4-30-1980

Arbiter, April 30

Students of Boise State University

Although this file was scanned from the highest-quality microfilm held by Boise State University, it reveals the limitations of the source microfilm. It is possible to perform a text search of much of this material; however, there are sections where the source microfilm was too faint or unreadable to allow for text scanning. For assistance with this collection of student newspapers, please contact Special Collections and Archives at archives@boisestate.edu.
Capacity Crowd Samples New Food

BSU—The international students of Boise State dressed in their traditional native costumes Friday night and served a dinner of exotic dishes such as cooked squid and fried banana. Flags and posters from all over the world covered the walls of the SUB Ballroom where the International Student Association presented the Third Annual Food, Song and Dance Festival. Catering to a capacity crowd of about 350, the students served over 40 different foods and entertained with a variety of songs and dances.

The night was really a success,” said Sheryle Donaldson, President of the Association, “there was plenty of food and entertainment. People seemed to enjoy themselves.”

Beach Party Dance Results From Debt

by Michelle Hartell
Associate Editor

BSU—Through a combination of problems, the Associated Students of Boise State University (ASBSU) Student Programs Board went into a debt of $326.30 which resulted in the Beach Party dance designed to cover the debt. At this writing, no revenues have been turned into the ASBSU Student Programs Board’s account.

There were also problems outside the Programs Board’s control. Dingman, Student Union Building Assistant Director and advisor for the Programs Board, says the problems this year were due to being rated B-1 which projects Dingman stated that he hoped the system will be changed next year by letting the concert proceeds go back to the Programs Board.

This year all revenues from films, lectures, concerts and special events went into the Student Senate reserve fund and the Programs Board had no access to the money they made unless they went to the Senate for specific allocation.

Dingman also said that there were problems in working with the Student Senate. “The Senate has been working very hard to get expenses and expected revenues. The ASBSU Treasurer for the past year Vicki Childs said, “The Programs Board estimated their revenues to be $16,222 but so far they have fallen $12,079 short of this.”

In the financial procedures of the Programs Board, Childs explained that supplies and other goods that can be provided by the Bookstore can be charged to the Programs Board. “Even though the funds were available to pay him, Williams was unable to comment on the reason for the denial of payment,” said Childs. Childs also recognized many problems that the Programs Board ran into such as the money put into the David Garcia and Hank Aaron lectures which were both cancelled and received no revenues.

Ordu Obibuduku narrated the festival entertainment, “Parade of Nations—1980”. A Tahitian dance by Bertha Canacho, the San Joruno dance from Columbia by Claria Garcia and Leo Lopez, Japanese songs from the 1960s and the Afrobean Nigerian dance by Dennis Egwuata were among the highlights. Youichiro Kawai amazed the crowd with a karate demonstration in which he broke cinder blocks with his bare hands and feet. The Juju from Ghana, an Indian folk dance, a cabaret belly dance, songs from Thailand, La Bambara from Mexico and Dobie dance from the Middle East were also performed.

The international students sang an International Theme Song.

In the financial procedures of the Programs Board, Childs explained that supplies and other goods that can be provided by the Bookstore can be charged to the Programs Board. “Even though the funds were available to pay him, Williams was unable to comment on the reason for the denial of payment,” said Childs. Childs also recognized many problems that the Programs Board ran into such as the money put into the David Garcia and Hank Aaron lectures which were both cancelled and received no revenues.

Ordu Obibuduku narrated the festival entertainment, “Parade of Nations—1980”. A Tahitian dance by Bertha Canacho, the San Joruno dance from Columbia by Claria Garcia and Leo Lopez, Japanese songs from the 1960s and the Afrobean Nigerian dance by Dennis Egwuata were among the highlights. Youichiro Kawai amazed the crowd with a karate demonstration in which he broke cinder blocks with his bare hands and feet. The Juju from Ghana, an Indian folk dance, a cabaret belly dance, songs from Thailand, La Bambara from Mexico and Dobie dance from the Middle East were also performed.

The international students sang an International Theme Song.
ANNOUNCEMENTS

Vaccines, if you need help with hassles, The Vet Center is open to all Vietnam era veterans. They are located at 303 W. State, phone 342-3612. They also have two WA workshop positions open for a clerical secretary (10 wpm) and for a counselor. If interested call Dan as the Vet Center.

Students wishing to study in the Boise State program in Col汞, London, or Avignon can get information on the courses from the students abroad office in the Liberal Arts Building, room 212. Deadline for applications for Fall is May 1.

Applications are now being accepted for the Anshun B. Scott Memorial Scholarship that will pay $1,000 to students who intend Boise State’s "Campus in Spain" next fall. Three scholarships are available, application deadline is May 1.

Located in the Basque country of northern Spain, the program features classes in Basque and Spanish language, culture, history, art, and literature.

Courses for the academic year are about $3,000, which includes all expenses except air fare and personal items.

More information about the program and how to obtain the Scholarship can be obtained from Dr. Pat Bierer, Department of Teacher Education.

"Hobbits" from PSU will take Boise sidewalks and parking lots Fri., May 2 in the 26th annual Hoop March for PSU Vocational Technical School scholarships. The selected area freshmen volunteers will solicit donations from pedestrians and parking traffic from 7 am to noon.

Are you planning to attend summer school? If so, please let the admissions office know so that they can pre-registration materials for you. Stop by A-109 or call 385-1556.

RECREATION

Tennis instructors are needed to teach children's tennis classes. For more information, call Boise City Recreation, 384-4272.

Register now at Ft. Boise Community Center for adult tennis lessons scheduled for May, June and July. Registration limit is 8 persons per class. More information call Boise City Recreation at 384-4276.

A three day workshop, "The Value of Youth," will be conducted in the St. Luke's Hospital Anderson Medical Center, April 30-May 2. Dr. Arthur Priest, known as the principal architects of the "New Careers" movement which integrates education and work, and focuses on the potential of younger youth will be keynote speaker for the course.

Workshop sessions will focus on the juvenile justice system and methods for working with youth to meet their needs as well as those of society.

The Alliance for Dependent Children's Rights will meet tonight, 7pm at the YWCA, to discuss current funding issues in Aid to Dependent Families. "How Will We Survive?"

The Mount Hean Health Association is presenting a talk by Bill Thomas on his 9 year fight for survival in a state hospital for the criminally insane, on Sat., May 3 at 7:30 pm in Room 704 of the Red Lion Riverside. Tickets are $5, for reservations call 343-4666.

A membership drive for the Association hosted by Gov. and Mrs. John Evans and with special guest Bill Evans' and with special guest Bill Thomas will be held May 2 from 12 noon to 1800 N. 21st St. The public is invited.

EVENTS

The Spring funding meeting of the Idaho Arts Council will be held in Salmon, Idaho on May 2-3. After the Tourney, there will be a Feast ($5.00 per adult--adolescent to adult) and Twin Falls. Those unable to get tickets can call 385-3909.

Transportation in Idaho will be depicted in a special exhibit opening at the State Historical Museum in Pocatello on May 1. Major themes in the state's transportation history will be illustrated with railroads, ferries, automobiles, steamboats, trucks, and aviation.

The Residence Hall Association is sponsoring a Spring Formal Dance Fri., May 2 from 8-12 pm. There will be live music and refreshments, and tickets are $3.00/single and $5/couple, and are available at the SUB information booth. After the Tourney, there will be a Feast ($5.00 per adult--adolescent to adult) and Twin Falls. Those unable to get tickets can call 385-3909.

For more information, call Boise City Recreation, 384-4272.

The Spring funding meeting of the Idaho Arts Council will be held in Salmon, Idaho on May 2-3. After the Tourney, there will be a Feast ($5.00 per adult--adolescent to adult) and Twin Falls. Those unable to get tickets can call 385-3909.

EXHIBITS

Public performances begin each evening at 8:15 pm. Light refreshments will be served before the entertainment.

Performers include the University Singers, the Andante Recorder Society, and Bonneville Marching Band. Tickets from the Family Italian commedia dell'arte will be sold by BSU theatre art students. Hope Evans, soprano, Jim Watkinson, baritone, and Joe Baldwin, baritone, will perform Italian and English opera selections and songs.

Tickets, $3 per person, are available at the SUB information booth.

The Residence Hall Association is sponsoring a Spring Formal Dance Fri., May 2 from 8-12 pm. There will be live music and refreshments, and tickets are $3.00/single and $5/couple, and are available at the SUB information booth. After the Tourney, there will be a Feast ($5.00 per adult--adolescent to adult) and Twin Falls. Those unable to get tickets can call 385-3909.

For more information, call Boise City Recreation, 384-4272.

A Renaissance Celebration sponsored by the BSU Interdisciplinary Studies in the Humanities will be presented April 30-May 4 at St. Paul's Catholic Student Center. The humanities fair will offer a sampling of arts, crafts, music, and dance of the Italian, French, and English cultures between the fourteenth and seventeenth centuries.

Public performances begin each evening at 8:15 pm. Light refreshments will be served before the entertainment.

Performers include the University Singers, the Andante Recorder Society, and BSU Dance Theatre students. Sketches from the family Italian commedia dell'arte will be acted by BSU theatre art students. Hope Evans, soprano, Jim Watkinson, baritone and Joe Baldwin, baritone, will perform Italian and English opera selections and songs.

Tickets, $3 per person, are available at the SUB information booth.

The Residence Hall Association is sponsoring a Spring Formal Dance Fri., May 2 from 8-12 pm. There will be live music and refreshments, and tickets are $3.00/single and $5/couple, and are available at the SUB information booth. After the Tourney, there will be a Feast ($5.00 per adult--adolescent to adult) and Twin Falls. Those unable to get tickets can call 385-3909.

For more information, call Boise City Recreation, 384-4272.

The Spring funding meeting of the Idaho Arts Council will be held in Salmon, Idaho on May 2-3. After the Tourney, there will be a Feast ($5.00 per adult--adolescent to adult) and Twin Falls. Those unable to get tickets can call 385-3909.

For more information, call Boise City Recreation, 384-4272.

A Renaissance Celebration sponsored by the BSU Interdisciplinary Studies in the Humanities will be presented April 30-May 4 at St. Paul's Catholic Student Center. The humanities fair will offer a sampling of arts, crafts, music, and dance of the Italian, French, and English cultures between the fourteenth and seventeenth centuries.

Public performances begin each evening at 8:15 pm. Light refreshments will be served before the entertainment.

Performers include the University Singers, the Andante Recorder Society, and BSU Dance Theatre students. Sketches from the family Italian commedia dell'arte will be acted by BSU theatre art students. Hope Evans, soprano, Jim Watkinson, baritone and Joe Baldwin, baritone, will perform Italian and English opera selections and songs.

Tickets, $3 per person, are available at the SUB information booth.

The Residence Hall Association is sponsoring a Spring Formal Dance Fri., May 2 from 8-12 pm. There will be live music and refreshments, and tickets are $3.00/single and $5/couple, and are available at the SUB information booth. After the Tourney, there will be a Feast ($5.00 per adult--adolescent to adult) and Twin Falls. Those unable to get tickets can call 385-3909.

For more information, call Boise City Recreation, 384-4272.

The Spring funding meeting of the Idaho Arts Council will be held in Salmon, Idaho on May 2-3. After the Tourney, there will be a Feast ($5.00 per adult--adolescent to adult) and Twin Falls. Those unable to get tickets can call 385-3909.

For more information, call Boise City Recreation, 384-4272.

A Renaissance Celebration sponsored by the BSU Interdisciplinary Studies in the Humanities will be presented April 30-May 4 at St. Paul's Catholic Student Center. The humanities fair will offer a sampling of arts, crafts, music, and dance of the Italian, French, and English cultures between the fourteenth and seventeenth centuries.

Public performances begin each evening at 8:15 pm. Light refreshments will be served before the entertainment.

Performers include the University Singers, the Andante Recorder Society, and BSU Dance Theatre students. Sketches from the family Italian commedia dell'arte will be acted by BSU theatre art students. Hope Evans, soprano, Jim Watkinson, baritone and Joe Baldwin, baritone, will perform Italian and English opera selections and songs.

Tickets, $3 per person, are available at the SUB information booth.

The Residence Hall Association is sponsoring a Spring Formal Dance Fri., May 2 from 8-12 pm. There will be live music and refreshments, and tickets are $3.00/single and $5/couple, and are available at the SUB information booth. After the Tourney, there will be a Feast ($5.00 per adult--adolescent to adult) and Twin Falls. Those unable to get tickets can call 385-3909.

For more information, call Boise City Recreation, 384-4272.
BSU Grads to Receive Awards

BSU—Over 1,300 Boise State University students will receive degrees and certificates during 1979-80 commencement exercises scheduled for Sunday, May 18, at 2 p.m., in the BSU Bronco stadium.

The public is invited to attend the graduation ceremonies which will include addresses by Mike Cramer, former BSU student body president; Art Berry, president of the BSU Alumni Association; and BSU President John Neiser.

Silver medallions, awarded each year for service to the university, will also be presented during the ceremonies, and special recognition will be given to BSU professors emeriti.

Project Set to Increase Greeks

BSU—“Project Greek” aimed at increasing interest in joining sororities at BSU will include a telephone marathon May 16-18. Marathon callers will contact prospective pledges for BSU sororities and urge them to attend formal rush activities set for Aug. 22-25, according to Brenda Freeman, student aide to the assistant director for BSU Student Affairs.

Second and third telephone marathons are scheduled for Aug. 4-6 and Aug. 18-19, Freeman said.

“Project Greek” will also include Panhellenic fund raisers, increased public relations efforts and the writing of letters to prospective pledges referred by BSU alumnae, Freeman said.
Now. Da ya wanna apply?

The University Arbiter is looking for students who want to work in journalism, advertising and layout. Experience preferred but not required. If interested, apply today.

Faculty and Students Tell of Candidacies

Two Boise State faculty members and two BSU students have announced their candidacy to run for various state and county offices.

Charles "Chick" Quinowski, a Yo-technician counselor, is running on the Democratic ticket for State Senator in District 19. Quinowski, in an interview conducted during a morning break, said he has "the background, training, and interest to be a good senator."

Quinowski believes student costs should be kept to a minimum and "wants to hear student input into matters pertinent to the university where their future careers are a primary concern."

He also said "I am open to students and student groups and willing to hear their concerns—both before and after the election."

Mary Scholes, a faculty member in the Yo-technic department, is also running for office. She is announcing her formal candidacy in the Arbiter for Ada County Commissioner in District 3 on the Republican ticket. Scholes is a graduate of Boise Junior College and College of Idaho with a major in Education. She is currently pursuing her Masters here at BSU and is a member of several committees.

In an interview, Scholes outlined her reasons for running for office. "I am committed to public service and believe there are many things we can give the community, such as intelligence, imagination, and a desire to work," she said. "I have been involved in the university government processes and believe that I can do a good job for Ada County as Commissioner."

Scholes expressed concern over an adequate Urban Bus Service for the outlying areas so that students could commute to BSU more easily. She also expressed a need for zoning and housing with reasonably priced homes, so students could start their homes after graduation without going deeply in debt.

Also running for a State office is Mike Cramer, former ASBBSU president. Cramer is running for State Representative of District 13 on the Republican ticket. When asked about his reason for running, Cramer said "I enjoy politics, have been involved with the ASBBSU, and would like to continue to be involved."

He also said he is a facilitator for change and that public offices is one of the best places to accomplish change.

Cramer believes that students shouldn't have to bear the total load of educational costs and that the state should continue to share the cost.

Cramer said the 1 percent initiative needs to be "deadbodied." He believes that the 1 percent was "an idea from California, written for California, that needs to be written to fit Idaho."

Cramer, who will graduate in May, asks for assistance in his campaign. He is a Nampa resident and can be reached at home. Also running for an office is Marlene Bell. Although she could not be reached for an interview, Bell is a contender in the State Representative race in District 14 on the republican ticket.

Chapter Holds Initiation

BSU-Two Boise State University faculty members and 45 students were initiated this week into the BSU chapter of Phi Kappa Phi national honor society.

Inducted into the chapter during a special ceremony April 21 were Dr. Russell Centanni, chairman of the BSU Biology Department, and Dr. Margaret Reek, associated dean of the university's School of Arts and Sciences.

Dr. Jerold Miller, BSU professor of accounting and data processing gave the initiation address at a dinner following the ceremony.

Student initiates are: Rebecca Dunlop Blandel, Ann Marie Brown, Sherry Cole Caldwell, Patricia Sue Chaloupka, Becky Ann Compton, Balkind Mary Drake, Cheryl Marie Desin, Kerry Lynn Fost, Brenda Jacqueline Freeman, Dan C. Grober, Kathleen Grier-Hayes, Shauna Hill, Carol Hogue, Timothy Marie LaMarch, Judith H. Miller, Cathleen Noone MIlrshall, Beverly Miller, Karen L. Normer, Linda M. Barney and Patricia Arceo, California; Lorita Marie Inzunza, Buhl; Denise Tracy, Burley; Betty J. Larson, Johnson and Donna Jo Wilder, Nampa; Karl Nathan Knapp, Conallis, Ore.; Claudia Malcolm, Pickett, LaGrande, Ore.; Patricia L. Werlinger, Ontario, Ore.; Denise D. Lippold, Nampa; M. Frank E. LeVereing Jr., Elma; Wash.; Carol Kathryn Price, Deer Lodge, Mont.; and Brenda La Re Spurgeon, Great Falls, Mont..

Cadet Receives Award

BSU-Steven R. Corbett, cadet commander of Boise State University’s ROTC was chosen as this year’s recipient of the General George C. Marshall Award.

The award is given to the outstanding senior cadet at each school, that demonstrates the leadership and scholastic qualifications which epitomized the center of General Marshall.

The conference was held from May 19-21 and also attending the conference were such dignitaries as Frank Paco Jr., former Secretary of the Army; Harold W. Johnson, former Army Chief of Staff, Edward G. Myer, Army Chief of Staff; and Bernard W. Rogers, NATO Commander Europe.

Corbett stated that, "although aided by all the dignitaries present, the conference was the most valuable experience he had in ROTC."
Racial Deaths Memorialized

by Helen Gorden

(CPS)"I think there are three more nigger males over there, one of 'em shot in the arm, one of 'em shot in the chest, and one of 'em shot in the arm, I believe... Here's another one, let me see what this is."" The President Commission on Campus Uprising, convened in the wake of the violent month of May, 1970, went further. It blasted the police action as "a completely unwarranted and unjustified" attack, pegging racial animosity as a precipitating factor. The report deplored the "impression that police need not treat minority persons even censure for repressive action against blacks.

Yet two grand juries did absolve all police and public officials. There was anti-black peer pressure in the grand jury. One grand jury member, L. Morris Spivey, dismissed from the Hinds County jury, and was slapped with a contempt of court citation for his troubles. Some of the others in the community say Spivey suffered professional retribution for his knowledge of his dismissal was published. Spivey today still won't talk about the experience in the press.

Indeed, fear is the most frequently-quoted reason for Jackson's non-participation in the parade. One Jackson State faculty member says, "I've heard students say, 'They came out here and shot us once, they'll do it again.'"

New Company Enforces Parking

BSU-The City of Boise is going after its parking business on the Boise State campus.

This is the city that didn't renew its contract with BSU to enforce campus parking regulations.

That's according to Diamond Parking, Inc., provided their proposed contract gets State Board of Education approval in May.

The company, which already operates several downtown lots, will enforce the same regulations and follow the same procedures as the city, according to Gordon Phillips, director of administrative services at BSU.

Diamond will have the authority to issue tickets on campus.

MSU Can't Give Drug Caused Denial

(CPS) Even though Michigan State University officials say they don't look too closely at felony convictions for marijuana use, when considering applications for enrollment, a Michigan Senator says he has introduced a bill that would prevent any Michigan university from using that as a basis for discharge from the campus.

Most felony convictions for students involve marijuana," explains Charles Seeley, MSU admissions director. "We are concerned about those convictions, but we are not concerned to the point of preventing any student from coming to the university."

The measure, which was introduced this past week in the Senate, would prevent any Michigan university from using drug use or possession as a basis for discharge from the campus.

"The bill will keep universities from using that as a basis for discharge," says Seeley.

Sederberg, an active proponent of marijuana decriminalization, said the MSU State News that the bill is part of a "broader approach to decriminalization in Michigan."

But university officials, at least at MSU, maintain that marijuana convictions are not much of a concern to admissions officers.

"We have a special university admissions committee that reviews convictions," says Charles Seeley, MSU admissions director. "The committee looks at the whole picture, including the seriousness and reports from the parole board."

"I think if the bill were passed there would be any changes in our procedures," says Seeley.

While he is concerned about the Michigan House, Sederberg says support for the bill in the Senate is secure. He doesn't think that decriminalization will cause a drug problem on campus.

Plant Lectureto be Given

BSU-Dr. James M. Trepp, U.S. Forest Service mycologist, will give a slide lecture, "Trees, Truffles, and Beasts," to the Sigma XI scientific honor society at Boise State University May 6.

The public is invited to attend the talk, which will begin at 7 p.m.

Festival continued from cover

composed by Arlo Nitola and Pepeita Torres, as the finale.

During an intermission, Donaldson held a drinking game for a free dinner for all at the Hibachi restaurant and a bouquet of flowers from Johnson for members of the audience. About 106 foreign students and their friends were present, and the audience was, as usual, enthusiastic.

The first person to come to the Student Activities Office and identify where this is and what it's used for will win - two Mann Theater Passes.
Editorial

Since this is the next-to-the-last issue of the Arbiter for this year it is time for the traditional end-of-the-year editorial. The end-of-the-year editorial usually rambles on about all of the good and bad things that have happened on campus during the year. Then it goes on and on about how next year will be so much better. Well, eventually it is going to have to come to an end. The next graduating seniors will want in their attempts to make a go of it in the big bad world. I suggest that you read the sentimental collections of words that year-end editorial inevitably become, so I won't even entertain the idea of writing one. Instead, everyone is going to write their own hate editorial this week—in honor of Boise's recent brush with national Socialists (Nazis). A hate editorial is easy to write if you follow the simple directions given below. The directions are as simple as the solutions offered by hate groups: even a child, or someone with a childish attitude could follow them.

Directions: Fill in the blanks with the name of a group you don't like.

Follow Americans! It is time for all of us loyal Americans to come awake to the threat which is destroying our way of life. The sobering swarms of --- have been destroying the purity of our nation ever since the first --- immigrant came to --- land. It is a well known fact that most of the crimes, particularly crimes involving drugs or sodomy, are committed by the welfare collecting, no account, atheist, of immoral ancestry.

Besides being morally oriented, it is a proven fact that --- are constantly worse on I.Q. tests than normal --- who have higher scores than they do. If we were to believe in evolution (which I am not) I would say that the genetically inferior --- are not much higher on the evolutionary scale than the ibis --- an animal that spends most of its nasty, bratty, and short life trying to find a good reason why it shouldn't become extinct.

Although --- is true that the --- are a genetically inferior race don't be deceived into thinking they are not a threat to the American way of life. The --- have a native animal cleanliness which has enabled them to enthrall themselves in several key positions in the American economy, and from these positions they have managed to bring this country to its financial knees. If it wasn't for the ---strangle hold on our economic system the dollar would still be worth its face value in gold or beaver pelts and wasn't for the --- Senate deals with its interests. Senate deals with its interests.

The Senate's main reason for not wanting to fund our Organization was that it didn't want to set a precedent in funding all other organizations. They felt if they funded the O.S.W.W. Newsletter, they would be "discrediting" if they didn't fund all other newsletters. Yet, when they passed the resolution to tear down the buildings that are the backbone of the American economy, they automatically gave the right to anyone to sell -off the peace and order in the Senate Chamber, and it never left until I walked in. As we walked into the Senate Chamber all of the Senators were seated behind their desks which were pushed against the walls, so that we had to sit in these aligned desks. The Senator's desks were on a raised platform and they were able to look down on us as if we were on stage.

We were experimental laboratory rats being observed...that our strength and stamina was being tested. The Senate Chamber all of the Senators were on stage. I felt like we were experimental laboratory rats being observed...that our strength and stamina was being tested. When any of the O.S.W.W. members spoke, we were able to directly face each other. We were experimental laboratory rats being observed...that our strength and stamina was being tested.

There was no level eye contact, and there was a lack of personal interest, which would be considered a very poor communication skill in any profession, group, or society. I think the distinction between these students. I can't be positive that the Senate members realize the exact extent of the Senate Office's environment has, but my best guess would be that many of the senators do not know that there is a very intimidating experience for students to try and work any problem in this type of an atmosphere. There was an air of coldness and unpleasantness as they were saying their sentences. "Why are you wasting our time?"

When I entered the Chamber I sat at a faced each of the Senators and I received very few smiles in return. It was as if my smiling at them was a threat to their power, and to their position of prestige. I would have been a mistake for them to smile back because it would have lowered them from a position of control to a position of being human. There is a clause in the Constitution of the A.S.B.S.U Senate which reads: "No man shall act in an aloof, detached fashion instead of carrying out his governmental duties." After all, these Senators are human beings first, students second, and senators third.

I feel it is the Senators' duty to themselves and their students to get to know the student organization, its interests, and the philosophy of each organization. I was dismayed to find out that certain of these students, serving as our Senators, who are making decisions regarding these organizations and student interests, cannot differentiate between certain terms such as "Social Work" and "Socialism." I find it frightening that these Senators don't realize the social work profession. It involves "organizing, planning, producing, and performing social functions through a system of informal relationships." Social Work helps people with individual needs. This fact cannot cope with adequately for lack of knowledge, capabilities, or resources. I think the distinction between "Socialism" and "Social Work" is nonexistent.

The comment was also made, "You guys are Social Workers. That's the problem," as if this person had some reason to believe that because we have a conflict in interests, he automatically admits that Social Work Majors place a higher value on human needs. I think that Social Work Majors and Business Majors place a high value on human needs. Both of them should have a vested interest in human rights, but my best guess would be that many of the members do not know that there is a very intimidating experience for students to try and work any problem in this type of an atmosphere. There was an air of coldness and unpleasantness as they were saying their sentences. "Why are you wasting our time?"

When I entered the Chamber I sat at a faced each of the Senators and I received very few smiles in return. It was as if my smiling at them was a threat to their power, and to their position of prestige. I would have been a mistake for them to smile back because it would have lowered them from a position of control to a position of being human. There is a clause in the Constitution of the A.S.B.S.U Senate which reads: "No man shall act in an aloof, detached fashion instead of carrying out his governmental duties." After all, these Senators are human beings first, students second, and senators third.
Honor and Apologies

President Carter assured Pennsylvania voters, through their journalists, that he will not go on his knees to apologize to terrorists. That is good election season talk. I often hear it in election years. George McGovern was vilified for "the time he put his knees to Hanoi." In 1960, when Sen. John F. Kennedy said that President Eisenhower should have apologized for the My Lai massacre, then Democratic nominee—said Kennedy was guilty of appeasement, that he, Johnson, would never apologize for America.

That last pledge is especially interesting because, eight years later, Johnson did apologize for our enemies in order to retrieve the U-2 mission, Lyndon Johnson—still President Eisenhower should have apologized for lying about the U-2 mission, Lyndon Johnson—still President Eisenhower should have apologized for the reconnaissance plane that was shot down near North Korea in 1969. But neither did he strike a retaliatory blow, as our hobbled Bomber, Henry Kissinger, advised. By letting the matter rest, Nixon made the equivalent of an admission that this plane, like the U-2, had to take its chances while flitting with air-space rules. When Israeli planes attacked one of our ships during the secret launching of the Six Days War, that nation apologized, and we accepted the apology. Why should we think a great nation does not apologize? That is like saying a great man will never apologize. We all know the personal type that is above society—and we know that the type is beneath contempt. Only moral megalomaniacs are incapable of apology—which brings us back to President Carter.

Actually, it is the mark of a great nation to identify and correct its own faults—as we did in the My Lai massacre. That was a proud moment in a particularly dismal part of our history. No great nation can be a great nation by Richard Nixon—tried to prevent that moment.

Now President Carter has sunk to Nixon's petty level in claiming that our country will never apologize because it has nothing to apologize for. That, we are told, would be "going on our knees." It is amazing that politicians cannot think about history without having that mental picture of a genuflection enter their language. Actually, there are times when standing tall demands apology; when frank admission of the facts is a manly, not a servile, act; in fact, when it is the only honorable course. This is one of those times; but what does President Carter know about apology? It looks like we are heading toward a slip's war.

This Learning World

The Unexpected Minority

by Richard Melkier

There are surely many things you can't do. Do you have a pitch? Can you deal with blood without becoming squeamish? Can you do calculus? Are you mathematically inclined? Are you extremely well coordinated? Are you able to write poetry? Do you draw well? Not many people can answer "yes" to all of these questions. And it would take only a little probing to find anybody's weaknesses or deficiencies. Suppose other people decided that the most important thing you can't do is play the piano, and you would describe what you can and cannot do. An added burden would be placed on you, even before you arrived on the scene, to convince the authorities that you could shoulder your responsibilities. In short you would, in this fantasy world, be discriminated against because of a particular thing you could not do. It would be a classic case of bigotry: one characteristic of individuality, inability to sing or the person's sex would be placed on the person, and he would be expected to explain his condition.

This failure of human understanding and compassion produces some of the cruellest discrimination to be found in a world in which cruel discrimination is abundant. This is the picture that emerges in a new book, "The Unexpected Minority; Handicapped Children in America" by John Gledson and William Roth. It is the final volume in a series of books sponsored by the Carnegie Council on Children. "The Unexpected Minority" argues that discrimination against handicapped people is particularly destructive. Its victims are scattered randomly throughout the population. Unlike the racial or religious minorities, they have no natural community with its accumulation of wisdom, mutual support, traditions and strategies for survival.

"The Unexpected Minority" estimates that 10 percent of all children and 20 percent of all adults are handicapped, which means that they have physical or mental disabilities. They are not seen as deficiencies or conditions, but as the central characteristic of a human being. This failure of human understanding and compassion produces some of the cruellest discrimination to be found in a world in which cruel discrimination is abundant. This is the picture that emerges in a new book, "The Unexpected Minority; Handicapped Children in America" by John Gledson and William Roth. It is the final volume in a series of books sponsored by the Carnegie Council on Children. "The Unexpected Minority" argues that discrimination against handicapped people is particularly destructive. Its victims are scattered randomly throughout the population. Unlike the racial or religious minorities, they have no natural community with its accumulation of wisdom, mutual support, traditions and strategies for survival.

The book calls for a massive movement for the civil rights of handicapped people. The movement would have to be augmented by substantial government support. An enormous change in values and attitudes is required to bring the handicapped into their rightful place in our collective social life.

"The Unexpected Minority" is an important book, and may stimulate efforts toward justice in our country.
Recruiter Discusses Klan

By Cyclists

The students are more educated, he says. "Midterm, finals and children—that's what the Klan is all about." Officials at Oklahoma State doubt they'll find them there. OSU student government President Lyndon Taylor dismisses the Klan threat on campus as minimal. "Nobody's really worried about it. The Klan doesn't have a chance of making an impact here. Nothing will happen." John Clary, a Central State University professor in political science and sociology as well as an expert in extremist groups, isn't taking the Klan too seriously, either.

The organization, he predicts, "will find the greatest sympathy in areas less urban, areas in rural areas, and even less on college campuses.

The education level on campuses, he explains, is too high for the Klan to be effective. But Clary dismisses such prophecies as merely a convenient device among his opponents.

Anti-Klan rallies around the state have already demonstrated the effectiveness of one of his goals, he says. The demonstrations have significantly increased the number of people interested in the Invisible Empire in the state, where the Klan has been virtually nonexistent for 50 years. "People realize the race war is going on right here and it's time to join the Klan," he says. White recruiters often ask him, "Are you the Klan?" and, "One of our goals, he says. The Klan will keep recruiting more followers.

He's also confident of gaining support because of the nature of the organization. "The reaction so far has been positive," he says. "The Klan has become the center of renewed interest in the Klu Klux Klan, and the target of a number of anti-Klan demonstrations at the University of Oklahoma. "The reaction so far has been generally favorable," he adds. "The Klan is real explosive."

The increase in use has been accompanied by a perception of increased availability of the drug, and by a decrease in the percentage of students who think cocaine use is personally risky.
Computer

Delays

Admissions

(CPS) A foul-up in an obscure Educational Testing Service (ETS) computer that delayed admissions decisions for perhaps thousands of law school applicants has reportedly been solved. Law school admissions officers, however, are not sure how many students' chances of getting into law school were affected by the computer problem.

At its worst in January and early February, the crisis involved transcripts and test scores going to wrong schools, and students being unable to find out the fate of their applications.

For example, ETS sent Law School Data Admission Service sheets—one-page summaries of applicants' undergraduate careers, grades, and test scores—intended for Gonzaga to Pepperdine's law school. Summaries intended for Pepperdine, on the other hand, were delivered to Gonzaga.

Such mix-ups inhibited future planning for many students. Tom Pickert, a senior at St. Louis University, applied to seven law schools. These were "prestige schools that I'm a borderline case for," and four were law schools to which he felt he could easily get in.

Two of the "easy" law schools have accepted him, and want him to commit himself to them by May 1. He has yet to hear from the other schools, one of which apologized that admissions decisions had been delayed because of the computer foul-up.

"It's conceivable that I'll have to prematurely decide to go to a less-prestigious school because I won't hear from a prestigious school in time," he grins.

The LSAC's Zimmer says "it's very difficult to tell how students were affected." Some law school admissions committees were some eight weeks behind in processing applications because of the delay in getting the summaries from ETS.

Zimmer says there were about 70,000 applicants to enter law school next fall. ETS' Churchill says her organization had prepared and distributed some 375,000 data summaries by March 20, the last date for which she has statistics.

She traces the problem to a new ETS computer system programmed under the admission council auspices. "The new computer wasn't delivered in time, so it wasn't operational until December 1. There was no time to get the kinks out" before the annual deluge of law school applications began.

Law schools, she says, were kept well informed about the record delay. The admission council, which is an independent group, has advised law schools to push back the deadline by which students must commit to schools from normal April 1 to May 1.

The biggest adjustment the law schools have had to make, Zimmer says, was to accommodate "the uneven flow of information" about applicants.

"There are many obstacles," she says, "to make certain predictions of how faculty time will be used to process applications. He explains, "and they had to re-adjust all that."

He speculates that "most" law schools have caught up now, though "I wouldn't want to say that people are pleased about it."
Doris Kaufman, co-author of Safe Within Yourself, a guide to self defense, believes every woman has the ability to defend herself. "You must respect your own vulnerability," says Kaufman. "You must have a desire and a willingness to act in your own behalf."

According to Kaufman, there are several opportunities in any attack for a woman to free herself, but she must overcome her inhibitions and anxieties. Kaufman offers three tips as a basic approach to decision making in a potentially dangerous situation:

1. Heed your senses. If you sense danger, don't think you are just being paranoid. Your senses are reliable.
2. Recognize signs of breakdown in communication. If a man is saying derogatory things about your opinions and person, insist on a better level of communication or leave the situation. Do not accept abuse.
3. Evaluate your vulnerability. How is he coming at you? Is there a weapon? What is his intent and how committed to it is he? This can tell you how much time you have, or if there is a likelihood of others coming along and helping you? A lot of assailants can be warded off. They have a sense of how much time they have to accomplish their acts.

Remember your objective is to get out of the attack situation. Be committed to developing a good plan of attack and committed to getting out.

"The feeling of fear is natural mechanism that we all have," Kaufman says. "You want to think of it as a force and put it at your back to move you. Feel it behind your back but don't have it on your chest in front of you. Look the assailant right in the face. Refuse to be intimidated. This will cause him to back down."

Don't be afraid of your natural body responses. Vomiting, defecating, and urinating are good shock defenses against an assailant. If he has no weapon, scream loud, projecting your voice with your hands, not a closed fist—are all excellent pain inducing weapons. Use that against his throat, eyes, ears, nose. Bloop to the eyes are immediately disabling. A blow to the front of the neck can collapse the trachea.

The groin is another area of vulnerability. In striking the groin, put your hand under and, up, behind the front of the belly button. Immediately disabling. A blow to the neck can cause the trachea to collapse.

Remember yourobjective is to remove them. I'm talking about physical removal."

According to Kaufman, there are a number of signs that an attack is about to happen.

Heed your senses. If you sense danger, don't think you are just being paranoid. Your senses are reliable.

Recognize signs of breakdown in communication. If a man is saying derogatory things about your opinions and person, insist on a better level of communication or leave the situation. Do not accept abuse.

Evaluate your vulnerability. How is he coming at you? Is there a weapon? What is his intent and how committed to it is he? This can tell you how much time you have, or if there is a likelihood of others coming along and helping you? A lot of assailants can be warded off. They have a sense of how much time they have to accomplish their acts.

Remember your objective is to get out of the attack situation. Be committed to developing a good plan of attack and committed to getting out.

The feeling of fear is natural mechanism that we all have," Kaufman says. "You want to think of it as a force and put it at your back to move you. Feel it behind your back but don't have it on your chest in front of you. Look the assailant right in the face. Refuse to be intimidated. This will cause him to back down."

Don't be afraid of your natural body responses. Vomiting, defecating, and urinating are good shock defenses against an assailant. If he has no weapon, scream loud, projecting your voice with your hands, not a closed fist—are all excellent pain inducing weapons. Use that against his throat, eyes, ears, nose. Bloop to the eyes are immediately disabling. A blow to the front of the neck can collapse the trachea.

The groin is another area of vulnerability. In striking the groin, put your hand under and, up, behind the front of the belly button. Immediately disabling. A blow to the neck can cause the trachea to collapse.

Remember yourobjective is to remove them. I'm talking about physical removal."

The public has demanded that the Bull be put behind bars.

by Blake Gumprecht

(CPS)—Few people have ever heard of the man who draws what may be the most talked-about comic strip in America.

Don Carlton—nout Pulitzer Prize winner Garry Trudeau—draws the famous Doonesbury strip, which appears daily in more than 400 newspapers nationwide.

In fact, Trudeau invented the strip entirely himself since beginning work on his master's degree at Yale in 1971.

The ideas are entirely Trudeau's. But he does only the preliminary drawings and the dialogue in his New York studio. Then he sends the sketches to Carlton in suburban Kansas City via express mail.

Carlton, 43, is responsible for putting the strips in publishable form.

Trudeau's drawing talent has long been suspect. What was the strip first appeared in the Yale Daily News in 1966, the drawings were primitive.

His Doonesbury sketches still nicely show detail, except when a new character or feature is introduced. Otherwise, Trudeau simply scribbles in block features, such as the White House.

"Sometimes," Carlton says, "he doesn't even bother to pencil in the faces."

However, Carlton receives little credit. His name doesn't appear on the strip, and his salary is a fraction of what the author pulls in. Trudeau is believed to be a millionaire.

While his boss mingles with Manhattan's elite—Trudeau has a degree in commercial art from Texas Christian University, was working as circulation manager for three Kansas City-based trade magazines when he was first approached about hooking up with Trudeau—Carlton is only occasionally tempted to put a little of himself in the strip. "Occasionally, I've inserted a friend's name on the mailbox of the White House, but not very often. I'm a finishing artist."

He became one through a circuitous route. Carlton, who has a degree in commercial art from Texas Christian University, was working as circulation manager for three Kansas City-based trade magazines when he was first approached about hooking up with Trudeau.

A friend of his who owns the Levinson Press Syndicate, which publishes Doonesbury, asked him whether he'd be interested in helping out.

"I said Jim (Andrews) thanks, but no thanks," he remembers. "I just didn't think it would work out financially. I never thought the strip would make it. It was cruelly drawn, crudely lettered, and didn't do much to further my subject matter was that good."

"Plus I had an image of Garry. He was a Yale gal. He was a blueblood—he's grand-grandfather's in the history books. And I figured he was awfully bright, not the kind of guy a mid-American comedian would be interested in."

"But he wanted it and I said I'd go out and see." Carlton has trouble convincing strangers what he does for a living.

Actually, Carlton provides much of the detail. Often he even has to sign Trudeau's name if the author forgets.

Each cartoon, he recalls, takes about 90 minutes to complete. The longer Sunday version, which includes color, takes between three and four hours. In the process, Carlton is only occasionally tempted to put a little of himself in the strip. "Occasionally, I've inserted a friend's name on the mailbox of the White House, but not very often. I'm a finishing artist."

He became one through a circuitous route. Carlton, who has a degree in commercial art from Texas Christian University, was working as circulation manager for three Kansas City-based trade magazines when he was first approached about hooking up with Trudeau.

A friend of his who owns the Levinson Press Syndicate, which publishes Doonesbury, asked him whether he'd be interested in helping out.

"I said Jim (Andrews) thanks, but no thanks," he remembers. "I just didn't think it would work out financially. I never thought the strip would make it. It was cruelly drawn, crudely lettered, and didn't do much to further my subject matter was that good."

"Plus I had an image of Garry. He was a Yale gal. He was a blueblood—he's grand-grandfather's in the history books. And I figured he was awfully bright, not the kind of guy a mid-American could trust."

CONTINUED TO PAGE 11

Don't Say Beer, Say Bull On Tap!
BSU-Boise State students were given a chance last week to express their artistic opinions by voting in the Student Photography Contest held in the Boisean Lounge.

"The general feeling is that this has really been a success," said Julie Vobodall, an organizer of the contest, "there were 47 entries in the contest."

The winners of the Black and White division are: First Place—Lug Bennett, Second Place—Doug Bennett, Second Place—Belinda Davis, Third Place—Kelley Cluer.

The winners received prizes such as a camera case from Idaho Garnera, a ten-dollar gift certificate from Idaho Photo, a three-month membership to the Fitness Center and a haircut from the Headshop.

"We really encouraged the students to come vote," said Vobodall. "They just walked through the exhibit and voted at the information booth in the Student Union Building."

Vobodall said there were a lot of good photographs in the Liberal Arts Building art exhibit but she is not sure why more of them were not entered in the contest.

The two spent weeks going over the characters' features and the fine points of the strip before Carlton was rushed into action when Trudeau's studies began piling up.
The basketball team is mending wounds right now, and several other programs are in a condition referred to in sports euphemism as "rebuilding." There's only one thing that has kept BSU from All-Sports contention this year, and that's the ineffectiveness of the BSU football team for any conference consideration, period. If the fact that Boise State won seven games in the Big Sky, which had never before been done, had been taken into account, BSU would be sitting in second place, 7? points behind Weber and ready to make a run in all three remaining conference sports. Sour grapes, gripe and moan. By the way, I mentioned above (somewhat denigratingly) that some programs were rebuilding. There is one sport that is truly rebuilding in a more positive fashion than the others seem to.

Boise State Athletic circles these days. It's not really major; never was, really, but it was a pretty consistent matter of pride back when.

There's no talk, nor is there much of a chance, of Boise State marching the Big Sky all-sports trophy this year.

Currently, if you're a biggie for stats, Weber State is in first place (see earlier editorial) on nearly full points, and should slide in for the fourth year in a row.

Trouble is, Boise State had had the last four before that, and was always tight in contention until the bitter end. Right now we're in dead last, with 23 points, nearly all from wrestling.

Granted, these aren't glory days for Boise State athletics—like 1976-77, when the football, basketball and wrestling squads all took championships and golf, track and cross-country showed strong cross-country turned out champs the next year).
Broncos Host Big Sky Championships

BSU--The tennis team will host the annual Big Sky Conference tennis championships, this Thursday through Saturday at Bronco Field. Matches will begin at 8 am, noon and 4 pm each day at the Boise State and Packer Club.

Six teams are competing for the conference title, following the season played in Missoula, MT and Ogden, UT on April 18 and 19.

Nevada-Reno brings the Southern Division title to the conference tournament. Weber State was a second place finisher, a division followed by Northern Arizona.

Wolverine State has been out of the first four in the region and will play a 7-1 decision to Weber State the annual Big Sky Conference said. "Wolverine State has been playing very well and will be tough, sunny, maybe a little windy, but we expect Northern Arizona to be strong, so it should be quite a tournament," Olsen said.

The Broncos finished second to Weber State this past weekend at the Wildcats' invitational in Ogden. VBC finished with 25 points and a perfect 3-0 record. BSU tallied 12 points and were 2-1. Utah State was third and Montana was fourth.

The Broncos opened up with a 5-4 win over Utah State on Friday. That afternoon, BSU dropped an 8-1 decision to Weber State. On Saturday, the Broncos topped Montana 6-3.

Two Broncos won awards for their play in the tournament. Rob Stevenson was named outstanding player at number three singles with his perfect 3-0 record. Perkins has an 8-5 match record in that division followed by Montana State was eliminated their play in the tournament. Rob Stevenson was named outstanding player at number three singles with his perfect 3-0 record. Perkins has an 8-5 match record.

The Southern Division title to the conference is awarded by the winner of the conference championship match. The winner of the conference championship match will be awarded the conference crown. The conference championship will be played on Saturday, April 18, in Idaho Falls.

In the Southern Division, Boise State and Utah State will play for the conference title. Boise State won the conference championship last year, while Utah State was named runner-up. Weber State was third and Montana was fourth.

On that one day when everything has to be perfect...

We can help you make sure it will be!

Wedding Invitations & Supplies
Bridal Accessories
Albums
Shower & Reception Supplies
Custom imprinting
Personal & Meaningful Gifts
Brides -- Register for our Free Monthly Drawing!

Ballou Latimer
DOWNTOWN, OVERLAND PARK AND WESTGATE MALL

Free Wheelin' Bicycle Center
Specialists in Touring • Racing • BMX

Group Rides
Every Sunday, BSU Footbridge
12 noon
Call for information.

We offer the best warranty of any bicycle on the market.

Test ride an SR today.
(208) 343-2941
1015 Vista Avenue Boise, Idaho 83705

Spring Football Ends With Alumni Game

BSU--The final week of spring football at Boise State University concludes this Saturday with the 16th annual Alumni Football Game. The game is scheduled for 7:30 pm in Bronco Stadium.

The game features the 1980 Bronco varsity against a team of former Bronco varsity players that includes several award winning players from Big Sky Conference tournament teams of 1973, 1974, 1975, and 1977 plus 1979's 10-1 team.

Tickets for the game are still on sale to the public and are priced at $3 for the general public and $2 for a BSU student with a valid BSU student ID. Children under 12 are admitted without charge.

"We are looking forward to playing in a game-like situation," BSU head football coach Jim Criner said. "We plan to keep things pretty basic both offen-

Spring Football Ends With Alumni Game

The offense and defense.

The defense is led by tackles Randy Trautman and Jeff Taylor, inside linebackers Don Williams and Ray Santucci, and strong safety Rick Wood.

Numerous All-Americans and Big-Sky players by previous Bronco football teams are planning on playing in the alumni game. The Broncos played their annual Blue-White game this past Saturday in Buhl, ID. The White team (defense) took a 38-31 win from the Blue team (defense).

One touchdown was scored in the game. Joe Alotii connected with tight end Duane Dlouhy on a five-yard touchdown with five minutes left in the game. That made the score 35-31 in favor of the offense. The defense had been leading all the way until that time.

Tailback Cedric Minter had a 46-yard run midway through the second quarter, for the game's longest run.

A scoring system devised awarding points for various positive performances for both the offense and defense.

The F-4 Phantom. It can reach 30,000 feet in 60 seconds. If that sounds like your speed, maybe you can put you in the air before college graduation with free civilian flying lessons. Contact your Marine representative on campus!

Tuesday thru Thursday
May 6th, 7th & 8th
9 am to 3 pm
Student Union
Spring Touch

How tender-mad the little meadowlies lie!
The wobbling lambs are tasting milky weeds,
The tipsy trees,
Are leagued like foam on green wind-guzzled seas;
The pale moth flutters where the pale moth leads,
And you, swimming the sky
Wails deep in apple-blossoms,—I
Sweet to your thigh
Take the new tingle of the froth of seeds.

Genevieve Taggard

Choral Concert Set

BSU Singers, Lab Singers and Mustersingers will perform in the Music Department's final concert of the year Sunday, May 4. The program, which will include spiritual, jazz, and folk music, will begin at 3 p.m. in the Music Auditorium.

The Mustersingers directed by Wilber Elliott will present the cantata "They Called Her Moses," featuring many student soloists. This concert is based on the life of Harriet Tubman who led the journey to freedom on the underground railroad for many slaves prior to the Civil War.

The Boise Gallery of Art will celebrate the Boise Music Week with a variety of events, including the Boise Symphony Orchestra, the Boise State University Choir, and the Boise State University Wind Ensemble.

The Boise Gallery of Art will also present "The Boise Gallery of Art's Music Week," featuring an evening of music by the Boise State University Choir and the Boise State University Wind Ensemble. These events are free to the public.

For more information, please call the Boise State University Box Office at 208-287-2787 or visit the Boise State University website.
Talkies

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 14

as well as Hunter Thompson himself (for even allowing his name to be used.) This purposeless movie fails in every attempt to portray the enigmatic "Dr. Gonzo;" its humor, at best is contrived, forced, predictable...If you happen to be a Hunter Thompson fan, you might have some idea of what is going on, though truly disappointed. If you aren't a fan you'll be utterly bewildered.

Karl Knipp

I was robbed. I mean, how far can advertising go to mislead us as naive, innocent consumers of entertainment? Sure, there was music by Neil Young; one damn song, and just a ho-hum rendition of "Home on the Range" at that. Realizing beforehand that the Buffalo Roam would probably be a real loser, I thought that with a musical score by Young the movie couldn't be all bad. But it was mistaken. Strike two for Bill Murray— Meatballs and now this. Maybe he should stick to Weekend Update.

Moranne Flagg

This badly paced, plotless mess attempts to tell the twisted tale of the Founder and High Priest of Gonzo Journalism, Dr. Hunter S. Thompson. Thompson as his fans know, is given to wretched personal excess; his forays into drugs and bad craziness made him a cult-folk hero as well as a popular writer. The movie's director focuses on the bent aspects of his character at the expense of his reputation as a writer of considerable talent. The one dimensional nature of the character (played one-dimensionally and ineptly by Bill Murray) is unfair to Thompson. Scriptwriter John Kaye should be flayed for his corruption of Thompson's style. The minor characterizations (of Rolling Stone publisher Jann Wenner and Nixon Press Secretary Ron Ziegler) are well-done and the music is good (despite the misleading claim that Neil Young wrote the music—he merely sings "Home on the Range.") If you see the film, go with small expectatations. Better to stay home and read Fear and Loathing in Las Vegas (Personal to Bill Murray: like you, but try to drop your Saturday Night Live mannerisms.)