AWS Elects Freshman Representatives

Accreditation Check

12-MAN COMMITTEE ARRIVES HERE TO RE-EVALUATE BOISE COLLEGE

By COLEEN LITTLE

The re-evaluation of Boise Junior College and a critical appraisal of the upper division classes will be determined by a 12-man committee, representing the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools, who arrived in Boise this week. The complete report submitted by the faculty and administration on every phase of activity at Boise College will be studied.

Classes will be visited, teachers and students will be met personally and the general climate of the college appraised by members of the committee.

Representatives in Each Division

Representatives from the association will each have a specific responsibility in the six major divisions of the college, plus representatives for specific majors. Chairman of the committee is Dr. Dwight C. Baird, president of Clark College, Vancouver, Wash., who will review the administrative field. Others are: Dr. Laura O. Walker, director of School of Nursing, Montana State University, Nursing; Dr. John C. Carlisle, Dean of Education, Utah State University, Education; Dr. George D. Craig, professor of English, Northern Montana College, Humanities and Fine Arts; Dr. Richard A. Neve, Dean of Graduate Studies, Central Washington State College, Life Sciences; Dr. Howard L. Miller, Professor and Business Manager, Northwest Nazarene College, Business and Economics; Dr. Bert E. Christensen, chairman Department of Chemistry, Oregon State University, Physical Sciences and Mathematics; Dr. Robert W. Conrod, Dean of College of Arts and Sciences, University of Montana, Social Sciences; Dr. S. Gene Odle, Dean of Students, College of Idaho, Student Personnel Services; Dr. Wendell L. Esplin, chairman of Technical Education, Weber State College, Vocational - Technical; Dr. James F. Bemis, Executive Director, Miller Hall, U. of Washington, and Dr. Henry Hanson, Dean of the Graduate School of Oregon State University, will survey all upper division offerings.

Their report to the Higher Commission on Nov. 29, 30, 1966, will offer recommendations on ways of improvement as well as an assessment of present practices, according to Dr. Eugene B. Chaffee, president of Boise College and chairman of Higher Commission of the Northwest Association for Secondary and Higher Schools from 1958 to 1964. The high academic standards of Boise Junior College have resulted in favorable reports from the committee in former years. Dr. Chaffee pointed out that this association covers the seven northwestern states and is also affiliated with the other regional accrediting associations which cover the entire United States.

Awarded From 1-10 Years

Accreditation based upon every phase of college or University life, is awarded for one to ten years, depending upon the results of the findings of the committee. Boise Junior College's last rating was for ten years (1956), the optimal time given accreditation, and is up for renewal this year, along with consideration of the junior and senior classes.

The full four-year college accreditation will be renewed next October. All upper division classes have been analyzed and fully approved by representatives from the University of Idaho, Idaho State University and the State Department of Education during visits on July 18, 1965 and April 4, 1966. This assures students transferring to another college or enrolling in post-graduate courses, full acceptance credits received at Boise College.

Good Voter Turnout Recorded At AWS Election Held Friday

Freshman members of the Associated Women Students of Boise College turned out in good number last Friday to elect four new freshman representatives for AWS. Elected to serve as AWS representatives are Judy Cosby, Kristeen Tanning, Lynda Davis and Susan Johnson.

With over 15 candidates running for the freshman offices, the turnout of petitions was exceptionally good, according to Susan Benson, AWS president.

Winning one of the four seats in AWS was Judy Cosby, who is attending Boise College for the first time this year, and is a graduate of Borah High School. She is currently the Honored Queen of Jobs Daughters Bethel 48.

Joining the three other freshman representatives will be Kristeen Tanning, who is a graduate of Boise High, where she was very prominent in all school activities. Kristeen is a member of BC's drill team, the Bronettes, and was first runnerup to Miss Boise this year.

Also chosen for an office was Lynda Davis, who graduated from Boise High School, where she was a member of drill team and the school newspaper staff.

Susan Johnson will complete the four-member team. She is a graduate of Capital High School where she was student body secretary and an active member of Pop Club. She is also a member of the Bronettes.

Treasurer Appointed

Newly appointed officer in AWS is Tanya Ferguson, who was placed in office as AWS treasurer to fill a vacancy left by Kathy Connor. Tanya is a sophomore and is past historian of Valkyries. She is a member of the ASB Social Committee this year and works in the BC Printshop.

Others running for AWS representatives were Marilyn Adams, Vicki Berlin, Ailene Day, Diane Ginther, Kathy Hunt, Iris Miller, Robin Mount, Su Lin Randles, Marie Strayer, Merry Underkofler and Lane Walkup.

Veteran Officers

AWS officers for this year, who were elected last spring, are: Susan Benson, president; Anita Williams, vice president; Pat Strait, secretary; Tanya Ferguson, treasurer, and Linda Pelon, publicity chairman.

Senior representatives for AWS are Marilyn McKeen and Sue Mikolasek. Juniors are Pat Spensinger and Janet Steele. Janie Black, Cindy Koon and Shery Mares represent the sophomores.

The AWS members are currently working on the project of selling mums during Homecoming. They will also enter a float in the small club division in the Homecoming parade, Oct. 15.

Any interested coeds at Boise College are asked to contact Susan Benson at 375-2258. Also help is needed for preparation of the float.

Pi Sigma Sigma Holds Show Made Up of Student Talent

Acts ranging from singing groups and dancers to satiristic comedy in the form of a panel show will be on hand to entertain BC students at the annual Pi Sigma Sigma Talent Show to be held Friday, Sept. 30 at 8:00 p.m., in the Library Little Theatre.

According to Dick Hamm, general chairman of the event, tickets will be on sale in the SUB and Library this week at $1.25 per person and $2.00 per couple.

All those attending the show are urged to save their tickets. If tickets are presented at the Pi Sigma Sigma dance the following night, Oct. 1, at 9 o'clock, in the SUB ballroom, the holder will receive a 50-cent discount and will only be charged 75 cents for the dance. Regular admission without ticket is $1.25 per person.

Providing the music for the dance will be the Alligators, a BC group, who will also be playing for the Pi Sigs during the Battle of the Bands on Oct. 29.

FAMOUS SINGER TO APPEAR HERE

The Glenn Yarborough concert will be held Nov. 5, at Boise College gymnasium.

"He is one of the country's outstanding singers," declared a college spokesman.

WANT TO GO TO THE MOON? HERE'S YOUR BIG CHANCE

(Special to the ROUNDUP)

HAMPTON, VA.—This is your chance to go to the moon—and perhaps beyond.

The deadline for application: Jan. 8, 1967. The address to apply at: Scientist-Astronaut, National Academy of Sciences, National Research Council, 2101 Constitution Ave. N.W., Washington, D. C.

A NASA dispatch said that applicants must be U. S. citizens—and must have a doctor's degree in medicine, engineering or the "natural sciences."

However, added a spokesman: "Exceptions may be made in outstanding cases." Height limitation is six feet tall. Nobody over 36 will be taken.

Women are invited, too, said NASA.

BC Homecoming Gets Under Way With Applications Now Available For Traditional Queen Contest

Homecoming at Boise College is well under way, with a tentative schedule set for Homecoming Week, Oct. 10-15, and applications for queen being available this week in the Dean's office, Room 108 in the Administration building.

The applications can be obtained by any club wishing to sponsor a candidate and the form must be turned in to Room 108 by noon, Friday, Sept. 30. These applications are also being placed in all campus club mailboxes located in the SUB.

Those candidates eligible to run for the honor, the preliminary voting on which will take place Oct. 6, must be sophomores or upper division students and taking classes at BC full time.

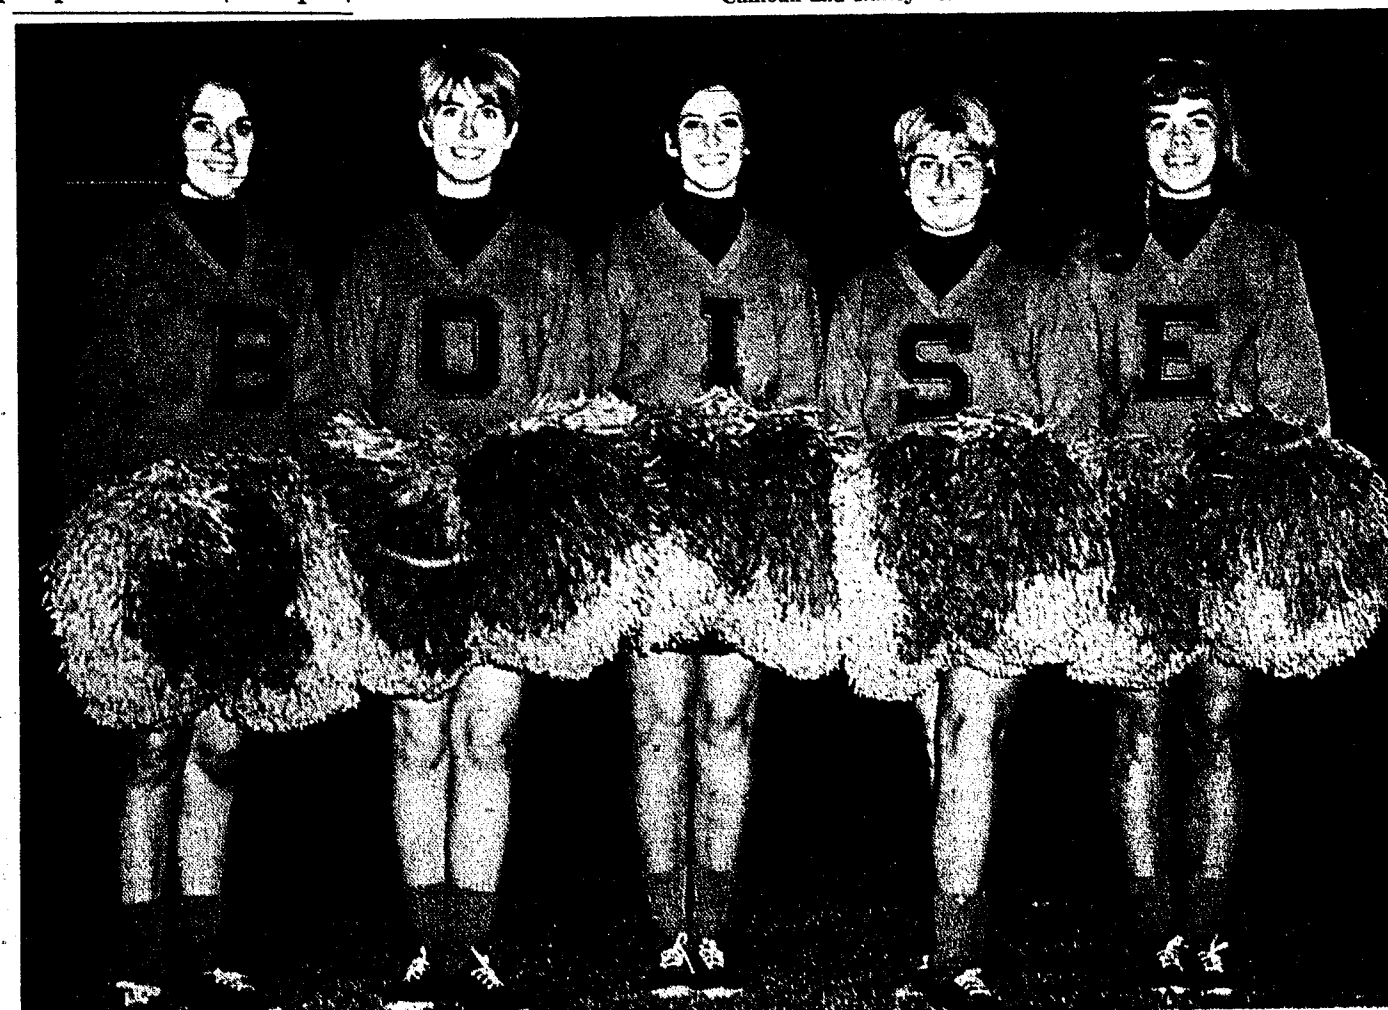

Preliminary campaigning with posters and pictures will begin on Oct. 3 and continue through Oct. 5; preliminary balloting on Oct. 6 and the final voting on Oct. 13 at which time the queen and her four-member court will be chosen by the BC students.

The first big event of the week will take place on Friday, Oct. 14 with a pep parade beginning at noon. That night there will be a pep rally sponsored by the cheerleaders and the Valkyries at 7:00, in Bronco stadium. During the rally the pie-eating contest will be held, along with the announcement of the winner of the King Beard contest and the crowning of the queen and her court. An informal pep dance will follow the activities in the stadium.

Saturday morning, Oct. 13, will start off with line-up for the float parade at 11:30, and the parade to begin at 1:00 p.m. Entry fee for the floats is $2 apiece, with the maximum cost per float being $35 and an itemized receipt must be presented before the float will be accepted. Awarding the prizes for the float division winners will be judges chosen by the Valkyries. Any campus club is eligible to enter a float. That night, pre-game activities will begin at 6:30, with the pre-game ceremonies, presentation of float winners, presentation of mascot and introduction of Homecoming Queen and her court.

The highlight of the Homecoming celebration will begin at 7:15 p.m., with the Bronco football game. Halftime enter-

OUR EDITORIAL COMMENT

Have you too been hearing the questions of concern about BC's slowly lagging school spirit and the lack of support by the townspeople? The questions haven't been voiced too loudly—the problem isn't too serious yet—but our responsible students and leaders are looking to the future. Now that BC has achieved four year status, there will be a greater number of activities and functions; we are going to need the support of the townspeople more than ever, and more is going to be expected of us. The capital city is interested in BC—they've proven this time and again in their unflinching support in BC bond issues. They have tried to extend a helping hand of cooperation in a variety of ways, letting the students know that they are considered responsible adult citizens who can be useful in government, civic, and social affairs. The townspeople have shown quite an interest in BC student activities, such as the Homecoming parade, the political, religious, and service clubs on campus, and the Miss Boise College pageant.

The problem seems not so much one of getting the town to back us or to take an interest in what we're doing. More likely, the problem is centered right on campus. We have had quite good student support for our activities thus far, but the year has just begun. Perhaps one of the greatest detriments to townspeople and student support alike is a lack of proper or sufficient publicity. To convince people that an activity is going to be interesting and worthwhile, the organizers must generate and project a lively enthusiasm which can be contagious if properly channeled.

There are many ways of accomplishing this. A beginning is that old reliable device—a variety of clever, attractive posters placed at strategic spots on campus. A second way would be to turn to the school newspaper—and any well-planned, well-organized event will easily be able to meet the paper's weekly deadline. A further step could be an announcement over our campus radio station, KEJC. If even more publicity is needed, a clearance from the BC Publications Office can result in publicity in the capital city newspaper, and local radio and TV stations as well.

The year is young and the plans ahead are terrific. Let's all give it our best—and make Idaho vibrate with the Broncos stampede.

Faculty Scores Anti-Draft Move

From the Columbia Daily Spectator, Columbia University, New York
 Several faculty and administrative members of the School of Engineering sharply criticized a proposal by one of their colleagues which would insure that all students receive A's in courses in order to thwart the draft.

The proposal, released in a formal statement by Professor of Industrial Engineering Melman, calls upon all faculty members to intensify their teaching efforts to "earn" A grades. It cites the illegal nature of the war in Vietnam as the justification for refusing to comply with Selective Service policies.

The bulk of criticism termed Professor Melman's statement unworkable and idealistic.

John R. Dunning, dean of the Engineering School, stated that the proposal "hardly seems possible in our present academic framework." Issuing all students A grades would, in effect, penalize the good student and jeopardize his chances of attaining a position of fellowship, he asserted.

"Professor Melman's statement reflects a very idealistic outlook" he added, "one that does pose problems in the real world."

According to Professor of Chemical Engineering Elmer L. Gaden, Jr., the Melman proposal represents a "grossly oversimplified" understanding of the draft issue. He charged that such a solution would prove an "immense disservice" to the students.

"Giving your students all A's is only going to prejudice some sub-morons sitting on top of some local draft board," he asserted. "Issuing grades reasonably in a good school, after close consultation with the students, will take care of ninety-nine per cent of all problems."

The Melman proposal would "hardly do our students any good, nor in the long run, the University," Professor Gaden declared.

Henry B. Linford, professor of chemical engineering, stated, "you can't botch up our educational system just to circumvent a government order. The place to fight this is with the government, not the University."

The Melman proposal declared that "the grading of our students, specifically for drafting into armed forces—and especially in an undeclared war in violation of the Charter of the United Nations—is morally repugnant, and is in our judgment, contradictory to international law as propounded by prosecutors and judges of our own country."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:
 IMPULSE is a literary magazine printed on campus, comprised of artistic contributions supplied by the students of Boise College. The subject material includes poems, short stories, photographs, and fine art (e.g. wood cuts, prints, sketches, paintings, etc.). This year's publication will provide for full color reproduction of art work and photographs as well as typographical trimmings.

Since IMPULSE is to be published twice this year, we are confronted with an imposingly early deadline date for accepting contributions. This date is Oct. 27. This early date is required due to the time needed to print such a publication.

The staff of IMPULSE urgently needs your contributions soon. At this date we are in particular need of art work, which may be turned in to Room 5 in the Temporary Building 2 for safe keeping. All literary contributions may be turned in to Tracy Thompson, IMPULSE faculty advisor, Room 8, T12. Please represent yourself well, contributing only the best of your particular media.

Thank you.
 Dan O'Leary
 Temporary Editor

Dear Editor:
 The students and faculty of Boise College would want to know that I supported every piece of legislation in behalf of Boise College and for the tax programs to back up these votes. I do not stutter on the subject. I believe emphatically that the progress of your school is vital to southwestern Idaho's future and therefore to all of Idaho.

The state has a moral obligation to share in the cost of upper division instruction at Boise College. Tuition requirements for students from outside the district are, for a public institution, unreasonable; to be fair the state should substantially enlarge the county tuition program initiated by the 1965 legislature.

Any promises Don Samuelson makes in the short time before Nov. 8 can have little weight when they are compared to his active record of opposition to expanding, improving and paying for educational opportunity in Idaho. For six years as a lawmaker he demonstrated a lack of confidence in our ability and willingness to move Idaho into the modern world. He may campaign. He cannot change his spots.

Very truly yours,
 Perry Swisher
 Independent Candidate for Governor

Dear Editor:
 I would like to congratulate the student body of Boise College for their fine showing at the Boise College-Everett Jr. College football game. We have a fine team, coached by an excellent staff. I am sure we are on our way to one of our best seasons. I have never seen the spirit any better at Boise College games. Our cheerleaders and song girls did a fine job of coordinating the cheering section. I am very proud of our hard-working drill team. The girls are real professionals and add greatly to Boise College.

Special thanks should go out to the people of Boise, who are supporting Boise College athletics. Our crowd was very impressive Saturday evening.

Let's all keep up the good work and bring home a championship to Boise College.
 William K. Ilett
 A.S.E. President

Second Semester Coeds Welcomed to Club

NO TRAFFIC LIGHT FOR INTERSECTION

Recent criticisms of the traffic situation at the Campus School intersection of College Boulevard can have no effect, according to sources reached today. No traffic light can be placed at the intersection because there is no money budgeted for the purpose.

The intersection has been called dangerous in many quarters. It has been pointed out that a car emerging from the BC parking lot can block the view of drivers going toward Capitol Boulevard on College. Children from Campus School are using the street at the hours of greatest traffic.

Boise Police Chief Jack Barney said he recognizes the situation is bad but there are no funds for a light at the intersection and no funds can be appropriated until January. He also said several other intersections in Boise are in line for traffic controls and none can be provided.

Machines Have 'Feelings'

Heat sensitive computers with ravenous electrical appetites threw Boise College's Data Processing Center into an uproar the past few weeks with their demands for air conditioning and three-phase electricity.

When the leased computers arrived here in August, their room wasn't equipped yet with the right type of electricity so they were shunted into the dark basement of the Science building, which was the closest building with the necessary amount of electricity.

The fiendish machines retaliated for this treatment by overheating and underworking in the non-air conditioned basement.

Registration time was pressing, so, the smug machines, blinking their lights in the basement for the last time August 29, were transferred to their air conditioned room, Aug. 30.

The electricity wasn't installed at the time so the machines were fed through a long, black extension cord which ran from the transformer building in front of the rising liberal arts building, along the front sidewalk and crawled into the window of their room.

When the electricity was installed the middle of last week, the extension cord was removed and at last reports, the computers were whirring contentedly.

RELIGION On Campus

By PHOEBE LINDSAY
 The United Christian Campus Institute (UCCI), whose objective is "a cooperative Protestant venture in Christian education and fellowship," has announced the appointment of two BC students to UCCI posts.

Miss Kathy Sheldon, a sophomore, was elected vice-chairman of the UCCI board. Miss Karen Lewis, a freshman, was appointed to represent the UCCI on the BC Inter-Faith Council.

The UCCI is planning a special program for BC students, under the leadership of Rev. Dave Choate of the First Congregational Church in Boise.

Self-confidence is the first requisite to great undertaking.

SCIENCE

Sea Serpents May Live In Dark Ocean Depths

By THOMAS R. HENRY
 North American Newspaper Alliance

WASHINGTON—Sea serpents, enormous and ferocious "snakes" which dominated the earth's oceans about 50 million years ago and which are known only as fossils, still may survive in the sea's dark depths.

This possibility is suggested in a report on sea monsters of the International Oceanographic Foundation (IOF). The ancient creatures were as much as 40 feet long. They had scales like a snake. Their jaws were so arranged that they could swallow very large animals.

Long after their supposed extinction, according to the fossil records, there appeared a group of whale-like creatures, the zeuglodon. One of these, which might still survive, was the basilosaurus.

It was a whale which looked like an enormous snake. It was about ten feet long but had a tail more than 40 feet long.

"There can be no complete denial," says the report, "that some of these may be alive in the ocean today." If so, it is explained, their entire lives are spent at great depths where, no man ever has been. Consequently they never have been seen by man. They could not survive in such low pressures as are found at the surface.

Some day, however, one may be thrown up close to the surface in some sea-bottom explosion.

STUDENTS REPORT ON TEEN-AGE DRUG USAGE

NEW YORK—Drug usage among American teen-agers may not be as widespread as some fear, but it is not confined to the slums, or to a miniscule beatnik fringe. According to a report in Seventeen Magazine, based on 1,100 responses to a survey sent by the publication to girls of 13 to 20, from every state in the union.

—55% surveyed (close to one out of every 18) have used drugs for other than medicinal purposes at least once;

—three out of 10 of these experimenters—one in every 61 girls studied—are still using drugs;

—more than eight out of 10 of the regular users smoke marijuana . . . more than a third swallow pep pills . . . almost a third take LSD—and most are involved with more than a single drug;

—these girls have little difficulty in securing drugs through illicit channels;

Among girls who have tried drugs, half used amphetamines (pep pills); almost half, marijuana; one in five, LSD. About one in 10 sniffed glue or swallowed barbiturates. Three-fourths of the girls who have tried drugs did so between the ages of 15 and 17, but 18.0% were 14 or younger.

Almost half the girls in the sample have had at least indirect contact with drugs. 47.0% know a boy or girl who uses drugs, or know one they believe is using them.

Most teens have low opinions of other teens who try drugs, but most are highly curious about drugs. 95.0% have discussed the subject with friends, in school, with their parents, or in church.

What They Take

Although most teens from average homes have enough knowledge of heroin to steer clear of it ("No kid in his right mind takes heroin," says one college freshman), Seventeen reports that some do not realize they are flirting with narcotics when they seek a drug high from non-prescription cough medicines.

Fewer than one in 10 of the surveyed teens who had tried drugs chose "goof balls" (teen vernacular for barbiturates, prescription sleeping pills), but, the study shows, pep pills (amphetamines) are widely used by teens who underestimate their dangers. Some college students take them at examination time to keep awake for all-night studying and some mistakenly believe dextrodine (a full-fledged amphetamine) is free from hazard. One student, who had four finals in three days, took "dex" to help her stay awake to study, a friend reports. The result: "She thought she wrote a brilliant economics exam . . . discovered later that she had just scrawled a single sentence—I am a sugar plum fairy—all over the blue book."

Some girls who find it difficult to mix at a party take pep pills to get an exhilarating sense of hectic involvement, the article reveals. Others pop a few into their mouths before a date. One of these teens reported a "frightening reaction"—her mouth and neck became locked in a spasm, causing her to be hospitalized. The same girl tried a relaxant before a date and later "couldn't remember a thing that happened all evening." A minor cousin of the pep pills—a caffeine drug sold without prescription—is also popular with college students.

Why They Take It

A 17-year-old Virginian smokes marijuana ("blows pot") "because I enjoy it and don't feel it's wrong," a college freshman because "everything is very nice . . . you have a constant smile on your face."

Young marijuana smokers are in danger of moving on to the big bang of LSD and other drugs which alter the consciousness. These hallucinogens have a sharp fascination for teen-agers, particularly those looking for a gimmick to self-understanding.

Alice Lake, who has interviewed teen-agers from all walks of life to supplement the survey, concludes: "The world of drugs contains every element appealing to youth's conforming nonconformity." A college freshman told her, "Taking drugs is the cool thing to do . . . it's in." Pressure from the crowd is another factor inducing teen-agers to try drugs. ("I couldn't say no, not be part of the group," explained a 15-year-old from Illinois.) In some schools, drug users form an exclusive clique ("It's something to do at a party and then brag about.")

Other factors: the fun of horrifying parents, the secrecy, the danger, the new "in" language—"joint" is slang for a marijuana cigarette, a "nickel bag" is five dollars worth of marijuana tobacco, an "acid-head" takes "a trip" and a "pot-head" turns on.

Most of the teens who had tried drugs fall into the category of "fun users" and most are fairly casual about them. "My purpose in life is to experience as much pleasure and the least amount of pain as possible," said a 16-year-old. And a college freshman admitted: "I enjoy taking marijuana occasionally just as I enjoy ice-cream cones."

For others, drugs answer an inner need. "At times the world is just too much," one girl wrote. Another, describing several friends who take mescaline and marijuana regularly, said: "With them it's not just a healthy rebellion but a basic malaise . . . a feeling of helplessness, that everything is wrong with their world and there's nothing they can do about it."

CLUB NEWS

German Club

German Club met for the first time this year Wednesday evening, Sept. 21, in the SUB.

Officers elected were Maria Sullivan, president; Kathy Sheldon, vice president; Bob Brewton, secretary, and Janice Brenna, treasurer.

The next meeting was held on Wednesday evening, Sept. 28, at which plans for the homecoming float were discussed.

Falk House News

Falk House has elected officers as follows: Judy Kessler, president; Linda Tewksbury, vice president and social chairman; Susan Putz, secretary and treasurer. We are off to another year with hopes that it will be fun and successful.

A get-acquainted party with Chapman House was given by Falk House on Sept. 15. There was tennis, swimming, badminton, and food.

Homettes

Membership of the Homettes Club has reached 35 and more are urged to join for the many activities and projects of the year. The first major activity is the state convention at the University of Idaho, October 7, 8, and 9.

All Home Economics majors are invited to attend the meetings Thursday at noon, the second week of every month in Room S105.

Valkyries

Among the present Valkyrie activities is the pledging of new members to the women's service club. In order to qualify for membership, a girl must possess a minimum 2.5 grade average and exhibit such personal qualities as leadership.

Present Valkyrie members are purchasing sports equipment to send to Carol McDonald, a former member, who is a VISTA volunteer in an Alaskan village.

Valkyries also conduct the Homecoming King Beard contest, pie eating contest, and construct the Queen's float.

On October 14 they will sponsor a Pep dance.

Golden Z's

Nine sophomore women have pledged the Golden Z service club for this semester. They are: Carol Burgess, Becky Christensen, Barbara Cockerell, Connie Collins, Judy Kessler, Linda Knighton (chairman), Pam Lyda, Linda McKissick and Mary Woodruff. Under the guidance of Kathy Sheldon, pledge captain, they are performing such feats as cleaning the Golden Z emblem, which hangs in the SUB snackroom, and assisting in the sale of concessions at Bronco stadium events. In order to qualify for membership in the honorary organization a girl must be at least a second semester freshman, and maintain a 3.0 grade average.

Never hit a man when he is down; jump on him!!

SENATE MEETING

The next regular meeting of the Senate will be held Monday, Oct. 3 at 7:00 p.m., in the SUB ballroom, stated Bill Ilett, ASB president. All clubs are requested to send their representatives.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"WE'RE LUCKY TO HAVE A HOUSE MOTHER WHO UNDERSTANDS COLLEGE BOYS."

Button, Button, Who's Got the Button?

THE BUTTON BIT

By AL SCHWARTZ

The lapel button, once vehicle for such prosaic sentiments as "Elect Rainey Sheriff" and "Local 502 United Boltermakers," has become everyman's billboard in the last few months. Almost anything anyone could want to communicate has been put on a button.

The plague of buttons, an East Coast phenomenon, has not yet reached BC. But observant students may have noticed a few examples already. One could have seen wearing a button with the Fellowship of Reconciliation symbol on it. (The English "Ban the Bomb" symbol designed by Lord Bertrand Russell.) And a student who has a "Think Ethnic" button on his guitar case has been seen wearing a "Frodo Lives" button, incomprehensible except to readers of Tolkien's interminable Lord of the Rings trilogy of novels, "in" objects by themselves.

Where the button scene started is disputed. Some pin it on the peace movement. The Student Peace Union, headquartered with several similar organizations at 5 Beckman Street in New York, is responsible for a 25c model of the Fellowship of Reconciliation button. Other Student Peace Union buttons: "Make Love, Not War," and "Kill for Freedom, Kill for Peace, Kill Vietnamese, Kill, Kill!"

For those at the other end of the ideological spectrum there is a "Bomb Hanoi" button.

Some observers blame the buttons on CORE or claim there were buttons at Berkeley in the fifties. But wherever they began, there are buttons for everyone now.

"Nationalize A.T.&T.," "Legalize Marijuana," Goldwater in '68," "Draft Beer, Not Students," buttons in the Elvish script Tolkien invented for his novels, and perhaps pleadingly, "Psychedelicyze Suburbia."

One particularly prize button was originated by a record company. It shows Bob Dylan looking, as usual, like the "before" picture in a hair oil ad. Printed over his head is the word "Tarantula!"

That is the only button that cannot be found at two New York shops specializing in the button trade, The Big Store on Greenwich Village's MacDougal street, and Underground Uplift Unlimited on St. Mark's Place. The latter has a continuing contest for buttons that has produced several popular ones including "Support Your Local Anarchist." Underground Uplift also sells bumper stickers ranging from "Support the Boys in Vietnam," to "Mary Poppins Is a Junkie."

PENGUINS DRESSED FOR THE AFFAIR

SWISHER CALLS FOR STATE AID FOR BC

Perry Swisher, independent candidate for governor, in an interview Tuesday, said practically all college districts in Idaho are too small to support their schools. He called for more state aid for Boise College, saying the cost of tuition for juniors and seniors is too high.

Swisher, a Republican state senator from Pocatello, is said to have been instrumental in changing the status of BC to that of a four-year school.

At the same time the candidate said he did not believe the people of the district would want to accept the degree of state aid that would put the school under the control of the state.

He tied the possibility of state aid to the continuation of the sales tax, saying there is not going to be enough money for education in Idaho without the tax.

Campus Fishermen And Hunters Notice

Fish and Game licenses of the proper NON-RESIDENT class must be purchased by students from other states before fishing or hunting in Idaho.

In order for any person to lawfully fish for any species of fish or to hunt any wild game or non-game animal or to carry an uncased shotgun or rifle in the fields or forests of the State of Idaho, a license of the proper type and class must first be procured.

Idaho law further provides that only bona fide residents over the age of 12 years, who have resided in Idaho for the six months last preceding the application for a license, shall be entitled to purchase a resident fish or game license.

Written application is required for the purchase of a resident license. It is unlawful for the applicant to make any false statement as to length or place of residence in such application.

Penalties for the violation of these provisions are fines in the amount of not less than $25.00 nor more than $300.00, or imprisonment in the county jail for not more than six months, or both such fine and imprisonment.

Six months presence within the state while attending school does not in itself qualify a person as a bona fide resident of the State of Idaho. The Attorney General of Idaho has ruled that a non-resident student retains residence status in the country or state from which he comes to Idaho.

If there is any question regarding your residence status, do not hesitate to contact the nearest Idaho Fish and Game Department office or field representative for further information.

The Idaho Fish and Game Department advises non-resident students that such students are ineligible to purchase resident hunting and fishing licenses, even though they have been in the state for a period of six months.

This reflects a legislative provision which will apply for such period a student is on non-resident status at any college or university.

WW II JAPANESE WAR CRIMINALS SAY CHARGES WERE TRUMPED UP

By ALBERT AXELBANK
North American Newspaper Alliance

TOKYO—Japan's surviving "war criminals" are, almost to a man, unregenerate. Not only do they refuse to accept the charges against them for so-called war crimes, but they reject the notion that Japan was guilty of aggression in World War II. A documentary study recently published of nine "class A war criminals"—who were so designated by the International Military Tribunal for the Far East in 1946—discloses that nearly all the survivors condemn the trials as fabricated and farcical. Of 28 prisoners tried, two died during the trials, one was absolved on account of mental derangement, seven were hanged, and nine died of natural causes since then.

Kenryi Sato, 71, an ex-lieutenant general in the defunct imperial army, is probably a typical surviving "class A war criminal." The charges against him were trumped up, he says.

Sato's pet theory is, interestingly, that Japan never waged a "war of aggression." Not surprisingly, he says he would like to demand a retrial because "the war crimes charges were based on false premises."

Sadao Araki, 89, also an ex-general, actually believes that Japan was not really defeated. His reasoning: "A war is like a game, and it is governed by a set of strict rules against atrocities. In dropping the atomic bombs, the U. S. broke those rules. We called it quits because you cannot continue a game if the other side refuses to obey the rules. It was not a defeat."

Two surviving "war criminals"—Shigetaro Shimada, 82, and Koichi Kido, 77—hate reporters and believe the public should not be privy to "state secrets." They are writing their memoirs.

Naoki Hoshino, 74, who was chief cabinet secretary of the Tojo cabinet, calls the trials a "monkoushō." Today, he is a prosperous businessman. Teichi Suzuki, 78, former head of the planning agency; Hiroshi Oshima, 80, war-time ambassador to Nazi Germany; and Takaumi Oka, 76, an ex-vice admiral, also believe the trials were unjustified. They live secluded lives and also shun publicity.

Okinori Kaya, 78, who served as finance minister in the Tojo cabinet, has made a dramatic political comeback. After being imprisoned for some 10 years, he was later appointed justice minister. Kaya, a leading figure in Japan's ruling pro-American liberal-democratic party, says he wants to atone for his past "by doing whatever I can for the underprivileged people of Japan."

MOVIE REVIEW

Virginia Woolf Found Excellent; Also Fellini's Movie

Edward Albee, author of the slashing, brutal play, "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf," sold the screen rights to Ernest Lehman for half a million dollars. Lehman assembled a most unlikely crew, but produced an excellent film.

Although no film could hope to preserve destructive, vicious language which is the core of the play, the immediacy of the media and the ingenuity of first time director Mike Nichols maintains the destructive intensity of the play.

Excellent performances are given by George Segal, Sandy Dennis and Richard Burton in the roles of three helpless people destroying each other in a drunken verbal bout. Elizabeth Taylor, as the "slashing, braying residue" gives her best performance since she starred in "National Velvet."

In the foreign film department we have Federico Fellini's brilliantly conceived and executed "Juliet of the Spirits." This exotic study of a woman suffering the pangs of jealousy, frustration, and desire, and the fantastic world in which she lives, ranks among the better films of all time. Fellini's masterful use of color adds emphasis to the bizarre and rare beauty to the subtle. If the world was not convinced of his genius after "8½," it should be now.

Both these films provide excellent, if somewhat exhausting, entertainment, and are "musts" for the serious film enthusiast.

COUNCIL ACCEPTS RESIGNATION; NAMES NEW CHEERLEADER

Boise College sophomore Robin Norris was appointed cheerleader last week at a meeting of the Student Executive Council, after the council accepted the resignation of John Abajian, who was elected to the six member squad last spring. Also appointed was Van Heffner, who will serve as male cheerleader alternate.

At the same meeting a change came about in the song leader squad, which named Linda Eyre, who was selected as alternate the week before, as a member of the song leaders. Chris Peterson was also named as the song leader's new alternate.

Broncos Gain 2nd Win; Lund Scores No. 3

ICAC Snow Game Faces Bronco Squad

By MIKE BOWEN

All-American prospect Gordie Lund picked up 113 yards and his third TD of the season to help lead the Boise College Broncos to a 14-0 romp of the Everett JC Trojans. Helping with the scoring responsibilities for Boise was fullback Pat Williams, who scored the first touchdown early in the third period.

The win leaves the Bronco squad with two wins in as many outings and an important step going into their upcoming game with the Snow College Badgers, Saturday night in Ephraim, Utah.

A Big Turnout

A good crowd of approximately 3,500 turned out to see the Boise College Broncos' home opener, and sat through an entire first half of good "defensive" football. The Broncos managed to pick up only 16 yards rushing in the first two stanzas of play, and held the opposing Trojans to a meager 13 yards on the ground in the final two periods. Defensive halfback Tony Maher grabbed off a Trojan pass at the Everett 33-yard stripe and returned it to the visitors' 23. With Maher's interception as a guide, quarterback Perry Gossett engineered his team, alternating carrying responsibilities between Williams and Lund, with the big fullback getting the nod to take it in from the two. Gary Stivers successfully converted the point after and coming back upfield, the Broncos held a 7-0 edge over the Trojans.

The Bronco defensive unit went right to work on the Washington eleven with Jim Mahan, Rod Lima and Mike Carberry repeatedly stopping the Everett runners for short yardage. With a fourth down situation, the visitors were forced to punt and the Broncos took over on their own 49-yard line.

Lund Scores for BC
After two unsuccessful attempts to move the ball, Gossett called on BC's number 18, and the swift halfback romped 60 yards for the score. The play, a counter, found Lund faking out the last defensive man and then turning on the speed down the sidelines to out-distance the entire Everett team.

Vale punter Rod Chester did a good job for the Boise crew, averaging 39.9 yards on five boots. Gary Stivers was successful in both attempts in the point after touchdown department.

GOSSET RUNS FOR BIG YARDAGE

QUARTERBACK PERRY GOSSETT cuts up field for important yardage in second quarter action during the Broncos' game with the Everett Trojans. Gossett and halfback Gordie Lund picked up a total of 145 yards on 31 attempts. The Boise squad came through for two TD's in the third period to win the game, 14-0.

INTRAMURAL NEWS

Physical Education Coach Bus Connor sends out a request for all Boise College faculty members interested in participating in intramural football and tennis, to get in touch with him in the gymnasium as soon as possible. "If there is enough enthusiasm among the faculty, there will be a team formed to play against the student-formed teams," he went on to state.

Several stiff and rigid requirements have been set out for those members of the faculty wishing to indulge. Some of these include (1) You must be either fast or slow; (2) You've got to be a heavyweight or a lightweight, and (3) You must be from 20-80, years old, that is.

If you are a faculty member and are interested in playing, you can contact Connor in the gymnasium on Extension 504.

Looking for an ideal place to call home while at school? We have it—a duplex near shopping center. Parties are allowed, yet quiet for study. Contact: Duplex, c/o Boise College ROUNDUP

The time is here for submission of names, either individually or in club groups, for the intramural singles tennis tournament.

Where the A-C-T-I-O-N Is!

By MIKE BOWEN
Roundup Sports Editor

"Impressive" is the word that must be used to describe the feelings of the coaches and athletes at the game with Everett JC Saturday night. Much credit for the fine showing of the football team is due largely to the actions and the participation of the student body and the town as a whole. Their attendance at the game Saturday night was a big boost to the morale and the desire of the whole team. It has been said that there is safety in numbers and this was shown to be true Saturday night. The Boise College Broncos and the Student Body came out to beat the Everett JC Trojans. It was a combination of both efforts.

This spirit that has been shown through the opening game with the varsity team should also be shown with the intramurals and the other athletic aspects of the school. A good start at the participation of the students at the games on Sunday afternoons was shown the first week, with a little bit slacking off in the second week of action. If this program is to become successful and there is to be any competition that is worth the players' efforts, there must be many people come out and show a real desire to play. During the '65 season there were approximately 100 people out for the intramural league play and it looked as if there would be this many out in the ensuing season. It looks as if there might be about half this many when the time comes around to play ball.

Not only football, but tennis, badminton, cross country, wrestling, and any other sport that comes out at BC has a hard time getting enough initiative to get going. It has not been explained whether it is lack of ability on the part of the students on campus or whether it is a lack of desire to improve in sports. The participation at the games on the varsity level will make a championship team. It won't make one if there isn't a lot of support.
