Wednesday deadline for ASBSU hopefuls

By Andy Benson

The Boise State chapter of Sigma Xi is bringing author and meteorologist Richard Sommerville for a lecture titled "Climate Models are Useful" as part of their Distinguished Lecture Series.

The lecture, geared toward the scientific layman, is free and open to the public.

Sigma Xi is an international research society with nearly 700,000 members worldwide.

Sommerville, an expert on climate change, is a professor of meteorology at the Scripps Institution of Oceanography at the University of California, San Diego. He is the author of the award-winning and critically acclaimed book Engaging the Public: Understanding Climate Change.

Altogether, BYU, the director of Sigma Xi and one of the co-founders of ASBSU, said the lecture and the rest of the work they are doing is in response to the student body's interest in making the campus a more environmentally friendly place.

"I think we are trying to educate students that we want to open up this discussion between the Student Programs Board, the administration and the public," BYU said. Sommerville said he hopes his lecture will be helpful to those that want to listen.

"This is in part because we have been brought up in a long tradition of doing things that help the planet and help the environment." Portland, Ore.

Special to The Arbiter

A new task force put together by the Student Programs Board is looking for student input on the issue of alcohol abuse.

"We need to find out what the students want and get their input on the issue," said BYU.

In addition, BYU said the task force is looking for input from students and the general public. Yesterday, BYU said the task force will be meeting with students to discuss the issue.

According to BYU, the task force is looking for input from students and the public.

"We have to find out what the students want and get their input on the issue," BYU said. BYU said they are looking for students to give them their input.

Pi Alpha Alpha wins national award

By Colleen Underwood

The Associated Press

State’s Pi Alpha Alpha has won an award of excellence in the national standard-setting chapter and program management and charter recognition for the second year in a row. The purpose of the award is to bring recognition to the chapter in pursuing the goals of leadership, service and excellence in graduate education and administration.

Pi Alpha Alpha is a national honor society under the College of Public Affairs and Administration at Boise State University. The chapter has been in existence for 26 years and has won numerous awards over the years.

The award is given to chapters that meet national standards. To be eligible for the award, the chapter must have a strong leadership, service and academic component. The chapter must also have a strong involvement in community service and have a strong commitment to the profession.

The chapter, which is made up of three primary sections, is made up of students, faculty and alumni who are dedicated to excellence in graduate education and administration. The chapter is made up of three primary sections, which are the graduate students, undergraduate students and faculty members.

Low voter turnout expected this year

By Emily Garcia

If I were a betting man, it is a safe bet to say that the majority of people who cast their votes this year will do so because of a personal connection to the campaign.

I am not suggesting that people don't care about the issues, but rather that they have grown apathetic to the process of political debate.

In previous years, people have been more active in electing their representatives, but in recent years, there has been a decline in voter turnout.

This year, many people are not expected to vote because they feel that the candidates are not representing their interests.

The candidate who wins the election will likely be the one who can best mobilize the support of the voters who are actually going to the polls.

It is important for citizens to participate in the political process, as it is their right and duty to do so.

By voting, people have the opportunity to make a difference in their community and in their country.

It is crucial that people make an informed decision and cast their vote for the candidate who they believe will best represent their interests.

Let us work together to ensure that our voices are heard and that our country moves forward in the right direction.

Get out there and make your voice heard!

Lady Broncos lose two more this weekend

Tanya Dobson -- Staff Writer

The Lady Broncos lost two more games this weekend against Nevada and San Jose State at the Bronco Gym. Both the Wolf Pack and Spartans found victory in their top upsets of the season. The Lady Bronco struggles continue as they fell in straight sets at the hands of the Wolf Pack and Spartans.

Nevada took down South through three games during their match up Friday night.

In the first game, the Lady Broncos showed the Wolf Pack what they were made of when they had the score up three. Nevada put up two big blocks to keep the score tied at 21-21. Nevada won the point to end the game 23-21.

In the final game, Nevada’s head coach, Tom Haffey, put up two big blocks to try and force a tie break. Nevada won the point to end the game 23-21.

Game two was marked with a struggle as the Lady Broncos tried to keep up with Nevada. Boise State tied the score up 18-18 when they served the ball and found it back in play. Haffey then called a technical foul on the Lady Broncos. Nevada then scored seven kills to end the game 25-18.

Nevada took down the Lady Broncos in straight sets Saturday at the Bronco Gym. Game one started off well, with some great plays on the Boise State side of the court. However, the Lady Broncos couldn’t keep up with Nevada and was unable to get out of the game 25-13.

In game two, the Lady Broncos lost their first set of four with only 69-61 on the scoreboard. Both teams struggled with the score until the Lady Broncos took the score up 19-14. However, the Wolf Pack scored six straight points to end the game 25-19.

The Lady Broncos’ record drops to 4-9 in the WAC. Nevada’s record stands at 9-5 in the conference. Nevada will host SMU this weekend, while the Lady Broncos travel to El Paso to take on UTEP.

Eyes Adrift ride past wave of fame

By Robert Neal

Eyes Adrift is not just another one of those hybrid bands that are so popular in the new millennium. You may not be aware of their greatness, yet. But Eyes Adrift is on the forefront of the new millennium. Their themes touch every kind of human experiences: passion, lust, madness and hate.

Jone Kirkwood (vocals), Robert Seal (guitar) and Cris Massa (bass) find themselves touring the western United States. Their new record, "Eyes Adrift," is currently receiving major support from SpinART records. The Puppets. He may not be the most influential rock bands of the 90's, but Eyes Adrift are better known for what they've done before.

Brooks fails to deliver mature fantasy

By Adam Connell

Many a life-long fan of fantasy has harbored a dream of seeing the genre in an exciting new light. Orson Scott Card’s Shannara series, Terry Brooks’ Magic, and J.R.R. Tolkien’s Lord of the Rings are names that come to mind. For many young people who wish to remain in the province of fans, the story continues.

However, Brooks’ novels raise a little too shallow for older readers and his writing does not draw upon the experience of fans.

From his first novel, The Magic, with its most recent work, Magic’s End, the reader finds a magical relationship between the hero, the genius, and the withering logic of the plot. Brooks has taken his readers to the far-off and previously unexplored continent of Parnassus in search of ancient and powerful magic. Each book in the trilogy—the third book, Magic’s End—restates a paradox of prejudice and pushes the microcosm of the world back in upon itself.

In the plot that provides the vehicle and context of the series, creating a pristine environment out of thin air, a painted window in surfaces, creating a pleasing overall effect. The most appealing aspect of Connolly’s art is the usage of the “after Seattle” series. The work portrays "SFMOMA 303" Modern Art, the interior of the San Francisco Museum of Modern Art, which is packed with the artist’s own work. "Life; and "Dreams" is about spaces, Connolly utilizes a variety of surfaces, creating a pleasing overall effect.
