Budget cut of 9.7 percent likely

By Andy Benson

The forecast for Boise State's budget shaping up to meet the needs of its many programs considered by admissions leaders was met with a resounding "no." Boise State President Charles Chadbourn addressed the new enrollment projections at the legislature's new committee on fiscal and appropriations on Monday. Rum reported the new enrollment projections at $17 million in the coming year, while faculty and staff have been asked to leave 34 positions unfilled to maintain quality within the university.

"We have survived previous cuts and survival is the key," he said. Rum said increased tech- nology costs and increased post- secondary enrollment in the coming year, while faculty and staff have been asked to leave 34 positions unfilled to maintain quality within the university.

Fresno State's Education Department finds success in student teaching internship program

By Heather Bryant

Fresno State's Education Department has seen an increase in the number of student teaching placements over the last year of the new long-term internship program for student teachers.

The Education Department provides opportunities for 200 student teaching placements per year. Student teachers serve for a full school year, with a two-week break in the middle of the school year as an opportunity to reflect on their experiences.

Most student teaching placements are created by partnerships with local school districts, and the department has also seen a rise in placements for special education programs.

"We can see how local partnerships with local school districts, especially those that are implementing new initiatives, such as teacher residencies, are having a positive impact," said Heather Bryant, director of the Education Department. "This is an opportunity for students to gain valuable teaching experience in real-world settings and to have a significant impact on the lives of their students."

"The most important thing we can do is put good teachers in front of kids," said Leslie Righan, who has taught in the BSU Education Department for over a decade. "It's our responsibility as educators to provide high-quality teaching for all students."

"I've seen a lot of positive changes in recent years," said Righan. "There are more opportunities for student teachers to gain practical experience, and the overall quality of student teachers has improved significantly."

"The amount of caring and attention that student teachers provide is truly impressive," said Righan. "They engage with students in meaningful ways and make a real difference in their lives."

"This experience makes real all of everything," said study abroad student Chelsie Righan. "I am so grateful for the opportunity to learn and grow in ways I never imagined."
WASHINGTON - Congressman George Miller (D-Calif.), chair of the House Education and the Workforce Committee, which oversees the U.S. Department of Education, spoke at the U.S. State Department on the need to support a broad range of educational programs and institutions around the world.

Miller said that the United States has a responsibility to support education and training programs in other countries in order to promote stability, economic growth, and democratic values.

He cited examples of American universities and colleges that are currently working with partners in other countries to support education and training programs.

Miller also emphasized the importance of partnerships between American universities and colleges and their counterparts in other countries.

He said that these partnerships can help to advance shared goals and values, while also fostering mutual understanding and respect.

Miller concluded by emphasizing the importance of continued support for education and training programs around the world, and urged Congress to provide the necessary funding to make this possible.

WASHINGTON - Congresswoman Anna Eshoo (D-Calif.) has introduced legislation to establish a new program that would provide grants to higher education institutions to support community service learning programs.

The Community Service Learning Program Act (H.R. 5978) would authorize $150 million in annual funding for the program, which would be administered by the Corporation for National and Community Service.

"I am proud to introduce this legislation to ensure that our students have the opportunity to learn about and contribute to their communities," Eshoo said.

"By participating in community service learning programs, our students will gain valuable skills and experience, and our communities will benefit from their efforts."

WASHINGTON - Senator John McCain (R-Ariz.) has introduced legislation to reform the nation's immigration laws.

The Comprehensive Immigration Reform Act of 2013 (S. 744) would provide a pathway to citizenship for millions of undocumented immigrants, while also strengthening border security and promoting economic growth.

"We must get serious about immigration reform," McCain said.

"Our laws must reflect the values of our country, and our nation must be a beacon of hope and opportunity for all who seek a better life."

WASHINGTON - Congresswoman Zoe Lofgren (D-Calif.) has introduced legislation to protect the rights of online consumers.

The Online Consumer Protection Act (H.R. 5979) would require online retailers to provide customers with comprehensive information about their purchases, including shipping costs, return policies, and product descriptions.

"In the digital age, it is crucial that we protect the rights of online consumers," Lofgren said.

"Our legislation will ensure that consumers are informed and protected when they shop online."

WASHINGTON - Congresswoman Pramila Jayapal (D-Wash.) has introduced legislation to reform the nation's tax code.

The Fairness and Tax Reform Act of 2013 (H.R. 5980) would provide relief to middle-class families by increasing the child tax credit and expanding the earned income tax credit.

"Our tax code is broken," Jayapal said.

"This legislation will provide relief to middle-class families and promote economic growth."

WASHINGTON - Congresswoman Elizabeth Esty (D-Conn.) has introduced legislation to combat the growing problem of sexual assault on college campuses.

The Campus Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Act (H.R. 5981) would provide resources to colleges and universities to address sexual assault and create a culture of respect and accountability.

"We must take bold action to address the epidemic of sexual assault on our campuses," Esty said.

"Our legislation will provide the resources and tools that institutions need to create a safe and respectful environment for all students."

WASHINGTON - Congresswoman Barbara Lee (D-Calif.) has introduced legislation to prohibit the use of military force in Syria.

The Non-Authorization of the Use of Military Force in Syria Act (H.R. 5982) would prohibit the use of military force in Syria without an authorization by Congress.

"We must be clear and consistent in our approach to Syria," Lee said.

"I believe that the use of military force in Syria is not in the best interests of our country and our allies."

Making ‘making the grade’ a little tougher

By Anisia Bartley

Grand Forks, N.D. — It's happened. I always feared it would, but I never thought it was going to happen. I always feared that I would do poorly in college. And now, after all these years, I got a C.

Making the grade a little tougher

It's happened. I always feared that I would do poorly in college. Last year, I took some Editing. But now, after all these years, I didn't really work all that hard, but somehow, I didn't get a Cs. It seems they can't give Cs. It seems they have to keep a certain grade point average, and that's why they can't give Cs.

Baseball

The Giants are not the only ones with a big-city focus. The Dodgers are, too. They're one of the most powerful franchises in baseball. And they're also one of the most successful teams. They won the World Series in 1981, 1988, and 1989. They're also one of the few teams that have won three straight World Series titles. The Dodgers are also one of the most popular teams in the country. They have a large fan base, and they draw a lot of fans to their games. They're also one of the few teams that have a large television audience.

The currently exhibiting a wide variety of artworks, from interactive daguerreotype photography to traditional Japanese and Chinese glaze ceramics, to experimental electronics art. These artworks are professional photographer Deborah Hardee's exhibit "Beauty in All Things," which has been on view for the last 30 years. Her latest project, "New Works," dives deeply into her concept:

"The goal of my current work is to reveal the inner, spiritual essence that lies beneath the outward appearance of the composition. They are never 'off.' They merely rest. They seem to growl, but vanished as an art form in the 19th century. It is directly linked to the wonderment of the natural world. The Japanese woodblock prints preserved a rich tradition of aesthetics, prints preserve a rich tradition of aesthetics, prints preserve a rich tradition of aesthetics, prints preserve a rich tradition of aesthetics."

Deborah Hardee's exhibit features a wide variety of traditional Japanese and Chinese ceramics as well. The exhibit beautifully showcases textiles, lacquerware, paintings, woodblock prints, silk clothing and objects from Japanese culture. Her latest project, "New Works," has been on view at the Portland Art Museum, and offers insight into the social and cultural traditions of Nippon.
