Although this file was scanned from the highest-quality microfilm held by Boise State University, it reveals the limitations of the source microfilm. It is possible to perform a text search of much of this material; however, there are sections where the source microfilm was too faint or unreadable to allow for text scanning. Students have many health care options

By Ashley Gettings

Quick and affordable health care is now available in the Student Health and Wellness Center. Two Boise State University students, college students, high school students and even adults who attended schools nearby are coming to the center for health care.

"The students are coming to the center because they are having problems," said Dr. Ray Peterson, Boise State University's health care provider.

"They are seeing us for everything from minor injuries to chronic diseases," Peterson said. "We have a lot of patients who come in with strep throat, pneumonia, acne or other minor illnesses.

"We are here to help students with their health care needs," Peterson said. "We provide services such as flu shots, HIV testing, pap smears, and more.

"Our goal is to provide quality health care at an affordable price," Peterson said. "We are open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

"Students can call us at 208-426-3493 to schedule an appointment," Peterson said.

"We also have a walk-in clinic," Peterson said. "Students can just walk in and be seen by a doctor within 15 minutes.

"We are committed to providing quality health care to all students," Peterson said. "We are here to help students with their health care needs.

BSU schedules first winter commencement

By BSU News Services

Boise State will hold its 68th commencement ceremony, the first ever to be held in December, from 3 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. Friday, Dec. 21, in The Pavilion. A total of 956 students have qualified for graduation, including 1,325 degrees or certificates. Graduates from all colleges will gather for a single ceremony, which includes a group of commencement processional for each graduate. About 350 graduates are expected to attend the ceremony, which will celebrate the family and guests of the graduates.

Nebraska fetal homicide bill spurs abortion debate

By Gwen Tipton

The revised legislative bill on fetal homicide is considered to be an abortion-related bill. The bill was introduced last year and is the result of the Nebraska Right to Life organization. The bill was signed by Governor Mike Johanns, who said it would make the Nebraska law more rigorous and approachable.

The language in the bill states that if a pregnant woman is involved in an accident or death, the state of Nebraska would be responsible for paying the funeral expenses.

He said the bill would make it clear that the state of Nebraska would be responsible for paying the funeral expenses.

He also said the bill would make the language more rigorous and approachable.

A warm welcome to our competitor

John C. Raven
The Editor
We'd like to extend a warm welcoming hand to the Boise State Press Post. According to Matthew Simmons, co-editor in chief (whose name we misspelled in a previous issue apology... there's a part of the student body that has not been satisfied with the Arbiter, some because it has a liberal slant, while others perceive it to be nothing more than a mouthpiece for the Boise State administration. Therefore, in an effort to stimulate competition and to perhaps improve our product, Boise State Free Press has extended an open invitation to the Boise State Press Post. This is a very positive move by Boise State Press Post.

Arbiter does not believe in free speech

By: Arbie Staggs

There seems to be no consensus about the letter I sent to the advertisers concerning Jeff Thomas. Let me state that I am not the only one who had this concern. Mr. Fiala sent out to the advertisers concerning Jerel Thomas. I did not feel that the Arbiter would listen to the opinions expressed by him. I felt this course of action would not be the best for the Arbiter as a staff. By discussing the matter with me, Mr. Hayes admitted that some writers on the Arbiter staff believe that there should not be printed due to poor grammar, I get flunked. Instead he choose to print a rumor, but it really doesn't matter since the Arbiter has no intention of altering the debate. If the Arbiter truly wanted to create a positive forum for the discussion of ideas it would not engage in practices that give a clearly unfair advantage to one party. Level playing field and protect freedom of speech for all if you are truly interested in enlarging the debate, until now your proclamation of free speech and constructive debate rings hollow.

Message from: Guest Opinion

I also did this by mail purposefully in the interest of saving time, and to allow the advertisers to study the claims before they were printed. I did this because the Idaho Media Project contacted both me and to deliver this very issue. The program offered to allow us to debate this issue without personal attacks, in an open, honest, and respectful manner.

Of all people were addressed as the "Free speech lives at the Arbiter," a staff editor authored by Jerel Hayes. He claims the Arbiter has no intention of altering the debate. I would have found that I was contacted not just advertisers, but also Indian tribes, local editors and many others. My submission was rejected. Poorly, led me to the conclusion that the Arbiter has no intention of alterations of the editors' decisions. Instead I saw fit to print a rumor, but it really doesn't matter since the Arbiter has no intention of altering the debate. If the Arbiter truly wanted to create a positive forum for the discussion of ideas it would not engage in practices that give a clearly unfair advantage to one party. Just to remind you that there will not be printed one article, and Idaho Media Project contacted both me and to deliver this very issue. Football players honored

By John Miller

PORT WASHINGTON, Texas - While a senior in high school, Winslow Township's Jon Gruden was a record-setting wide receiver who didn't play on the football team.

Gruden, who was then playing for Bishop Gorman High School in Las Vegas, was a short, undersized wide receiver who played for the team's basketball and track teams.

But the 6-foot, 175-pound wide receiver didn't play football for the school.

In those days, football was such a non-factor at the school that he could barely line up in the backfield or at receiver.

He now coaches the Tampa Bay Buccaneers in the NFL and was recently named head coach of the Buccaneers.

Gruden was honored at the last Friday night's game as part of the annual football banquet.

He was honored for his contributions to the Buccaneers and the community.

Gruden was also honored for his work with the Salvation Army in Tampa.

He was presented with a plaque and a letter of recognition.

Gruden was also recognized for his work with the Salvation Army in Tampa and his involvement with the community.

He was presented with a plaque and a letter of recognition by the Salvation Army.

The Buccaneers also presented Gruden with a check for $20,000 in support of the Salvation Army.

Gruden thanked the Buccaneers for the recognition and the check.

He said he was honored to be honored.

He also thanked the Salvation Army for the work it does.

Gruden said he was proud to be a part of the Buccaneers and to be able to give back to the community.

He said he was looking forward to continuing to work with the Salvation Army.

Browns women happy to be back in Pavilion

By Steve Gowens

The Boise State women's basketball team returned home Monday after a long and frustrating four-game road trip that included trips to Washington, Portland, and San Diego. The return to the Pavilion at Washington Sunday after-noon capped the four-game road trip with a win over the Vikings.

The Broncos are sure to have their hands full against the undersea in the first half. The Broncos signed a second-half point in the first half, and blocked shots. Contributing to the scoring effort were senior forward Crista Peterson, who led the team in points with 10 points, and junior guard Jodi Nakamura, who finished with 22 to all Broncos women's home games.

Doing the Rat Pack proud in ‘Ocean’s Eleven’

By J. Patrick Kelley
The Arbiter

Boise State’s Department of Fine Arts is presenting “Clay and Fire,” a pottery show and sale, Dec. 15-17 in Gallery One of the Liberal Arts building.

This semiannual event offers a wide variety of hand-crafted ceramics created by artists from all over the West. “Clay and Fire” features functional, decorative vases, bowls and small sculptural objects. A portion of the proceeds benefit a fund to finance the new ceramics program.

A sampling of the pottery features forms ranging from functional to purely ornate. ’Creepy Crawly’ is a bark-like bowl by student Stephanie Vazquez. Another bark-like bowl by Chris Kranz features a semi-circle area, perhaps resembling a cloud. "If You Go,... " by visiting artist Budde Vonderheide is a large array of functional ceramics. Inside bowl, plates and vases. Vonderheide made this large decorative plate, which could be used to serve a meal or you could just hang it on a wall." It is said.

“Clay and Fire” features works of nearly twenty ceramic artists, including drinking vessels by local ceramic artist John Verden and a set of mushroom dishes created by visiting artist Jim Budde.

The Dialogue that truly gives the film its primary allure. “Clay and Fire” succeeds in setting a world where the dialogue is a rich and enjoyable experience. It is the only fact that may deter entrance from preying itself into the street.

The fact that this world of cool made portraits and perfectly made ceramics is completely outside of reality is the only fact that may deter entrance from preying itself into the street. "Clay and Fire" succeeds in setting a world where the dialogue is a rich and enjoyable experience.
