9-15-1992

Arbiter, September 15

Students of Boise State University

Although this file was scanned from the highest-quality microfilm held by Boise State University, it reveals the limitations of the source microfilm. It is possible to perform a text search of much of this material; however, there are sections where the source microfilm was too faint or unreadable to allow for text scanning. For assistance with this collection of student newspapers, please contact Special Collections and Archives at archives@boisestate.edu.
Planned office space expansion displaces students in Lincoln Hall

Residents disturbed by loss of homes, last-minute notices
Stuart Bryson
Assistant News Editor

Plans by Student Residential Life to convert Lincoln Hall into office space is creating waves among its residents who were not informed of the closure until a few weeks ago. The hall, which houses 28 students, is going to be closed at the end of the fall semester in order to hold displaced students in upcoming renovation projects, and will later be used for permanent office space.

One-and-a-half-year Lincoln resident Chris Schaffer had some strong words to say about the idea. "I think it's bullshit. They should have closed it during the summer, and they should have told us before we moved in," he said.

Schaffer, a second-year student of international business, has fully paid a one-year contract to stay in Lincoln. He said he called Richard McKinnon when he received notice that the dorms would be closing.

"McKinnon said they [SRL] were supposed to have sent out a letter this summer—and they didn't," said Schaffer.

McKinnon, when questioned on the issue, said he wasn't sure if the students had been notified before they moved in. Dave Boerl, assistant director/coordinator of SRL, made a similar comment when questioned about the supposed notification.

According to Boerl, the current Lincoln residents will be moved into other halls over Christmas break. He said the students currently living in Lincoln, including one resident adviser, would take top priority on the residence hall waiting list for spring semester.

That will mean that some of the new students applying to move into the dorms, of which there are 20 now, will have to take second priority to current Lincoln residents. He said there may be as many as 85 new students on the waiting list by January, going by last year's figures, and possibly more than that considering BSU's boosted fall enrollment.

McKinnon said "We'll be able to put all of those guys into Morrison, Chaffee, or Towers, if that's what they want. A number of students would prefer to live in other residence halls."

He also said Lincoln residents would have the option of canceling their contract if they decide to move off campus.

Boerl said Lincoln is "not conducive to a good hall environment." He noted that it was difficult for students to be social due to the fact that the building is sectioned into four separate areas, with no central gathering place. "From a student development standpoint, it's not the best environment."

However, not all of Lincoln's residents feel the same way, and Schaffer is among them: "I don't want to live in Towers. He noted that other residence halls lacked some of Lincoln's advantages.

"It's quiet, easy to study, close to campus," Boerl said. "That will mean that some of the new students applying to move into the dorms, of which there are 20 now, will have to take second priority to current Lincoln residents."

He said there may be as many as 85 new students on the waiting list by January, going by last year's figures, and possibly more than that considering BSU's boosted fall enrollment.

McKinnon said "We'll be able to put all of those guys into Morrison, Chaffee, or Towers, if that's what they want. A number of students would prefer to live in other residence halls."

He also said Lincoln residents would have the option of canceling their contract if they decide to move off campus.

Boerl said Lincoln is "not conducive to a good hall environment." He noted that it was difficult for students to be social due to the fact that the building is sectioned into four separate areas, with no central gathering place. "From a student development standpoint, it's not the best environment."

However, not all of Lincoln's residents feel the same way, and Schaffer is among them: "I don't want to live in Towers. He noted that other residence halls lacked some of Lincoln's advantages.

"It's quiet, easy to study, close to campus," Boerl said.
Workshop to build leadership skills

New supervisors can learn how to better their work performances during the "Basic Leadership Skills for Supervisors" workshops offered in September by BSU's Center for Management Development.

Sessions are offered Wednedays and repeated on Thursdays from 7-10 p.m. at a cost of $40 per person. A $10 workbook is included in the price.

"Fundamental Skills of Managing," on Sept. 23 and 24, will show participants how to maintain everyone's self-esteem, actively listen to achieve consensus and encourage others to commit themselves to common goals.

A special rate of $395 is available for all nine basic leadership modules scheduled this fall. A 10 percent discount is offered for any five or more workshops. In addition, Continuing Education credits are available. Anyone can attend.

Board to consider plans for budgets

The State Board of Education will consider Fiscal Year 1994 budget requests for higher education and will conduct meetings at its Sept. 17-18 meeting in Moscow.

Prior to the meeting, the Board's finance committee will conduct budget hearings from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at a cost of $40 per person. A $10 workbook is included in the price.

The Board will then submit a Fiscal '94 budget request to Gov. Andrus and the Legislature for action in the next legislative session.

In its first meeting of the 1992-93 academic year, the Board will also:
- Hear a report on improving education for American Indians
- Discuss the potential impact of the 1 percent Initiative on public education.
- Consider the draft of a proposed "letter of appointment" that would specify the terms and conditions of employment for agency and institution heads.
- Discuss development of a new evaluation system for institution and agency heads.
- Discuss development of strategic plans for teacher preparation at the college and universities.
- Consider a proposed lease of seven acres in Idaho Falls from the University of Idaho Foundation for construction of the planned ISU/UI Higher Education Center.

Division manager named for award

Bonnie Sumter, manager of the health and service division in BSU's College of Technology, has received the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America's (VICA) highest award.

The State Board of Education will consider Fiscal Year 1994 budget requests for higher education and will conduct meetings at its Sept. 17-18 meeting in Moscow.

Prior to the meeting, the Board's finance committee will conduct budget hearings from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at a cost of $40 per person. A $10 workbook is included in the price.

The Board will then submit a Fiscal '94 budget request to Gov. Andrus and the Legislature for action in the next legislative session.

In its first meeting of the 1992-93 academic year, the Board will also:
- Hear a report on improving education for American Indians
- Discuss the potential impact of the 1 percent Initiative on public education.
- Consider the draft of a proposed "letter of appointment" that would specify the terms and conditions of employment for agency and institution heads.
- Discuss development of a new evaluation system for institution and agency heads.
- Discuss development of strategic plans for teacher preparation at the college and universities.
- Consider a proposed lease of seven acres in Idaho Falls from the University of Idaho Foundation for construction of the planned ISU/UI Higher Education Center.

Division manager named for award

Bonnie Sumter, manager of the health and service division in BSU's College of Technology, has received the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America's (VICA) highest award. The Honoray Life Membership award will be presented in June at VICA's 28th annual National Leadership and U.S. Skill Olympics in Louisville, Kentucky.

VICA is a 25,000-member organization of high school and college students in trade, industrial, technical and health occupations programs. VICA promotes high standards in trade ethics, workmanship, scholarship and safety, said Thomas Holdsworth, VICA's director of communications.

Sumter has been a VICA adviser at BSU since 1973 and has served in several positions for the organization in Idaho and at the national level. A graduate of the University of Idaho, Sumter has been employed at BSU since 1976.

ACLU plans event to honor document

A Question of Choice, to be released September 16th, is Sarah Weddington's first-hand account of the landmark 1973 abortion rights decision, Roe v. Wade. Her book recounts the turbulent aftermath of the case, the ongoing struggle for abortion rights as Roe is slowly unraveled by the court, and Weddington's personal insights and strategies for a pro-choice future.

On Saturday, Nov. 14, 1992, Weddington will speak in Boise at the ACLU's 1992 Bill of Rights Dinner, also including Silent and Live Auctions. Non-members may attend individual dinner meetings.

The Macintosh Student Aid Package...
The State Board of Education gave BSU unanimous approval this summer to purchase more classroom and laboratory space west of Capitol Boulevard. According to the BSU Financial Committee, the purchase of the 36,000-square-foot ITT Technical Institute classroom complex is a sound investment, even though BSU may not get to use the property until 1995.

A BSU-funded appraisal indicated the $3.2 million asked by the property owner, Nampa developer Ron Van Auker, is a reasonable price, far less than it would cost BSU to build a similar facility. The property under consideration, a three-story building on Capitol Boulevard from the main campus, consists of two classrooms and an office structure, and 250 parking spaces.

With steadily increasing enrollment, the university is pressed to find ways to alleviate the problems of limited parking and classroom space. According to the BSU Financial Committee, no state approval is necessary. Additional student fees would be used to pay for the purchase. Instead, BSU will extend existing revenue bonds—already paid for by bonds issued for a larger period of time, to purchase the classroom complex. While there are some obvious advantages to the purchase, it isn't a perfect bowl of cherries. ITT has a lease on the classroom building until 1995. In an Aug. 14 press release, the school said it had no plans to vacate the building prior to that time.

BSU officials had hoped enough space could be found in the building's rededication ceremony of the math and geology faculty who will be displaced in January. However, according to Steven Schmidt, vice president of administration at BSU, that is no longer a possibility.

ITT Director Dale Reynolds stated that BSU officials had given the impression that 16,000-square feet of classroom space would be available for the university, but that it had never been a possibility. "It couldn't be farther from the truth," said Reynolds. "We're eight months out of the property, and every classroom is used," he said in a phone interview.

Raynolds was concerned about people who had given the impression that BSU's takeover of the property could mean immediate changes in the school. "So many people, right, wrong or indifferent, thought we were going out of business," he said. He said another misconception is that ITT would be moving by the year's end. He said that was not a possibility, and that ITT would remain in its current location until 1995. At that time the ITT headquarters in Indianapolis will help find another location for the school.

"When you want to buy property, it's better to buy it sooner rather than later," said Larry Burke, director of university relations. "Not only that, we'll become (ITT's) landlord, and we'll collect whatever that lease is worth.

"We get very close to Schmidt, the administration feels better off purchasing the property since living costs are twice as much as the building to recover such costs. Even though BSU may not be able to move into the property right away, officials said the university will still benefit from ownership.

"When you want to buy property, it's better to buy it sooner rather than later," said Larry Burke, director of university relations. "Not only that, we'll become (ITT's) landlord, and we'll collect whatever that lease is worth.

"We get very close to Schmidt, the administration feels better off purchasing the property since living costs are twice as much as the building to recover such costs. Even though BSU may not be able to move into the property right away, officials said the university will still benefit from ownership.

"When you want to buy property, it's better to buy it sooner rather than later," said Larry Burke, director of university relations. "Not only that, we'll become (ITT's) landlord, and we'll collect whatever that lease is worth.

"We get very close to Schmidt, the administration feels better off purchasing the property since living costs are twice as much as the building to recover such costs. Even though BSU may not be able to move into the property right away, officials said the university will still benefit from ownership.

"When you want to buy property, it's better to buy it sooner rather than later," said Larry Burke, director of university relations. "Not only that, we'll become (ITT's) landlord, and we'll collect whatever that lease is worth.

"We get very close to Schmidt, the administration feels better off purchasing the property since living costs are twice as much as the building to recover such costs. Even though BSU may not be able to move into the property right away, officials said the university will still benefit from ownership.

"When you want to buy property, it's better to buy it sooner rather than later," said Larry Burke, director of university relations. "Not only that, we'll become (ITT's) landlord, and we'll collect whatever that lease is worth.

"We get very close to Schmidt, the administration feels better off purchasing the property since living costs are twice as much as the building to recover such costs. Even though BSU may not be able to move into the property right away, officials said the university will still benefit from ownership.

"When you want to buy property, it's better to buy it sooner rather than later," said Larry Burke, director of university relations. "Not only that, we'll become (ITT's) landlord, and we'll collect whatever that lease is worth.

"We get very close to Schmidt, the administration feels better off purchasing the property since living costs are twice as much as the building to recover such costs. Even though BSU may not be able to move into the property right away, officials said the university will still benefit from ownership.

"When you want to buy property, it's better to buy it sooner rather than later," said Larry Burke, director of university relations. "Not only that, we'll become (ITT's) landlord, and we'll collect whatever that lease is worth.

"We get very close to Schmidt, the administration feels better off purchasing the property since living costs are twice as much as the building to recover such costs. Even though BSU may not be able to move into the property right away, officials said the university will still benefit from ownership.

"When you want to buy property, it's better to buy it sooner rather than later," said Larry Burke, director of university relations. "Not only that, we'll become (ITT's) landlord, and we'll collect whatever that lease is worth.

"We get very close to Schmidt, the administration feels better off purchasing the property since living costs are twice as much as the building to recover such costs. Even though BSU may not be able to move into the property right away, officials said the university will still benefit from ownership.
\textbf{The Right Side}

\textbf{Politically correct' rules lead slanted campaign}

Across the nation, radical extremists (impatient homosexuals, black nationalists and radical feminists) have taken over college campuses in an attempt to "politically correct" the wrongdoings of those who support individualism and free speech.

Campus speech codes are one way the extremists gain ground. For example, the University of Wisconsin's code prohibits speech "intended to demean the race, sex, religion, color, creed, disability, sexual orientation, national origin, ancestry or age of the person addressed."

Those who favor this code say "civility" is their goal, a dispute involving three students who objected to being called "rednecks" was dismissed when a school official said the term was not in any way demeaning.

At "politically correct" schools, large minorities of homosexuals, women and other "preferred" groups are urged to verbally abuse others in ways that others are not allowed to verbally abuse them. And a new minority group has been added to University of Massachusetts-at Amherst's non-discrimination code—pedophiles (I'm serious!).

The University of Michigan has not only established a speech code, but also published a "student guide to proper behavior." "Incorrect" behavior includes: laughing at a joke about someone who stutters, displaying an \\textit{offensive} comic on one's door and failing to invite someone to a party because she's a lesbian.

Enforcement of these policies has led to one student being convicted of sexual harassment for arguing in a class discussion about the biology of homosexuality. Another man was threatened with charges of discrimination when he was offended by his gay roommate's groups of nude male students.

\textbf{Attack continued from page 1 A}

Ironically, the day after the attack, Towers held a rape and crime prevention seminar that had been planned before the incident. An estimated 40 Towers residents attended. Deputy Patrick Calley spoke of an encounter he had with the suspect.

Calley said that he had questioned a man in a white T-shirt and jeans walking in front of the Administration Building during the interim between the attack and the victim's report. He said the man, who claimed to be 31 years old, had a strong smell of alcohol on his breath and a scratch on his nose.

Calley said he questioned the man as to his reasons for being out so late on campus, and the scratch on his face. The man said that he had been in a fight at a bar downtown, and had decided to walk home. The man wasn't carrying any identification.

Calley then drove the man to a convenience store that was near where he claimed he lived. He observed the man in the convenience store for about four minutes before leaving.

The man questioned by Calley later fit the victim's description of her attacker.

Calley said he spent at least 20 minutes with the man from the time he stopped him until the time he left the convenience store. The call from the victim came at 3 a.m. at the seminar. Calley stressed the fact that if the victim would have called 911 immediately, they would have been able to arrest the suspect.

The seminar probably had better attendance than planned because of the incident.

Police informed the victim that the attack was not violent enough to constitute an attempted rape charge, but if a suspect would have been caught, the charge would probably have been battery.

The victim told those at the seminar not to put off calling the police. She said a victim should never hesitate to call 911.

According to Steve Schmidt, a associate vice president of administration, the halls will be used by either math/geology faculty, displaced by an eight month, $2 million renovation of the Math/Geology Building, or by continuing education faculty by an 18 month, $10 million renovation of the library.

Both projects are scheduled to begin in January.

Although plans have been made to vacate the hall, BSU officials said they aren't sure how much it will cost to turn dorm rooms into office space.

According to Schmidt, BSU hasn't yet had architects make an estimate.

Schmidt said that in spite of this, he is "fairly comfortable" that it will be done "sometime when compared to finding space elsewhere, such as renting mobile units or leasing space somewhere else.

\textbf{Lincoln continued from page 1 A}

everything, has good air conditioning and heating and there are no parking problems," said Schaffer.

Schaffer also noted that Lincoln's rooms have more privacy for residents than those in other halls on campus.

One Lincoln resident who preferred not to be identified called that he was at a loss legal action against BSU because the contract he signed was for the whole year.

\textbf{Deborah Lewis}

\textbf{4A Arbiter}

\textbf{News}

\textbf{VOTE! RE-MEMBER YOuR CIVIC DUTY—REGISTER TO VOTE IN TIME FOR THE NOVEMBER ELECTIONS. DO NOT SIT ON THE SIDELINES!}

\textbf{STUDENT PROGRAMS BOARD PRESENTS}

\textbf{ALL SHOWS 7PM}

FACULTY/STUDENT SOCIALS

\textbf{SEPTEMBER 18 & 21}

THE APARTMENT

16 Ouat Listening Lounge

21 Quiet Listening Lounge

\textbf{OCTOBER 16 & 19}

"ONE FLOW OVER THE CUCKOO'S NEST" 16 Quiet Listening Lounge

18 Special Events Center

\textbf{NOVEMBER 20 & 23}

"CASABLANCA" 16 Quiet Listening Lounge

21 Special Events Center

\textbf{THIS FILM SERIES, WHICH WILL BE PRESENTED THE THIRD WEEKEND OF EVERY MONTH, WILL BE FEATURED AS A FILM ESTIMATED AS ONE HOUR AND FIFTEEN MINUTES. EACH IS AN ACCADEMY AWARDS WINNER FOR BEST PICTURE OF THE YEAR.}

\textbf{THE MOVIE THAT MAKES YOU THE DETECTIVE}"

"Gripping" Robert Redford plays the role of an American soundman. "The Sting" is currently showing at the Boise Cinema. "The Sting" is considered to be one of the top 50 films of all time. The film was released on November 1st, 1973.

\textbf{THE PLACE TO BE}

\textbf{ASK FOR CHRISTINE}

\textbf{THE PLACE TO BE}

\textbf{Hair and Cosmetics}

\textbf{Student Programs Board}

\textbf{Events Center}

\textbf{The Getting Organized Meetings}

\textbf{Monday, September 15, 1992}

\textbf{Special Offers}

\textbf{601 MAIN 1010 BOISE}

\textbf{Haircut}

\textbf{Paul Mitchell}

\textbf{Cindy}

\textbf{Stylist}

\textbf{Satin Finish}

\textbf{Offering}

\textbf{BSU students Discounts}

\textbf{Hair Stylist}

\textbf{Paul Mitchell Association}

\textbf{November 20}

\textbf{Casablanca}

\textbf{October 16 & 19}

"One Flow Over The Cuckoo's Nest"

\textbf{September 18 & 21}

The Apartment

\textbf{September 19}

\textbf{$10.00 Shades}

\textbf{Haircut}

\textbf{Boise}

\textbf{September 19}

\textbf{5:00 OFF}

\textbf{any full priced salon service w/ valid BSU I.D.}

\textbf{Expiry 10-31-92}

\textbf{601 MAINPOLDO BOISE}

\textbf{343-4129}

\textbf{CINDY}

\textbf{Hair Stylist}

\textbf{Paul Mitchell}

\textbf{Association}

\textbf{October 16 & 19}

"One Flow Over The Cuckoo's Nest"

\textbf{September 18 & 21}

The Apartment

\textbf{September 19}

\textbf{5:00 OFF}

\textbf{any full priced salon service w/ valid BSU I.D.}

\textbf{Expiry 10-31-92}

\textbf{601 MAINPOLDO BOISE}

\textbf{343-4129}

\textbf{Hair and Cosmetics}

\textbf{Student Programs Board}

\textbf{Events Center}

\textbf{The Getting Organized Meetings}

\textbf{Monday, September 15, 1992}

\textbf{Special Offers}

\textbf{601 MAIN 1010 BOISE}

\textbf{Haircut}

\textbf{Paul Mitchell}

\textbf{Cindy}

\textbf{Stylist}

\textbf{Satin Finish}

\textbf{Offering}

\textbf{BSU students Discounts}

\textbf{Hair Stylist}

\textbf{Paul Mitchell Association}

\textbf{November 20}

\textbf{Casablanca}

\textbf{October 16 & 19}

"One Flow Over The Cuckoo's Nest"

\textbf{September 18 & 21}

The Apartment

\textbf{September 19}

\textbf{5:00 OFF}

\textbf{any full priced salon service w/ valid BSU I.D.}

\textbf{Expiry 10-31-92}

\textbf{601 MAINPOLDO BOISE}

\textbf{343-4129}
Conservative viewpoint is a welcome change

Despite Ms. Deborah Lewis' sophomoric smear of all Democrats, I find that many Democrats and even a few Republicans are good, decent, honest people. I have been a father for 25 years, and an Democrat for even longer. I am not out to destroy my family, her family, or your family. Unlike Bush and Quayle and their banking buddies, who Ms. Lewis so ardently adores, I did not steal one trillion dollars from the American people's bank accounts, and then expect them to pay it back so that I can steal it again.

Debbie, you disappointment me.

David Boothby
Political science major

TV ushers demise of 2-party system

The onset of televised political debate, beginning with the Nixon/Kennedy debates in 1960, spelled the beginning of the end for the two-party political system in the United States of America. It was as if the structure of the political system was just waiting for something to happen—even then—as the big-city bosses and political machines were beginning to falter, and the old system began to split at the seams. With television came the candidate's ability to circumvent and abandon their traditional need for the support of their parties and the political machines that came with them.

Candidates soon learned there was a faster, easier way to win elections, without the need to become indentured to the antiquated institutions of their traditional political parties. But loss of traditional support from their political parties was not to become a significant loss to the candidates as special interest groups began to scramble to the 'hopefuls' rescue, picking up the slack.

Candidates and incumbents alike now had many masters instead of one. But, alas, it was not to be that simple. These special interest groups began to grow in strength, and their ability to manipulate the candidates became an art form. They became an uncanny sage.

They learned that two is better than one. And, in elections, they could buy opposing candidates who were running for the very same office—thus creating win/win situations.

The special interest groups—today referred to as political action committees—have sucked the incumbents and politicians into be accepting and promulgating the same, basic philosophies. And the candidates have learned to parrot these 'borrowed tenets' to convince the populace it was all their own marvellous dogma from the very get-go.

And the electorate, having tired of a steady diet of dogma biscuits (that all seem to taste alike but they can't seem to figure out why), have become alien and apathetic. They feel entirely left out of the process.

The candidates as political action committees have taken over. They have become "depolitidized."

But just why is this two-party system doomed to fail if it is working so smoothly, albeit at a distinct disadvantage to its citizens?

Answer: A two-party system—actually, any system—that is not responsive to its people will, in the end, incur the wrath of its people. Our two-party system can continue to exist only as long as the people allow it to exist. The citizenry must and will be appeased!

Unfortunately, though, our two-party system is not designed to do this, at least not indefinitely. By the end of this century, the economy of this nation will have deteriorated to the point that the people will be clamoring for change.

But, as it stands now, a mercurial candidate, who espouses anti-establishment doctrine, cannot be elected to public office. Look what they did to Jerry Brown (everything but the tar and feathers)!

Take notice, the status quo still holds the reins of government, and will not permit an upset, a proclaimer of doom (especially their own), to rock the proverbial boat— to come to the forefront, ever be seen or heard, if they can help it.

But nothing is forever and time will change this. A government can only continue to live on borrowed time, money and prestige for so long. Sooner or later, the piper must be paid!
Coffee drinks thrive on the Treasure Valley's cosmopolitan palates

Boise, City of...beans?

Aly Mauldin
Culture Writer

Coffee houses have a way about them you just might be thinking less about potatoes and more about exotic coffee houses.

Boise is having a coffeehouse explosion. So here's the opportunity to be introduced to our newest coffeehouse arrivals, and to re-experience a few of Boise's old favorites.

The Flying M (230 N. 5th) is just six weeks old and has been transplanted from Seattle.

Why Boise? "To get away from Seattle and to bring (The Flying M) to Boise... because we are not just another coffeehouse," said Kirk of The Flying M.

But what makes The Flying M the exception? They offer a straight shot of espresso for only 85 cents, as well as fine crafts, jewelry and artwork from local and Northwest artists. They are open Monday to Thursday 6:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Friday 6:30 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. and Saturday 8 a.m. to 10:30 p.m.

If you have a chance to step by Obadiah's Coffee House (570 S. Eighth St.), you'll find it's the "place to be" for late-nighters. Obadiah's opens Wednesday to Saturday, 7 p.m. to 2 a.m. They've gone from 1984's record buy-back to a coffee bar with muffins, pastries, salads and espresso machines. The Edge offers bulk coffee of most varieties which will run you $3.49 for 1/2 pound.

Some of his friends wear the same snakes and skulls and, while most of them have their own tattoo artists, Viereck's takes the "thin line" to the next level. His latest tattoo, a tattoo of an ear, has tattoos of his ear. "I'm a culturaliker, has a tattoo of a band around his arm. Above body as a cultural Erik Payne is a local man.

Boise's coffeehouses lacked variety. Just six years ago Boise's coffeehouses lacked variety. So they opened up their doors around two years ago. Giuseppe's sells only pure coffee specialties, including, as co-owner Barbara put it, 'A legendary Latte.' Giuseppe's sells its coffee beans wholesale to local businesses, and in the store by the pound (86.50-$15). Of all the local shops, only Giuseppe's roast their beans in the store. To get these fresh-roasted beans, head to Giuseppe's Monday through Saturday, 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., and on Saturday 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The Edge (1101 W. Idaho), next to the downtown Record Exchange, expanded from the record store it's adjoined with. They've gone from 1984's record buy-back to a coffee bar with muffins, pastries, salads and espresso machines. The Edge offers bulk coffee of most varieties which will run you $3.49 for 1/2 pound.

Rumor has it that the Koffee Klatch (409 S. 8th) has been serving their "cultural coffee" longer than any other place in town. They've recently (last May) changed ownership, according to Laura, kitchen manager. She mentioned that they are emphasizing the full menu of breakfast, lunch and dinner items as well as premium bottled beer, fresh brewed coffee, retail beans and espresso drinks.

The Klassic will be hosting dinner theater Sept. 23 to October 17. They also host a monthly poetry reading, live music on weekends and always have the work of local artists on display.

Christina's Bakery (5th and Main) isn't just a bakery anymore. Christina's has an espresso bar and cappuccino bar, AND draws in the ladies from 11:30 to 2 p.m. The menu consists of fresh, authentic Mexican food selections. And you can always enjoy your coffee with their Sunday Brunch.

Now I know you are familiar with Moe's Java's three locations (one being 570 W. Main). Moe's sells T-shirts (JUST BREW IT), hats, mugs and cheesecakes. The success of Moe's has allowed it to become the first local espresso to expand into franchise. If you can always enjoy your coffee with their Sunday Brunch.

Fashion flesh: Tattoos color music scene

Robert DiNiro's illustrated body in "Cape Fear" might make your skin crawl, but local musicians and tattoo artists so cool they will make you shiver.

Tattooing has always been hip, but it has reached a new level of hipness. Next time you're hanging out at a rock concert, look around you, and you'll find pictures really are worth a thousand words.

Troy Viereck, Boise. The formerly misspelled Paperchick Net, has tattoos that range from whimsical to sentimental. The City beer logo decorates part of his left arm, and a scorpion graces the left side of his leg. Troy Viereck says tattooing is something he has done for years.

Local Color

friend who died of AIDS with a Japanese symbol that means friendship. Some of his friends wear the same tattoos. He's also a BSU student and bassist in the Diet Fishermen, wears colorful, light-hearted tattoos. He'll illustrate this chapter's tattoo and you'll find pictures really are worth a thousand words.

Glen Newkirk, Diet Fishermen drummer, has tattoos of snakes and skulls and also has -Novem- American artwork on his back.

Graveltruck bassist J.R. Olson uses his body as a cultural playground. He has a tattoo of St. Francis of Assisi on his back, and a circle of flowers on his side. It is the fish from the most Puppets album Out of My Way.

Another Graveltruck member, drummer Jake Hite, has a tattoo of a bird -wiggling toward his ear.

N. 5th) is just six weeks old and has been transplanted from Seattle.

The Flying M (230 N. 5th) is just six weeks old and has been transplanted from Seattle.

The Flying M (230 N. 5th) is just six weeks old and has been transplanted from Seattle.

The Flying M (230 N. 5th) is just six weeks old and has been transplanted from Seattle.

The Flying M (230 N. 5th) is just six weeks old and has been transplanted from Seattle.
The finalists are coming

Before you do anything else, pull out the center eight pages of this newspaper. The Arbiter has devoted this center section to profiles on and interviews with the five finalists for the BSU presidency. We decided that simply asking around for compliments and dirt on all of them wasn’t enough. In addition, we prepared 18 standard questions and faxed them to each of the candidates. Buried in some of those answers are surprisingly revealing responses. How they responded was almost as interesting. John Hutchinson was the first to respond, in writing, with a 15-foot continuous fax of detailed answers. Charles Ruch had reviewed the questions carefully and, after an error on our part caused us to interview him twice, a very busy Ruch answered quickly and concisely. Joseph Cox wanted so much to talk that his taped interview—dense with the metaphorical storytelling he is famous for in Oregon—ran well over 50 minutes. Every candidate was courteous, eager and forgiving. One person conducting all five interviews would be hard-pressed to pick just one president. Turn the page to see what we mean...
Ashland’s local hero

Cox: SOSC president gets high marks for one-person, personal style
Rick Overton
Editor-in-chief

Talking with people in Ashland, Ore., about Joseph Cox’s candidacy for BSU president, it’s easy to see why the other party would let him run. The interests of the party and the community are so far apart that to call them an aloof ivory tower is ludicrous.
3. Did you participate in intercollegiate athletics or competitions of any kind?
C: No, unless you count a broken leg.
4. Why is the presidency at Boise State an ideal position?
C: Boise is not unique in that sense. What is the level of state scholarship? The way I believe. If that state funding does not raise tuition dramatically. I think that it’s important. My basic belief is that I am a public education advocate. 5. For a university president to be effective, do you feel there should be a smoking ban on campus? C: I smoke a pipe occasionally, and it doesn’t bother me to walk outside to do it. I could be smoking in the classroom, and the president would not be able to keep me out. I’ve always asked, with my colleagues, to teach for a practical reason: It keeps the classroom clean. 16. What have you learned in your years as academic vice president that made you a better candidate for this position?
C: Cox has grown to a position of respect in the Oregon academic community. Mark Gregory, president of the SOSC student body, says that he encounters people throughout the state calling him in one day and saying, "Listen! You’ve been shooting off your mouth about students in this college," and I’m going to make you the dean," I said, "No, you’re not," and we went on from there.

Dr. Joseph Cox, president Southern Oregon State College

1. What is the ideal relationship between The Southern Oregon State College and the community?
C: Part of the president’s responsibility is to create a symbiotic relationship between the university and the community because if one prospers, the other prospers. The identity of the university is so intricately intertwined, that the university is just as ivory tower is ludicrous.
2. What is the ideal relationship between a university president and the local community?
C: There’s a certain amount of entanglement that goes along with that, but, a live in social security, it’s my imagination I dream of that kind of luxury. Honestly, if the institution had to choose one day to programatically, or institutionally, because I am a public education advocate. 6. Do you feel that the classic liberal arts model for public universities should be replaced by the more current, "multiversity" model?
C: BSU is not a liberal arts university. It’s a comprehensive university, both. I think it’s important to have a comprehensive public ministerial education, education, whether it’s preparing something, somewhere, from the arts to sciences, whatever, the foundation has to be a solid liberal arts foundation in the first two years. What the first two years ought to do is to expose all of us to the whole range of what man’s learned, to the extent we can, across the sciences, the arts, humanities. On that you build professional and pre-professional programs.
7. What should be the central defining principle behind a university’s enrollment cap, or core academic requirements?
C: The central defining principle behind the cap is the same as the one that I’ve mentioned. 8. How many years did you spend in the classroom?
C: Thirty, I’ve always taught. I’ve always involved, wherever I’ve been, been allowed to join an academic department. And I’ve always asked, with my colleagues, to permit, to teach. I like to teach for a very practical reason: It keeps me in touch with why the university exists.
9. What was your disciplinary background?
C: History. Early American, Canada, and the history of technology.
10. Why did you change your administrative role?
C: I was a mortuary science administrator. It was 1970 when a brand new president at Eastern Washington University in Pullman was hired. "Listen! You’ve been shooting off your mouth about students in this college," and I’m going to make you the dean," I said, "No, you’re not," and we went on from there.
11. To what extent should student fees be raised to meet increasing costs in the face of state support?
C: The way to look at this is to try to ask the question, in a public policy forum, what’s the level of state support? Because that’s what the state subsidy is; it’s our role as state representatives. We’ve been forced in Oregon to raise tuition dramatically. If that state funding does not raise tuition dramatically, I think it’s important. My basic belief is that I am a public education advocate.
12. Idaho has four, four-year higher education institutions, each with a president who reports to the State Board of Education. What is the advantage of a state like Idaho to implement a chancellor system?
C: To assure you fairly I would probably have to know more about the current working relationships between presidents, and that would be an advantage or disadvantage to me as a candidate. Because I certainly believe that a system of the size of Idaho’s you can either operate with six or eight or 10 presidents or without. You’re not so large that you’ve got eight or nine or 10 presidents. We’re competitively driving the budget process, you know, and that’s the reality. One of the advantages of your current system is that it’s a good environment, and if you’re interested, you can come direct access to the Board as an advocate for the university.
13. On May 4, 1970, four students at Kent State University in Ohio were killed by National Guardsmen. The following day, 16 students were killed at Jackson State University. In Ohio, several students were killed by National Guardsmen. The following day, 16 students were killed at Jackson State University. In Ohio, several students were killed by National Guardsmen. The following day, 16 students were killed at Jackson State University. In Ohio, several students were killed by National Guardsmen.
14. What kind of car do you drive to work?
C: On most days, I drive a Ford Mustang. But on really windy days when the weather is really stormy, I drive a Mercedes. It’s got two windshields.
15. In the non-discrimination clause of a university’s statement of purpose is an appropriate place for specific language guaranteeing equal rights for alternative lifestyles?
C: I read an article where acting president Larry Seland had talked about the competition in an environment where diversity was the rule. We need both a public and private environment where diversity is an inclusive and not an exclusive principle. And that’s the principle, I don’t see how we can justify it. In a public forum, what’s the level of state support? Because that’s what the state subsidy is; it’s our role as state representatives. We’ve been forced in Oregon to raise tuition dramatically. If that state funding does not raise tuition dramatically, I think it’s important. My basic belief is that I am a public education advocate.
16. Idaho Gov. Cecil Andrus instituted a smoking ban on all state facilities. Should the university provide separate indoor lounge space for students who are smokers?
C: I smoke a pipe occasionally, and it doesn’t bother me to walk outside to do it, in my student union—which was built with student funds, and paid for by students too—with the support of our student government, we decided to put it outside, we got the ban, and we got the band, and we got the band, and we got the band, and we got the band, and we got the band.
17. What do you see as BSU’s greatest challenge for the future?
C: Cox has grown to a position of respect in the Oregon academic community. Mark Gregory, president of the SOSC student body, says that he encounters people throughout the state calling him in one day and saying, "Listen! You’ve been shooting off your mouth about students in this college," and I’m going to make you the dean," I said, "No, you’re not," and we went on from there.
18. National Guardsmen on campus. I spent most of that day and the days following waving to students with students—arguing with them, their parents, with the president, with their opponents and for the president. Cox has grown to a position of respect in the Oregon academic community. Mark Gregory, president of the SOSC student body, says that he encounters people throughout the state calling him in one day and saying, "Listen! You’ve been shooting off your mouth about students in this college," and I’m going to make you the dean," I said, "No, you’re not," and we went on from there.
19. In what ways has your experience as academic vice president that made you a better candidate for this position?
C: Cox has grown to a position of respect in the Oregon academic community. Mark Gregory, president of the SOSC student body, says that he encounters people throughout the state calling him in one day and saying, "Listen! You’ve been shooting off your mouth about students in this college," and I’m going to make you the dean," I said, "No, you’re not," and we went on from there.
20. What have you learned in your current position as academic vice president that made you a better candidate for this position?
C: Cox has grown to a position of respect in the Oregon academic community. Mark Gregory, president of the SOSC student body, says that he encounters people throughout the state calling him in one day and saying, "Listen! You’ve been shooting off your mouth about students in this college," and I’m going to make you the dean," I said, "No, you’re not," and we went on from there.

Cox profile continued on page 78
Expert at reaching out

Dobney: Proud of work done to strengthen WSU branch campuses

Washington State University

Kathleen Kruller
Feature Writer

Dobney is currently vice-provost for extended university services at WSU, and has been there for many years. He is well respected by the faculty and students for his dedication to the university and its students.

One of the most important aspects of Dobney's work at WSU is his ability to reach out to different communities and find ways to strengthen the university's relationships with them. He has been successful in doing this, and the university has benefitted greatly from these efforts.

Dobney has been a strong supporter of the university's branch campuses, and has worked hard to ensure that they are well funded and supported. He has also been instrumental in the development of the university's online courses and resources.

Dobney is a true leader, and his commitment to the university and its students is unmatched. His dedication to the university's success is truly inspiring, and he is a true asset to Washington State University.
Grown-up administrator

Glennen: students and staff give him high marks

Robert Glennen, provost
Emporia State University

Dr. Glennen has served under presidents at both universities. He is currently vice president of administration and chief executive officer at Western Kentucky University. Glennen has been president of Brevard College in North Carolina.

Dr. Glennen has served under presidents at both universities. He is currently vice president of administration and chief executive officer at Western Kentucky University. Glennen has been president of Brevard College in North Carolina.

Dr. Glennen has served under presidents at both universities. He is currently vice president of administration and chief executive officer at Western Kentucky University. Glennen has been president of Brevard College in North Carolina.

Dr. Glennen has served under presidents at both universities. He is currently vice president of administration and chief executive officer at Western Kentucky University. Glennen has been president of Brevard College in North Carolina.

Dr. Glennen has served under presidents at both universities. He is currently vice president of administration and chief executive officer at Western Kentucky University. Glennen has been president of Brevard College in North Carolina.

Dr. Glennen has served under presidents at both universities. He is currently vice president of administration and chief executive officer at Western Kentucky University. Glennen has been president of Brevard College in North Carolina.

Dr. Glennen has served under presidents at both universities. He is currently vice president of administration and chief executive officer at Western Kentucky University. Glennen has been president of Brevard College in North Carolina.

Dr. Glennen has served under presidents at both universities. He is currently vice president of administration and chief executive officer at Western Kentucky University. Glennen has been president of Brevard College in North Carolina.

Dr. Glennen has served under presidents at both universities. He is currently vice president of administration and chief executive officer at Western Kentucky University. Glennen has been president of Brevard College in North Carolina.

Dr. Glennen has served under presidents at both universities. He is currently vice president of administration and chief executive officer at Western Kentucky University. Glennen has been president of Brevard College in North Carolina.

Dr. Glennen has served under presidents at both universities. He is currently vice president of administration and chief executive officer at Western Kentucky University. Glennen has been president of Brevard College in North Carolina.
Hutchinson: Montana will lose a strong leader if he comes to BSU

Dawn Kramer News Editor

John Hutchinson, Commissioner of Higher Education in the State of Montana, says he may have what BSU is lacking in a new president. Hutchinson, a former academic vice president at ISU, has most recently been on the job in Idaho for three years. He was the president at Boise State University from 1973-86. He is the current president of the Association of

Public and Land grant Uiversi-ties.

3. Did you participate in intercollegiate athletics? If so, what kind? If not, why?

H: I was not involved in any intercollegiate athletics. I did participate in intramural and recreational athletics. I was on the University of Idaho's intramural basketball team during my freshman and sophomore years.

4. Why is the presidency at Boise State University better than the one you already hold?

H: I don't know why that is. The September interview is a two-way street; you are looking for me and I will be looking at BSU. I am intrigued by the BSU presidency because I believe there may be a match between what BSU needs and what I may be able to offer. BSU is an institution with enormous potential in a rather ethnically mixed campus community. I have learned a great deal in my current job, but I am not intimately a part of a scholarly community.

5. For a university president to be effective, do you feel there should be a support staff for social interactions and maintaining housing, such as a live-in assistant?

H: The modern presidency is very complex and there are huge demands on the president's time. Social functions are an important part of building a culture on campus, particularly in enrolling students with the public, and securing private funds. The president needs the assistance of the student body. So the president's home is the site of many functions that may or may not be linked to his position. Therefore, there is a need for a live-in assistant.

6. How many years did you spend in the classroom?

H: I was a graduate assistant, teaching at least one lab or write-up course per semester at BSU during the seven years I was in the graduate school from 1967 to 1973.

7. What is the most important aspect of the role of the president that you think is critical?

H: The role of the president is to be the symbolic leader of the university and to interact with external publics, effective, influential and in a way that will help to create campuses colleges; others emerged in a national and international context. Many began as Normal schools; some enjoyed serving the campus in an academic vice presidency. The university president must concern himself with universal experiences common to all people. Boyer offered seven broad subject areas that fulfill these requirements: Language — the crucible of learning; Activism — the social and political context; Arts — the aesthetic dimension; Heritages — the living past; Institutions — the social work; Nature — the natural environment; Work — the value of vocation, and Identity — the societal context. This may or may not be an appropriate set of career courses for BSU. I think it's a question of emphasis, for example, that there is no requirement in Boyer's list to learn the manipulation of symbols through coursework in mathematics. To a considerable degree, the core should be a reflection of the institution and its mission. The denominator of the core is fundamentally a faculty matter and should be at the heart of the faculty's collective action.

8. Why did you leave your position at ISU?

H: I went to Boise State University in 1973 after being nominated by the Board of Regents to replace the university president who was retiring. The university was in a transition between BSU needs at ISU, and I am not sure of the role of the faculty member in the administration.
A Hands-on man

Ruch: known as the backbone of the university

Lynn Owens-Wright
Feature Writer

BSU Presidential finalist
Charles Ruch, of Virginia, is looking to be a president in the Big South Conference. Not only has he made it in the final running at the BSU campus—but also with the University of Arkansas.

Ruch received his Ph.D. from Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill. He's currently the provost and vice president for academic affairs at Virginia Commonwealth University in Richmond, Va., and is the highest paid of the five candidates with a salary of $115,667. The university, which includes a medical school, has approximately 23,000 students and is one of the nation's largest public universities, much like BSU.

"VCU and BSU share a lot in common. They're both in the state capital, and their primary agenda is to serve the urban community," said Ruch.

Ruch is described by VCU students and faculty as a "hands-on" man who is very one-on-one with people, a good listener and very visible around the campus.

"The fact is Charles Ruch is the backbone of the university," said VCU student Jason Bonardi. "If there is something bad that gets done, Ruch is involved in VCU's student government, the newspaper, and also works in Ruch's office.

"He's always early to work...but a lot of mornings aren't happening without Mr. Ruch," said Bonardi.

Ruch regularly calls on different student organizations to have breakfast, and sometimes lunch. The meetings are led to him to form committees responsible for researching salary comparisons between male and female faculty. The results led to an increase in salary for female faculty members at VCU and have sparked the tempers of some male faculty members.

Dr. Jack Haberstrouh of the Virginia Commonwealth University Department of Education his current post that makes him a candidate for this position?

"I'm one of the fortunate folk that my education has taught me that they require a study in the dimension of what humanities and sciences. Studies of the environment of the natural sciences as well as the physical and social sciences—this I think is most appropriate.

7. What should be the central defining principle of a university? What is the cause, or core academic requirements?

R: I respect that would emerge out of a dialogue with the faculty who think are the most appropriate to set the curriculum. If you're looking for the institution that is committed to excellence, that would require a study in the dimension of what humanities and sciences. Studies of the environment of the natural sciences as well as the physical and social sciences—this I think is most appropriate.

8. How many years did you spend in the classroom as a full-time teacher? R: I'm in the classroom—I teach now.

9. Why do you think the presidency at Boise State University is better than the one you already hold?

"I don't hold a presidency now—I'm a provost. If it's an opportunity to hold a major leadership position in a major university, that would be great."

10. For a university president to be effective, do you feel there should be a strong emphasis on financial planning and maintaining housing, such as a live-in social secretary?

"I think there's more need for a strong emphasis on financial planning and maintaining housing, such as a live-in social secretary."

11. To what extent should student fees be used to increase costs in the state of Idaho?

"I think that's one of the key issues for higher education in this decade, and how institutions begin to respond to that will differ from institution to institution, depending on the nature of the institution and the resources it has to operate. There are no easy answers and it is not unique to Boise State, including the one I am at now.

12. Idaho has four, four-year higher education institutions, each with a president who reports to the State Board of Education. Is it advantageous for a state like Idaho to implement a chancellor system?

"I have no way of knowing from 3,000 miles away."

13. On May 4, 1970, four students at Kent State University in Ohio were killed by National Guardsmen. The following day protests across the country involved students shouting down hundreds of universities. What were you doing on May 4, 1970?

"I was at the University of Pittsburgh, but, I was doing that day that I don't remember.

14. Why did you change your car to a truck?

"R: A Little Buck.

15. In the discrimination clause of a university's statement of policy, is there a specific language guaranteeing equal rights for alternative lifestyles?

"R: Good question. I don't know if the one of the federally funded institutions, I don't know about the Idaho laws to know how and where those kind of clauses would most appropriately fit."

16. Idaho Gov. Cecil Andrus instituted a smoking ban in all state facilities. Should the university provide a smoking space for people who smoke?

"R: I don't know about that, but I do know that when you have a building and they need on the campus. I work in a state that has a two-grandiose, no smoking in public buildings but also what if the rest of the building so request that we have to request that those kind of requests."

17. To what extent should student fees be used to increase costs in the state of Idaho?

"I think that's one of the key issues for higher education in this decade, and how institutions begin to respond to that will differ from institution to institution, depending on the nature of the institution and the resources it has to operate. There are no easy answers and it is not unique to Boise State, including the one I am at now.

18. What have you learned in your career that makes you a better candidate for this position?

"R: I don't know if it makes me a better candidate. Part of that is for others to find that, as an example, my experience in a large complex university and 30 years experience with universities has taught me that we are wonderful complex and rich institution. That's probably the best thing that we are enjoying exciting places to exercise leadership, and I guess the one thing I could never do is to cross someone anymore. There is just something exciting going on all the time."

September 15, 1992

Arbiter 6 B

President Search Extra

Charles Ruch, provost Virginia Commonwealth University

One male faculty member of the search committee department has filed a discrimination action against Ruch and the university. He was not available for comment.

Ruch profile continued on page 7
I:;?\;~
[14x604]r
[15x555]f'??i:said.
[15x534]l:.;.l~gar~ their dealings with [21x545]~,h~
[24x1025]page4B
[24x987]• Glennen profile
[24x977]at ESU, but was aware that [25x987]manypeoplethinkthat"when [28x1080]Profilescontinued...
[30x788]getsthefeelingfromher
[34x399]He took on minor administrativerolesand sayshefound he [35x707]ontlnued from [38x483]roachable from a student's [39x504]ent Stuart Morgan says [40x452]bney highly.
[42x320]Dobney began his career at [44x106]currentpost that makesyoua'better [52x575]has drawnlittlecriticism;infact,itisdifficultto [58x115]your [59x1093]continued from [546x1019]in the field of higher educa-[547x989]commitment to the academic [548x978]purpose of the university and [548x957]Dr. Michael P. Malone, president of Towson State in Maryland.
[550x915]portant."
[551x228]three [551x885]eral move into a presidential [551x875]position, not a step down," [553x854] general move into a presidential [553x802]and taught for ten years. He [554x791]holds Ph.D. and a masters de-[554x781]grees
[554x781]from The University of [556x666]ied higher education in Mon-[557x656]tana, said Hutchinson would [559x636]However, Mudd said he would [559x523]missioner."
[600x350]active administrator, you must [602x906]"The commissioners office [606x697]Jack Mudd, chairman of the [609x606]communicator, pleas-
[610x616]thoughtful,
[615x211]desires.
[615x219]with
[615x185]experi-
[625x228]assure
[626x1133]78
[634x219]with
[638x185]experi-
[646x1152].....,,'1
[689x241]-- [727x108]1
[728x63]!!

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

President Search Extra

September 15, 1992

To establish and publish academic credentials. That is a porter for the campus.

Hutchinson Q & A

continued from page 58

much like Idaho's to a commissioner, from which women increased 1,200 percent. It is not a step toward

13. On May 5, 1970, four students at Kent State University in Ohio were killed by National Guardsmen.

The following forty, protests across the nation, students shutting down hundreds of universities. Why you doing on May 5, 1970?

I: I was a graduate student completing the first year of my master's program at Purdue University. On May 5, there was a rally on the quadrangle near John Purdue's grave in support of the Kent State students. There were speakers, songs, and prayers by campus clergy. The rally was one of the most moving events great last night. I attended the rally. My wife was a theater student at KSU at the time.

14. What kind of car do you drive to work?

Most of the time I drive a 1990 red Toyota Corolla. Sometimes I will let someone else drive me, but since she has more transportation in availability for all of our wild kids, she decided to drive the van.

15. In the same question class of a university's statement of purpose an appropriate place for specific language guaranteeing equal rights for alternativeledge?

Yes, it is important to provide equal rights for all students to make the campus a teen of tolerance and security where the dignity of every human being is respected. This documents, this broad principle of tolerance should be radical to include those with alternative lifestyles, not just binding campus policies when these same people do not enjoy such protection in federal and state laws.

instilled a smoking ban in all state university campuses. What would you provide separate doctors and health care for people who smoke?

If I am not sure of the nature of the situation, I would reach proclamation with the fine of law, and, as a result, I would have it voided if the ban does not have the fine of law and if there is an ability to reverse indoor smoking. I would oppose it.

However, designating smoking-free area, I would hold campus public hearings much like neighborhood town meetings and add a special campus police on the issue.

17. What do you see as BSU's biggest problem at this point?

I can't let go of an ugly picture of myself. I feel both startled and reassured by what the five finalists had been women. Hmm. I imagine the protests, the editorials, the anger, and the possible violence that might result from such. But then, women would voice resentment over the obvious bias of the decision committee and the blatant gender imbalance in the final lineup. Universities increase to cope with vandalism. Wow.

Somehow, my private game
of believe me isn't helping:
I still feel oppressed, disgusted.

I try another approach. I wonder what gender inquality does to me? Hmm. Do men often experience the opposite of dis/gust? Are their salivary fluids with hormone-level

winds that crack and sometimes break their marks? In patriarchy, are men's Selves over-filled with illusions of power? In the tense, heated atmosphere of male relations, do they feel pres-sent, subtle pressure to compete, but then deny it, sensing emotion in social contextualization, other ly, slowly, deeply feel needy for a different kind of power that

that which is socialized to them, as males, to wield over others.

Although the men's movement is in its infancy (the fac-

architects are at least, the dominate form of power)

secretly, I feel needy for

that which is socialized to me, as a woman, to wield over other males.

That which is socialized to

the male, to wield over other females.

This movement returns to me. He'll need it.) that the selection of BSU's women applied for the tasks. Apparently, it is

The reaction is

that feminism does not advocate the repatriarchy.

The
col-

as

men of high status seldom

that women as substrates of

riage;

other, non-

ment returns to me. He'll need it.) that the selection of BSU's women applied for the tasks. Apparently, it is

The reaction is

that feminism does not advocate the repatriarchy.

The
col-

as

men of high status seldom

that women as substrates of

riage;

other, non-

men feel both startled and reas-

comment of BSU president for the next 20 years.

The

University

Committee.

men feel both startled and reas-

comment of BSU president for the next 20 years.

The

University

Committee.

men feel both startled and reas-

comment of BSU president for the next 20 years.

The

University

Committee.

men feel both startled and reas-

comment of BSU president for the next 20 years.

The

University

Committee.

men feel both startled and reas-

comment of BSU president for the next 20 years.

The

University

Committee.

men feel both startled and reas-

comment of BSU president for the next 20 years.

The

University

Committee.

men feel both startled and reas-

comment of BSU president for

the next 20 years.
Wyoming artists collect talent in show

This is the first of two articles dealing with the exhibit "Dialogue and Expression: Eight from Wyoming." Part two appears next week.

Phil Johnson
Culture Writer

"Charles," said Cordelia, "Modern Art is all look, isn't it?" "Great book," I replied. "Oh, I'm so glad. I had an argument with one of our nuns and she said we shouldn't try and criticize what we didn't understand. Now I shall tell her I have it straight from a real artist, and smile at her.

— Evelyn Waugh, Brideshead Revisited

Evelyn Waugh hated modernism. He saw it as an insidious culture where the traditions and manners of Augustan England; and to this end, its art was so much gonorrhreal disease. He saw it as an insidious culture where the traditions and manners of Augustan England; and to this end, its art was so much gonorrhreal disease. He saw it as an insidious culture where the traditions and manners of Augustan England; and to this end, its art was so much gonorrhreal disease.

I do not share this sentiment. I view modernism as the high-watermark of a culture where the individual wakking. A cultural Serengeti where proud lions and lionesses like Picasso, Pollock and O'Keeffe, each carved out a chunk of territory according to Darwinian jungle-law and made it theirs. It is postmodernism which I loathe.

Postmodernists are hyenas, who taunt and molest the old lions of modernism for the bloody carcass of art history. They are scavengers like Jeff Koons, and Sherrie Levine, who scavenge art history for techniques and images not their own. One thing I do share with them, however, is a disdain for the postmodern condition.

Call it the information age, late consumer capitalism, monetarism without a cause, what have you; any situation in which mass carnage and sex and violence and death are the manifestations of an authentic self. That is, their subject matter is the artist in his or her struggle to create art. These paintings can be seen as plays in which the dialogue occurs solely between artist and artwork.

The sculptural works of Lynne Hull and Linda L. Ryan seem to share a quality of postmodernism. Postmodernism was the antibacterial extension of minimalist sculpture and its 'less is more' attitude. One of the nice qualities of postmodernism was its emphasis on humanity via craft; the organic manipulation of materials by a human being as a rejection of the cool impersonal look of minimalism.

This exhibition, Dialogue and Expression: Eight from Wyoming, at the Boise State University Gallery of Art in the Liberal Arts Building, is an extremely exciting show. It is energetic, eclectic, and the gallery staff did a first-rate job presenting it. I highly recommend this show.

Lyssie Hull's "Raptor Roost L.2-" are stripped of meaning and delivered as entertainment and marketing stratagems is not a pretty scene. It is the postmodernists' methods, not their gripes, with which I disagree.

The artists in this exhibition have two things in common. First, they are all from Wyoming; the birthplace of Jackson Pollock, that hard-drinker, fine-fighter, bigger than life, existentialist cowboy, who, after dead behind the wheel of a green Oldsmobile.

Secondly, they are all postmodernists by birthright. Not all are postmodern in their aims and methods, however. As a group, they enjoy the compromising position of having one foot on the platform and the other foot on the train. Among those designating themselves postmodernists is Deborah Throp Wilson. Wilson's canvases and works on paper are large planes of angularly overlapping color, similar to the Ocean Park paintings of Richard Diebenkorn, but lacking their scale.

Like the work of Diebenkorn, these paintings are the manifestations of an authentic self. That is, their subject matter is the artist in his or her struggle to create art. These paintings can be seen as plays in which the dialogue occurs solely between artist and artwork.

The sculptural works of Lynne Hull and Linda L. Ryan seem to share a quality of postmodernism. Postmodernism was the antibacterial extension of minimalist sculpture and its 'less is more' attitude. One of the nice qualities of postmodernism was its emphasis on humanity via craft; the organic manipulation of materials by a human being as a rejection of the cool impersonal look of minimalism.

This exhibition, Dialogue and Expression: Eight from Wyoming, at the Boise State University Gallery of Art in the Liberal Arts Building, is an extremely exciting show. It is energetic, eclectic, and the gallery staff did a first-rate job presenting it. I highly recommend this show.

Liner notes

Lock, Stock & Barrel
(4705 Emerald, open 8 p.m. - midnight, ages 21 and over.)
Tuesday-Saturday: Tags & Koffee Klatsch
(109 S. 6th, open 8 p.m. - 2 a.m., ages 21 and over.)
(517 W. Main, doors open at 9 p.m.)
Sun. Sept. 17: Rebecca Scott at 8 p.m.
Wed. Sept. 20: Peggy Ford at 9 p.m.
Sat. Sept. 23: David Sanistevan at noon, and Ned Eave at 9 p.m.
Sun. Sept. 24: Bill Coffey at noon
Tom Grainger's
(109 S. 6th, open 8 p.m. - 2 a.m., ages 21 and over.)
Sept. 16-19: Kathy Miller Band
Grainger's Basement
(107 S. 6th, open 8:30 p.m. to 2 a.m., ages 21 and over.)
Sept. 16-19: Kathy Miller Band
Hannah's
(622 W. Main, open 3 p.m. on weekdays, 5 p.m. weekends, ages 21 and over. Wed. is ladies nights.)
Dino's
(4802 W. Emerald, doors open at 9 p.m., ages 21 and over.)
Sept. 7 - 19: Passion.
The Cactus Bar
(577 W. Main, doors open at 9 p.m., ages 21 and over.)
Mon. and Thurs. are open mic nights.
Crazy Horse (66th & Main Sts, doors open at 9 p.m., all ages)
Fri. Sept. 15: Black Happy and B Dampness.
Sat. Sept. 19: Dirt Road Night.
7 League Boots, and Goodfriend.
All shows $5 at the door.
Gravel Truck
Tuesday Sept. 22: Nuclear Rave Party (621 W. Main, doors open at 8 p.m.)
The Cactus Bar
September 15, 1992
TIAA-CREF

IRONICALLY, THE TIME TO START SAVING FOR RETIREMENT IS WHEN IT LOOKS LIKE YOU CAN LEAST AFFORD IT.

Can't afford to save for retirement? The truth is, you can't afford not to. Not when you realize that your retirement can last 20 to 30 years or more. You'll want to live at least as comfortably then as you do now. And that takes planning.

By starting to save now, you can take advantage of tax-deferral and give your money time to compound and grow. Consider this: set aside just $100 each month.

Even if you're not counting the years to retirement, you can count on TIAA-CREF to help you build the future you deserve— with flexible retirement and tax-deferred annuity plans, a diverse portfolio of investment choices, and a record of personal service that spans 75 years.

Over a million people in education and research put TIAA-CREF at the top of their list for retirement planning. Why not join them?

Call today and learn how simple it is to build a secure tomorrow when you have time and TIAA-CREF working on your side.

Start planning your future.
Call our Enrollment Hotline 1-800-842-2888.
Teen beat
Bad 4 Good
Refugee
Chereen Myers
Culture Editor
Ah, kids these days. If you think kids turn their stereos up too loud, wait 'til you arm them with guitars, drums and enough electricity to light up all of Boise.
Bad 4 Good is a teenage metal band from hell. Their debut album, Refuge, was released this month.
The youngest member, guitarist Thomas McRocklin, was 11 years old when Refuge was recorded. The oldest member, frontman Danny Cooksey, is 16. Drummer Brooks Wackerman is 15, and bassist Zack Young is 14 (and the youngest ever to graduate from the Bass Institute of Technology). Again, "Rockin My Body" and James Young is 14 (and the youngest ever to graduate from the Bass Institute of Technology). Again, "Rockin My Body" and James Young is 14 (and the youngest ever to graduate from the Bass Institute of Technology).
Rock legend Steve Vai was impressed enough to produce their album, and the result is a heavy dose of metal mixed with plenty of testosterone. The lyrics are filled with teenage fantasy ("There's a devil in the angel, and I'm in need of a friend.").

Aged metal
Black Sabbath
Dehumanizer
Melanie Delan
Assistant Culture Editor
Black Sabbath turned an entire generation on to a new music form known as heavy metal, and now they're making a bid to entice a new generation with Dehumanizer.
After listening to Dehumanizer for the first time, you become immediately aware that even though metal has become a bit more polished, Black Sabbath has not sold out to today's corporate market. The lethargic music contained in Dehumanizer gets back to some heavy-metal basics that seem to have been forgotten.
Sabbath's heavy, skull-crushing guitars combined with an "in-your-face" rhythm section set the pace for one hard album. The topping on the cake is the growing lyrics of Ronnie James Dio.
"Holy Father Holy Ghost/Who's the one who hurt you most/ Rock the cradle when you cry/Scream another tale of Jack be nimble/Black Sabbath's Dehumanizer is a fast-paced stab at enterprising televangelists. Songs such as "Computer God," "Master of Insanity" and "Time Machine" take you on a trip of futuristic fantasy and modern-day corruption.
Although some of the younger generation might be skeptical, age has not slowed these guys down. Nor has it impaired the greatness of the Black Sabbath music legacy.
Bengals stun Broncos in final seconds

Scott Samples
Sports Editor

Although 22 seconds doesn’t seem like a long time, it was too long for the Boise State football team.

The Broncos, after scrapping back to score a touchdown, had the lead for the first time in last Saturday's game, needed their defense to hold off the Bengals for just 22 seconds more.

But the Bengals refused to lie down and die, and with just nine seconds left, BSU quarterback Paul Putnam laid a perfect pass into the hands of receiver Rommie Wheeler for the game-winning touchdown, handing the Broncos a 24-20 loss.

BSU free safety Lonnie Dorn, right, is one of the seniors in the league.

Senior Matt McLaughlin, from Caldwell, has never had to fire himself up for a game, and kicker Mike Dodd tacked on the extra point.

While Skip Hall began his tenure as the head-man of Boise State, he immediately planned to build a quality football team whose nucleus was a core of good Idaho players.

But there were skeptics.

Hall seems to be on his hand of the Bronco staff.

"The last 20 seconds were a frantic deal, and we had some unfortunate incidents go against us. The problem is those 20 seconds shouldn't have mattered.

The Broncos had several chances at scoring opportunities, but couldn't cash in on the two or three that they had, and then taking off in separate directions, in an attempt to confuse the defense. The defense looked confused, but Hall said it shouldn't have been a problem.

"We practice against all kinds of stuff like that," he said. "Unfortunately, a player will make a mistake and get out of position. Those things happen."

"The defense looked confused, but Hall said it shouldn't have been a problem."

"We've got a lot of inexperienced players, and they're trying to make our mistakes, so we have more players we can play," Hall said. "We've got to push them more experience, so we have more players that can play."

The Broncos now have to try to dig themselves out of a hole, regroup after a pair of tough losses, and get ready for a strong University of Portland team this week.

And with a young squad, Hall isn't really sure how his team will face the challenge.

"We're going to find out. Sometimes there's no way you can tell. A young team is going to respond," he said.

However, after talking with his players in the locker room after the game, Hall said he is optimistic.

"Really sense the guys want to do it (win) in the worst way," he said. "Now we have to go out and get the guys ready to play."

Idaho athletes fill spots

Editor's note: This is the second part of a travel feature on Idaho athletes playing for Boise State.

Corky Hansen
Sports Writer

When Skip Hall began his tenure as the head-man of Boise State football, he immediately planned to build a quality football team whose nucleus was a core of good Idaho players.

But there were skeptics.

Hall seems to be on his hand of the Bronco staff.

"The last 20 seconds were a frantic deal, and we had some unfortunate incidents go against us. The problem is those 20 seconds shouldn't have mattered.

The Broncos had several chances at scoring opportunities, but couldn't cash in on the two or three that they had, and then taking off in separate directions, in an attempt to confuse the defense. The defense looked confused, but Hall said it shouldn't have been a problem.

"We practice against all kinds of stuff like that," he said. "Unfortunately, a player will make a mistake and get out of position. Those things happen."

"The defense looked confused, but Hall said it shouldn't have been a problem."

"We've got a lot of inexperienced players, and they're trying to make our mistakes, so we have more players we can play," Hall said. "We've got to push them more experience, so we have more players that can play."

The Broncos now have to try to dig themselves out of a hole, regroup after a pair of tough losses, and get ready for a strong University of Portland team this week.

And with a young squad, Hall isn't really sure how his team will face the challenge.

"We're going to find out. Sometimes there's no way you can tell. A young team is going to respond," he said.

However, after talking with his players in the locker room after the game, Hall said he is optimistic.

"Really sense the guys want to do it (win) in the worst way," he said. "Now we have to go out and get the guys ready to play."

Cross country teams start seasons

Scott Samples
Sports Editor

The Boise State cross country team started its season by participating in the Montana State Invitational in Bozeman, Mont.

The men's squad placed sixth in the eight-team Invitational, with a total of 175 points. Host Montana State took top honors, scoring a low of 55. Tom Rodota was the top BSU finisher, placing 18th with a time of 27 minutes 01 seconds.

Teammate Richard Lee was close behind, coming in 21st at 27:08.

The women's team ended up fifth out of seven with a score of 119 points.

Joy Sprague was the top finisher for the Broncos, placing fifth with a time of 18:36. Cori Knoeller came in 15th at 18:54.

"We've got a lot of inexperienced players, and they're trying to make turns mak- ing their mistakes," Hall said. "We're trying to push them more experience, so we have more players that can play."

The Broncos now have to try to dig themselves out of a hole, regroup after a pair of tough losses, and get ready for a strong University of Portland team this week.

And with a young squad, Hall isn't really sure how his team will face the challenge.

"We're going to find out. Sometimes there's no way you can tell. A young team is going to respond," he said.

However, after talking with his players in the locker room after the game, Hall said he is optimistic.

"Really sense the guys want to do it (win) in the worst way," he said. "Now we have to go out and get the guys ready to play."

BSU hopes hard schedule will help team build

Scott Samples
Sports Editor

When Boise State volleyball coach Darlene Pharmer created her team's schedule this year, she knew it wasn't going to be an easy season.

"It's a tough schedule, so I had to fire myself up for the fact that we might not have a winning record," she said.

But there is a purpose behind the grueling schedule, which features strong teams like Washington State and Oregon.

Pharmer, in her 14th year as the Broncos' head coach, is laying the foundation for a team that could become a national threat.

And you don't do that by playing cream puff opponents.

"I could have scheduled to get a winning record, or I could have scheduled to build up a program," Pharmer said. "We want to build up a program."

So BSU has started its season with three consecutive tournaments with teams that will challenge the Broncos.

And so far things aren't going bad at all.

The Broncos returned from the two-day Gonzaga Invitational with a second place finish under their belt, going 1-2 in the tournament.

Boise State won the first game of the Invitational on Friday, knocking off the Gonzaga team in three sets.

"We were at one of our all-time best against Gonzaga," Pharmer said. "That was a great win in front of about 800 pretty loyal Gonzaga fans."

The win was an emotional high for the team, and looked like the team that Pharmer would like to have all the time.

"It's what you hope to see every match. It was exciting to watch this group of women just jump up and down and play uninhibited," she said.

Things didn't go as well for Boise State on Saturday, as they dropped a pair of matches. The Broncos lost to Wyoming in four, and then fell to Oregon, which also needed four games to beat them.

"On Saturday we went down to what you'd call a normal level," Pharmer said. "We worked hard and competed hard, but we weren't at our same emotional level."

Part of the problem was because of an injury to starting setter Yvette Ybarra, who was hobbled with a foot problem.

Pharmer said she wasn't sure how bad the injury was yet, but the team missed Ybarra's defensive expertise.

Outside hitter Tina Harris continued to play well for the Broncos, as she was named to all-tournament team for the second time in a row.

The 6 foot senior was also picked for the Washington State Classic all-tournament team the week before.

While the Broncos' record has dipped below .500 at 3-4, Pharmer said she's not all that concerned about it. She has a bigger picture in mind.

"I look at it even more in long term—not just what happens this year, but next year and every year after that," she said. "We're looking to enhance our program by playing against better teams."

And it seems to be working.

"I saw how much closer we are as a team, and how much more confidence we've had than in the past," Pharmer said.
Monk from Capital High School. Several universities showed interest in Monk out of Capital—including Washington, State and Idaho State—but to the foot 1, 231-pound junior it never really was a question about where he’d be playing collegiate football. Monk cited the strong Bronco football program, its facilities and coaching staff, and the desire to honor his parents as factors in his decision to stay in Boise.

Kris and any Monk haven’t missed their son in action since he began playing at the age of nine.

Boise State has also been benefited by players they didn’t recruit, but have nevertheless found a spot of their own on the blue turf. The BSU coaching staff has a lot to do with the success of walk-on players.

“We encourage that type of player to come into our program,” said Hall, who tries to make walking onto the team by their own merits a possibility for potential stars. “A lot of them turn out to be very good players.

Boise State, which has an illustrious history of players who have walked onto the team and into the record books, includes starters wide-receiver Mike Wilson, center Jeff Pitman and defensive end Greg Sabala.

Wilson, from Nampa, is a prime example of walk-on success. Wilson, who joined the team in 1989, was named by his teammates the team’s most valuable offensive player last season, compiling 768 yards on 38 receptions.

Wilson was originally recruited by BSU and other schools for baseball as well as football, but had decided to attend elsewhere. When his plans were changed he returned to Boise, and has since turned into one of the Broncos’ most dangerous offensive weapons.

“If a good being the hometown boy, I guess,” said Willson, admitting that he sometimes feels extra pressure to please his followers.

More familiar with the Bronco team, local fans will want to see local talent play rather than a squad made up of mostly players from other parts of the country.

“It brings interest from the community,” said Hall of sporting a combination Idahoan and non-Idahoan players.

McLaughlin tends to agree, saying that in Caldwell there are current Bronco football fans who never would have taken an interest in the team without knowing personally one of its players. Among them are his parents, who, not having ever attended a game at Bronco stadium before 1988, will be season ticket holders even after McLaughlin graduates.

ASBSU and SPB need you!

We are looking for a few good people to fill paid positions in the ASBSU and Student Programs Board.

SPB Family Activities
SPP Lectures
BSU Student Lobbyist
ASBSU Public Relations Director

We also have committee openings...you want paid, but you help university policy...fun to be had by all...

Academic Standards
Alumni Board of Directors
Commencement
Financial Advisory
Honors Program
Martin Luther King Jr. Human Rights
Multicultural
Spec Board
Student Health Advisory
Racism and Tolerance
University Accessibility
University Information Media
Communication Standard
Affirmative Action
Arts Council
Curriculum
Projects and Events
Intramural and Campus Recreation
Posting Advisory
SUB Board of Governors

For more information, call 208-282-3982 or stop by our office in the Student Center, Suite 236.

Make the Grade

Cliffs StudyWare course reviews are a dynamic new way to study for midterms and finals.

- Interactive computer software
- Work at your own pace
- Hundreds of on-screen questions
- Answer explanations
- Glossary, hints, graphs and figures
- Immediate feedback

HISTORY + CALCULUS + CHEMISTRY + ECONOMICS + PHYSICS + STATISTICS

Cliffs StudyWare

The Bookstore
Boise State University

September 15, 1992
I know it's so ridiculous. If I don't call my parents every Sunday at exactly 5 o'clock, they think I was kidnapped by aliens, or something. Anyway, one Sunday me and Mark, we decide to take-off and check out the city. So we're hanging out and I look at my watch. 5 o'clock. Alright, so my calling card and I head down to the local pool hall. (Which I happen to know has a payphone.)

And I tell the folks the Martians send their best.

no matter where you happen to be, the AT&T Calling Card can take you home.

It's also the least expensive way to call state-to-state on AT&T, when you can't dial direct. With the new AT&T Call and Save Plan, you'll get special discounts on AT&T Calling Card calls.*

And once you have your card, you'll never need to apply for another.

If you get your Calling Card now, your first call will be free. And you'll become a member of AT&T Student Saver Plus, a program of products and services that saves students time and money.

All of which makes the AT&T Calling Card out of this world.

To get an AT&T Calling Card for off-campus calling, call 1800 634-0471 Ext. 850.

* All calls to 1-800 numbers are free. Calls to 1-800 numbers are only part of the new Call and Save Plan. For a complete listing of all AT&T Calling Card numbers, call 1-800 634-0471 Ext. 850.

 Free first call is for calls between AT&T Calling Card numbers on AT&T, and counts toward your monthly free calls as listed in the current AT&T Calling Card numbers.
Classified

FINANCIAL AID & WORKSHIP OPPORTUNITIES

Walk-in appointments to the Financial Aid office will be held on September 4th and 24th from 3:00-5:00 pm. Please bring all necessary paperwork with you to discuss your financial aid options.

ATTENTION ALL Undergraduate & Graduate Students: The Q A 281 Student Financial Services Office is now located in Suite 136, South Hall.

302. FREE Information: 24-hour Hotline, 801-383-7676 Copyright IDHJC.

EARN EXTRA INCOME Earn $200-$400 weekly mailing travel brochures. For information send a stamped addressed envelope to: Box C, P.O. Box 2290, Miami, FL 33161.

CRUISE SHIPS NOW HIRING! Every winter, month or month with world travel! Contact Career Employment for an interview and the necessary information. For employment program call 1-800-

people needs

They may be real, really attractive, thirty-someth- ing, two adults or just one over 50. Meet the person you seek. Box 39.

SW: White female, 19, attractive, seeks to meet a male. Must be earth conscious, beautiful inside and out, compassionate, deeply spiritual and sensitive. Knowledge in the field of architecture, crystals and spirituality preferred. I am tired of superficial relationships and need someone who truly shares my interests. Box 14.

GM: Student, attractive, seeks a comfortable, self-assured, intelligent and romantic man with high values. I like pretty mountain biking, and long walks in the park. Spontaneity a must! Box 12.

SWM: mid 20's, shy, 7 feet, 9 inches, great sense of humor, enjoy bicycling, dancing, films, running, shopping, travel, fast cars. Learning how to ride Rollerblade. Seeking nice young female with similar interests. Box #21.

SWM recovering theater student enjoys whin- mical music, long walks to nowhere in particular, cheese and spatenbier, fenced outdoor wrestling, seeks woman with an adjustable sense of hu- mor, willingness to sing and dance on public places, and a high toler- ance for gross stains. Act now, Box #15.

SWM Financially strug- gling, would like to have good times with finan- cially secure female 25- 35 for a couple of moths, and photos and statement for Box 15.

SWM, age 23, and Drill Sergeant looking to forward the del- egation of imprisoned dành to you for an adjusting address.

SWM Attractive, 21 seeks a nice girl. Must be: con- siderate, attractive, intelligent, nice figure, funny, creative, kind natured, adventurous, outgoing, strong-willed, good-looking in a boy- next-door kind of way (race is irrelevant), nice figure, beautiful inside and out, massively interested, patient, honest, open to new ideas, self-aware, craft, hard work, spiritual, romantic, goal-oriented, mas- culine, outdoor, attractive, passionate, and loveable people, and easy going. Please, no money-mongering. Donald Phone 345-2123. "Talk" to judge in public. I feel that they are cool and both kind of guys. Send re- sponse to Box #13.

WM 33, 170 lbs, 5'7", blue eyes, long black hair, on Death Row un- der the slavery murder theory (Sble for other theories). Seeking corres- pondence from anyone who could spare a few cents a month and who would like to receive some- thing from me in return. Please feel free to ask anything you are cur- ious about. F will answer all letters written to: Box #17.

WM 33, 170 lbs, 5'7", blue eyes, long black hair, on Death Row un- der the slavery murder theory (Sble for other theories). Seeking corres- pondence from anyone who could spare a few cents a month and who would like to receive some- thing from me in return. Please feel free to ask anything you are cur- ious about. F will answer all letters written to: Box #17.

WM 33, 170 lbs, 5'7", blue eyes, long black hair, on Death Row un- der the slavery murder theory (Sble for other theories). Seeking corres- pondence from anyone who could spare a few cents a month and who would like to receive some- thing from me in return. Please feel free to ask anything you are cur- ious about. F will answer all letters written to: Box #17.

WM 33, 170 lbs, 5'7", blue eyes, long black hair, on Death Row un- der the slavery murder theory (Sble for other theories). Seeking corres- pondence from anyone who could spare a few cents a month and who would like to receive some- thing from me in return. Please feel free to ask anything you are cur- ious about. F will answer all letters written to: Box #17.

WM 33, 170 lbs, 5'7", blue eyes, long black hair, on Death Row un- der the slavery murder theory (Sble for other theories). Seeking corres- pondence from anyone who could spare a few cents a month and who would like to receive some- thing from me in return. Please feel free to ask anything you are cur- ious about. F will answer all letters written to: Box #17.

WM 33, 170 lbs, 5'7", blue eyes, long black hair, on Death Row un- der the slavery murder theory (Sble for other theories). Seeking corres- pondence from anyone who could spare a few cents a month and who would like to receive some- thing from me in return. Please feel free to ask anything you are cur- ious about. F will answer all letters written to: Box #17.

WM 33, 170 lbs, 5'7", blue eyes, long black hair, on Death Row un- under the slavery murder theory (Sble for other theories). Seeking corres- pondence from anyone who could spare a few cents a month and who would like to receive some- thing from me in return. Please feel free to ask anything you are cur- ious about. F will answer all letters written to: Box #17.

WM 33, 170 lbs, 5'7", blue eyes, long black hair, on Death Row un- der the slavery murder theory (Sble for other theories). Seeking corres- pondence from anyone who could spare a few cents a month and who would like to receive some- thing from me in return. Please feel free to ask anything you are cur- ious about. F will answer all letters written to: Box #17.