Professor Brinton's cultural and intellectual parochialism is simply embarrassing. He argues against a contrary position by merely repeating his own. Most of the prophets and wise men and women in history would fall into Professor Brinton's category of “flabby souls” and those “of us who are going someplace or other.”

Sincerely,
Richard Meisler, Author
This Learning World

Religion

Editor, the Arbitrator:

Religious zealots who support their beliefs on the basis of facts are doomed to embrace distortion and falsehood.

The facts of history are recorded for all to see. Those who profess Christian or organized religious beliefs need to examine those facts. The false dogmas of religion would then be revealed for anyone to see.

Fact: Christianity is based principally on the beliefs of St. Paul, who had a morbid fear of sex and contempt for women. Fact: from Paul we have the doctrines of original sin, the Trinity, and salvation only through Jesus Christ. Fact: Jesus Christ was a divine man, who called for righteousness and repentance as a way of salvation. Fact: the ideas of Christ, like Karl Marx, have been misunderstood, abused, and perverted by people who have neglected to get the facts.

R. Elliott

Resumes

Editor, the Arbitrator:

Our Federal Government should require, all persons seeking the position of President of the United States of America, to submit a complete and accurate resume.

The resume should include complete personal, professional and political life.

It should be prepared and signed by the candidate alone, thereby making all statements the candidates own responsibility.

Our Federal Government should reproduce and distribute all candidates resumes, to the American people.

In this way a candidate will be elected or rejected on their merits alone.

Is it possible to elect a person to the position of President of the United States, (the most Honorable and respected position in our Nation), without totally knowing the persons character and achievement record?

Sincerely,
Emil John Seljan

High Hopes Set for Broncos

(BSU)—Connie Thorgren begins her tenth year as head of the Boise State University women's basketball program. Under her fine leadership, BSU has earned an over-all record of 133-44.

Last season, BSU started off to a slow start losing eleven straight games. The Broncos, however, continued to work hard and turned the season around, winning eight of their last twelve games. The highlight of the season came when BSU defeated Washington State University, then the Mountain division leader, 79-75, after losing to WSU, 78-55, earlier in the season.

The 1979-80 team will be a young group with most players having only one year's experience and no seniors on the squad. BSU has all starting players returning off the 1979-80 squad except for Vicki Hileman.

A strong returning player for the Broncos Ruth Fugleberh, a 5-7 sophomore who was also selected to the National Scouting Association's All-American team for the 1978-79 season.

"Ruth is an excellent all-around player. She jumps well and is a consistent shooter from both the inside and outside. She is extremely tough on the boards," said Thorgren.

The Broncos welcome the return of 5-11 center Karla Meier, who was sidelined last year due to an early season injury. Before the injury, Meier was the team's leading scorer and rebounder.

"Karla is an aggressive and physical player with good moves under the basket. Because of the return of Karla, we should have an improved inside game this year," commented Coach Thorgren.

Nancy Phillips, Karen Scriver, and Chris Bauwens also return for the Broncos at the post position.

"Nancy is co-captain and the tallest player on the team at 6-3. She has greatly improved her shooting ability and will be a very important player for us," said Thorgren.

"Inflation: Cause, Consequence, and Cure"

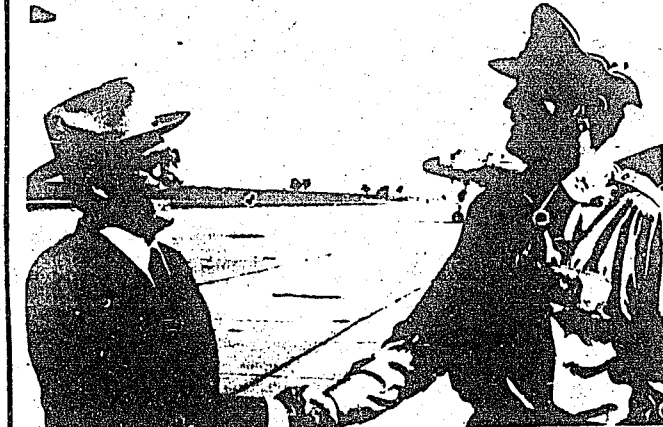

There is a widespread myth in our country that commodities—goods and services—can be paid for with money. This simply is not so. Money does not pay for anything and never will. Goods and services can be paid for only with goods and services. Everything must be paid for out of production—for that is the only source of payment. The unfortunate consequence of this myth is printed money inflation, and if left to persist, could destroy the very foundations of a free society. Interestingly, both the blame and the solution for inflation lie with the university, not the government; with the scholar and the teachers, not the politician; with ideas, which always precede legislation. Boisean Lounge of the SUB, 8:00 p.m., Scholarship Fund donations requested.

Hockey Tournney Begins

The Boise State Field Hockey team will start their bid to become national champions Wednesday, when they begin the first round of play in the Division II National Tournament in Princeton, New Jersey.

Pteiffer College from Misenheimer, N.C. will be the Broncos first opponent and that game will start at 8:30 a.m. early Wednesday morning. Pteiffer's record is 14-5-1 compared to the 17-8-1 mark compiled by the Broncos.

Boise State really caught fire at the end of the year winning their last 9 games. This included a couple of big wins over Western Washington University which enabled the Broncos to go to the Nationals.

Sue Schenk has been the scoring machine for the Broncos the entire year, scoring 36 goals to break the single season scoring record for Boise State.

Schenk could not have accomplished this though, if it weren't for the superb play of the entire team in setting up the goals. Joan Pittaway helped the Bronco cause with 10 more goals and Laura Roietto added 8 goals and a team leading 17 assists.

The defense's superb play all year long has been the strong point for the Broncos. Goalies Sandy Capozzi and Coradee Mager have had 14 shutouts between them this season and have allowed in only 28 goals. The Broncos meanwhile have scored 71 goals.

Wrestlers Take Sixth

UA-Kevin Wbod highlighted the Boise State Wrestling efforts as the Broncos did well in the upper weight classes and placed four men on their way to a sixth place team finish in the tough Rebel Open in Las Vegas, Nevada, Saturday.

Wbod won the 167 pound class and finished a close second in the voting for the outstanding wrestler of the tournament award. He tied University of Arizona wrestler, Dave Mussleman, on the first ballot, but lost when the coaches voted again to break the tie and Mussleman came out on top.

Bill Braseth at 177 and Harold Whitman at 190 both gained spots in the finals but were edged out in close matches and both men ended up with second place finishes. Heavyweight Dave Amsden finished fourth at his weight to round out the placing for the Broncos.

Nevada-Las Vegas held off a strong showing by the University of Utah to win the team title. They were followed by Wyoming, Northern Colorado and Arizona which just edged out the Broncos for fifth place.

The only other Big Sky teams entered, Northern Arizona and Idaho State, finished eighth and tenth respectively.

The Broncos will take this coming weekend off and will return to the mats December 7th and 8th at the rugged Beehive Tournament in Provo, Utah.

The Boise State gymnastics team opens their 1979-80 season at home against BYU this Friday, Nov. 30 at 7:30 p.m. in the BSU gymnasium.

Looking Towards Basketball

by Jerry Richards
Arbiter Staff

It's about official now: with a week of competition (and two games) left before the playoffs, Nevada-Reno plays on. Also as predicted, Murray State represents the Southeast and Grambling has the inside line on Southwest. The only surprise, and a mild one at that, was Lehigh being picked to represent the northeast with a 9-2 record, as opposed to Boston U. at 8-1-1.

Before we go on (this time for sure: presto!) with Big Sky basketball previews, here's the certified Richards prediction for the playoffs, culminating in the Tangerine Bowl:

- Dec. 8 - Grambling 31, Nevada-Reno 21
- Dec. 8 - Murray State 28, Lehigh 10
- Dec. 15 - surprise, surprise - Murray 24, Grambling 21
- Last Week: 5-1
- Cumulative: 81-33-2, .707
- Big Sky: 48-10 .828 (Let's see anyone better than that one)

JERRY'S BIG SKY PICKS:

From this reporter's angle, it looks again like the old joke about "Weber State and the Seven Dwarfs" will be perpetuated. Nevada-Reno, new to dwarfdom, should take a strong but short-lived run at the title, and Boise State and ISU will always be in the thick of it. Northern Arizona will get a second-division status they definitely don't deserve, and Montana State, Montana and Idaho will wonder what hit them.

PREDICTION:

1. Weber State
2. Boise State
3. Nevada-Reno
4. Idaho State

5. Montana State
6. Northern Arizona
7. Montana
8. Idaho

We start with the probable (and returning) champions, the Weber State Wildcats.

Weber placed three, count 'em, three players on the five-man All-Big Sky team last year. The two All-Big Sky players from other teams graduated. 7-1 Richard Smith, 6-8 David Johnson and 6-5 Bruce Collins are back.

Small wonder Neil McCarthy has high hopes for a third straight and eleventh overall (out of 16 seasons) Big Sky Conference championship. Not only are the Wildcats' top scorers and rebounders back (Collins, 16.2, 6.7; Johnson, 15.1, 5.4; Smith, 14.4, 9.1, best rebounder in the league), but other returners include play-making guard Mark Mattos at 6-0 and sophomore swingman Todd Harper, plus top reserve forward Gerald Mattinson.

Backup guards will be juco transfers 5-9 Tim Doolin, from Dodge City CC, and 5-11 Eric Watson, from Schoolcraft CC in Detroit. McCarthy went to the high schools for all his front line help, and came up with reserve center Bryan Fink from Redding, CA at 6-8; Brian Devincinzi, also 6-8, from Sevier, Utah; 6-7 Travis Salem from El Paso; and Royal Edwards, 6-6, from Sacramento.

The Bronco basketball team will have a chance to get a fast start on the 1979-80 season, with three games coming up within a few days.

The first game will be Friday, Nov. 30 against a respectable Santa Clara Bronco team at Santa Clara, starting at 8 p.m. PST [8 p.m. Mountain time]. The next night BSU flies home to meet the Great Falls Argonauts in Bronco Fieldhouse, at 8 p.m.

Tuesday the Doane College Tigers play in the Broncos' second of five straight home games, again at 8 p.m.

All games will be broadcast locally by KBOI Radio, 670 AM.

COORS asks the question:

WHAT IF...?

Enter as often as you like...
just knock first.
-The Management.

What if you were to enter a contest to write these Coors ads... wrote an ad...won the contest... and came to New York for an all-expenses-paid week to work at Coors' advertising agency?

Would you be overjoyed? Amazed? Speechless? Writeless? Or would you take it all in stride, sauntering down the hallways of Madison Ave., mixing metaphors with all the other advertising folk?

Try it. Write a Coors "What if...?" ad for yourself. Send it to The Adolph Coors Company, "Ad Contest," Mail #329, Golden, Colo. 80401. Spelling counts.

Neatness counts. Paying attention to the amount of space available counts. Mentioning the product somewhere counts.

Besides a trip to New York, the winner gets his or her ad immortalized (and printed) in this paper. Illustrated in the same riotously clever style by the same riotously clever illustrator. Even paid a fee. A nominal fee. Very nominal. $50.

50 runners-up win a Coors High Country Back Pack. And they may also get their ads printed. (For the same nominal fee...$50.) (Sorry, no trip to New York. In fact, we may even edit your ad.)

If you're the winner, you get a week at one of the largest advertising agencies in the U.S. Just don't expect permanent employment—but it could be a start.

Hurry, time is short! Send in as many ads as you like, one to the envelope, postmarked January 15, 1980 or earlier. Good luck!

Taste the High Country.

YWCA Holds Play

For the past two years The Tyrone Guthrie Theatre of Minneapolis, Minn. has been presenting the work of Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol." Now with special permission it will be presented in Boise by the Idaho Public Theatre at the YWCA, Dec. 13-29. Musical numbers developed by Lynn Snodgrass and choreographed by director J. Allyn Petrick will be performed by a cast of thirty. The production is described by IPT's Phil Schmidt as an all out huge production for the whole family.

H. Paul Kliss, "the best Scrooge in the state," has worked in many aspects of the theatre since the nineteen-forties. Among other things, he has won the Boise Little Theatre's Best Actor Award for four years in a row and is co-founder of the Antique Festival Theatre in Gooding.

Keith Tackman plays Dickens telling the story to his family. Tackman performed in the Boise Civic Opera's production of La Boheme last fall.

The IPT encourages family participation. Children under twelve may get in for $3.00 at any of the performances. There will be Yuletide goodies including roasted chestnuts, hot spiced cider, and plenty of Christmas cookies, so bring the kids along.

Performances will be on Thurs. Fri. and Sat. nights at 8:15. Saturday matinees will be at 2:00.

For more information call 343-7560.

Senior Sets Recital

Boise State University music senior Beverly Schumacher will perform in a voice recital Friday, Nov. 30, at 8:15 p.m. in the BSU Music Auditorium.

Joining her in the concert will be guitar student Dan Green playing the Manuel Ponce guitar "Concerto del Sur." He will be accompanied by Debbie Coiner at the piano. Green is a student of Joseph Baldassarre.

In her studies at BSU, Schumacher has participated with the Meistersingers, BSU Chorale, Guitar Ensemble, and opera production. After her December graduation from Boise State, she will continue her teaching of choir and band at Bishop Kelly High School, Boise. In addition, she will teach general music at St. Mary's grade school and coordinate music for St. Mary's Parish, Boise.

Schumacher is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Pyle, Coeur d'Alene.

The public is invited to attend the concert free of charge.

TAP to Hold Candy Sale

The Tau Alpha Pi fraternity will be selling candy in the lobby of the SUB and in the Residence Halls on December 3, 4, and 5, to raise money for the Vo-Tec scholarship fund. The candy will sell for $1.00 to $1.50 a box, and each box will contain a certificate good for two dollars off on a large pizza at the Pizza Hut. This is the first year that the fraternity has sold candy to raise funds, in the past they have raised funds for the same cause with their famous hobo marches.

Editor-poet to Read at BSU

Editor-poet, Mark Strand, will visit Boise November 28 and 29, 1979 to read from his works Wednesday in the Boise Gallery of Art and Thursday in the Lookout Room of the Boise State University Student Union Building. The free public readings, both at 8 p.m., are third in the Charles David Wright Poetry Series this year.

Strand, who is editor of Contemporary American Poetry, received a National Endowment for the Arts fellowship in 1978, the year he published his latest volume of poetry, "The Late Hour." Called "a brilliant book" by the Chicago Tribune, "The Late Hour" was also praised by the Library Journal. "No poet his age has a more human voice or a more piercing melancholy. Strand's mature work, more than ever concerned with mortality, makes one feel alive," said the journal's editors.

After graduating from Antioch College and Yale University, Strand traveled to Italy on a Fulbright scholarship for 1960-61, and in 1965-66 was a Fulbright lecturer at the University of Brazil in Rio de Janeiro. He also received a Rockefeller Foundation fellowship in 1968, and a Guggenheim fellowship for 1974.

Other volumes of Strand's poetry include "The Story of Our Lives," "The Sargentville Notebook," "Darker," "Reasons for Moving," and "Sleeping With One Eye Open."

The series, coordinated by Dr. Carol Martin of Boise State University English Department, is sponsored by Boise Cascade Corporation, the Boise Gallery of Art, The Book Shop, and private donors. The readings are in honor of the late Charles David Wright, poet and former professor of English at BSU.

The Talkies: A Film Buy-line

The films that came out on the turkey end of the stick with the reviewers were Yanks and Legacy, both of which are still playing in town. If you like the films the Talkies don't. Another big loser in the Talkies' hit parade was The Seduction of Joe Tynan last seen staggering off towards next year's T.V. screens.

In taking an average of all the movies reviewed this year, the Talkies reviewers came out as a bunch of pussycats instead of the hard noses they like to think of themselves as. The average rating given out was a surprisingly high 3.6 stars; which may be accounted for by the high ratings the reviewers gave to the first few movies they saw back before they turned mean from popcorn overdoses.

At the First Annual Talkies awards banquets held last week, the big winner was Anthony Burt who copped two of the coveted "Ulcer" awards; one for most movies reviewed in a season by a right-handed reviewer (11), and one for most turkeys handed out in a single season (6). The winner of the most stars award was Barbara Jones, who gave out a total of fourteen stars in seven at bats. The Talkies editor presented a special award to Alice Jensen for consistently being the last person to turn in her review, often after the deadline.

The Talkies will be back as usual next week, ready to take on the Christmas season releases which are due to hit town any day now. The Talkies hopes that whether or not you agree or disagree with their opinion that the Talkies helps you decide what movies you pay to see.

The Talkies reviewers have been hogging the isle seats in various theatres around town for eleven weeks now; in that time they've seen Dracula get it in the heart, Marlon Brando get it in the neck, and 143 crucifixions within a two week period. The intrepid Talkies folks have witnessed these and other movie scenes selflessly, their only reward being the satisfaction of serving the movie going public, and the freebie tickets. Anyway, eleven straight weeks in the celuloid parlors is a long time so we thought we would give the Talkies reviewers a break by using this week to recap what the Talkies have done so far this year.

The films that the Talkies critics like best were Breaking Away, North Dallas Forty, and Apocalypse Now, (which is still playing in town). Apocalypse Now was the only film to get a perfect rating of four stars from all the critics that saw it; but, only two critics saw it, and they are not to be trusted without adult supervision.

"WHALE OF A BREAKTHROUGH!"

We're not kidding, we saw this penguin the other day, and it said it was from Iran, and it thinks the whole situation is a mess. But you never know--those students MIGHT be LEARNING a lot, and isn't that what students are supposed to do even if they ignore their credits and degrees and everything or even stop going to all but one of their classes? That's open to debate, we suppose, and there are indubitably a number of people who would disagree, perhaps even violently, and perhaps using strong language or citations from published authorities. But in any case WHAT'S THE POINT. It's a FREE COUNTRY, isn't it? Well, that's WHAT THEY SAY, Mr. KIWI--why do you always have to be so DIFFICULT? Those men worked awfully hard to write all those Declarations & Constitutions & stuff to protect our freedom, and stuff. I KNOW there's no such thing as a FREE LUNCH, Mr. Kiwi, but for PETE'S SAKE, how would YOU like to live in COMMUNIST CHINA, or somewhere where...where... (clapslap) ghhh, thanks, Mr. Kiwi.

What I want to know is, what was General MacArthur's pipe made out of? Oh, waijlamintu, it's a well-known rule which anyone with any amount of respect for the English language cherishes unto his/har chinny chin chin that you should never, absolutely NEVEREVEREVER under any circumstances use a preposition to end a sentence with. I mean, THAT IS ONE infraction UP with which WE WILL NOT PUT. So, OUT OF WHAT was GEN. MacA's pipe made? Tell Ann or Lisa at the Arbiter/by noon Friday, and win two ABSOLUTELY FREE, NO STRINGS ATTACHED tickets to Friday's ASB movie MacArthur. First five triumph, we mean it. Really, no joke, we ain't kidding, seriously, you bet your tailfin, did you know they used to make corsets out of whale ribs? How ghastly.
