7-19-1995

Arbiter, July 19

Students of Boise State University

Although this file was scanned from the highest-quality microfilm held by Boise State University, it reveals the limitations of the source microfilm. It is possible to perform a text search of much of this material; however, there are sections where the source microfilm was too faint or unreadable to allow for text scanning. For assistance with this collection of student newspapers, please contact Special Collections and Archives at archives@boisestate.edu.
before...?

W.S.U.'s student health center looks the same, but it's not. Story page 5
Boise State University Head Football Coach Pokey Allen has been fighting a form of cancer known as rhabdomyosarcoma. "He wanted to play golf, and, of course, they wouldn't let him," defensive assistant Barry Sacks said. "So that made him mad."

As summer winds down and the dreaded fall semester begins, the Student Programs Board lovingly offers three consecutive Fridays of fun. BSU students and the community are invited to attend Over Exposure VII.

Dave Grohl's Foo Fighters have arrived to provide mainstream rock with a much-needed slap in the face. The former Nirvana drummer has single-handedly created an impressive album that recalls the heavy, guitar-rock with a much-needed slap in the mix.

Vietnam, scholars, Larry Craig, Overexposure, movies, cool science tricks, health and fitness advice, and so much more...

Dave Grohl's Foo Fighters have arrived to provide mainstream rock with a much-needed slap in the face. The former Nirvana drummer has single-handedly created an impressive album that recalls the heavy, guitar-pop splendor of his last band.

Boise State University Head Football Coach Pokey Allen has been fighting a form of cancer known as rhabdomyosarcoma. "He wanted to play golf, and, of course, they wouldn't let him," defensive assistant Barry Sacks said. "So that made him mad."

As summer winds down and the dreaded fall semester begins, the Student Programs Board lovingly offers three consecutive Fridays of fun. BSU students and the community are invited to attend Over Exposure VII.
Clinton grants recognition to Vietnam

BSU's MBA program gives Idaho a head start

KATE MELBY BELL
Managing Editor

Saying this is a time to heal and a time to build, President Bill Clinton announced last week his plan to replenish full diplomatic relations with Vietnam. Clinton said the decision is for a strong Vietnam that will help keep Chinese domination in the region in check.

The decision is also valued by American businesses. Full relations with Vietnam means American businesses can get financing from the U.S. to export products to the Southeast Asian country, and never assurance to protect their investments in Vietnam from political risks.

Also, the U.S. and Vietnam will give each other the lowest tariffs on their products, according to the associated press.

Idaho business may have an advantage over businesses in many other states, thanks to Boise State's Master of Business Administration Program, which expanded to Vietnam last fall. BSU is the only university in the United States to offer an accredited MBA program in Vietnam.

Boise State brought its first 30 Vietnamese students to Boise's future business leaders-to Boise this summer to take their last class and complete four-week internships with Idaho businesses.

"The last year and a half I've spent away from my family working on my dissertation," she said. "Were it not for this fellowship, I'd spend the last year up there, too.

Gallegos is working with the parson's research Institute at BSU on a section of rock in Russia, which an international committee is considering to use as a type section for the carboniferous-Pernian boundary, Gallegos said. The boundary is a time period of about 270 million years by which other rocks of that type section will be compared.

Gallegos earned her bachelor's and master's degrees in geology from BSU. She has received a number of academic and professional awards including the 1994 Washington State University Graduate and Professional Student Association Science Teaching Award. By invitation, she also presented a paper in Perm, Russia, at the International Perm Congress in 1995.

Gallegos expects to complete her doctoral degree in May 1996.

BSU student wins Outstanding Engineering award for 1995

Boise State University student Steven Murdock was recently named the top engineering student in the state for 1995 by the Idaho Society of Professional Engineers.

Each year the professional organization selects one student from Idaho's colleges for its Outstanding Engineering Student Award, which is primarily based on contributions outside the classroom.

Murdock, a junior majoring in civil engineering, won this year's award, for, among other things, his work as an evening work-study student supervisor for the department's six annual student/faculty convocation.

BSU received $2,000 grant for Spanish-language books

A $2,000 gift from the Mexican government to Boise State University

Continued on page 4
Happy Birthday Senator Craig

pulling roots...planting seeds

He has voted NO on bills to protect farm workers from pesticides, allow Family Medical Leave and the Violence Against Women Act. He has voted YES to subsidize offshore oil production, kill funding for renewable energy projects, and restrict a woman's right to choose.

DAN SUNNER
Environmental Editor

Forest Health and Insect Problems at the University of Idaho. He has spent 30 years studying insects and disease vectors and has testified in the hearing against Craig's bill. Craig would not even listen to the man. A Senator from Arizona, the environmentalists to the table in good faith has none himself. Partridge has headed the most comprehensive forest health study done in the Pacific Northwest. Craig insulted all Idahoans when he stood up, walked out, and refused to listen to the voice of science in good faith.

This is where he stands. It is clear Craig is not interested in representing all Idahoans. Senator Craig's voting record speaks for itself and his bank account. He has received $122,000 from the oil and gas industry, $80,000 from the Wood Products Industry and $150,000 from the Agriculture and Food Producers. He has voted NO on bills to protect farm workers from pesticides, allow Family Medical Leave and the Violence Against Women Act. He has voted YES to subsidize offshore oil production, kill funding for renewable energy projects, and restrict a woman's right to choose.

Senator Craig has voted to end enforcement of the Clean Water Act, cut funds for cleanup of toxic military bases and cut funding for public transportation. He is supporting a rewrite of the Endangered Species Act and has voted to cut funding that benefits the poor, school lunch programs and affordable housing.

He is not voting for the well-being of Idahoans or our vast wildlands.

If you'd like to let him know what you think, a gathering is planned at 12:45 at the site to let him know there are people out here who seem to have forgotten.

The party is open to the public and will run from 1:00-5:00 p.m. At the door you will get in, but you may be too late for the preferred treatment. Senator Kemphorne circulated invitations on Craig's behalf mostly to join to the First Club.

According to Senator Kemphorne, "Our concept is to encourage PACs, as well as in and out of state individuals to give their maximum legal contribution ($50 for PACs and $1,000 for individuals) for Larry's 1996 primary, June 30th, in time to help officially kick-off his re-election campaign during a huge birthday party."

Now we have the true colors flying over Craig's birthday. Donate big, do it early, and let the Senator's biases, he literally left the hearing when Idaho's premiere expert on Forest Health took the podium.

Dr. Arthur D. Partridge is a Professor in Studying Pacific Northwest forests. He testifies to the table in good faith has.

The books can be checked out for six weeks, he literally left the hearing when Idaho's premiere expert on Forest Health took the podium.

Martin Scheffer, a sociology professor at Boise State University and Bruce A. Newsome, a sociology professor at the University of Oregon, have been leader-

In a clear showing of Craig's "good faith," the Senator chaired a hearing on health before the Forest and Public Lands Management Subcommittee. Rumors have circulated that a timber lobbyist actually sat behind the Senator and whispered questions for the panel to be asked. In effect, Craig allowed the industry to speak for him on this most crucial issue.

As if this was not a clear enough sign of the Senator's biases, he literally left the hearing when Idaho's premiere expert on Forest Health took the podium.

But, as much as one may try, it is hard to wish him well.

It seems he has found the perfect media grab for his party. The Executive Air Terminal in Boise will be the spot on Saturday, July 22. It will be a joint fest for his birthday and the end of World War II, both 50 years in the waiting.

According to the party organizer, Barrett Rainey, the entire Idaho delegation will be there, along with state representatives and folks from Craig's past.

Barring the left wing fanfare where Senator Craig lies within the political spectrum, a look into both his voting record and his actions are the best insight into this rogue leader.

Forest Health has been the hot topic for the Senator this legislative session. He introduced his own bill along with giving strong support on the Senate floor for salvage riders that strip environment in good faith. This is due to his claim that the forests of Idaho are sick and dying and need salvage logging to mend the damage.

When Idaho conservation groups publicly condemned the riders as catering to the industry at taxpayer expense, Craig's office responded in the Statesman by stating "we just want to choose for no removal of trees would come to the table in good faith."

In a clear showing of Craig's "good faith," the Senator chaired a hearing on health before the Forest and Public Lands Management Subcommittee. Rumors have circulated that a timber lobbyist actually sat behind the Senator and whispered questions for the panel to be asked. In effect, Craig allowed the industry to speak for him on this most crucial issue.

As if this was not a clear enough sign of the Senator's biases, he literally left the hearing when Idaho's premiere expert on Forest Health took the podium.

The party is open to the public and will run from 1:00-5:00 p.m. At the door you will get in, but you may be too late for the preferred treatment. Senator Kemphorne circulated invitations on Craig's behalf mostly to join to the First Club.

According to Senator Kemphorne, "Our concept is to encourage PACs, as well as in and out of state individuals to give their maximum legal contribution ($50 for PACs and $1,000 for individuals) for Larry's 1996 primary, June 30th, in time to help officially kick-off his re-election campaign during a huge birthday party."

Now we have the true colors flying over Craig's birthday. Donate big, do it early, and let the Senator's biases, he literally left the hearing when Idaho's premiere expert on Forest Health took the podium.

Dr. Arthur D. Partridge is a Professor in Studying Pacific Northwest forests. He testifies to the table in good faith has.

The books can be checked out for six weeks, he literally left the hearing when Idaho's premiere expert on Forest Health took the podium.

Martin Scheffer, a sociology professor at Boise State University and Bruce A. Newsome, a sociology professor at the University of Oregon, have been leader-

In a clear showing of Craig's "good faith," the Senator chaired a hearing on health before the Forest and Public Lands Management Subcommittee. Rumors have circulated that a timber lobbyist actually sat behind the Senator and whispered questions for the panel to be asked. In effect, Craig allowed the industry to speak for him on this most crucial issue.

As if this was not a clear enough sign of the Senator's biases, he literally left the hearing when Idaho's premiere expert on Forest Health took the podium.

Dr. Arthur D. Partridge is a Professor in Studying Pacific Northwest forests. He testifies to the table in good faith has.

The books can be checked out for six weeks, he literally left the hearing when Idaho's premiere expert on Forest Health took the podium.

Martin Scheffer, a sociology professor at Boise State University and Bruce A. Newsome, a sociology professor at the University of Oregon, have been leader-

In a clear showing of Craig's "good faith," the Senator chaired a hearing on health before the Forest and Public Lands Management Subcommittee. Rumors have circulated that a timber lobbyist actually sat behind the Senator and whispered questions for the panel to be asked. In effect, Craig allowed the industry to speak for him on this most crucial issue.

As if this was not a clear enough sign of the Senator's biases, he literally left the hearing when Idaho's premiere expert on Forest Health took the podium.

Dr. Arthur D. Partridge is a Professor in Studying Pacific Northwest forests. He testifies to the table in good faith has.

The books can be checked out for six weeks, he literally left the hearing when Idaho's premiere expert on Forest Health took the podium.

Martin Scheffer, a sociology professor at Boise State University and Bruce A. Newsome, a sociology professor at the University of Oregon, have been leader-

In a clear showing of Craig's "good faith," the Senator chaired a hearing on health before the Forest and Public Lands Management Subcommittee. Rumors have circulated that a timber lobbyist actually sat behind the Senator and whispered questions for the panel to be asked. In effect, Craig allowed the industry to speak for him on this most crucial issue.

As if this was not a clear enough sign of the Senator's biases, he literally left the hearing when Idaho's premiere expert on Forest Health took the podium.

Dr. Arthur D. Partridge is a Professor in Studying Pacific Northwest forests. He testifies to the table in good faith has.
Surprise
Student Health Center looks the same, but it's different

KATE HENLY RELL
Managing Editor

The Student Health Center looks exactly the same as it did a month ago. Inside, it's a very different place.

That's what Lisa Ketchum and other summer students found out when stopping by to get prescriptions refilled, a service provided to full-time students for no charge. If it weren't for the Student Health Center, Ketchum's refills would cost $20-$27 a month.

Ketchum couldn't get her free refill because those at Collegiate Health Care, the new manager of the Student Health Center, said she shouldn't have been kept on a controlled drug without a doctor following up with her regularly.

The center does have nurse practitioners on staff now. However, Idaho law does not permit nurse practitioners to write prescriptions for controlled drugs.

Because BSU's center will lack a doctor until August, Ketchum would be forced to visit another doctor, whose services are not free, and get a new prescription.

I had no idea this was coming," Ketchum said. "I am going to be without a doctor at least until the beginning of August." Nathan Church, Collegiate Health Care's regional vice president for the Northwest, is serving as one of BSU's center's interim directors. He said because the BSU center's physician is not on board yet, summer students leave the health center feeling as Ketchum did. "Like they haven't received good treatment when in fact they've received the best possible treatment," Church said.

When a $10 fee increase proposed by the Student Health Center was denied in the spring, it was recommended by BSU's Executive Budget Committee that the center begin charging students for prescriptions. But BSU's contract with Collegiate Health Care allows this service to continue.

One problem with the "old" Student Health Center, however, was that non-students managed to slip in and get free medications.

Because such "freebies" are not fair to paying students, D'Oonoio said the new center will screen out non-students who try to receive services. She has already stopped some of the freelodng. D'Oonoio said that during the few weeks she has worked at BSU's center, a number of non-students have come in for prescription refills. Although these people were non-students, they told D'Oonoio they were always allowed to get free refills.

"Students are going to have a health center that is much more accountable to them."

— Nathan Church, Collegiate Health Care's vice president for the Northwest

Going to come back in the fall and find a whole new Student Health Center," Ketchum said.

John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company provides insurance services for BSU. The contract with the Boston-based company expires spring of 1995.

What Students Get for Their $450,000

Is finding a whole new Student Health Center bad? That's up and running Aug. 28, the Student Health Center, under the management of Collegiate Health Care—which serves 75,000 students at 11 colleges and universities around the country—will provide students with more services at a cost of $450,000 this year. The contract will be renegotiated each year. The center's new permanent director, Jayne Nielsen, who has worked in BSU's women's athletics for 20 years, will be back at BSU on July 24.

Students who want the center to expand its hours should be happy with the new management. The center will be open from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. weekdays. The center's expansion of two full hours. For the first time, the center will also be open on Saturdays for three hours.

D'Oonoio said the waiting room will also be equipped with a TV and telephone.

The new center will also offer an around-the-clock advise nurse and an automated medical audio library that can be accessed from home by telephone.

Collegiate Health Care also plans to enhance women's health services at the clinic. The center will have a gynecologist, Dr. Dale Ludders, and more specialty consultants as well.

Because students are making lifestyle decisions right now, Church said Collegiate Health Care wants to "maintain an environment of going to the health center to enhance students' participation.

"They're so snobby, and they just try to slip this stuff in without letting students know," D'Oonoio said.

During Taylor's 10 years as director of student affairs, the center was reorganized and students were given the opportunity to participate in the center's planning.

"If even student members of the Health Advisory Board were not told who was given the new center contract, it's likely the average student has not heard, either. When the contract for the center was awarded, and while in the process of selecting the company to run the center, BSU officials made no efforts to inform students—not even through the student media—about the new management."

Last week, the vice president for Student Affairs didn't realize that the amount Collegiate Health Care bid to manage the health center next year is public information that students should have access to. But that number—$450,000—a only exempt from Idaho Public Records Law prior to opening bids or awarding contracts.

Like the "old" health center's alleged dispensing of medications with no education or follow up. BSU expects students to swallow our new Student Health Center like pills from an unlabeled bottle, without understanding what they are, how much they cost or what the side effects will be.

"BSU is saying, 'Take these. Trust me.' "Everything will be OK," Collegiate Health Care doesn't just promise good health care. They offer a money-back guarantee.

One guarantee is a timeline toward accreditation by the American Association of Accredited Health Centers. Church said only 75 of 2,000 college health care centers are accredited.

If BSU's new health center does not reach this goal within three years, funds will be returned to the students. These refunds can also occur twice a year when Collegiate Health Care surveys students who use the facility. If BSU students are not happy, Collegiate Health Care will suffer financial penalties, said Church.

Collegiate Health Care officials recognize that the Student Health Center belongs to students and they need to be accountable to students who pay for it with their fees.

"Students are going to have a health center that is much more accountable to them," Church said.
Get ready for OVER EXPOSURE VII

LAURA DELGADO
Co-Entertainment Editor

As summer winds down and the dreads fall from student heads, the Student Programs Board lovingly offers three consecutive Fridays of fun. BSU students and the community are invited to attend Over Exposure VII.

This year's extravaganza has been organized by SPB Film Coordinator Brian Cheeseman and includes a Young Gun Look-Alike Contest with a cash prize of $50.

August 18, local band Stells will perform at 9:30 p.m. After the concert there will be a raffle and a chance to win breakfast coupons from Marriott, following the raffle, SPB will present The Breakfast Club, rated R.

The Breakfast Club stars brat-pack members, Emilio Estevez, Molly Ringwald, Judd Nelson, Ally Sheedy and Anthony Michael Hall. It is directed by John Hughes and is about a group of students who are stuck together in a day of detention.

Over Exposure VII continues on August 25 when world famous juggler Mark Nizer performs at 8 p.m. Nizer was the 1990 International Juggling Champion. This special performance will be held inside BSU's Special Events Center.

At 9 p.m. a local band will perform, followed by a movie poster giveaway and a showing of the hilarious Jim Carrey vehicle The Mask, rated R.

The final installment of Over Exposure VII hits on September 1 with a performance of local band Lion's Cry at 9:30 p.m. Following the show will be a Young Gun Look-Alike Contest. Names for the contest can be submitted by calling 985-9555. Winners will be selected by the audience.

The grand prize is $50 in cash. Two runner-ups will receive coupons donated by the BSU Recreation Center and the BSU Outdoor Rental Center.

Following the contest there will be a showing of Young Guns starring brat packers, Emilio Estevez, Kiefer Sutherland, Lou Diamond Phillips, Charlie Sheen and Terence Stamp. Rated R, the film is loosely based on the exploits of the infamous Infamous Billy the Kid. The movie follows Billy and his five gun slingin' friends on a mission of vengeance.

Most of the events will be held outside, behind the Special Events Center at BSU if the weather is nasty, look for the fun inside the Special Events Center. Admission is free and refreshments will be available for purchase.

Art Briefs

COMPILED BY LAURA DELGADO
Co-Entertainment Editor

BSU MUSIC STUDENT PLAYS WITH PROS

• Jennifer Robertson, a 1991 graduate of Twin Falls High School and now a senior at BSU, played her flute at this year's Boise Summerfest. This marks Robertson's second year of involvement in Summerfest. Summerfest is a concert series held at BSU's Centennial Amphitheatre, where professionals, alumni, faculty and advanced students of music get together to play a variety of music—from fiddle tunes to Broadway classics.

Along with her studies at BSU, Robertson teaches private lessons, plays at weddings, parties and bar mitzvahs. To fill her "free" time, she works at the Listening Station in Boise's 8th Street Market Place.

Upon graduation from BSU, Robertson plans to audition for the Boise Philharmonic.

COMING TO DREAMWALKER

Dreamwalker, 1015 W. Main, has several hot acts scheduled for the coming weeks.

On July 21 alternative Seattle band, Give, will return for a repeat performance of their new album Mellow Judith. 9 p.m. $5

Ray area band Itchy McGuirk will perform on July 27 with bluesy rock. 9 p.m. $5.

On August 2 The Flys and local band the Mosquitos will perform. 9 p.m. $5.

Boston's Kevin Connolly returns on August 24. 9 p.m. $5.

On August 25 Seattle quartet 3 Track Mind touches down to give a taste of organic rock. 9 p.m. $5.

“JAZZ UNDER THE STARS” SERIES OFFERS MASTER CLASSES

In conjunction with the “Jazz Under the Stars” summer concert series, organizers of the concerts are offering jazz clinics led by guest artists at BSU’s Morrison Center Recital Hall.

All clinics will be held from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. Classes began July 10, but there are three more scheduled.

The schedule is:

• July 24, Bob Mintzer, saxophone: Leader of the Bob Mintzer Big Band and a member of the fusion group, the Yellowjackets, Mintzer has 15 recordings under his own name, four CDs with the Yellowjackets and has played on more than 200 jazz and pop recordings.

• Aug. 7, Randy Brecker, trumpet: Brecker has been shaping the sound of jazz and rhythm and blues for more than two decades. His trumpet and flugelhorn performances can be heard on recordings with James Taylor, Bruce Springsteen, Chaka Khan, George Benson, David Sanborn, Horace Silver, Jaco Pastorius and Frank Zappa.

• Aug. 21, Billy Cobham, drums: Since the late '60s, Cobham has been involved in virtually all aspects of music-making. With his phenomenal barrage of close to 100 albums, Cobham's career has been all-encompassing.

Admission to the jazz clinics is free, but participants must register in advance. To obtain a registration form, call Dave Bear at 378-0241. For information on the evening concerts, call 336-9221.

PROFESSOR DISPLAYS PHOTOS AT KOFFEE KLATSCHE

"A Few Moments in Vietnam 1995," an exhibit of black-and-white photographs by BSU marketing professor Ed Petkus, will continue through July 30 at the Koffee Klatsh, 400 S. Eighth St.

The 11 x 14 inch photographs feature street scenes in Hanoi and Ho Chi Minh City. For a week in Vietnam to teach classes for BSU's MBA program at National Economics University, BSU is an American university to offer an MBA program in the Communist country.

Houses are 7 a.m. to 6 a.m. Monday through Thursday, 7 a.m. to 11:30 p.m. Friday, 6 a.m. to 11:30 p.m. Saturday and 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday.

"JOSEPH AND THE AMAZING TECHNICOLOR DREAMCOAT" RETURNS

The Ustick Players' performance of "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat" will return to the Nampa Civic Center, July 25-29.

This Broadway multi-colored extravaganza stars James Bradley Montgomery as Joseph and a supporting cast of 60.

Performances will be held at 7:30 p.m. with a matinee on July 29 at 1 p.m. in the Nampa Civic Center. Tickets for evening performances are $7.50 and $6.50 for the matinee. Tickets may be purchased at all Select-a-Seat outlets and there will be an additional 50 cent charge per ticket.

FREE POETRY CONTEST

A $1,000 grand prize is being offered in a free poetry contest sponsored by the International Library of Famous Poets, open to everyone. There are exactly 28 poets, totaling $2,896.75.

Says Poetry editor Dr. Richard Huntington: "This is our favorite contest of the year, because it encourages beginners. We want to find the best grassroots poets among those writing in Idaho.''

The deadline for entry is July 29. Poems may be written on any subject, using any style, but please keep copies as none can be returned. Winners will be announced on Sept. 5 at which time all prizes will be awarded and a winner's list sent to all entrants.

To enter, send one poem of 21 lines or less to: Free Poetry Contest, 421 N. Rodeo Dr., Suite 15-544, Beverly Hills, CA 90210.

IDAHO FILM & VIDEO ASSOCIATION ANNOUNCES MEETING

The Idaho Film & Video Association will be holding a meeting at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, August 3 at The Rack Room. Anyone interested in the film and video business is invited to attend. Current members include producers, directors, cinematographers, editors, animators, video editors, photographers, location designers, composers, writers, cinematographers, video editors, animators, editors, engineers, make-up artists, set designers, writers, photographers, location designers,

WEDNESDAY, JULY 19, 1995 THE ARNITR
Dave Grohl's Foo Fighters have arrived to provide mainstream rock with a much-needed slap in the face.

The former Nirvana drummer has single-handedly created an impressive album that recalls the heavy, guitar-driven styles of the 1960s, and adds a handful of other influences into the mix. Like Kurt Cobain, Grohl certainly hasn't softened his pounding and his songs are the perfect vehicles for his primary craft.

Foo Fighters involves pushing each song to the edge. It's incredibly apparent that Grohl likes to risk and that's exactly what he does on every song. "Good Grief," "Wenee Beenie," and "Waiting For A Signed Contract" are hit from beginning to end without stopping to catch their breath. Others like the masterful "Home Easy Target" operate on a fast-and-faster dynamic.

Most of these songs avoid the formulaic structure that Cobain's compositions often succumbed to. At times they seem to lack focus, but this is part of their allure. One of Grohl's signature moves involves taking the song in a new direction after the second or third chorus. The result of these vocal and guitar tangents is somewhat of a double-hook effect. Even during the album's most abrasive and sonic moments it manages to sound catchy. In this manner it reminds me of Nirvana's Nevermind; it has the same song-for-song power.

Of course this album isn't as important as that now classic document, but Grohl takes a similar idea and plays it much better than the copycats and hopelessly wannabes that clutter contemporary rock.

Perhaps the most important difference between Foo Fighters and Nirvana resides in the mood of the music. This album kicks off with the happy anthem "This is a Call," and Grohl's feel is more light-hearted than Cobain's often dark universe. (Sorry Gen Xers, you don't have a new spokesperson). I can't offer you an in-depth analysis of Grohl's lyrics. I'm the one who likes all the pretty words and likes to sing along though I don't know what it means.

It be good or bad, this band, its recording artist Grohl has assembled an all-star four-piece, will most likely be huge. Does this mean Green Day will finally go happy anthem "This is a Call," and Grohl's feel is more light-hearted than Cobain's often dark universe. (Sorry Gen Xers, you don't have a new spokesperson). I can't offer you an in-depth analysis of Grohl's lyrics. I'm the one who likes all the pretty words and likes to sing along though I don't know what it means.

Be it good or bad, this band, its recording artist Grohl has assembled an all-star four-piece, will most likely be huge. Does this mean Green Day will finally go...
EVERY MONDAY
9A.M.-9P.M.
• Walk ins only
• please shampoo before coming in
4111 Roschill
(Near Roosevelt & Hill)
Symetrics Styling Salon
342-0297