GENERAL MAXWELL D. TAYLOR CLARIFIES CONFLUENT ON VIETNAM SITUATION

In a speech delivered before a crowd of Boiseans at the Boise College gym on Oct. 27, the Boise College faculty and administration were relieved when it was announced that the United States' involvement in Vietnam was about to end. The speech was attended by over 1,000 people, most of whom were students and faculty members.

TAYLOR SAYS VIETNAM WAR IS OVER

In his address, Taylor said that the war in Vietnam was over and that the United States would begin to pull its troops out of the country. He also mentioned that the United States would begin to turn over control of the country to the Vietnamese government.

Taylor said that the United States' involvement in Vietnam had been a mistake and that it was time to end the war. He also mentioned that the United States had spent too much money on the war and that it was time to end the war and begin to rebuild the country.

The speech was well-received by the audience, who applauded and cheered as Taylor spoke. Many of the audience members were tears as they listened to Taylor's speech. The speech ended with a call to end the war and begin to rebuild the country.
THE "ACID" TRUTH

Reports of mass student involvement with the illicit drugs, Marijuana and LSD, are widely exaggerated, according to the Gallup Poll. Only about six percent of the nation's college students have ever tried Marijuana and not more than one per cent have experimented with LSD, according to a survey of students in 426 colleges by the noted pollster.

The Poll was made Dr. George Gallup's American Institute for Public Opinion in Brandon's Digest; results are published in the magazine's November issue for October 26.

For all the outcry about drugs on campus, a majority—51 percent of the students answering—said they did not even KNOW any single student who had tried Marijuana or LSD. They estimated with reasonable accuracy that only about four per cent of those on their own campus had tried drugs.

However, when asked how many of their fellow classmates across the nation used drugs, the students interviewed jumped their estimates to a very high 13 percent. This higher guess for "outside" companies may be a reflection of exaggerated news accounts about drug use on campus, the Digest suggests.

Projected to the nation's six million college students, the Gallup figures indicate a total of about six million users—a sharp contrast to the reported "milions on campus." In addition, the percentage applies only to those who have TRIED drugs. It is likely higher to the smaller group and regular users.

IS SPORTS CAR RACING UNSAFE?

By NATHAN FERGUSON
Roundup Club Editor

"People have the misconception that racing is dangerous. They think that if they'll wreck their car, they won't be injured if they just use good common sense in driving," declared Wilke Myers, a member of the Boise College Sports Car Association.

"I got interested in racing by watching Mustang, tied up and raced. I found racing to be thrilling. I raced for awhile. I decided to trade my Mustang for a Porsche."

Myers went on to say, "I first started out with simple racing like the pylons and events and then worked up to the more advanced events like the hill climb and races."

Among his racing trophies are first and second places in various Boise College Sports Car Association events, including the hill climb event at Emmett, and a first in the Pitt Hill Climb at Jerome. He also placed third in the Idaho State Driving Championship.

THE WINNERS!

Displaying trophies won in the recent BCSA Halloween Happening Auto-Rally, Wilke Myers, first place driver, 8th in the first place in the recent BCSA Halloween Happening Auto-Rally, has been racing his MG Midget, for a little over a year. "I got interested because I had a sports car, so I raced in one of the events and I placed fourth. I liked racing so kept at it."

Like Wilke Myers, John Moon has positive feelings about "racing."

"Most people have the wrong idea about racing because of what they see on TV and hear about the Indianapolis 500. They think that they will damage their car or in-jure themselves. Actually there is little chance of either. The course is laid out so there is no real dan-ger of wrecking your car."

The club president, Dale Fisk, explained the types of racing:

"There's one called the antelope, which is run on a long speed track that doesn't have too many sharp curves. It's a test of control at high speeds.

"The gopher racing involves driving tricks with the ears, like backing into stalls or going around the 19-race course."

"Arenas in the antelope, the gopher racing and various other types of racing."

Sports car racing is a test of both man and machine, whereas driving tests the power of the machine only."

Wilke went on to say, "Sports car racing is a lot of fun. Trophies are usually on the course."

Knights Hand Broncos Fourth Loss; San Diego Capitalizes on BC Blunders

By ART GALUS
Boise State Rodeo Editor

The change in quarterbacks and the repositioning of key players did not seem to be so much of an advantage to the Broncos, as it did to California last week. The Boise State running back crowd has lost four of the last five games by scores of 31-0, 28-6, 21-14, 21-14 and 14-10.

The Broncos travel this week to the Clipperton, for the ninth game of the season. The game will pit the San Diego State College football team against the Bronco side in the Meridian Speedway fieldhouse at 8 p.m.

The game, which has been on the BC rodeo schedule for six seasons, will feature a contest between two of the nation's leading colleges in the arena, with DePauw University in Greencastle, Ind., the other team.

The Bronco rodeo team has had a very successful year, and is looking forward to a big performance in the arena. The Bronco team is led by Quad Coach Terry Baldwin, and consists of several of the team's top riders.

The San Diego State rodeo team is also a very strong one, and is looking forward to a good performance in the arena. The team is led by Quad Coach Andy Bax, and consists of several of the team's top riders.

The game will be a very close one, and both teams are looking forward to a good performance. The Bronco team will be looking to continue their winning streak, while the San Diego State team will be looking to get back on the horse.
