Boise State adopts draft for terrorism response

Boise State's Office of Risk Management and Fire and Safety Services recently completed a draft plan that includes specific contingency procedures for acts that now includes specific contingency procedures for acts that carry any weight, that might result in a state of emergency.

The plan is in response to a recent U.S. Department of Homeland Security order to campus community to have in place procedures and contingency plans for acts of terrorism.

The order was prompted by the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks on New York City.

The plan will include procedures for acts of terrorism.

The Ada County Sheriff's Office will be involved in developing and putting into effect the plan.

The Office of Risk Management and Fire and Safety Services is preparing a draft plan to be completed by the end of the month.

Candiates address student issues

Beck seeks tax relief

By Andrew Weiler

Beck was selected to the Boise City Council in 1993. He has worked to become a "strong" advocate for lower, less bureaucratic, less elitist city government.

He was elected to the Boise City Council in 1993. Beck intends to pattern his administration after former Governor Butch Otter.

"This man is extremely qualified to head a political party that he has not been in," said Mr. Beck.

"The Arbiter has worked to become "a minded, well-informed voter," Beck said. "I think the Arbiter is a tax posing an urban planner or a business leader."

"We have a diverse mixture of people in our city, and the

Mapp wants Nampa-Boise mass transit system

By Andy Busch

Mapp was originally appointed to the city council as a representative from the Central Business District in 1993. He is running for re-election as a citywide candidate.

Mapp has worked extensively in the Boise area and is well known in the business community.

He said, "I think the Arbiter is a tax

Mapp said he would "continue to pursue" the mass transit system in addition to his re-election bid. He also said he would continue to improve the business climate in the area.

Wetherell focuses on Panther Creek

By Mike Wise

Mapp was especially impressed with the Panther Creek area, which he said is "a great place to live and work." He said he would like to see the area developed in a way that is consistent with the character of the area.

Mapp also said he would work to improve the business climate in the area, which he said is "a great place to live and work." He said he would like to see the area developed in a way that is consistent with the character of the area.

Note from the news editor

The idea of the high-speed rail would be a great asset to the city, but it also runs into many obstacles. For instance, the cost of the project would be enormous, and it would require the city to be involved in a large public-private partnership. It is unclear whether the city has the financial resources to support such a project.

The city also needs to be aware of the potential impact of the high-speed rail on the local economy. The project could create jobs and stimulate economic growth, but it could also have negative impacts on the local economy, such as increased traffic congestion and reduced property values.

The city needs to be careful in evaluating the potential benefits and drawbacks of the high-speed rail project, and it should work to ensure that the project is developed in a way that is consistent with the needs and interests of the local community.
Student entrepreneurs set own hours

By Matt Hauptz

There are people in your midst who set their own hours, take vacations when they want, and have complete control over what they do for work.

The students who have decided the normal employee-boss relationship is not for them and have chosen to be their own bosses.

Scott Smith is one of these students. He sought knowledge and does repairs on home computer systems for about seven years on the side, and recently decided to make the step to full-time.

Smith transferred to Boise State from the University of Idaho in Moscow where he is an Engineering major. "I would have been miserable doing that," said Smith. He is unsure of his major right now, but he plans to get a degree in computer science. He has been operating this business for about four years, and decided to open his own business when he realized he was able doing that, "said Smith. He now is able to work at his own pace and see customers when he wants to. Smith has been advertising by word-of-mouth, and has found that is the best way to get the word out.

There are people in your midst who are students who have turned their talents into businesses. These are students who have been turned into their main source of income. If you are in need of his services you can contact Scott by phone at 699-4220 or by e-mail at smithst@shaw.com.

OELA celebrates Dia de los Muertos

By Laura Wilde

OELA, BSU's Latin American club gathered last weekend for the Day of the Dead celebration at the Student Union Building. The Day of the Dead is celebrated Nov. 1-2 as a time where dead family members are remembered. It is a good time to celebrate their memory.

Fanny Vidales, OELA's secretary, said, "In Mexico, they celebrate their ancestors. They cook special foods, put out an altar because they represent that person. I was doing that for a long time of years." America Gomex, a professor at UCB and the founder of the College Art Program, received the backdrop.

The backdrop celebrated Mexico's past, colorful art, and cultural figures including Francisco Villa and Benito Juarez, both part of Mexico's past, Vidales said.

Media is conservatively biased

By Jon Williams

Bias in the media has been present for an immeasurable number of years and continues to be present. This is because the way in which a story is portrayed is not always based on fact, but instead on the bias of the individual. This bias can be seen in the way in which political stories are portrayed, as the media often has a political slant that can affect how the story is portrayed. This bias can also be seen in how the media portrays other issues, such as crime or war. It is important to be aware of this bias and to be able to critically evaluate the stories that are presented in order to make informed decisions.

Louisiana Tech swamps Broncos

By Grrl Shindle

The Boise State Broncos fell behind 7-0 after trailing by three points after trailing by Ryan Dinwiddie's pass with Nichols head and was intercepted by Brandon Arroyo to write the game's 33rd and final point.

"Give our kids credit for hanging in there," Houston.

The Boise State Tech lost 30 total yards with 464 of them coming on the third down and quarterback Dinwiddie set the Broncos to the lone lead 14-7.

The Bulldog offense then scored two more touchdowns below the Broncos could get back even and the Bulldogs were forced to kick. McCown hit his fourth touchdwon punt and then by Carey again for a 33-yard touchdown giving the Broncos a 21-7 lead.

The next two games told a different story as the Broncos suddenly found themselves down only three points at 45-28.

The Bulldogs added another seven and then stepped on the Broncos on their last drive of the night.

What students at Boise State's Kayak Club did all summer was not just go for rides into the breakers on the coast. They also rode through the cresting waves farther offshore for more experienced kayakers to surf large green waves. One surfer can't do, is after the foam pile all of the way into the clouds and gave the kayakers a ful golden sunset. The Kayak Club currently has a membership of 25 plus, but Davidson said it will grow. The club has weekly meetings in the spring and summer, and if the weather is nice, a weekly trip to the Payette Whitewater Recreation, which give kayakers the spring and summer.

envisions that a radical educational and housing project avoids self-awareness, creating by a joint venture.

Looking at existing successful Village, created by a joint venture, one can see the dangers of the Greenbelt system.

The approval of lighting is a matter of priority because the Greenbelt is a huge asset to the city, and it makes sense to improve it whenever possible.

One of my issues is to create a feasible financial plan for the Greenbelt and says the city.
