ASBSU Hosts Draft Forum

A diverse but lopsided draft panel stirred emotional responses from the audience 7:30 Monday night at Boise State University. Five anti-draft, two pro-draft, one neutral, and one anti-draft-for-panel stirred emotional responses to about 300 at the forum held in the Student Union Ballroom.

"We told them we were sent to Vietnam to fight communists," said Vietnam veteran Russ Linebarger. "Every President from Carter isn't lying now." Linebarger said the main reason were told we were sent to for the anti-draft for was a debacle, but maintained that there are some things worth fighting for. The United States is not the number one military power, he said, and if there comes a time when we won't be able to choose otherwise or not we want to go to war it could be detrimental.

Tootie Ward, representing the Eagle Forum, said that if there is a draft, women should not be drafted because they would be an unnecessary distraction. "If you put men and women in the same barracks there will be nothing but trouble," said Ward. She added that women who support ERA should be drafted.

The detrimental effect of the draft on families was addressed by Denise Edwards, founder of the Idaho Family National Guard said that fighting for. The United States is the effect of war has been to tear the heart of the rest of the population." Edwards said that if the draft is reinstated women should be drafted to fight, not type.

Keith Anderson, a representative of the BSU Black Student Union said blacks should not be "pung ho about fighting a white man's war" because there has been discrimination against minorities in past drafts.

In January of 1979, Mountain Bell Telephone converted the Boise State telephone system from the old Centrex to the new Dimension. In an earlier article, Judge Nell G. In the Vietnam war, three times the flames of war will be war," said Gary Keith, a Vietnam veteran and draft counselor. "The result of fanning the flames of war will be war," said Jones. Jones stands with the American Friends in Vietnam, a Quaker service organization which provided aid to the families of Vietnamese refugees.

Judge added, "While the state's purpose in enacting the law may be a salutary example of a state protecting the interests of citizens, the determination as to the merits of the law as now written remain very much in the air at this time."

For the past 20 years, as Editor of the Arbiter, I've watched the progress of students at BSU. I've served on committees, met with students, administrators, faculty, and state officials, given ideas and time to hundreds of projects and programs, and worked in every way I knew to make BSU better. Now's the time for this wide range of experience to be put to use in the office of AASBU President. Let me at it.

Withdrawal: Cold Turkey

In a little less than three weeks we will be on the downhill side of the Spring Term. The final examination periods will then be over and Spring break will be just a memory, and the little mice of finals phobia will be scurrying around in the student subconscious; but amazingly enough, the data that students will be dropping classes--two and a half months after they began last January. Its influx this is probably as old as Boise State, students will be hurrying to meet this semester's March 31st deadline for dropping that class that's "Too much bother to try and salvage." This Spring's flurry of class dropping may stand out from all those countless sessions that have gone before it, however, for it could very well be the last of its kind, like lawn and places to park a car, post-season withdrawals may soon be extinct on the Boise State campus. The extinction is being brought about by a proposal passed by the Faculty Senate which would allow students to withdraw from class (except by petition or with passing grades) only during the first six weeks of a semester, after that it would be sink or swim.

While the typical student reaction to this proposed change is probably akin to that of a child who is threatened with having its security blanket wrenched from its grasp, the change deserves at least grudging acceptance from students because of the improve-ments it will bring to academics at Boise State. The main benefit of the proposal is that it will compel students who start having problems part way through the semester to take positive rather than negative steps to remedy their situation; as it stands now, the typical response to a problem class is to take the easy way out--withdrawing--under the new system students will have to face up to their academic troubles by studying more or withdrawing instead of blaming the professor or the heavy-handedness of the system.

Ironically, those students who are not ready for college will be the last to drop; because of the new system they will have to face the disappointment of trying to help a student only to watch himappersing up, and give the students a truer indication of support for PIRG. This would in fact lend a stronger argument in terms of the mission of Education.

A Response
Editor, The Arbiter:
If students want PIRG, let them sign the petition to withdraw from class (mentioned in "Proposal is valid", Editor, The Arbiter: the last issue). If 4,000 students who have signed the petition truly want PIRG, they can be counted on to check the appropriate box on a registration form. This would place the burden on the student to take time to retrieve their $3.00, and give a more substantial indication of support for PIRG. This would in fact lend a stronger argument in terms of the mission of Education.

Personally, I believe this support for PIRG would dwindle to a small percentage, say 5.1 percent. First, I stand by my comment made at the State Board meeting. The people who have signed the petition and have become enlightened, have cited, without exception, the intense pressure I've mentioned. If a majority of student's support "is all that PIRG has claimed," then I dispel my claim by moving to a "positive check-off" system, (mentioned in first paragraph), at registration and have the fees adjusted prior to payment by students. Just think of the paperwork PIRG would save.

Mike, I would speak out against any student organization that is granted special status above the other organizations on campus. The funny thing is PIRG is not a student organization, PIRG would not be recognized by ASB, not affiliated in any way with the University. PIRG does not allow unlimited access for students of Boise State University to participate.

Finally, Mike, labeling me "inconsistent" is hardly a logical argument for PIRG. Would that it be so easy as character malignment. Years of student involvement speaks for itself. I simply ask you, Mike and Fred, and all the other students on this campus to look at all the arguments about PIRG and make both sides.

At your disposal,
Darrell Gustavson

Happy Easter
Editor, The Arbiter:
While we shall soon be rejoicing because of our Lord's triumphant rising from death, we shall not lose sight of the message which the tide imports. Easter recalls to our minds a life of suffering in humility, a life of sacrifice, a re-commission to the will of our Creator, in consequence to hope in our own resurrection on the last day. Jesus Christ has already given us the clue about the life we are expected to live. He is the Son of God, yet He so humbled Himself that He came into the world according to the nature of an ordinary man and did expiate the innumerable deaths of the cross in order to give us new life. Christ carried out this redemptive work in obedience to His Father's will and, as a reward, God has granted Him a perfect glory. This is a good lesson for us.

We believe that Christ and His church form His mystical body and that He is the head. Using the human body as an analogy, St. Paul points out the unity in diversity of Christ and Christians (1 Cor. 12). Again, Paul shows that Christ has resettled resurrection by His own resurrection of the body. At the same time, we must remember that "If anyone does not have the Spirit of Christ, he does not belong to Christ" (Rom. 8:9). To the co-heirs with Christ and therefore sons of God, we must suffer with Him (Rom. 8:17). Finally, therefore readers, among other things, Easter reminds us to live a life of self-denial, with egalitarianism behind bars, amy in political circles, no more evil to threaten the society. Nowadays, we hear of extension of Wiwi,dress which is mostly connected with modernism. We attribute this to the omission of the purpose of Easter.

This year's Easter celebration is unique in that we are humbly begging God to usher some measure of peace into the world. We remember our good and bad brothers and sisters in Iran and Russia. We also remember brothers and sisters in South Africa, Angola, etc. who are still struggling against apartheid.

Let us pray to God to inculcate in us the joy of all and the sadness of one, the hardness of the "By, and human relations on the outward journey to be resurrected.

The memoirs of our recent past are all testimony to the way we American ties its own hands in foreign affairs. Every president, every secretary of state, is encouraged to look over his shoulder toward the nation of America's right wing, ready to denounce any reasonable compromise as appeasement. Eugene Rostow admitted that President Kennedy went farther toward humiliating Nikita Khrouchtchev than he had to, in the Cuban missile crisis—but added that this was necessary to win removal of the missiles, but he saw no reason for the Russians to back off. Why? Because, Rostow told the New Yorker, if Kennedy had not been extremely bellicose, the right wing would have called persuasively for steps of suicidal bellicosity. We are watching a sad replay of that scenario. Carter refuses, at the outset, to admit what the Senate had already said about the shah—which was that the support that had tricked off from Carter last summer. He placated the right, and persuaded much of the left. But he did it by denying corrosive realities. Now, to get the hostages out, he edges toward late and reluctant concession to a truth he could have produced at the outset as the Senate's finding. Trying to placate the right, he inflamed it as Johnson and Kissinger did in Vietnam. Unnecessary first concessions are followed by ultimate yieldings, which seem unavoidable, but become in the right-wing rhetoric a new appearance. The waste of it all is hard to state. Andrew Young was criticized, and finally dismissed, for a failure of tact. But in this political situation tact is often a synonym for covering up the obvious, for denial of the truth. Henry Kissinger is widely considered a great diplomat because he dodged or distorted the truth, and Andrew Young a failure because he faced it. But, ultimately, history and truth have a way of getting together; and, when they do, Young will be the real winner, after short-term political losses.

Young and Kissinger

Young, the former American ambassador to Ethiopia, criticized the CIA coup that put the shah of Iran in power. He accused the United States of making the shah look good by not speaking out on these failings, he said, as our hockey team is simply, that the limited United States dependence on that fact-finding commission, which would have released us from any response to the obtrusive realities. Now, to get the hostages out, he edges toward late and reluctant concession to a truth he could have produced at the outset as the Senate's finding. Trying to placate the right, he inflamed it as Johnson and Kissinger did in Vietnam. Unnecessary first concessions are followed by ultimate yieldings, which seem unavoidable, but become in the right-wing rhetoric a new appearance. The waste of it all is hard to state. Vandalism Still Plagues Library

by Michelle Hartell
Associate Editor

BSU-Associated students of Boise State University (ASBSU) Senator Bee Nichol and BSU head Librarian, Tim Brown met last week in an attempt to solve the problem of vandalism, noise and misconduct in the library, but came up with no answer.

Problems Nichol and Brown had to deal with were noise by groups and general horseplay, furniture destruction and wall graffiti, chewing tobacco in cups left on tables and spit on the floor and broken bottles left under desks.

In evaluation of the problems Nichol said, "Students must make aware that there is discipline for their conduct and make, staff aware of violators and viola-

Nichol feels that the problem deals with the need to respect the library which is the property of all students and respect fellow students in their desire to study.

Nichol said, "We all get thoughtful of others from time to time and we all need to be reminded."

Tim Brown, University Librarian, has an office located on the first floor of the library. For suggestions for remedies and wants to know of problems found in the library.

Daycare Funds to be Held Up

A federal bill providing 53 billion for social service funds is being pigmotted in a joint ad hoc committee because of a rider attached which calls for a windfall profits tax.

With no funds coming from the federal government, the state government has been picking up the sizeable tab, according to William McFarland, Health and Welfare Social Services manager for this area of Idaho, and Idaho can no longer afford to do it.

"The bill passed the Senate on October 19, 1979, and a similar one passed the House on October 29, 1979," said McFarland. "It's been in committee ever since.

If no action on the bill is not taken in the near future," said McFarland. "We can no longer bank on HR5434 coming out in the near future."

State de Sugiyama, Co-Chairman of the BSU Daycare Center Board of Directors, said, "You'd think that the government would be willing to pay a little money to help for my child while I get an education to get me off welfare," said Vemonica Strit, Boise State freshman.

Lyndy Marsh, a Women's Alliance member, said, "I'm still waiting."

Marsh thinks the women should organize to "make noise" and Congressmen be dealt with the cut in federal funding.

But the BSU Women's Alliance has not responded with any support, said Christie Hurlman, member of the BSU Child Care Center Board. "They (the Alliance) have said, 'Yes, we support, but they never do,' said Hurlman.

If action on the bill is not taken before September 30, 1980, the bill automatically dies.
Gl Bill Benefits May Be Cut

Campus Digest News Service

An education advisory panel has made proposals designed to resolve a dispute with colleges, over payment of GI Bill education benefits to veterans. The Veterans Administration is studying the proposals but its officials say they are not sure whether they will follow the panel's recommendations.

V.A. officials are caught in the middle of a conflict between the House of Representatives and the Senate, over how liberal the government should be in awarding benefits to veterans enrolled in non-traditional education programs.

Chess Team Places First

The Boise State "A" chess team won first place in the ALCI Regional Championships held in Pullman, Washington February 22-23, thereby gaining the title of the best collegiate chess team in the Pacific Northwest.

Members of the "A" team are Richard Bufrett, current Idaho state chess champion, and Larry Parsons, 1979 Idaho state champion and current BSU champion. Bufrett and Parsons together scored seven points out of ten (each player scored three-and-half out of five) to win the tournament.

Craig Mints and Dave Musko also traveled to represent Boise State as the BSU "B" team.

The advisory panel's recommendations would mean major changes in the so-called contact-hour or seat-time rule, which requires that veterans spend at least 12 hours a week in the classroom to qualify for full benefits.

The panel proposes that these regulations be changed and that credit be based on time spent in class or independent study during an entire semester or term, rather than on a weekly basis.

Another recommendation would ensure that non-traditional courses and self-paced programs be treated the same as regular courses, provided that similar amounts of work are required.

Many Senators seem willing to accept the plan, but a V.A. official said that the lawmakers in the House are in favor of a "more traditional interpretation of the law."

Because of these demands from the House, there is speculation that the V.A. might not accept the panel's proposals until Congress acts on several other proposals pending before it.

The Senate was expected to pass a bill that would extend the time that certain veterans could use their education benefits beyond the present 10-year limit.

The bill would also eliminate a rule which limits the number of student-aid recipients who can enroll in any one college.

V.A. officials said that this rule was enforced to keep down the number of fly-by-night education programs set up to collect payments from ex-GI's.

Meanwhile, colleges are also complaining to the V.A. about what they feel are over-restrictive measures.

Three institutions have filed suits in federal courts challenging the constitutionality of the contact-hour regulation. In February, a Michigan federal court began hearing the case involving the adult-learning program at Wayne State University.

The chairman of the Senate Committee on Veterans' Affairs, California Democrat Alan Cranston, said he will hold a series of investigative hearings to find out if the V.A. and other government agencies are helping Vietnam-era veterans adjust to civilian life.

Cranston said his committee "will examine why some veterans are not benefited from federal programs designed to help them, and whether new programs will help their readjustment."

Comment
Every effective leader follows a dream. My dream is the last fee. Our Campus to fairly hum with the activity and excitement of awards and involved students working together in thousands of ways to create a better future for the one billion of each individual in our society. I am prepared for the hard work and self-involvement still necessary for bringing this dream closer to reality. Your support and commitment, however, are equally needed if we are to accomplish this desired goal. Our common experience is that we are all students at Boise State University. Let's work together to maintain this common experience work for us.

Neil Wilson

"The upcoming school year will be a pivotal year for education in the state of Idaho; therefore, it is imperative that we, as students, elect representatives who will effectively represent us at the state level. I am running for office to assure continuity in the quality of both state and local government. It is evident by the quality of both the state and local government that Oregon has the highest quality of government. The "One Percent" initiative, equal funding, does not necessitate that it be situated in a state of Oregon. Equal opportunity does not necessitate that it be situated in a state of Oregon. Equal opportunity does not necessitate that it be situated in a state of Oregon. Equal opportunity does not necessitate that it be situated in a state of Oregon.

Per Capita Spending
As has been true in the past, money went to education we, as students, should be glad to pay $40.00 that Qua. The "One Percent" initiative, equal funding does not necessitate that it be situated in a state of Oregon.

Steve Marcum

Issue resolution as you can see, is limited to a Vice President's responsibilities within the parameters of the position. A vice president must be a strong leader, a strong leader, a strong leader, a strong leader. If a vice president were to fail in their responsibilities, our whole system of government would be at risk. The Pavilion is "on" and cannot be stopped now. Since students are paying for most of the structure, students should be given control. Specifically, I favor a 51 percent or greater representation of students on the controlling Board of Governors made up of student government officers and students at large.

Title IX
Title IX Participation in sports is an some opposition, but students should be glad to pay $40.00 that they can have returned for a program that has such strong support.

Pavilion
The Pavilion has against the pavilion and the mandatory collection of $40.00 in fees for a structure that has little student support. Now that it is going to be built, I would like to see the plans for student offices and meeting rooms kept intact. I am running on a commitment to see that the Pavilion Board of Governors has a student majority serving on it.
The concept is good but there are many aspects which are unclear. More time and consideration would be given by any decision can be made.

Pavilion

I support the concept of registering young people for military service. It would greatly enhance the nation's preparedness in the event of a major conflict. The draft, however, I oppose and will continue to oppose unless this nation becomes involved in a conflict which was supported by a majority of the youth of this nation.

One Percent

The general populous, high school education is a sign of national strength and educated individuals are statistically less apt to become criminals and tend to make more of their lives. They also tend to be better informed of the issues which is important in a democracy. Higher education is in everyone's interest and the burden should be shared by everyone.

Title IX

I agree with the concept but I don't think it's workable in all situations.

Representation

I support the Senate bill and could be a learning experience for students. Limiting that experience or the number of students who actively shape the course of the AASBU would not be in the best interest of the student body.

Per Capita Spending

It is a result of Idaho's low population in comparison to other states. The 1% certainly will not help higher education either.

Business Qualifications

I feel that with my ability to listen to people and then speak up about problems in my biggest asset. I've been an officer of a dormitory and a member of the Internal Board. I have served on many boards for dormitory procedures and committees.

PIRG

I'm both in favor and against the PIRG. I'm against because we really haven't heard what kind of research this group is doing or how the students or advisors are going to be picked to run this group if it does pass. I am in favor of it because the State Board did allow a $40 increase in student fees for the Pavilion and it would be wrong if they didn't pass this. The big question is it really going to help us?

Pavilion

Originally I was opposed to the pavilion, but now that it is ready to be built the only reasonable thing to do is to support it and to see it will be run in an efficient manner, and to see it would be used by students are the ones that will benefit.

Selective Service

I feel there were other alternatives they should have sent to send such young men to do a country's dirty work.

I support the concept. I am not sure I support the method of financing that is now before the Senate and Board of Education.

Pavilion

I support the multi-purpose pavilion as a much needed meeting and event space. I believe the child care center housed in the pavilion is very needed.

Selective Service

I am very against the draft, as a former activist in the anti-war movement and as a mother of draft age children (both male and female).

One Percent

I don't think that higher education or any education should suffer because the property owners are in a tax bind. Anything of support may become necessary.

Title IX

There is more to Title IX than sports. It is the broad concept of "AERA" for educational institutions. I feel there are many interpretations and the decisions must be made in court.

Representations

I don't think the one way that I would support it if there were a bi-camera system initiated to give population of each school a vote. Per Capita

I feel that Idaho youth is suffering in the long run because of some misguided priorities in the legislature.

Comment

I want to see the students of BSU be more, not less, involved in the spending of their student fees. The only way this can happen is if they are aware of what goes on in the student government.

Anita Wardwell

Business Qualifications

I was appointed to the Position of Business Singh in 1979, and have gained on the job experience. But, the most important qualification for myself or anyone else is simply being a student on this campus. I have served on many boards for dormitory procedures and committees.

PIRG

I still haven't decided on PIRG. I'm still looking at all of the Pro's and Con's with. It was poorly written and it's a big issue that needs lots of consideration.

Pavilion

Originally I was opposed to the pavilion, but now that it is ready to be built the only reasonable thing to do is to support it and to see it will be run in an efficient manner, and to see it would be used by students are the ones that will benefit.

Selective Service

I want to see the students of BSU be more, not less, involved in the spending of their student fees. The only way this can happen is if they are aware of what goes on in the student government.

Bob Stroud

Education Qualifications

I'm working on a double major in Political Science and Education, with an emphasis in the high manager at the SUL and have been involved with organizations such as Circles in Key Club, National Honor Society, etc. I'm interested in Student Gov't and would like to give it my best.

PIRG

I think PIRG can and will be very helpful to the students and the students involved. The request of $3.00 is not all that much anymore when compared to the instate tuition.

Pavilion

The pavilion is going to be quite the thing. I think it should be student run and student used as much as possible. Who's paying for it?

Debbie Brooks

No one else has been interested enough to do the job.

Pavilion

I think much in favor of PIRG. Students need information on student issues that has been requested not heard by and lip.

but on both sides expressed strong feelings, a fact which might account for confrontations between pro- and anti-draft forces during demonstrations at Columbia U. and the U. of Texas.

The draft was the focal point of a Feb. 15 White House meeting of about 300 student government leaders from across the country. Yet after day-long briefings from the Carter administration's top domestic and foreign policy advisers, there was no definitive report on the students' feelings about the draft. One student government president, who admitted he was pro-registration prior to the meeting, said that while vocal members of the student delegation opposed the draft, a majority of those present cheered his statement of support.

Another student leader, admittedly anti-draft, said he felt most of the students favored Carter's registration plan coming into the meeting, but changed their minds after hearing "the weak rationale" offered by the administration for resuming registration.
BSU Gymnastics Top Bobcats

(BSU)-The women's gymnastics team, ranked third in the nation among Division II schools, defeated the Montana State Bobcats 197.25 to 173.00. The team score of 136.75 shattered the old school record of 133.35 set earlier this season.

The Broncos end the regular season undefeated in Division II competition and 13-0 overall. "This was the finest performance I have seen by a Boise State team. The team effort was outstanding. They were ready to compete at home and showed it with top-notch routines," said BSU coach John Head.

The team also set new event records on the vault, 34.50 (old record, 34.35), the bars, 34.20 (old record, 34.00), and the floor, 33.75 (old record, 33.25).

The all-around competition was won by Kathy King of Montana State with a score of 35.00. King placed first on the vault, the bars, and the floor exercises. BSU's Mary Howard placed second in the all-around competition with a 34.20.

BSU freshman Shalahg Acton placed first in the beam competition with an 8.65, followed by teammates Lori Talbot and Kelly Parker.

"The turning point in the meet came when we hit our beam routines. We performed well on the floor also, but it was the beam which made the difference in the meet," added Head. The Broncos outscored the Bobcats 34.30 to 32.65 on the beam competition.

The Broncos now have a weekend off in preparation for the NCWSA Regional Championships, March 30-31, in Spokane, WA.

Four Wrestlers Go to Oregon

BSU- Four members of Boise State's Big Sky Conference Championship team will represent the Broncos at the NCAA Championships in Corvallis, OR March 15, 16, and 17.

Scott Barrett (126), Doug Pugmire (142), Kevin Wood (177) and Bill Braseth (177) all took individual titles recently at the Big Sky Conference championships in Boise. The four Broncos earned the right to go to the NCAA Championships with the titles.

Men's Track Competes

(BSU)-The BSU track team heads for Eugene, OR this weekend to compete in the first dual meet on Saturday, March 15.

The Broncos did not compete this past weekend, but according to track coach Bil Jacoby, "We have had the best Saturday of practice ever."

Jacoby said that his sprinters' and quarter mile's times were outstanding in Saturday's practice and he was looking forward to this weekend's track meet.

BSU will be represented by 20-22 athletes, and will compete against trackmen from Idaho, Idaho State, the Oregon schools, several schools in Washington, including some junior colleges and community colleges.

Jacoby said his major goal for the weekend is to work on the distance times, and perhaps challenge three existing school records in distance events.

Also, Jacoby said freshman jumper Anthony Bailey will compete for the first time in several weeks. He was sidelined with a pulled hamstring, but is expected to long jump and triple jump this Saturday.

Barrett, 20-10-1, won the title at 126 pounds for the second straight year pinning Montana's Doug Forrest 1:45 in the second period. Pugmire, 11-6-0, was the surprise of the tournament beating Montana's Brad Benn 6-5 in overtime. Pugmire is a freshman, and had only wrestled sparingly during the season.

Wood and Braseth both won their second straight BSU titles in 1980. Wood, the tournament's most valuable wrestler, downed Vater State's Ron Packer 13-5 in the final. Wood finished the year with a 15-1-1 record overall. Braseth, 21-12-0, beat Northern Arizona's Mark Roberts 9-3 to qualify for the NCAA's.

"They definitely have a chance at nationals, but you have to remember that every wrestler at nationals is a champion," said BSU head wrestling coach Mike Young.

"Judging from the wrestlers' dual competition on the year, Young thinks that Wood has the best chance to place for BSU."

"I think we have as good a group as we've ever had going to nationals," said Young.

"According to Young, the toughest thing for the wrestlers will be overcoming the psychological effects that an NCAA tournament has on wrestlers from smaller schools."

"There is a lot of pressure at nationals. The kids have to overcome a lot of obstacles, said Young.

"Pugmire, the surprise of the Big Sky tournament, will be hampered at the nationals because of slight torn knee cartilage suffered in practice. As a result, Pugmire has been unable to practice the last four days and could be questionable for nationals."

"This should be a close meet, especially since we will be holding only a partial meet. Our distance runners will not compete against Dickson."

"The turning point in the meet came when we hit our beam routines. We performed well on the floor also, but it was the beam which made the difference in the meet," added Head. The Broncos outscored the Bobcats 34.30 to 32.65 on the beam competition.

The Broncos now have a weekend off in preparation for the NCWSA Regional Championships, March 30-31, in Spokane, WA.

Three Fine Hurdlers

BSU Track Hosts Meet

(BSU)-The women's track team will host the BSU/Women's Invitational Track Meet on Saturday, March 15, at noon in Bronco Stadium. Schools competing in this annual meet will be Eastern Oregon State College, Treasure Valley Community College, Northwest Nazarene College, and the College of Southern Idaho.

"This should be a close meet, especially since we will be holding only a partial meet. Our distance runners will not compete against Dickson."

"We should be strong in the field events and will bring stadium record holder Rhonda Barnett," commented Fabricius. "BSU hosted the Bronco record for the 100, 200, 400, 800 and 1500 meters."

Men's Track Competes

(BSU)-The men's track team hosts a dual meet with New Mexico State University on Saturday, March 15. The meet will be held in Bronco Stadium at noon.

BSU's track team has been practicing diligently in preparation for this meet. The team consists of several athletes, including freshman and junior players.

According to coach Ganger French, "We have a good mix of experienced and novice athletes."

French expects good performances in the sprints, hurdles, and distance events. The team's focus will be on improving their times and establishing new personal records.

There is a lot of pressure at nationals. The kids have to overcome a lot of obstacles, said Young.

"Pugmire, the surprise of the Big Sky tournament, will be hampered at the nationals because of slight torn knee cartilage suffered in practice. As a result, Pugmire has been unable to practice the last four days and could be questionable for nationals."
BSU Golf Looks Good

(BSU)-The Broncos will be young but very promising this spring and should show dramatic improvement on the links as the spring progresses. The Broncos hope to have enough golf behind them to be competitive at the Big Sky Championships May 9-10 in Moscow, ID.

Rusty Materson, a junior from Boise, and Ron Reels, a sophomore from Meridian, are the most experienced players on the team. Each showed improvement last season and should be among the top finishers at any meet they play.

Senior Michael Haines is the only other golfer on the team with experience at Boise State.

The remainder of the squad is young with sophomores Brad Bowen and freshmen Rob Ellis and Joe Haldeman. Junior Brian Wilkins from Idaho Falls has not played with BSU but does have high school experience.

The Broncos start the season off with an appearance in the Reno Tournament, March 27-29. BSU is home for two straight meets, meeting Northwest Nazarene and Williamette on April 5 at Warm Springs Course, and hosting the BSU Invitational April 10-11.

Next on tap is the Idaho HS Majors Div. Championship at the North Idaho College Golf Course, and hosting the BSU Invitational April 10-11.

Tennis Season Opens

(BSU)-The Boise State University women's tennis team makes its first home appearance of the season Saturday, March 15, in a match with the Boise Racquet and Swim Club. Saturday's match will begin at 2:00 pm at the Boise Racquet and Swim Club, 116 N. Cole Road.

"The team from the Racquet and Swim Club is mostly made up of women in their 30's and 40's who love tennis," said BSU coach Jean Boyles. "Some have been playing for years. They're strong and experienced."

Junior Rusty Wartenson, a junior from Twin Falls, is seeded first and should be close after Weber State.

The remainder of the squad is also forming this spring. The Broncos opened the season March 2 at the All-Ida Tournament in Nampa and a dual meet with Idaho State in Twin Falls on April 25. The Big Sky championships will be held May 9-10 at the University of Idaho Golf Course.

Once again, Weber State is the team to beat in the Big Sky Conference. The league shows continued improvement but we should be close after Weber State.

Intramural Rosters Due

(UA)-Okay, all you swinging guys and gals, it's once again time to send in your rosters for spring intramural Co-ed Softball. Teams must have ten players—five of each—and rosters should be into the Intramurals Office, Gym 203, by March 17. Schedules will be distributed on or about March 21, and play begins April 1.

For those fellows who have to send in a ball around to get your locks, Men's Intramural Soccer is also forming this spring. The same dates and deadlines apply as above.

Both sports will be played on the grass between the SUB and the gym, weekdays, late afternoons. C'mon, people—let's get out there and tear up the grass!
by Mike Riplinger

(UA)--The Boise State Broncos swept a doubleheader from Northwest Nazarene last weekend to even their record at 3-3 for the season.

With a big fourth inning, highlighted by Viley Beck's triple, the Broncos exploded for four runs in the fourth inning to blow out the Crusaders 9-2 in the first game. Beck added two more hits and three RBI's and Wymon Smith went the distance to pick up the win.

In the second game Steve Laughrey notched his first win of the season as the Bronco's lineup erupted for nine runs in the fourth inning to blast the outclassed NNC squad 12-2.

Coach Ross Vaughn said he was a little disappointed with the way the Broncos played because of some early season "mental errors." He felt that although his club played well defensively and hit the ball well, they didn't execute well and made several mistakes on the base paths.

This coming weekend the Broncos will take on Eastern Oregon of the Evergreen Conference. The two teams will play a twin-bill on Saturday at noon in LaGrande, OR. Then they'll meet again in Boise at Borah Field on Sunday for a 1:30 pm doubleheader.

"Eastern Oregon has a good ballclub," said Vaughn. "They have most of their 1979 team back and that team had a real good season."

Although still unsure about who he will throw against Eastern Oregon, Vaughn indicated that it will probably be Steve Laughrey, Lou Freter, Wymon Smith and Mike Munns.

The Broncos will be without the services of third baseman Rick Stromer who has been sidelined for a couple weeks with a sprained ankle. Bob Read will replace him in the lineup.

In commemoration of the 100th Anniversary of the birth of Ernne Bloch, the Boise Philharmonic will be performing Bloch's Sacred Service (Avodath Hakodesh) in its fifth concert of the 1979-80 season. Concert times will be Monday, March 17 at 7:30 p.m. and Tuesday, March 18 at 8:15 p.m. in Capital High School Auditorium. While there are many beautiful settings of the Catholic Mass, this is the only musical setting of the Jewish Service.

Boise Philharmonic Performs

Joining the Philharmonic will be guest soloist, baritone Neil Wilson, the Boise State University Singers and the Mestersingers. Neil Wilson is one of the leading baritones in the Northwest. He has appeared as soloist with the Seattle Opera, Portland and Spokane Symphonies as well as having earned critical acclaim in concert and recital performances elsewhere in the United States and Europe. Dr. Wilson has been heard before in Boise as soloist with the Philharmonic in the Bruch Requiem in 1976 and with the Boise Civic Opera in the role of Germont in La Traviata in 1977.

Immediately following his performances in Boise, Dr. Wilson will be flying to Cologne, Germany, where he will teach spring term for a foreign study program sponsored by the American Heritage Foundation.

Folk Art Film To Be Shown in Park

As part of the Boise Gallery of Art's regular V-Day Night Program, the film, "Anonymous V: A Woman," will be shown on Wednesday, March 15, 1981 at the Gallery in Julia Davis Park. The 30-minute film, which explores the origins of our current folk art traditions in the everyday creative spirit of the 18th and 19th centuries, is the second in a series, "The Originals: Women in Art," shown at the Gallery.

The title is significant—frequently when a piece of folk art has been given the attribution "Anonymous," it was the work of an unknown girl or woman. These women did not have a self-conscious awareness of themselves as "artists," they tapped their yearning for beauty and their powerful sense of color and form to make useful or pleasing objects to enrich their own and their families' lives. Gallery hours on Wednesday are 10 am-9 pm. Viewing the current exhibition, "Six from Idaho" may take place prior to the evening's program.
There is something about Chauncey Gardiner's terse, metaphoric quality of speech that moves many people to label him a brilliant man, and something about his stately, dignified appearance that women (and men) find extremely attractive. Yet Chauncey (Peter Sellers) only seems to be able to say, 'I like to watch--both to the disastrous homosexual at a high-class Washington political function, and to Eve Rand (Shirley McLaine), the sexually ravenous wife of a dying millionaire. And while both are more than willing to accommodate Chauncey, what they ultimately don't realize is that his viewing interest lies not in watching others have sex, but in watching television, an interest that is more precisely an obsession for this enigmatic character.

And perhaps it is indeed what makes Being There, a movie loaded with irony and subtle humor, Being. There is undoubtedly Peter Sellers at his best--to mention such notables as Shirley McLaine, Melvyn Douglas, and Jack Warden.

BSU Opera Tells Season

The Boise State University Opera Theater season has two more major productions scheduled for this year, and possibly a special children's concert this fall, according to the theater's director William Taylor.

Full production of Mozart's comic opera "Cosi Fan Tutte" (Women are like that) is planned for May 9-10, and performances of the Broadway musical "Gypsy" will run July 11-13 and 18-20. Both will be presented in the BSU Special Events Center.

According to Taylor, plans are under way to develop a new children's opera program in Boise. Should funding be approved, the production would begin in the fall and would use talented youngsters from the Treasure Valley area.

The Talkies: A Film Buy-line

"Show it to the Talkies reviewers, they hate everything," but not this week, as everyone found something good to say about Being There, which is playing at the 8th Street Theatre's and features Peter Sellers and Shirley McLaine.

Marianne Piagg (4.4)

Being There is one of the wittiest, most intelligent movies of the year. Hal Ashby's taste and sophistication are evident throughout the film. Jerzy Kosinski effectively gives the screenplay all the biting satire his novel displayed.

Jerzy Kosinski's novel and screenplay, as well as his power of interpretation, as well as his versatility. Not to belittle Jerzey Kosinski's novel and screenplay, but Sellers is, quite simply, unbelievable. If you don't see a movie all year, see this one. This is definitely Academy award winning material.

Karl Knope (4.4/4)

My first review consisted of ten words: Nothing I could write would do justice to this movie. Unfortunately, my editor sent me away, the review was quite inadequate. Here goes:

-if you have heard anything about Being There, it probably concerned Peter Seller's portrayal of Chauncey Gardiner. Unlike his previous roles, typically typecast as Inspector Clouseau of Pink Panther fame, Sellers once again reminds us of his power of interpretation, as well as his versatility.
