BC Students Launch UF Drive With Dance

Kick off the United Fund drive on campus, will be a dance this Saturday at 9 p.m., in the SUU which will be sponsored by the Freshman class, according to Frank Frantz, Student body president.

Music will be played by the Allrighters, who are donating their services for the benefit affair.

Activities for the United Fund drive on campus will continue for two weeks with the different clubs competing against each other for the honor of donating the most money. A program which was won by the SUU last year, will be given to the club donating the largest amount. All funds are to be turned into the Vice-President's office.

HOLIDAY THURSDAY

Due to the national observance of Veterans Day, Thursday, Nov. 11, students will forego the pleasure of attending classes for one entire day. Although there is no special observance planned by the college, the day will be considered an official holiday, according to Dr. Albert Charest, Dean of Fac-culty.

College Thespians Portray Moliere's Classic Characters

Students still have tonight and tomorrow night's productions of Moliere's comedy, Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme, at 8:30 p.m., in the Little Theater on the second floor of the library.

They will be sure to enjoy the humor and rhythm and the characters portrayed by their fellow classmates. Especially enjoyable are Monsieur and Madame Jourdain, played by Don Hawkins and Judy Lyons, Jourdain's stupid wife's constant in his "little follies" keep things jumping in the domestic arena, while Cléante, played by Richard Ghich and Crispell, played by Greg Mathews.

You shouldn't become angry at someone who knows more than you do... after all it's not his fault.

A Salute to the Spirit of BC

The choosing has ended, the crowds have dispersed, the yellow mums are wilted, but the memories of Boise College's First Homecoming linger on in the hearts of those who participated in the activities. This first Homecoming of the men was representative of the things that the college has in store for the future, and is the best indication that Boise College has truly come of age. Without a doubt this was the best Homecoming in many years.

The pop rally was clearly indicative of the spirit which was to prevail throughout without the entire sequence of Homecoming activities right down to the final notes of the Boise College Band. This new "Spirit of BC" is born of the cooperation and participation of the students, faculty, and the pride in our school. This Spirit of BC is the key to the future of Boise College and its growth depends on motivation that spirit felt by every student, faculty member, alumus and citizen in the area.

The fifty-unit parade demonstrated to the townspeople the willingness, sense of humor and good nature in making things the best and biggest Homecoming parade ever. At the game, our team, spirited with fans from the stands and in the stands, were met by the delight of the visiting porters. The dance which featured the band of Jerry Gray was a great step forward in the arts of the college. The fact that it was a same band added to the excitement of the occasion, and added to many persons that they did not need to be rowdy to have fun.

Thus the Homecoming trip was all done, and all those who helped in the construction participated in the many activities. Their efforts reflect their pride in their school. Those who did not take the opportunity to participate in these activities will never embrace the full meaning of Homecoming and the need for school spirit. Let's make the "Spirit of Boise College" a living dynamic thing, rather than just a glib phrase.

College Demonstrators in Minority

United States college students of today are something of a laughing stock. Professional comedians take delight in picturing college students doing nothing but participating in demonstrations, protesting all kinds of things. A few isolated individuals are being cut down on the whole, most people enter college in order to acquire a higher education. They are hair in the decades of eight years, and the expenses just as he can join some rackets. The prestige of the majority is very high, and they are not a minority.

Some universities' faculty members are actually subjugated by their respective student bodies. It can't be denied that many riots are Communistic-inspired. The Reds desire to stir up civil unrest in the United States. They are attempting to increase the power of the student bodies. It can't be denied that many riots are Communistic-inspired. WORDS WORTH REPEATING

Depending on your current academic standing, you'll either be heartened or sobered by a discovery revealed in the November Reader's Digest. In a study of 17,000 men working for a leading industrial company, success in college was the most reliable indicator of success in a career. On the other hand, T. Board Chairman Frederick H. Kapell says that of the men in the top third of their classes at college, 60 per cent were also in the top third of the company. At the other end of the scale, 40 per cent of those in the lowest third of their schools were also in the lowest third in salary.

Kapell says that although the quality of the college makes some difference, it is less of a difference than the quality of the man. That is, top points from average colleges were more successful than average points from top colleges.

Another discovery made in the survey was that extracurricular activities have no relationship to career success. "It is only real college achievement that seems to have significant value," Kapell says. "More participation in extracurricular going-ons does not necessarily mean less learning." He also found that there is a statistical correlation between a good high-school rank and success in college.

While there are exceptions, "necessity we must be concerned with the probability," Kapell writes. "When you hire a high-school scholarship man, your bet is that a drive already demonstrated will be sustained. Anyone has some studying he wants to do?

CAMPUS BEAT

As a voice over the microphone requested all pie-eating contestants to step forward twenty "ba- nu squares" parted towards the lengthy table which displayed the following vitamins—twenty cream pies. Each participant, aided by a Gallician, slapped his hands behind his back. At the signal they were told, but were momentarily interrupted by a burst of gas thrown from somewhere high in the stands. At the conclusion of the goremong, a true spirit of "brotherly love" the gayly faced challengers pelted each other with warm compliments. Grand winner was the Sophomore class president, Joe Barber. As the "victims" left the field, one opponent, sporting a cherry-meringue pie, quipped, "Was a ticket!" And an innocent bystander, college photographer Franklin Carr, was slightly chlorinated by an original chocolate pie.

One of the wildest college jokes happened as the result of one university's campus-wide election for student body president. Members of the nominating committee, after publicly torn to pieces whether or not to offer the office, entered the name of a one on the ballot. The next man

Overheard in a locker room:

"How many hours are you working?"

"Three."

"Are you working?"

"Yeah, after school until 3."

"How do you study?"

"From 9 to 1:30?"

"Well, when do you sleep?"

"From 1:30 to 6:45."

"Gee, how do you do it?"

"Oh, isn't easy. I'm dying to-morrow."

During a recent Spanish test, Mr. Barbor (from Spain) said, "I need a dictionary."

"To fight or not to fight, that is the most frequently asked question among the students in the Senate building these days. The question concerns the snake eyes in the corridor and its inhabitants: a bull snake, a rattlesnake and two garter snakes."

Most of the students are under the impression that the bull snake and rattlesnake are enemies. This is not true. Although they have a healthy respect for each other, they rarely fight. In fact, according to Mr. William Bell, biology instructor, and in charge of the snakes, they are often found feeding in the same hole. Physical contact would have to be exacting on the bull snake—he is the most likely to win.

Vocational Division Adds New Faculty

Four new teachers and a counselor have been added to the Vocational/Technical school this fall. The school now has a record enrollment of 219 students and 16 faculty members. Vocational courses for women include Dental Assistant and Practical Nursing. Courses for men include Auto Mechanics, Carpeting, Drafting and Designing, Electrician, Machinist, Welding, Office Machine Repair and Auto Shop.

Mr. Claude Wall, acting director of the Vocational Entrance Extension, explained that the program on campus started approximately 25 years ago with offerings only in Carpeting and Machine Shop. He emphasized that all the addition to the Vocational building, the first of the new buildings to be constructed in the expansion program authorized last spring, will enable the staff to handle an ever-increasing enrollment.

The new teaching faculty includes: Mr. Oden, Welding instructor; Mr. Harris, Office Machine Repair instructor; Mr. Trout, Drafting and Design; and Mr. Alferl, Auto Mechanics.

The new Vocational counselor is Mr. Charles Williamson.

Delegates Attend C of I Conference

Four Boise College students, Joe Patterson and Merri McEachron of the Student Council, and Mark Brown and Diana Kelt of the Science and Social Science department, will be represented at the C of I conference in Dr. John Cayley's name to the Eighteenth Poli- tical Convention in Politics and with emphasis on Idaho.

The conference scheduled to meet Friday and Saturday is being sponsored by the College of Idaho in cooperation with the Oregon-Southern Idaho Council for Education in Politics and the Idaho Chapter of the American Society for Public Administration.

Featured speakers will be native Idahoans John A. Carver, Jr., Under Secretary of the Interior, and John M. Young, regional director of the U.S. Civil Service Commission in the Seattle region. Panel discussions will feature the Governor of Oregon, Governor Young, Congressman George V. Hansen and Congressman L. H. Wilson, and Mayor John Johnson of Rupert; J. J. Ogden, Grandpa- ville; Peterson, Idaho Falls, and the students who qualify for similar aid. The new buildings to be constructed will have a capacity for 400 students, in addition to those of living totally and intellectuals.

Generally, a young person must be 18 years old or between 18 and 23 years of age to attend school under this legislation; but also those of living totally and intellectuals. The directory of institute students will be available for distribution.

Broncos Beat Ricks to Collect Crown

By STEVE LAWRENCE

Crowning themselves as the undisputed leader of the ICAC Conference, the Boise Bronco defeated Ricks in the Homecoming contest last Saturday, 32-7. Although because of a conference ruling classifying Ricks as an ineligible team and altering 'their record from 7-0 to 0-7, the Bronco were not required to take the contest to be declared the conference leaders.

Their national standing, however, was threatened and they needed this game in the worst way. At last notice, the Bronco were sitting in the sixth position on the national poll, and Ricks was listed ninth.

Throughout the first half, it appeared that Homecoming fans were in for a toe-to-toe, knock-down, drag-out battle. Boise claimed the first score on their first possession when Ricks goalie was blocked, but Ricks quickly topped off by a one-yard plunge by Mike O'Shea. Gary Elam, in supporting a record of 20-0, was responsible for the most part showed a great deal of spirit.
