FORMER SEN. BARRY GOLDWATER HEARD BY AUDIENCE OF 1,500

By DON OLIVER
Boise Roundup Political Editor

A large crowd of Republicans, businessmen, educators, students, and the general public gathered in the President's Room at Boise College.

Prior to the address at Capital high school, the author, general, businessman and former senator, attended a special dinner in the President's Room at Boise College.

Before introducing the speaker, Alan Crooks, adviser to the college Lyceum, said that the event, announced that the next month, Maxell C. Taylor, who will appear October 27.

Speaking on the collision between the right and left, Goldwater said he is not worried about extremists on the right because they just are not powerful. He added that he is concerned about what the left advocate can be done, but he is concerned about those on the left because they advocate dangerous policies of strikings, shoplifting, etc.

Following their first performance, the Broncettes and the BC band, made up of 16 members, will travel to Seattle.

New Service Opens For Student Jobs

ATTENDING the Idaho State Board of Education meeting were (1 to x) Dr. Ernest Hartung, president of Idaho State University; Dr. William E. Davis, Idaho State University president; Governor's appointment; Phillip Doffert, President of the Boise State Board of Education; Mr. John Barnes, Boise College pres- ident stated he and his colleagues would continue to write on economic, educational, and social issues.

The organization, headed by the Dean of Faculty, Dr. J. A. McCauliff, employs both men and women at such diverse jobs as typing, custodial work, file clerks, caretaking, bookkeeping, and drive-in fry cooks.

The Student Personnel Service already employs 32 males and 31 females.

OFFICIALS SET SUB DEDICATION

The new Boise College Student Union Building will be dedicated on Sept. 23 with special events including a semi-formal dance to be held in the ballroom from 9-12 that evening.

Local and state dignitaries, including Gov. and Mrs. Dan Sam- ulson, Mayor and Mrs. Jay Amzy and members of the Academic Ad- visory Council will attend a special dinner by invitation only, to begin at 8 p.m. The honored guests have also been invited to attend the dance.

An open house will be held that afternoon from 1 to 5 p.m., and guided tours of the new facilities will be conducted by the Varsity and Golden St. The general pub- lic and all Boise College students are invited to attend the dance as well as the open house, according to Phil Riddle, SUB director.

FLU SHOTS AVAILABLE

Flu shots are now available to students, faculty and their fami- lies at the Health Center. The free shots will be given from 9 a.m. to 12 noon, Monday through Friday.
Editorial

Extreme Hazing Unnecessary.

Service clubs on the Boise College campus will soon begin pledge campaigns and students will be asked to spend from 7 to 10 weeks preparing for membership into the club. Pledging, page or what have you, may be reached a peak of questioning last year as students were subjected to a certain degree of hazing and other incidents, which went a little too far.

It is considered a privilege to join these organizations and certainly it would seem proper to go through a trial period before becoming a member and ensuring the principles that go along with membership.

But this trial period need not make shabbies of the desiring member's character and pride or subject the individual to undue punishment; especially in physical form such as the giving of swats.

But by the same token it does not seem right for a prospective member to stoop through the period. Club projects and obligations along with attainment of a certain grade point average should be a must for membership. The pledge or page can be expected for some of the benefits of being a member but not goals which will only tour de force degrading themselves or the club.

It is hoped that the presidents of the various campus organizations will look into this problem and will find a way to make it evident to prospective members that membership is to be achieved with service, work, character and other solid goals.

In the same respect the club host, who is attaining these goals should be able to work for the club and not be subject to unVarsity and unnecessary hazing or punishment.

REPUBLICANS MAKE PLANS TO REORGANIZE

The Boise College Young Republicans met last week to make plans for reorganizing the club. The meeting was led by temporary chairman Gary Johnson and was addressed by Ed Hedges, chairman of the Ada County Young Republican and Jim Colar, director of Congressman Jim McClure's Boise office.

Hedges expressed a sincere desire to work closely with the college group and talked of the goals of the different states both being free enterprise bred, it was felt that the big government breeds a desire within the latter to pursue their status quo. The Republican Party is the party of progress, he said.

Phile Philan, new director of public relations, has been appointed by the majority to fill the vacancy which was left last month. Steve Cook, during one of his few days in town, announced the party's new room in the Union. Philan, who comes from Adams State College in Alamosa, Colorado, serves and will fill the position better than any other in the Union. He hopes to organize good机体s and boost student activities in an effort to attract interest. He is an experienced student government time-out manager.

When asked what he considered his main challenge or goal for the coming year, he replied, "The Union is a kind of a building where students can relax and enjoy college life. I want to change BC from an 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. college to a full time college with full time facilities. This will include the use of the Union facilities for 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. club meetings and other facilities as bowling leagues and pool meetings."
The recent excavation of a 5,000-year-old Shoshonean Indian burial grounds by Boise College is currently drawing the attention of many archeologists in the Northwest.

The initial investigation was undertaken by a small crew of interested students of the college this summer. The crew members were: Martin Scheffer, advisor, now residing in Utah; Betty Patterson, crew chief; Mario Deliso, photographer; Floyd Magre, paleontologist from the Colleges of Idaho; Susan Darie, Allee Hauusser, Cheryl Magel, Ruth Russel, George Patterson, Tom Renk, Tom Corn, and Phil Anderson.

Also serving as an advisor were Dr. Earl Swanson, Jr., of Idaho State University; Dr. Eugene Walker of the U.S. Geological Survey, and Dr. Roderick Sprague of Washington State University.

Actual work on the site began on May 20, headed by Mrs. Betty Patterson, a former BC student of the material in the new BC Production's.
ATHLETES’ FEATS

By ART GALUS

Roundup Sports Editor

Every now and then something new comes along that causes a lot of changes, and Boise College becoming a four-year athletic conference member has caused an immediate change in the Bronco sport picture. For the first time in years, the school will sponsor a cross-country team and compete with teams from the College of Idaho, Treasure Valley Community College, and others (perhaps even Idaho State).

Nine men have begun practice in Julia Davis Park, running up to three miles a day. However, time lies a long way from when Jim Savage, a third semester senior, Dr. Cooper heads the Bronco tradition and pride of football. When Savage, a fullback, and George Saphire, left end, run the ball up the middle against the defense, they bring to the Broncos the tremendous pursuit and gang tackling. The Hawks have won their league championship repeatedly in the last few years.

The object of the new club is to promote professional attitudes and practices in physical education, including sponsoring intramural activities for BC students. Last year’s activities included softball and tennis tournaments, and a mountain outing under the leadership of President Jenn.

Meetings are the first and third Wednesdays of each month. For more information, contact Miss Westfall.

BC Faces Hawks In Saturday Opener

Coach Smith Gets Broncos In Shape For Last Season In JC Conference

With the opening kickoff of the Boise College-Columbia Basin football game Saturday evening, the Broncos will begin their final ICAC year. Two games from now, Boise will become a definite candidate for Big Sky Conference membership.

Columbia Basin hopes to take the final game from the Broncos as they two meet for the fifth time. The Hawks have a 2-3-1 won-lost-tie record this season, but they seek revenge for the 21-19 setback of last year. The Orange and Blue are going into battle intent on evening the record of wins and losses of both teams.

Smith anticipates a strong defense by the Broncos this year. "They run a defense they know well," he said, "coupled with tremendous pursuit and gang tackling."

"The Hawks have won their league championship repeatedly in the last few years," Smith said.

A football squad will pitch the squad with Terry Squibb and Hal Zimmerman at the quarterbacks spot, where they will capitalize on the abilities of fullbacks Pat Williams and George Saphire. Tearing over the sod from the left will be halfbacks Puddin’ Brayson, Dennis Pooley, and Ron Shaffer. Their counterparts on the right hand side will be Gordon Hawks and Jeff Drapp.

In preparation, contact work ended early this week, and the last few days were spent trying to smooth out offensive and defensive timing in anticipation of Bronco Basin practice. Daily practice has been going since August 21.
