students of boise state university

although this file was scanned from the highest-quality microfilm held by boise state university, it reveals the limitations of the source microfilm. it is possible to perform a text search of much of this material; however, there are sections where the source microfilm was too faint or unreadable to allow for text scanning. for assistance with this collection of student newspapers, please contact special collections and archives at archives@boisestate.edu.

Problems with parking addressed

By Laura Wolfe

Boise State University, in conjunction with the Boise City Police Department and the Boise City Southeast Neighborhood Association, combined forces and worked diligently in creating policies to reduce parking problems resulting from home games to reduce parking problems resulting from home games.

The neighborhoods south of Boise State have beenฮี� with nightmares over sparsely parked buses, automobiles by obstructing driveways and the lack of parking space nearby. Residents have been forced to leave their parked cars in driveways and front lawns for parking spots.

Rich Wright, Boise State Police Department spokesman said his department works constantly to prevent problems resulting from home games.

"It is all fine, but the need for parking is crucial," said a BAA member, said Blake.

Parking director Bob Sedberry said the problem of parking at the school is not a significant issue.

"I believe there are problems with parking," said Blake.

Blake said the issue is now being addressed and that the program is becoming more accessible.

"Rob has done a great job," Blake said.

The parking program, which holds about 650 spots, is open to all students, faculty and staff and is available on a first-come, first-served basis.

For special events, such as football games, the University will continue to use charging for parking at the stadium.

"The University will continue to use charging for parking at the stadium," Blake said.

"It's been suggested a number of times," Blake said.

"It's not a very good place for a parking policy," Blake said.

"The program is very flexible and that's why they use it," Blake said.

High aspirations for stadium additions

By Laura Walse
The Arbiter

A goal for the Boise State athletic department was to provide more comfortable and convenient facilities for athletes, students, and families to attend sporting events. The Boise State Stadium, which was completed last year, was the first step towards this goal. The stadium will play a crucial role in encouraging students to attend athletic events and support the Boise State Broncos. The new stadium has a seating capacity of over 45,000 and provides a more enjoyable and comfortable fan experience compared to the previous stadium. The Boise State Stadium is equipped with world-class facilities, including a new press box, luxury suites, and state-of-the-art technology. The Boise State Stadium is expected to bring a significant boost to the Boise State Broncos' athletic programs and enhance the overall student experience.

ASBSU gets the Puck out of Idaho

By Laura Winnik

The American Student Ballroom Sports Union (ASBSU) is a student organization that represents the interests of students involved in ballroom sports. One of the ASBSU's goals is to promote the sport of ballroom dancing and increase its visibility on campus. In the past, the ASBSU has organized events such as ballroom dance competitions, workshops, and classes to bring awareness to the sport. The ASBSU is also responsible for representing the interests of ballroom dancers to the university administration. The ASBSU works closely with the Boise State University Athletics department to ensure that ballroom dancing is given the recognition it deserves. The ASBSU is proud of its accomplishments and will continue to work towards promoting ballroom dancing on campus.

BSU beat but not lost
By Lvn Collins

Saturday night the Broncos got losing and getting beat. I don't know to the Broncos being at the top that many fans don't like the idea of being at the bottom. To me, I have to say that right now, BSU is like this defense, strong, fast, and bring a heckin' and keep on defend the defense line, feeling out of place and trying out going wild out. Give BSU the time to move the Bronco fans, and out the Broncos who wanted boring turns out right.

Diehard fans stay true to women's soccer
By Lvn Collins

Red weather may have kept the fans from low, but as any diehard fans knows, one of the most exhilarating experiences is to endure the elements and watch your team come away with a win. These are the games fans remember and talk about the most. For those who come to the women's soccer game Wednesday and Thursday, they weren't disappointed.

In the second half, strong, shifting winds, rain, and even hail in the Lady Broncos took on the Portland State Vikings. The game matched out slow, but with 6:12 left in the 2nd, and placed the Vikings, winning the point in 1-2. The intercepts forward Abby Birdwell, who was named the defense player of the game, scored both Broncos goals with assists from Morgan McCracken. The Lady Broncos are now 3-1-1 in league play with their next five games on the road.

The next home game is Sept. 20 vs. Gonzaga at Spokane, WA. Game time is 5 p.m. at the Spokane sports complex.
