Sholty/Sanchez win election

By Melanie Delon
Staff Writer

Todd Sholty and Lisa Sanchez were victorious in their bid for the student body presidency and vice presidency, respectively, in the ASBSU elections on April 8 and 9.

They will be sworn into office on April 16. Overall, 1,600 students voted in the elections—a 241 percent increase from the 644 votes cast last year.

"We just want people to know that we are here for the students, and that we are going to take ASBSU in a new direction," Sholty said, the student body president-elect for the 1992-93 school year.

Sholty and his running mate Lisa Sanchez, defeated competitors C.J. Martin and Jenni Thomason by 35 votes. Sholty and Sanchez received 527 votes. Martin and Thomason garnered 490 votes and were followed by the ticket of John O'Hara and Laura Walters, who finished with 382 favorable ballots.

The ticket of Wes Garvin and Jackie Cauthron finished fourth with 117 votes.

Greg Blaesing, director of the Student Union Building and Student Activities, said, "I am thrilled that 1,600 people voted."

Student involvement in this year's election became even more apparent, as more than 50 students turned out for the announcement of the election results.

See Election on page 4

Russian experts analyze Cold War aftermath

Dr. Andrei Kortunov, a leading commentator on events in the former Soviet Union, addressed issues concerning recent changes in his country Thursday, April 9 in the Frank Church Conference.

His lecture, "What's at Stake," was followed by a Q and A session.

Shuttle program may ease parking woes

By Stuart Bryson
Staff Writer

You may soon be able to park your car and ride a bus to class if a proposed shuttle bus plan is implemented by the Transportation Task Force, a group made up of eight student, faculty and staff members. The group is trying to get a $235,000 grant from the state for a demo-program for two or three years. If the task force gets the money, Chairman John Franden said, the system may be implemented by the beginning of September.

The system will have approximately 20 stops on and around campus, with two separate routes—one around the campus and the other behind the College of Technology, over to Boise Avenue and down to Capitol. It will use three buses with roughly 35 to 40 passengers, which will be owned and operated by Boise Urban Stages.

"You can build a parking garage at $5,500 to $10,000 a space... if you own the land," he said. Franden said he thought on-street parking lots might be used even if people had a way to get from their cars to class. One such example is the stadium parking lot.

The system is a follow-up of a trial run that was in effect for two weeks last spring. According to Franden, the two-week test run was too short to determine if...
Crybabies should go home to their mommies

Before I get started, I just want to say a couple of things. Thumb up BSU! The student body finally proved it is not apathetic. The BSU elections were a tremendous success, with 1,600 people voted in this year's elections compared to last year's merely 664. Don't get it wrong; there is still room for improvement.

All of the presidential candidates and most of the senatorial candidates had legitimate, take-to-the-bank candidates involved in campus politics.

Attitude, however, are not always progressive within the BSU senate office. It is sad to see immaturity still rear its ugly head. It is a wonder how some of the BSU senators, who are supposed to be the leaders of this university, can fail all of the standards-of-fact they set. And what it the change of the results of the elections if they will pass the Judicial Board for wanting its time with meaningless election campaigns?

Come on folks: whatever happened to the democratic process? When did the senate become so elitist? All students should have a right to vote, whether they live in the residence halls or off-campus or non-traditional students. The students chose Todd Sholty and Lisa Sanchez as their new president and vice-president, respectively.

Ununtil in kindergarten, you can't make up the rules as you go along. This is not the land of make-believe. Just because you don't get things exactly the way you want them, doesn't mean you can make up your own rules and go home.

As for the issue of having to bring shoes "up to speed," Sen. Eve Costello can assure Todd will learn the ways of the anticipated, bogged-down bureaucratic process as fast as our former president, who would totally confuse even our experience, either.

In any case, this day and age, there are plenty of senate experience to be found. No one really wants to be associated with a situation that constantly argues over non-relevant issues.

I don't want to be accused of making sweeping generalizations. There are senators who have acted with wisdom and grace. They should be congratulated for setting the example for the rest of the senate. But what should we do about the senators who act like the neighborhood meatball and crybaby? Send them to bed without supper or let them go do something constructive with their actions? I don't know, maybe they should leave this to their mothers.

Katy Kreller

Letters to the Editor

Election Kudos

Congratulations Todd Sholty and Lisa Sanchez, our new president and vice-president of the Student Body. You lightened up another dreary and over-sexed freaky-haired post-election, get-over-votes season. You voted for me and encouraged and supported my unsuccessful bid for an ASBSU senate seat. Thank you: Andi, Nikki, John, Kelly, Eric, Brent, Kim, Todd and Jenna.

Congratulations, Fafa Alijadian, I wish you the best of luck in your new office. And last, but not least, I congratulate all the people who ran in this election. This would especially like to mention those fine people who ran for the same seat.

It may sound strange, but we became friends and joked a lot during the campaign. Fafa, the favorite. We all waited together for the results Thursday afternoon, knowing deep down in our hearts that Fafa had it—but wishing, nonetheless, we might win. As the results came in and the nerve-racking wait ended, we collected a sigh of relief collectively. It was over. We stood, shook hands, congratulated Fafa and walked out into the cold rainy night.

Stephen Hundley

Student should be responsible

Dear Editor,

I am writing in response to a previous letter written to the editor concerning a financial aid counselor, Chris Woodward. This letter produced a negative attitude about the Financial Aid Office—good offices in particular. The Financial Aid Office with Chris and would like to say something constructive and change this dissonant opinion.

It is the responsibility of each person to meet the deadlines presented to him or her, whether it may be homework assignments or scholarship applications. In order to get all of the scholarship applications in at one time, there must be a deadline for each scholarship received. If there wasn't a deadline, we would be processing scholarship applications all school year.

Exceptions to this deadline cannot be made for anyone. If there is one exception, there should be some form of penalty for every student that applies. Rules and deadlines are created so everyone is treated equally. Chris Woodward, the scholarship coordinator for BSU, was only doing her job, making no exceptions so no one was treated unfairly.

I think it is time to take responsibility for your own actions and stop blaming others. Chris will go out of her way to help you in any way she can, but she must also enforce deadlines so she can get her job done. All we must be is responsible to the deadlines we have to meet, and if we miss them—it is no one else's fault but our own.

Brown in '92

Vote for Governor Brown

Campaign '92 started with the usual Three N's: non-information, parking permits and nonelection. Oh! the fine art of "running," keeping votes, while simultaneously counting the PAC's. Speaking polysyllabically, it would seem like none are such a holy adulatory, as an acquired skill closely related to politics but vehemently denied every four years. Like the ancient Druids, we insist that those elected for the public good must be virgins—or pretend to be, as the fashion dictates.

Other NON-ISSUES saint even the best minds, the "horses for courses" may be unbecoming. Gov. Brown's proposals to the nation are logical pragmatic in nature—ORIGINAL solutions to problems of sacrifice and deprivation are the immensities that is taking a deep interest in world affairs, economics and other cultures is somehow unfeasible (could be tantamount to aversion to simultaneous generation and gun and reemagination!).

How often we complain of no choice and faceless politicians. Gov. Brown is new blood: he is the new generation (carpe diem America). Your votes count; don't let the making of history be

Letters to the Editor

Send Letters to-the-editor to The Arbiter—Letters, 1910 University Drive, Boise, Idaho 83725. Letters should be no longer than 300 words.

Letters

The Arbiter

The Arbiter is the official student newspaper of Boise State University. It is published each Tuesday during fall and spring semester. The publisher is the Publications Board. The editor-in-chief is Dan Hanes. The opinions expressed in The Arbiter are those of the editors and writers and do not necessarily represent the views of BSU. Addresses: Offices are located at 1903 University Drive, Boise, Idaho 83725. Our telephone number is (208) 282-8024 and our facsimile number is (208) 338-5138.

The Arbiter April 14, 1992 Boise State University

Opinion

Mack Sermon columnist

They were right; I was wrong.

Gov. Andrus was right to veto the bill that would have allowed a student (as an observer) to sit in on the State Board of Education. As we are just a bunch of over-aged, over-paid, post-adolescents. If we were to choose our own destiny, we would totally confuse even our experience, either.

In any case, this day and age, there are plenty of senate experience to be found. No one really wants to be associated with a situation that constantly argues over non-relevant issues.

I don't want to be accused of making sweeping generalizations. There are senators who have acted with wisdom and grace. They should be congratulated for setting the example for the rest of the senate. But what should we do about the senators who act like the neighborhood meatball and crybaby? Send them to bed without supper or let them go do something constructive with their actions? I don't know, maybe they should leave this to their mothers.

Katy Kreller

Letters to the Editor

Election Kudos

Congratulations Todd Sholty and Lisa Sanchez, our new president and vice-president of the Student Body. You lightened up another dreary and over-sexed freaky-haired post-election, get-over-votes season. You voted for me and encouraged and supported my unsuccessful bid for an ASBSU senate seat. Thank you: Andi, Nikki, John, Kelly, Eric, Brent, Kim, Todd and Jenna.

Congratulations, Fafa Alijadian, I wish you the best of luck in your new office. And last, but not least, I congratulate all the people who ran in this election. This would especially like to mention those fine people who ran for the same seat.

It may sound strange, but we became friends and joked a lot during the campaign. Fafa, the favorite. We all waited together for the results Thursday afternoon, knowing deep down in our hearts that Fafa had it—but wishing, nonetheless, we might win. As the results came in and the nerve-racking wait ended, we collected a sigh of relief collectively. It was over. We stood, shook hands, congratulated Fafa and walked out into the cold rainy night.

Stephen Hundley

Student should be responsible

Dear Editor,

I am writing in response to a previous letter written to the editor concerning a financial aid counselor, Chris Woodward. This letter produced a negative attitude about the Financial Aid Office—good offices in particular. The Financial Aid Office with Chris and would like to say something constructive and change this dissonant opinion.

It is the responsibility of each person to meet the deadlines presented to him or her, whether it may be homework assignments or scholarship applications. In order to get all of the scholarship applications in at one time, there must be a deadline for each scholarship received. If there wasn't a deadline, we would be processing scholarship applications all school year.

Exceptions to this deadline cannot be made for anyone. If there is one exception, there should be some form of penalty for every student that applies. Rules and deadlines are created so everyone is treated equally. Chris Woodward, the scholarship coordinator for BSU, was only doing her job, making no exceptions so no one was treated unfairly.

I think it is time to take responsibility for your own actions and stop blaming others. Chris will go out of her way to help you in any way she can, but she must also enforce deadlines so she can get her job done. All we must be is responsible to the deadlines we have to meet, and if we miss them—it is no one else's fault but our own.

Brown in '92

Vote for Governor Brown

Campaign '92 started with the usual Three N's: non-information, parking permits and nonelection. Oh! the fine art of "running," keeping votes, while simultaneously counting the PAC's. Speaking polysyllabically, it would seem like none are such a holy adulatory, as an acquired skill closely related to politics but vehemently denied every four years. Like the ancient Druids, we insist that those elected for the public good must be virgins—or pretend to be, as the fashion dictates.

Other NON-ISSUES saint even the best minds, the "horses for courses" may be unbecoming. Gov. Brown's proposals to the nation are logical pragmatic in nature—ORIGINAL solutions to problems of sacrifice and deprivation are the immensities that is taking a deep interest in world affairs, economics and other cultures is somehow unfeasible (could be tantamount to aversion to simultaneous generation and gun and reemagination!).

How often we complain of no choice and faceless politicians. Gov. Brown is new blood: he is the new generation (carpe diem America). Your votes count; don't let the making of history be
Lab addresses needs of elderly

By Karen James
Special To The Arbiter

Loneliness, depression and isolation are just a few of the problems the elderly in our community, and across the nation, face daily. Many are unable to perform simple tasks such as filling out an insurance form or raking leaves.

"Some patients never even receive a visitor. They become withdrawn and just wait to pass away," said Lena Johnson, head and communications students perform for residents at the Capitall Care Center.

"To see their eyes light up, to have them reach out and hold our hands and for them to remember our visits will be a reward," says Johnson.

Salazar said she has many friends who do reside in Canyon County and who do read The Idaho Press-Tribune, and they do report to her on what they have termed "the negative aspects" of the news coverage of the Hispanic community by that newspaper.

Jack Pearson, president and publisher of The Idaho Press-Tribune, responded to these allegations. Pearson said, "Crime carries with it more momentum than other news, and because the Hispanics represent a significant segment of the local population, they certainly get their share of it (this kind of coverage)."

Hair mosque

The lab's long-term project tackles the lack of volunteers to assist the elderly in their own homes, as well as in nursing homes. Tasks include filling out insurance forms, running errands or just keeping them company.

The lab is working with a new ABSFU office that will recruit volunteers and place them with agencies and others in need. An internship proposal is also in the works. It will allow students to help the elderly and receive credit for it. The program is set to begin in May. For more information, contact the department, of your major.

By State Officer
Staff Writer

Humberto Puentes, cochair of the Idaho Hispanic Caucus, said he's "very serious about the need for adequate and equitable representation and resources for the Hispanics in the Legislature, he said. Right now, the Hispanic Caucus is trying to determine whether to begin their legal challenges to these issues are based on the federal Voting Rights Act of 1965 and its amendments in 1982.

"We are very serious about the legal aspects of this case," Puentes said. "If need be, we will take this case all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court," he said.

Last week, the tally of a minority population may be considered when districts are redistricted--not just its number of registered voters, Puentes said. The drafters of this bill to maximize minority representation, he said.

"The magic word," Puentes said, "is influencing." There are provisions in Section 2, an amended version to the Voting Rights Act of 1965, which specifically allow for the creation of "majority minority districts," he said.

Fuentes said court-sanctioned influence districts are not a guarantee to obtain direct representation in the Legislature, but could be influential in the selection and election of a candidate who would represent the Hispanic interests in the Legislature.

The 1990 U.S. Census "officially" found 57,927 Hispanics in Idaho, Puentes said. They make up 5.2 percent or 23,000 of the state's total population of 1.3 million.

Unfortunately, many of the Hispanic students at the Student Activities Center who do reside in Canyon County and who do read The Idaho Press-Tribune, and they do report to her on what they have termed "the negative aspects" of the news coverage of the Hispanic community by that newspaper.

Jack Pearson, president and publisher of The Idaho Press-Tribune, responded to these allegations. Pearson said, "Crime carries with it more momentum than other news, and because the Hispanics represent a significant segment of the local population, they certainly get their share of it (this kind of coverage)."

We've had some in the past," Pearson said, "but they usually don't stick around long. Because of their bilingual skills, there is a great demand for their services by larger media, he said.

The newspaper tries its best to be "middle-of-the-road," Pearson said. It tries not to be prejudiced against anyone or any group nor does it want to give preferential treatment to anyone else, either.

As for the "negative aspects" of news coverage, as charged by certain members of the Hispanic community, Pearson said, "Crime carries with it more momentum than other news, and because the Hispanics represent a significant segment of the local population, they certainly get their share of it (this kind of coverage)."

Salazar said she has many friends who do reside in Canyon County and who do read The Idaho Press-Tribune, and they do report to her on what they have termed "the negative aspects" of the news coverage of the Hispanic community by that newspaper.

Jack Pearson, president and publisher of The Idaho Press-Tribune, responded to these allegations. Pearson said, "Crime carries with it more momentum than other news, and because the Hispanics represent a significant segment of the local population, they certainly get their share of it (this kind of coverage)."

We've had some in the past," Pearson said, "but they usually don't stick around long. Because of their bilingual skills, there is a great demand for their services by larger media, he said.

The newspaper tries its best to be "middle-of-the-road," Pearson said. It tries not to be prejudiced against anyone or any group nor does it want to give preferential treatment to anyone else, either.

As for the "negative aspects" of news coverage, as charged by certain members of the Hispanic community, Pearson said, "Crime carries with it more momentum than other news, and because the Hispanics represent a significant segment of the local population, they certainly get their share of it (this kind of coverage)."
BSU professor’s book wins national award

By Leslie Mendoza

Staff Writer

A Boise State University political science professor’s book has been given a national award by an academic magazine.

John Freemuth’s book, “Islands Under Siege,” has been named an outstanding academic book by “Choice” magazine.

Since 1986, he has been with the BSU Political Science Department. He received his Ph.D. from Colorado State University. He is a leading expert on national park issues and teaches environmental resource courses at BSU.

BSU Burglary

By Leslie Teegarden

Staff Writer

By Lesley Teegarden

Staff Writer

the foreign language lab during spring vacation, according to BSU Burglary.

The person(s) caused damage to the video tape machines, police said.

There were no signs of a burglary.

Election continued from front

But some ASBBSU senators and students openly expressed disappointment when Electus Board Chair Scott Adams announced Sholly and Sanchez’s victory.

Several senators said they were concerned because Sholly and Sanchez had no prior experience in the senate. When asked about the election results, Senator Kyle Kisterman said they were “hornswoggled.”

Also, Senate Pro-Tem Eve Constello said she was unhappy with the election results because Sholly and Sanchez had never worked with the current student body before, and it would be a long climb to get them “up to speed.”

Other senators agreed it would be “a challenge to maintain Sholly.”

Despite the senators remarks, the ticket seemed positive they would succeed. Sanchez said she and Sholly would try to learn all the aspects of ASBBSU as soon as possible.

Blessing said he hopes the transition between the current student body president, vice president and the new electioneers will be “smooth.”

Senators who won were: Rick Bean for the College of Arts and Sciences and Sean Les Brands for the College of Health Sciences. Incumbent Fafa Alidjani assumed the seat in the College of Social Sciences and Public Affairs, and Susan Weller won for the College of Education.

Incumbent Gary Meyers retained his seat as supporter for the College of Vocational Technical Education, and Tim Fierpator will represent the College of Technology.

Brent Huang was victorious in his bid to represent the College of Business. All votes announced on Thursday, April 9 will remain unofficial until Sunday, April 12, at which time the count will become official if there is no protest or demand for a re-count.

As far as any of the new senator’s feelings about Sholly and Sanchez, Alidjani said she is open to working with the duo as long as they learn their job.

Alidjani said, so far, her only plan of action will be to run for senate pro-tem next year.

Gary Meyers, however, took more of a stand against the Sholly/Sanchez ticket. He said he would begin a statement-of-fact against Sholly. Meyers said his reasons for filing the statement was because the Sholly/Sanchez ticket only received one-third of the total student vote.

Meyers said he would like to see a run-off election because of the small margin of victory.

Although attitudes seem to conflict, Constello said. The senate/executive relationship will not be an antagonistic one.

Election Results

Sholly/Sanchez

9%

O’Hara/Walters

7%

rejected

26%

Martin/Thomason

23%

Garvin/Caughron

33%

331

4

1002

1000662-2610

AT&T Calling Card

This is the Arbiter April 14, 1992 Boise State University

Get financial aid when you need it most. After you graduate.

Life doesn’t suddenly become easy when you get out of college.

There are the challenges of starting a career, getting settled in a new apartment and doing it all within your budget.

So to help you out, we put together the AT&T Moving Ahead Program.

When you sign up, we’ll send you a $10 AT&T Long Distance Certificate worth 35 minutes of AT&T long distance calling and every time you move and choose AT&T or switch from another long distance company, you’ll get even more savings benefits.

Since you’ll probably be traveling, you’ll also get an AT&T Calling Card sent to you, free. It helps make calling from payphones easier and you don’t have to re-place it when you move.

You’ll also have the opportunity to save on AT&T long distance calls with the AT&T Reach Our-America Calling Plan.

Even our Moving Ahead newsletter can help. Besides being full of tips on things like managing your money and job hunting, it includes chances to save on the latest clothes, your favorite CDs and more.

Just call 1 800 662-2610, Ext. 3835 to join the AT&T Moving Ahead Program. And get a little extra help after school.

AT&T

Whadda you care?

Get involved with next year’s Arbiter and find out what it means to make a difference!

We’re looking for students with attitudes to help with:

- Reporting
- Copy editing
- Ad Sales
- Photography
- Design
- Production
- Roving rabble!

Applicants must be willing to get paid for having a good time. Pick up applications at our campus community center.

Drive south of the SUB, or call 345-8204
What makes Firehose hot and bothered

By Chesrun Myers
Entertainment Editor

MTV sucks. No, really, at least that's what Firehose bassist Mike Watt thinks. "I'd like to think of MTV as a way to talk to you, like we are talking on the phone right now—but it isn't that way," Watt said.

The hot-than-thou attitude, which plaques some bands, does some close to describing Firehose, said the bassist from Southern California. "There's this idea of talent. When people see someone like me up there, they say, 'I can do it too,' and that helps stop that church of rock-and-roll crap. MTV has made a fortress out of that gig," he said.

Firehose formed mostly because of one fan's enthusiasm.

Watt and another drummer, George Hurley, were in a band called Minutemen with another buddy, D. Boon, but after five years, the band came to an abrupt end when Boon was killed in a van crash. Watt was ready to hang it up right then, but soon Minutemen fan Ed Crawford's relentless persuasion got the best of him, and Firehose was born.

Watt now names Boon as his driving force for continuing to play. "I'm driven, man. I owe everything to him. Everything. But I can't look back. I guess it just took that kid from Ohio to make us continue." That kid was Crawford, who now completes the Firehose trio as a guitarist.

This just-average-folks mentality is what makes Firehose a hot live act. They played at the Crazy Horse on Sunday, but it would make Watt happy if you didn't compare them to another band. "I hate to see that happen. We are from a punk rock tradition, but it doesn't matter where you come from," he said.

Instead of emphasizing talent, Watt likes to see everyone chase their dream. He tries to down-play their talents as a band, instead hoping to bring people together with his music. "Music is for bridging big gaps and bringing people together—not splitting them apart."

Firehose released a live EP this year called "Live 'Tweem Polo," but they will hit the studio again in June to complete a fifth album. Until then, they will continue to rip up stages all over the country with their driven sound. "I play every gig like it's my last. Obviously something is driving me," Watts said.

Film festival, comedienne and a risque play slated for upcoming campus events

By Chesrun Myers
Staff Writer

Buster Keaton, a comedian with a Ph.D. in sociology and a gift for delivering serious messages with a comic edge, will perform at 8 p.m. on Friday, April 17 in the Student Union Hanch Ballroom. The comedy show is sponsored by the Student Program Board.

Keaton, a former university professor, was told when she was a high school senior in Wilmington, Del., she was not college material. Since then, she's earned three degrees in sociology and won over the hearts and minds of audiences throughout the United States and Canada.

Using comedy as a tool toward better understanding, Berry shows us that by laughing together, we can learn to respect one another.

Berry has appeared on CNN's "Crossfire" and "World Report," Showtime's "Comedy Club Network" and at numerous comedy clubs. She has won rave reviews for her dynamic performances at dozens of colleges across the nation.

The comedian also will give a free lecture/comedy show titled: "Some of My Best Friends Are: The Existence of Racism on the College Campus—What We Can Do" at 1 p.m., April 17 in the Student Union Lookout Room.

Tickets to the evening program are $5 general admission, $3 BSU faculty and staff and $2 students at Select-a-Seat.

Haunting sounds from behind the lid, but not lamented "Iron Curtain"

Works by four Eastern-European composers will be featured in "Music from Prague and Warsaw," a recital by clarinetist Richard Maynard, at 7:30 p.m., April 16 in the Morrison Center Recital Hall at Boise State University. Maynard, a member of the BSU music faculty, will be accompanied by pianist Nancy Calvin and flutist Debbie DeFede.

Musician Handbook '92

Take the First Step to Getting Signed...

CONTACT:

Major Record Labels, Publishers, Clubs, Promoters, Managers, Studios, Distributors, Nationwide

Send $35.00 (check or money order) to:

A & R RECORD GUIDE
P.O. Box 8845
Los Angeles, CA 90009
Our world's sins

By Cheeen Myers
Entertainment Editor

"Crowding fueled by overpopulation render our most basic amenities scarce commodities..."

These aren't words from a 20th century philosopher or politician. This is a sentiment expressed by Bad Religion on their latest album, "Generator."

The times, they are a' changing. Don't expect any sappy lyrics or fluff here, only raw honesty. "Generator" is a punk rock tribute to the problems of our generation, and you might not like what they are telling you.

Like John Lennon, Bad Religion quickly tells their fans they don't have all the answers. In "No Direction," they drive their point home with some heavy lyrics: "I don't believe in self important folks who preach/no Bad Religion song can make your life complete/prepare yourself/they're coming to Boise for our world's sins"

and you might not like what they are telling you.

Bad Religion delivers a final kick in the teeth to network news in "One Entertain-entertainment." Before voca-istor Greg Graffin's lyrics for this track are listed in the liner notes, reflecting the Bad Religion philosophy regarding media: "These aren't words from a 20th century philosopher or politician."

"Generator" is a punk rock tribute to the problems of our generation, and you might not like what they are telling you.

The times, they are a' changing. Don't expect any sappy lyrics or fluff here, only raw honesty. "Generator" is a punk rock tribute to the problems of our generation, and you might not like what they are telling you.

Like John Lennon, Bad Religion quickly tells their fans they don't have all the answers. In "No Direction," they drive their point home with some heavy lyrics: "I don't believe in self important folks who preach/no Bad Religion song can make your life complete/prepare yourself/they're coming to Boise for our world's sins"

and you might not like what they are telling you.

Bad Religion delivers a final kick in the teeth to network news in "One Entertain-entertainment." Before voca-istor Greg Graffin's lyrics for this track are listed in the liner notes, reflecting the Bad Religion philosophy regarding media: "These aren't words from a 20th century philosopher or politician."

"Generator" is a punk rock tribute to the problems of our generation, and you might not like what they are telling you.

Like John Lennon, Bad Religion quickly tells their fans they don't have all the answers. In "No Direction," they drive their point home with some heavy lyrics: "I don't believe in self important folks who preach/no Bad Religion song can make your life complete/prepare yourself/they're coming to Boise for our world's sins"

and you might not like what they are telling you.

Bad Religion delivers a final kick in the teeth to network news in "One Entertain-entertainment." Before voca-istor Greg Graffin's lyrics for this track are listed in the liner notes, reflecting the Bad Religion philosophy regarding media: "These aren't words from a 20th century philosopher or politician."

"Generator" is a punk rock tribute to the problems of our generation, and you might not like what they are telling you.

Like John Lennon, Bad Religion quickly tells their fans they don't have all the answers. In "No Direction," they drive their point home with some heavy lyrics: "I don't believe in self important folks who preach/no Bad Religion song can make your life complete/prepare yourself/they're coming to Boise for our world's sins"

and you might not like what they are telling you.

Bad Religion delivers a final kick in the teeth to network news in "One Entertain-entertainment." Before voca-istor Greg Graffin's lyrics for this track are listed in the liner notes, reflecting the Bad Religion philosophy regarding media: "These aren't words from a 20th century philosopher or politician."

"Generator" is a punk rock tribute to the problems of our generation, and you might not like what they are telling you.

Like John Lennon, Bad Religion quickly tells their fans they don't have all the answers. In "No Direction," they drive their point home with some heavy lyrics: "I don't believe in self important folks who preach/no Bad Religion song can make your life complete/prepare yourself/they're coming to Boise for our world's sins"

and you might not like what they are telling you.

Bad Religion delivers a final kick in the teeth to network news in "One Entertain-entertainment." Before voca-istor Greg Graffin's lyrics for this track are listed in the liner notes, reflecting the Bad Religion philosophy regarding media: "These aren't words from a 20th century philosopher or politician."

"Generator" is a punk rock tribute to the problems of our generation, and you might not like what they are telling you.

Like John Lennon, Bad Religion quickly tells their fans they don't have all the answers. In "No Direction," they drive their point home with some heavy lyrics: "I don't believe in self important folks who preach/no Bad Religion song can make your life complete/prepare yourself/they're coming to Boise for our world's sins"

and you might not like what they are telling you.

Bad Religion delivers a final kick in the teeth to network news in "One Entertain-entertainment." Before voca-istor Greg Graffin's lyrics for this track are listed in the liner notes, reflecting the Bad Religion philosophy regarding media: "These aren't words from a 20th century philosopher or politician."

"Generator" is a punk rock tribute to the problems of our generation, and you might not like what they are telling you.

Like John Lennon, Bad Religion quickly tells their fans they don't have all the answers. In "No Direction," they drive their point home with some heavy lyrics: "I don't believe in self important folks who preach/no Bad Religion song can make your life complete/prepare yourself/they're coming to Boise for our world's sins"

and you might not like what they are telling you.

Bad Religion delivers a final kick in the teeth to network news in "One Entertain-entertainment." Before voca-istor Greg Graffin's lyrics for this track are listed in the liner notes, reflecting the Bad Religion philosophy regarding media: "These aren't words from a 20th century philosopher or politician."

"Generator" is a punk rock tribute to the problems of our generation, and you might not like what they are telling you.

Like John Lennon, Bad Religion quickly tells their fans they don't have all the answers. In "No Direction," they drive their point home with some heavy lyrics: "I don't believe in self important folks who preach/no Bad Religion song can make your life complete/prepare yourself/they're coming to Boise for our world's sins"

and you might not like what they are telling you.

Bad Religion delivers a final kick in the teeth to network news in "One Entertain-entertainment." Before voca-istor Greg Graffin's lyrics for this track are listed in the liner notes, reflecting the Bad Religion philosophy regarding media: "These aren't words from a 20th century philosopher or politician."

"Generator" is a punk rock tribute to the problems of our generation, and you might not like what they are telling you.

Like John Lennon, Bad Religion quickly tells their fans they don't have all the answers. In "No Direction," they drive their point home with some heavy lyrics: "I don't believe in self important folks who preach/no Bad Religion song can make your life complete/prepare yourself/they're coming to Boise for our world's sins"

and you might not like what they are telling you.

Bad Religion delivers a final kick in the teeth to network news in "One Entertain-entertainment." Before voca-istor Greg Graffin's lyrics for this track are listed in the liner notes, reflecting the Bad Religion philosophy regarding media: "These aren't words from a 20th century philosopher or politician."

"Generator" is a punk rock tribute to the problems of our generation, and you might not like what they are telling you.

Like John Lennon, Bad Religion quickly tells their fans they don't have all the answers. In "No Direction," they drive their point home with some heavy lyrics: "I don't believe in self important folks who preach/no Bad Religion song can make your life complete/prepare yourself/they're coming to Boise for our world's sins"

and you might not like what they are telling you.

Bad Religion delivers a final kick in the teeth to network news in "One Entertain-entertainment." Before voca-istor Greg Graffin's lyrics for this track are listed in the liner notes, reflecting the Bad Religion philosophy regarding media: "These aren't words from a 20th century philosopher or politician."

"Generator" is a punk rock tribute to the problems of our generation, and you might not like what they are telling you.

Like John Lennon, Bad Religion quickly tells their fans they don't have all the answers. In "No Direction," they drive their point home with some heavy lyrics: "I don't believe in self important folks who preach/no Bad Religion song can make your life complete/prepare yourself/they're coming to Boise for our world's sins"

and you might not like what they are telling you.

Bad Religion delivers a final kick in the teeth to network news in "One Entertain-entertainment." Before voca-istor Greg Graffin's lyrics for this track are listed in the liner notes, reflecting the Bad Religion philosophy regarding media: "These aren't words from a 20th century philosopher or politician."

"Generator" is a punk rock tribute to the problems of our generation, and you might not like what they are telling you.

Like John Lennon, Bad Religion quickly tells their fans they don't have all the answers. In "No Direction," they drive their point home with some heavy lyrics: "I don't believe in self important folks who preach/no Bad Religion song can make your life complete/prepare yourself/they're coming to Boise for our world's sins"

and you might not like what they are telling you.

Bad Religion delivers a final kick in the teeth to network news in "One Entertain-entertainment." Before voca-istor Greg Graffin's lyrics for this track are listed in the liner notes, reflecting the Bad Religion philosophy regarding media: "These aren't words from a 20th century philosopher or politician."

"Generator" is a punk rock tribute to the problems of our generation, and you might not like what they are telling you.

Like John Lennon, Bad Religion quickly tells their fans they don't have all the answers. In "No Direction," they drive their point home with some heavy lyrics: "I don't believe in self important folks who preach/no Bad Religion song can make your life complete/prepare yourself/they're coming to Boise for our world's sins"

and you might not like what they are telling you.

Bad Religion delivers a final kick in the teeth to network news in "One Entertain-entertainment." Before voca-istor Greg Graffin's lyrics for this track are listed in the liner notes, reflecting the Bad Religion philosophy regarding media: "These aren't words from a 20th century philosopher or politician."

"Generator" is a punk rock tribute to the problems of our generation, and you might not like what they are telling you.
Sports

Gymnasts place fifth at Regions

The BSU gymnastics team ended its season on Saturday with a fifth place finish at the NCAA West Regional Championships. The 188.775 team score was enough to push them to their highest finish ever.

Winning the meet was Oregon State, scoring almost 194 points, followed by UCLA, California, and Stanford.

Head coach Yvonne "Sun" Sandmire was pleased with the team's performance in the tournament.

"In the last two years we've had real good seasons, gone into the post-season and not done real well," she said. "I'm glad we broke that pattern."

Freshman Julie Wagner became the first BSU gymnast ever to qualify for Nationals, where she will compete later this month.

Junior Christy Koennecker earned high praise from Sandmire as well.

Koennecker performed without major breakdances in all four exercises.

"She had a great meet," Sandmire said. "I was proud of her."

Sandmire hopes Wagner's performance this year will set a new standard for BSU and add some prestige to the program.

"I see it as a stepping stone," she said. "I think it'll help the school gain recognition in gymnastics."

---

Track teams excel at Bob Gibb Classic

By Scott Gere

Staff Writer

Quality and quantity. About 400 track and field athletes competed in the Bob Gibb Classic on Friday and Saturday, including many independent competitors as well as Big Sky teams Boise State, Montana, Idaho, and Idaho State. Several other schools also attended.

Many of the athletes had aspirations of earning a place at the Olympic Trials this summer, and their performances showed off their Olympic caliber.

In Bronco Stadium, the contest was BSU's first home meet of the outdoor track season, although there was no team scoring.

In the series of events on Saturday, the BSU men and women notched high marks in several events.

On the men's side, nine athletes placed in the top three of various events. Leading the way was Kerrigan Lawyer, who finished first in the second heat of the 100-meter dash.

Junior Chad Wells took first in the long jump and Chuck Held in the 200.

On the women's side, including many independent competitors, BSU's first home meet of the outdoor track season, although there was no team scoring.

In the series of events on Saturday, the BSU men and women notched high marks in several events.

On the men's side, nine athletes placed in the top three of various events. Leading the way was Kerrigan Lawyer, who finished first in the second heat of the 100-meter dash.

Junior Chad Wells took first in the long jump and Chuck Held in the 200.

---

McTheny qualifies to compete in the NCAA Olympics

By Scott Gere

Staff Writer

Good time and stay relaxed,” she said.

Since coming to Boise State, Wagner has set an individual BSU record, as well as helping set the team scoring record of 191.90.

Wagner's goals for the tournament are pretty simple. She said, "I just want to go and have a good time and stay relaxed," she said.

---

FSU misses at championships

The BSU men's and women's tennis teams came back from the Big Sky Conference championships as regional tennis champions without a winner.

The tournament was a four-day event, which ran from Thursday through Sunday in Pocatello. Each Big Sky team sent its top four singles players and two doubles teams to the tournament.

On the men's side, Boise State's Nick Batiustella made it to the quarterfinals before losing to Nevada's Tracy Masakul. Going into the individual tournament, Batiustella had a record of 9-3.

For the women's team, Kristin Costi, who was 17-4 before the tournament, also made it to the quarterfinals, but fell to Nevada's Tracey King.

The men's doubles team of Johan Gedlitchka and Kristian Widen fell in the quarterfinals to Northern Arizona.

The number one doubles team of Deidre Dunphy and Vicki Ross, who were 19-4 going into the tournament, were upset in the first round. Dunphy and Ross fell to Nevada's team of Kimberly and Kristin We teneraserger, who only had a record of 6-9 before the tournament.

Next up for the Broncos are the Big Sky men's and women's tennis championships.

---

Comedy Show

Every Friday, Saturday, and Sunday Nights.

$5.00 cover must be 21 years or older.

Sunday Night Comedy Show

$2.00 off w/ activity card

---

Track teams excel at Bob Gibb Classic

By Scott Gere

Staff Writer

Quality and quantity. About 400 track and field athletes competed in the Bob Gibb Classic on Friday and Saturday, including many independent competitors as well as Big Sky teams Boise State, Montana, Idaho, and Idaho State. Several other schools also attended.

Many of the athletes had aspirations of earning a place at the Olympic Trials this summer, and their performances showed off their Olympic caliber.

In Bronco Stadium, the contest was BSU's first home meet of the outdoor track season, although there was no team scoring.

In the series of events on Saturday, the BSU men and women notched high marks in several events.

On the men's side, nine athletes placed in the top three of various events. Leading the way was Kerrigan Lawyer, who finished first in the second heat of the 100-meter dash.

Junior Chad Wells took first in the long jump and Chuck Held in the 200.

---

McTheny qualifies to compete in the NCAA Olympics

By Scott Gere

Staff Writer

"I see it as a stepping stone," she said. "I'm glad we made it to the quarterfinals before losing to Nevada's Tony Branch."

Although the BSU gymnastic team's season is over, Bronco gymnast Julie Wagner's season is not.

Wagner qualified to compete in the NCAA Nationals after competing in the NCAA Regionals Saturday. The tournament will be held April 24 and 25 in Minneapolis, Minn.

Wagner, a freshman from Brighton, Colo., made it to the tournament with a qualifying score of 38.15 and was ranked 10th out of 12 individual gymnasts who were invited.

This is the first time ever that a Boise State gymnast has qualified for Nationals.

"I was surprised to qualify because no one from Boise ever has and I didn't have a real great meet," Wagner said. "It's been my dream to go to Nationals." Since she is an individual competitor, Wagner will be on the University of Florida's rotation schedule.

Wagner's goals for the tournament are pretty simple. She said, "I just want to go and have a good time and stay relaxed," she said.

Since coming to Boise State, Wagner has set an individual BSU record, as well as helping set the team scoring record of 191.90.

Wagner's goals for the tournament are pretty simple. She said, "I just want to go and have a good time and stay relaxed," she said.

Since coming to Boise State, Wagner has set an individual BSU record, as well as helping set the team scoring record of 191.90.

Wagner owns school records in vault, floor, and beam and is a member of the all-around record with a score of 39.05.

---

FSU misses at championships

The BSU men's and women's tennis teams came back from the Big Sky Conference championships as regional tennis champions without a winner.

The tournament was a four-day event, which ran from Thursday through Sunday in Pocatello. Each Big Sky team sent its top four singles players and two doubles teams to the tournament.

On the men's side, Boise State's Nick Batiustella made it to the quarterfinals before losing to Nevada's Tracy Masakul. Going into the individual tournament, Batiustella had a record of 9-3.

For the women's team, Kristin Costi, who was 17-4 before the tournament, also made it to the quarterfinals, but fell to Nevada's Tracey King.

The men's doubles team of Johan Gedlitchka and Kristian Widen fell in the quarterfinals to Northern Arizona.

The number one doubles team of Deidre Dunphy and Vicki Ross, who were 19-4 going into the tournament, were upset in the first round. Dunphy and Ross fell to Nevada's team of Kimberly and Kristin We teneraserger, who only had a record of 6-9 before the tournament.

Next up for the Broncos are the Big Sky men's and women's tennis championships.

---

Comedy Show

Every Friday, Saturday, and Sunday Nights.

$5.00 cover must be 21 years or older.

Sunday Night Comedy Show

$2.00 off w/ activity card

---

Track teams excel at Bob Gibb Classic

By Scott Gere

Staff Writer

Quality and quantity. About 400 track and field athletes competed in the Bob Gibb Classic on Friday and Saturday, including many independent competitors as well as Big Sky teams Boise State, Montana, Idaho, and Idaho State. Several other schools also attended.

Many of the athletes had aspirations of earning a place at the Olympic Trials this summer, and their performances showed off their Olympic caliber.

In Bronco Stadium, the contest was BSU's first home meet of the outdoor track season, although there was no team scoring.

In the series of events on Saturday, the BSU men and women notched high marks in several events.

On the men's side, nine athletes placed in the top three of various events. Leading the way was Kerrigan Lawyer, who finished first in the second heat of the 100-meter dash.

Junior Chad Wells took first in the long jump and Chuck Held in the 200.

---

McTheny qualifies to compete in the NCAA Olympics

By Scott Gere

Staff Writer

"I see it as a stepping stone," she said. "I'm glad we made it to the quarterfinals before losing to Nevada's Tony Branch."

Although the BSU gymnastic team's season is over, Bronco gymnast Julie Wagner's season is not.

Wagner qualified to compete in the NCAA Nationals after competing in the NCAA Regionals Saturday. The tournament will be held April 24 and 25 in Minneapolis, Minn.

Wagner, a freshman from Brighton, Colo., made it to the tournament with a qualifying score of 38.15 and was ranked 10th out of 12 individual gymnasts who were invited.

This is the first time ever that a Boise State gymnast has qualified for Nationals.

"I was surprised to qualify because no one from Boise ever has and I didn't have a real great meet," Wagner said. "It's been my dream to go to Nationals." Since she is an individual competitor, Wagner will be on the University of Florida's rotation schedule.

Wagner's goals for the tournament are pretty simple. She said, "I just want to go and have a good time and stay relaxed," she said.

Since coming to Boise State, Wagner has set an individual BSU record, as well as helping set the team scoring record of 191.90.

Wagner's goals for the tournament are pretty simple. She said, "I just want to go and have a good time and stay relaxed," she said.

Since coming to Boise State, Wagner has set an individual BSU record, as well as helping set the team scoring record of 191.90.

Wagner owns school records in vault, floor, and beam and is a member of the all-around record with a score of 39.05.
Andrus vetos student board seat

By Dawn Kramer
Staff Writer
Gov. Cecil Andrus vetoed House bill 26, which would have placed a non-voting student on the State Board of Education, on Wednesday, April 8.
He said it was a "major dis- appointment of the 1992 session that no meaningful reform of educational governance was undertaken."

The measure would have placed an ex-officio student member on the SBE on a rotating basis among the state's four institutions of higher learning for a term not to exceed two years. In the governor's arguments against the bill, he said the bill didn't include other bodies under the jurisdiction of the SBE, for instance, the School for the Deaf and Blind and, therefore, was not fair to the public education system in Idaho.

BSU continued from front page

the system would be effective. "We ended up with 110 people a day," he said. "We're talking about changing people's patterns—but it's something you don't do overnight.

"It comes to taking a good hard look at ourselves and asking where we can change our habit patterns," he said.
According to Franden, the Idaho Transportation Department will meet at the end of April and may adopt BSU the money at that time. "There may well be a final decision (at the meeting)," he said.

Plane benefit...
The Idaho Music Teachers Association will present a Duo- Piano benefit in the Morrison Center Recital Hall on April 14, 21 and 28. Donations will be ac- cepted to provide instruments and lessons for needy children who would otherwise not have the opportunity to participate.

"Boise's Summer Specialty Store!" 15th & Front
Action Sports 383 - 0073

Men's & Ladies Swimwear in Stock Now! Always Something On Sale!
Currently selected clothing is 1/2 price!

In-Line Skates
Street Hockey Headquarters
Check out our selection of:
Wet suits, Water shoes, Knee boards, Ski boots

Coming Soon:
MongOOSE Mtn. Bikes

Sport Sandals

Huge selection in stock

F A S T
F U N D R A I S I N G
P R O G R A M

Fraternities, Sororities, student clubs. Earn up to $5000 in one week. Plus receive a $1000 bonus yourself. And a FREE WATXH just for calling
1-800-932-0528 Ext. 65.

Good for a tennis partner for a few times a week. Please call:
Cheryl 384-5938

Profitable spare time business

Good extra income. Re- corded message. 1-306-
2037 ext. 21.

WANTED: one good stu- dent photographer to take photos at a small wed- ding at 5:00 p.m. April 25 in Boise. Call collect, 1-733-0802.

TELEMARKETING

Evening shift
We can show you how to succeed in sales and pay you too. Must be ener- getic—assertive—success oriented. Selling display advertising in major pub- lications. Excellent display environment—Great pay-
Close to campus. For In- formation call: 345-4234.

Food Vendors
Earth Foods Energy
People*TCBY*Zorba's
Kitchen*Pizza*Top Dog

Caricature
Artists

Face Painters

Clowns

The spring Event

12:00 Noon Sunday April 26
Julia Davis Park Bandshell

The Athlete Apr 14, 1992 Boise State University
Board cont. from front
out-of-state students will see a 20.45 percent increase in their tuitions. However, be- cause of a grandfather clause in the proposal, students from out- of-state currently attending an Idaho school, pay only the fee increase other students must pay—and not the 20.45 percent increase in their tuition.

This will be effective in the fall of 1992—whether the person has already been accepted to the institution or not.

Sellers added it costs approximately $39,000 per year to educate a student. He said it was only fair that non-residents pay for the extra money spent in their education, because, in general, "Non- residents have a greater ability to pay."

He backed this and said it is cheaper to go to school in Idaho and pay out-of-state tuition than it is to go to many other states and pay tuition.

The increase will mean non-resident students at BSU will pay $1,206, an increase from $1,100.

LCSC $1,070 from $1018. Uolf
$1,450 from $1,215 and SPU, $3,325 from $1,600.

Sandmeyer said the increased opposition to the increases were wellcome to come to the the AIBSU hearings. She blamed The Ath- llet for not getting the word out about the meetings—which had poor attendance.

"Student access to vital info was severely limited," Sandmeyer said. She wrote a note to an Athlete reporter. This was an injustice to students who pay $4 a semester to get in and not get it.

Some of the increase will go toward increasing the charge for airfare paid, from $917 to $5, in order to get the more expensive tuition and stay in town.

The proposal was unopposed. Karl Sharutlff, a Board member, said he voted for the measure be- cause the proposals by the schools were of good quality.