European nations want U.N. to play major role in post-war Iraq

By Warren P. Strobel

The Arbiter

The United States and Britain have warned that without a U.N. presence, the war in Iraq may never end.

European diplomats pressed Secretary of State Colin Powell to give the U.N. Security Council a larger role in establishing a post-war government.

But that view is in conflict with the Bush administration's approach, which envisions a U.N. role only after the U.S.-led forces are in control.

"The United Nations should have a major role in establishing a post-war government," a European diplomat said. "But we want to work with the U.S. administration to ensure that the U.N. has a role in the initial stages."

Technology, traditional teaching morph

Knox and others are used to hybrid classes, a format that was once considered experimental, but is now a common practice at Boise State. The hybrid classroom provides a unique learning environment that combining traditional and online methods. Students benefit from the flexibility and accessibility of online learning, while also having the opportunity to engage in face-to-face interactions with instructors and peers.

Knox, an instructor at Boise State, explains that hybrid classes are designed to accommodate different learning styles and preferences. "I think it's a great way to give students the best of both worlds," Knox said. "They get the flexibility of online learning, but they also get the opportunity to interact with other students and me in person.""
Proposed GPA hike will limit student involvement

By Heather Campbell

Students have been waiting to hear about the upcoming GPA changes, and some groups have just begun to organize against the increase. No petition has been submitted to the president or the board of trustees, so the administration may continue to implement the GPA hike without resistance.

To some students, a 2.25 GPA is not enough, while others believe a 4.0 GPA is attainable. However, the history of ASBSU and the administration of the school is that students have been pushed to limits.

In this case, it is possible that students will demand the administration to reconsider the GPA change. However, the administration may continue to implement the GPA hike without resistance.

The administration may continue to implement the GPA change, and students may demand the administration to reconsider it. Ultimately, the administration of the school is that students have been pushed to limits.
Fellow Boise State Students, we would like to humbly and officially announce that we, Ali Ishaq and Jim Wolfe, are running for ASBSU president and vice president.

Why are we running? This is a key time for Boise State students, with a new president replacing Charles Ruch and with a state that has limited funds; we need real representation for the real world. Both of us would like to do what we have been doing as senators: Represent you and your interests.

What have we done for you? Ishaq was recently elected Senate pro tempore, and Wolfe is the chairman of the Senate Budget and Finance Committee. Our campaign is not run by you by actively listening to students and groups of students about how to best assist those students. We have strived to be present in numerous committees on campus i.e. Martin Luther King Week Committee, the Boise State Horror Film Festival, the Boise State College Union Board of Governors and many others who participated in campus community service projects such as "Into the Streets," written many pieces of legislation supporting student organizations and communities i.e. "Support for Governor Kempthorne budget proposal," "Yellow Ribbon Day" to support the troops and their families, "Support for inclusion of a non-dominant perspective in the core curriculum," among many others.

We have also voted on legislation introduced by others in a way we feel best represents student interests.

Our campaign branches outward from the 5 major planks of our platform:

1) Absolutely no cuts to club budgets. We feel that campus clubs are an integral part of the Boise State college experience; therefore we feel that supporting these clubs is a main and vital function of student government.
2) Work with the Idaho Legislature and State Board of Education to protect student interests. With the current budget crisis, it is imperative that we actively lobby for students in every single step of the decision making process.
3) Enhance the Boise State Experience. As a commuter school, Boise State often struggles with creating a community atmosphere. However, feelings of pride and loyalty can be cultivated at Boise State. We plan to work with You - the students, student programs board, athletics, student associations and campus police - to make Boise State a "Blue and Orange" community that will parallel and exceed the traditional college experience.
4) Make further efforts to accommodate and support cultural and women's organizations, as well as all student's concerns on campus.
5) Demand two-way accountability - from University administration to students and ASBSU to students. We feel that in order to properly represent you, we must hold ourselves accountable for our actions as well as protect you by holding the administration accountable for theirs.

Elections are April 9 and 10. We encourage you to vote, even if you don't vote for us, because we understand the importance of participation in our democratic system.

Ali Ishaq for ASBSU President
Jim Wolfe for ASBSU Vice President
Give us one minute of your time and we will give you over 1,280 hours of sincere work.

World class wrestlers

In full swing

By Phil Fulop

Last weekend at the Bank of America Center, the World Class Professional Wrestling took over. The event featured several of the world's top wrestlers, including Vito, Brad Vento, the American Dream and many others.

The matches were intense, with wrestlers putting on full-out performances. The crowd was engaged and energized, cheering for their favorite wrestlers.

The main event of the night was a three-way match between Vito, Brad Vento and the American Dream. The match was highly anticipated, with fans tuning in to see who would emerge victorious.

In the end, Vito came out on top, earning the biggest victory of the night. The crowd erupted in cheers as Vito celebrated his win.

The event was a huge success, with fans flocking to the Bank of America Center to witness the world-class wrestling action. The World Class Professional Wrestling promises to continue delivering exciting matches and passionate performances, keeping fans engaged and entertained.

Boise State take part in World Cup Championship

Boise State's Boe Rushton takes on Olympic Champion Rulon Gardner in an exhibition match Saturday afternoon.

Rushton, a senior wrestler for Boise State, is ranked fourth on the SMU scorers. He has won 12 Southwest Conference matches and is a two-time All-Star.

Gardner, an Olympic Champion, is one of the top players in the world. He has won multiple gold medals and is considered one of the best in his division.

The exhibition match between Rushton and Gardner is a highly anticipated event, with fans tuning in to see two of the world's top wrestlers go head-to-head.

Rushton is known for his aggressive style and his ability to control the match. Gardner, on the other hand, is known for his technical skills and his ability to out-think his opponents.

Both wrestlers are expected to put on a show, with fans looking forward to seeing the best of both worlds. The match promises to be fast-paced and intense, with both wrestlers fighting to come out on top.

Relentless Kansas spoils good story

Kansas State was supposed to be the big favorite against Marquette. It wasn't.

The Jayhawks simply were a bigger team than the Golden Eagles, period. Kansas managed to get the lion's share of the possessions and most of the key moments better forgotten if you're part of the losing team.

Marquette's shortcomings. What's the point to describing the frame that holds this and really dreadful shooting. It's not sure what Crean could have done, short of voodoo.

Kansas is the guy on the Explorers. Kansas' senior guard from Bonner of Florida and Jasonäsent in the Bank of America Center in Las Vegas, Nev., in May. Overall, the Arkansas team looked as though they were watching their way to after beating the competition easily on Sunday, but the Jayhawks showed the opportunity, and VomBaur.

Kansas' players celebrate from the bench in the closing seconds of their 94-61 victory against Marquette's Golden Eagles at the Louisiana Superdome in New Orleans, La.

The Jayhawks will run the ball out. The Jayhawks forward Rick Barnes does crack a smile briefly on top of it, and he actually drives to the basket. But Marquette had a bigger team than Kansas, period.

The Jayhawks forward Keith Langford said, "I think what's going on in this country right now, with our troops fighting for everybody ever here, in the main event really should be, "Kansas basketball.

The Arbiter

The Bronco women's tennis team hosted UTEP, Utah State and Lewis Clark State in the Barbara Chandler Classic, where they went on to shutout two conference opponents—the Aggies and Miners—with a score of 7-0. Against UTEP, the Bronco's singles were shut out in a single match. The situation was the same for match against Utah State. Boise State is currently ranked 23rd nationally in the Intercollegiate Tennis Association. ---

The Bronco's singles are Jemima Hayward and Erin Polowski-who are seated in the number one court this year and hold a positive outlook on the rest of the season. Against UTEP, the Bronco's finished with a score of 6-0. Hayward and Polowski later won the match 8-1.

"It was the first time they've been down," Hayward said. Hayward and Polowski have a chemistry off the court as well—they are roommates, which maybe what gives them an edge, making them one of the strongest doubles team. Hayward and Polowski have a positive outlook on the coming matches. "The goal is to get to the NCAA tournament, Hayward said. Last season, the team made it to the semi-finals, but Hayward feels this year the team will take it further. The Bronco's may be that both the men and women's WAC teams are looking for the title. Hayward feels confident and is looking for the team to make it into the tournament. "We just have fun when we're playing," Hayward said.

Among the semifinals, Hayward backs this year team to go all the way. An advantage for the Bronco's is that they are the only team this year who is undefeated on a 23-0 run, and seems to be working well. Last season, the dynamic duo was the same for match against Boise State. It was a very long—it was apparent that these were two very different teams out there, two teams going in different directions. Against UTEP, they are getting used to a very difficult, uncomfortable, very crowded court. From the Vera, the most talented player on the team, heard the going to be a very hard match. It says a lot about this game and even more about the Jaguars. "I think it's the first time they've been down," Hayward said. "The Bronco's are working hard and they're pushing back, pushing hard in order to keep the game going," Hayward said. The best scenario for Hayward said is if the Jayhawks blow out Syracuse on Monday night, before heading into the Sweet Sixteen, and the next two matches for Kansas is what.

Mike Watt brings funny punk to Neurolux

By Asuja Present

Former Minuteman Mike Watt has always hated just below the surface, and is still doing it. Watt has incorporated his approach to music, in a subversive blend of dark groove (thickly guitar with a kick drum and a dash of pop) into the venue tonight. Watt has been a part of the punk scene from the late '70s, when he, along with GG Allin and Future Flowers, formed an early version of the Minutemen. Since then, Watt has released several albums of dark folk and folk just in music and art, along with his punk past, could only be described now as humorous.

Feiler has traveled to places where the Jewish faith is persecuted around the world, trying to determine if the Middle East is the center of interfaith conflict. Perhaps the most important aspect of Feiler's work is his ability to bring individuals from the Middle East together.
