BOISE COLLEGE ROUNDUP

VOLUME 5, NO. 15

THURSDAY, JAN. 18, 1968

BOISE, IDAHO

RECEIVING an honorary membership in the Esquire Service Club is William H. Belknap (center). On the left is Bob Schabot and on the right is Dale Fackler, Esquire Club president. Belknap has been faculty advisor for the club since 1965.

Dr. Barnes Accepts Student Views On Ideas, Gripes, and Opinions

An informal forum between ten Boise College students and President John Barnes was held over breakfast on Wednesday, Jan. 10 in the Student Union Building to voice ideas, gripes and opinions.

Topics of interest covered included the proposed building program for Boise State College, tuition, student apathy, teaching standards, techniques and salaries.

President Barnes explained the building program as a "two packet deal" consisting of four buildings in each packet.

The four buildings will be a six-story general classroom building, a new vocational technical building, a 20,000-capacity stadium with physical education facilities, an Olympic-size swimming pool and a $1½ million performing arts building with a classic new design.

The second phase of the building prospectus includes a maintenance building and warehouse, a large library addition and an addition to the present science building. Dr. Barnes predicts that the new SUB will be doubled in size in two to three years.

In January of 1969, there will be no tuition for Idaho students. The fees, however, are calculated to be $132.00 per semester, a sum lower than any of the other universities in the state.

"The poor salary image is changed," Dr. Barnes stated. Last year vocational technical teachers received a $1,000 raise, professors with Master Degrees were granted a $1,500 salary increase, and those with Doctorates received a $2,000 raise.

Student-Teacher Relationship

Several students commented that they were especially impressed with the good student-teacher relationship. Dr. Barnes pointed out that the students are especially fortunate in this area as the professors carry 15 credit hours per semester rather than the usual 12.

Lethargy ranked high on the list of student gripes. Students indicated that there was far too little interest in student elections, lycums, and extracurricular activities. They felt that there is a definite lack of school spirit.

President Barnes said that the first academic scholarship program for freshmen will be initiated in the near future. The idea of the program will be for the scholars to have their general curriculum load cut by at least 12 credit hours to allow more flexibility in their chosen fields.

Boise State College is the most likely place for a Medical school, as it is recommended that there be 150 practicing M.D.'s in the community.

It was generally felt that the teacher "makes or breaks" the class. Students indicated that they best enjoyed a person who is different every day and sometimes even says things he doesn't necessarily believe to encourage student challenge.

"The plague on the college faculty," emphasized Dr. Barnes, "is the non-stimulating professor!"

BELKNAP ACCEPTS CLUB MEMBERSHIP AS AN HONORARY LIFETIME ESQUIRE

By MIKE SCHINDELE
Feature Editor

William H. Belknap, advisor to the Boise College Esquires, received a life-time membership from the club at one of its weekly sessions prior to the Christmas holiday.

Dale Fackler, the club's president, said the award was given in appreciation for the time and service Belknap has given the club since he became its advisor in 1965.

Commenting on the honor bestowed upon him by the ex-G.I.'s, Belknap said, "The Esquires are a local club striving for national prominence. As far as I'm concerned they are the top group on campus. Although I'm not fully acquainted with the other campus organizations, I don't think I'd trade jobs with any other advisor."

When asked just what an Esquire advisor's duties were, he said, "I mostly sit on the sidelines. I state the school's policy on several matters that might border on the controversial. Being an advisor, however, is not all work; sometimes even the hilarious can enter into a typical club project."

He was referring to the traditional raft race held in 1965 when the Esquire craft went over the falls at Ann Morrison park. Belknap said he was soaked when the rescue canoe he was in capsized in the middle of the Boise River. "In the process we lost the raft's water pump and went into hock for it," he said.

Belknap was born and reared in Nampa, Idaho. He received his B.S. at the College of Idaho in 1953. After serving two years in the Army in New England and Texas, he received his M.S. at the Louisiana State University in 1957.

He then took the position of a curator at Audubon Park in New Orleans. Part of his job was taking care of the near-extinct whooping crane. It was during this period that he became one of the only two men on record to successfully raise a whooping crane in captivity.

During his stay at Audubon, Belknap visited various zoos across the country, including those in St. Louis and San Antonio.

After two years in New Orleans, where Belknap said he received a terrific insight into the racial problems of today, he returned to Nampa. After working as an instructor at C of I and for the Fish and Game Department in the summer, he joined the BC staff in 1959, and is now an assistant professor in Life Sciences.

OFFICER PROGRAM FOR MALE GRADS

A recent Marine Corps Order has been published which can pave the road ahead of college graduates who have not met their selective service commitment. This order allows young men with a college degree and the necessary physical traits an opportunity to earn a commission upon receiving his degree in the United States Marine Corps Reserves.

Upon completion of six months active duty, the officer returns to his reserve unit where he fulfills his obligation by training one weekend a month and attending two-week training sessions yearly for a period of five years.

Interested applicants should contact Major R. E. King, or Major J. R. Tull in Boise at the Naval and Marine Corps Training Center at 342-2711, ext. 501.

Final Day Set For Senior Pictures

A last minute reminder for those who have not had their senior pictures taken.

This includes those people who are coming in for the spring semester and are going to graduate this spring and those who through a change of plans are going to graduate this spring.

Photographer Bill Bach will be on campus to take pictures of those seniors concerned on Jan. 26. This will be the final day for pictures. Pictures not taken by that day will not be accepted because of yearbook deadlines.

For further information, contact John MacMillan, publications advisor, in the T-1 building.

Alpha Kappa Psi Comes To Unite Businessmen

For some time, the business department of Boise College has recognized a need for a national business fraternity on campus. According to Dr. Robert Rose, a number of such organizations have approached BC for just such a purpose, and finally the business department has decided to open its doors to Alpha Kappa Psi.

Alpha Kappa Psi is represented on both campuses of the University of Idaho and Idaho State University, and the creation of a chapter of the same name at Boise College will provide a link between the three schools and their business students.

The Idaho State Chapter of the fraternity has offered to sponsor the chapter on the Boise campus and will send representatives to BC in an effort to work out problems that the newly formed organization will undoubtedly encounter.

An organizational meeting will be held Thursday evening, Jan. 18 at 7:30 in A210. All individuals working toward required majors in Business Administration and having a GPA of 2.0 are invited to attend this primary meeting.

Alpha Kappa Psi is the oldest organization of this sort in the country and the largest of its type in the world. It was created in 1904 at New York University and has since spread westward across the United States.

"In Appreciatum"

Being a newspaper editor is one thing, but being a full time student, working, and being on the go makes the position more than a full time job—it becomes a way of life. Until a person tries it, he can not appreciate the value of a good editor; and when a person retires from the role, he is likely to be burdened by too much of a good thing—spare time.

Janice Williams lived and breathed campus newspaper work. She didn't hold herself back from living her own life, though. She worked out a schedule of classes, events, and deadlines. Unlike some students who only study and don't sift through societies, Jan found that she could be industrious one moment and carefree the next. For her, life, without having to rush pell-mell through each day, would be a bad happening.

Born in Pocatello, Idaho, Janice is now 21 and a Junior. She was editor of the Roundup for two semesters and has been employed by The Statesman for approximately two years. Along with writing news stories daily, she now has a weekly column appearing every Sunday in the society section of The Statesman. She has a younger brother, aged 16, and 33 frogs. The latter she has been collecting ever since she learned in French class that the French word for frog was grenouille. Among her other hobbies are bowling, currently for The Statesman in league, and hunting.

Finishing her education at Boise College, Jan then hopes to become a newspaperwoman with emphasis on news side. With this little editorial we, the staff of the Roundup, now take the liberty to wish her "HAPPY BIRTHDAY" and many happy returns.—Staff.

COED CHOSEN BY 'MADEMOISELLE' TO REPRESENT BOISE ON BOARD

Phoebe Lindsey, Boise College co-ed and yearbook editor, has been chosen by the judging staff of Mademoiselle as a representative of Boise College and Idaho on its annually appointed college board staff.

The magazine has chosen 60 finalists from every state in the union. Their jobs involve keeping Mademoiselle in tune with the college scene by filling in questionnaires regarding the "personality" of the college and submitting stories on new fashion trends and campus activities.

These finalists will have an opportunity to take a trip to New York in June including tours and visits to fashionable restaurants and shops. Of these 60 entrants, 12 will be chosen to make the trip. Employed by Mademoiselle at a regular salary, they will be granted positions as guest editors in charge of making up the August edition of the magazine.

After their job is completed they will be given first consideration for jobs with Mademoiselle if they are interested in continuing their careers.

The contest itself is given annually and offers competition in photography, fiction, poetry, art, and college board divisions.

The Score Is . . .

By RON OLIVER

There are two old men influencing the future, not only of this nation, but of the world. Both deserve attention and will receive it in this column.

Charles DeGaulle was born and bred in the Victorian Era and is the product of late nineteenth century philosophy spilled over into the twentieth. DeGaulle, whose very name means France, is an ardent nationalist in a time when extreme nationalism created the hate and bigotry of two major wars and the mistrust of "minor" confrontations.

In a time when international cooperation is a necessity for efficiency, progress, peace, and security, DeGaulle wants French domination in Europe particularly and everywhere else in general. But Germany, Italy, Spain, The Netherlands, and England, not to mention all others, are not interested in a French world.

France's President is a dabbling selfish old man who has outlived his usefulness, even to France, as its president. Like so many other old men he demands all but gives nothing.

DeGaulle has no business in Canada, where his country failed two hundred years ago, or in Vietnam, where it also failed. There is no rationality in his castigation of his allies who saved his country twice before and would do it again. But they would be saving France, not DeGaulle, who is dying.

Charles DeGaulle will not be around much longer, and when he is gone maybe the French will produce a rational leader who will work with, not over, the rest of Europe and the world.

Yes, Charlie, old man, my four-year-old niece can count the number of your days.

At their formal initiation, held Friday, Nov. 17, Pi Sigma Sigma announced the new officers for the 1968 year. Replacing Denny Sauers at the president's helm is Ron Gabriel; vice president, Bill Allen; treasurer, Rich Wade; pledge marshal, Jerry Robinson; sergeant-at-arms, Jon Johnson; secretary, Gary Roberts, and historian, Dan Nottage.

Following a dinner at the Eagles Club, the Sigs danced to the sounds of the Sasafra-Roundhouse and initiated new members Alan Pudebaugh, Greg Gleason, Jim Thompson, Les Jenkins, Roger Martin, Rocky Carpenter, John Rost and Dennis Crouch.

Spaces Available In Model UN Group

Spaces are still available in Political Science 74-211, the Model United Nations study group which will represent Australia at the Model U. N. Conference in Tucson, Arizona April 24-27. Students who represented the College at Portland last year can earn a second credit in the course, and as experienced delegates are wanted, they are urged to register. Class cards can be picked up at the office of Dr. Phillips, Room 211, Administration Building. Address any questions to Avery Peterson, Room LA 120D, extension 248.

SKATEBOARD TAKES OVER CAMPUS BEAT

Mrs. Betty Olsen is the most energetic secretary in the Administration Building when it comes to running errands for the Dean of Student Personnel Services. In fact Rowene Luby, the switchboard operator for the college telephone system, thought that she needed some mechanical aid instead of being allowed to run about the Ad Building half out of breath. One morning, Mrs. Olsen found a large package wrapped in paper sacks lying on her desk, and in it was a new skateboard.

Mrs. Olsen says that surprise presents are commonplace in her new office. When she moved in, florists delivered a floral creation bearing a tag that read, "With much love . . . Lyndon B." The message wasn't nearly as bad, she said, "as the realization that I am a Republican!"

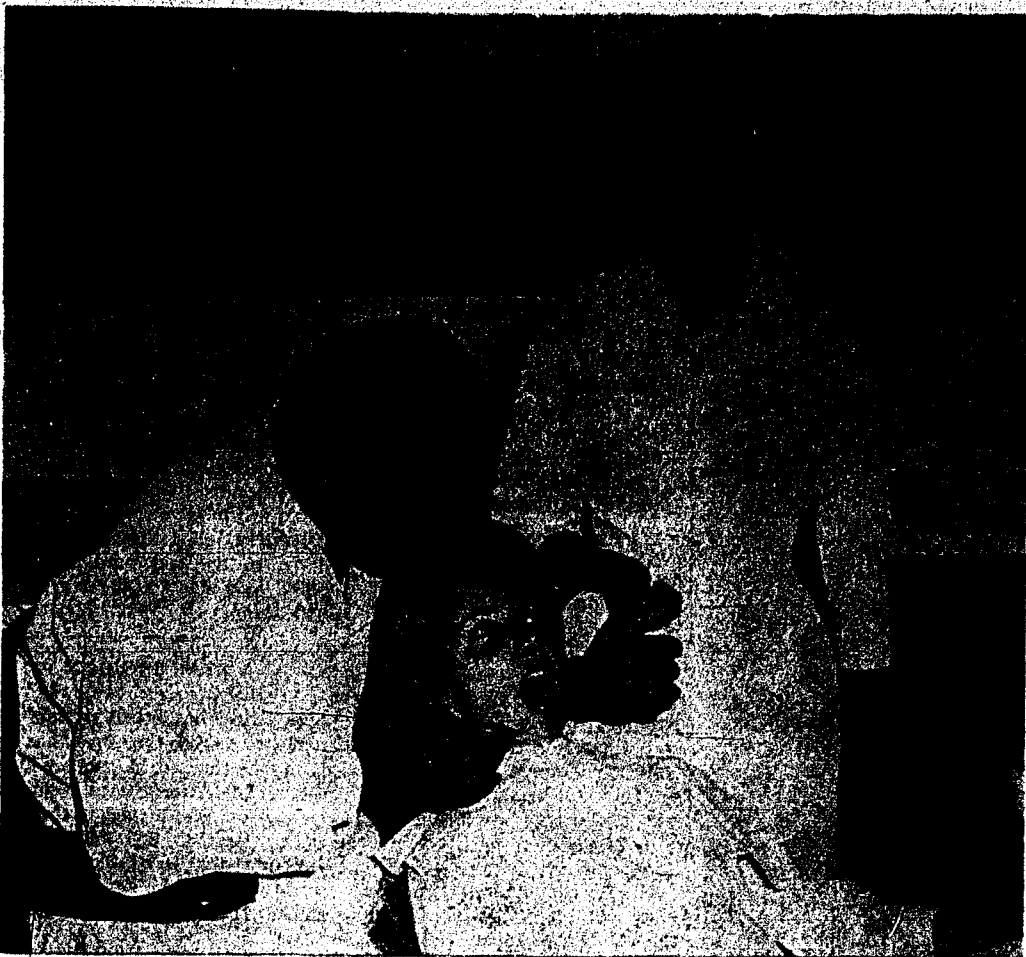

SENATE PICS

Pictures of the Student Senate will be taken Thursday, Jan. 18 at 7:45 P.M. in the SUB coffee shop. All students who are members of the senate must be on time to be included in the pictures.

Matmen Catch NNC In Grappling Bout At Bronco Fieldhouse

Boise College's wrestling team is currently preparing to take on the grapplers from NNC Thursday, Jan. 18 at 6:30 p.m., in a dual match at the BC gym.

A busy week is thus in store for Coach Lewis's matters, starting off with a halftime exhibition to take place at Saturday night's basketball game with Snow College. The scheduled mat show is designed primarily to acquaint the fans with the little-known rules of the sport, so that a greater interest will be shown toward it.

The Bronco "strongarms" have been working hard and should be down to their required weight classes by mat time Thursday. Teamwise, the Broncos are well-balanced but are lacking in the smaller weight categories, with only one man in each weight below 145 lbs. Coach Lewis expects two of their most difficult opponents to be Eastern Oregon College and Ricks, who will compete the 25th and 26th of January.

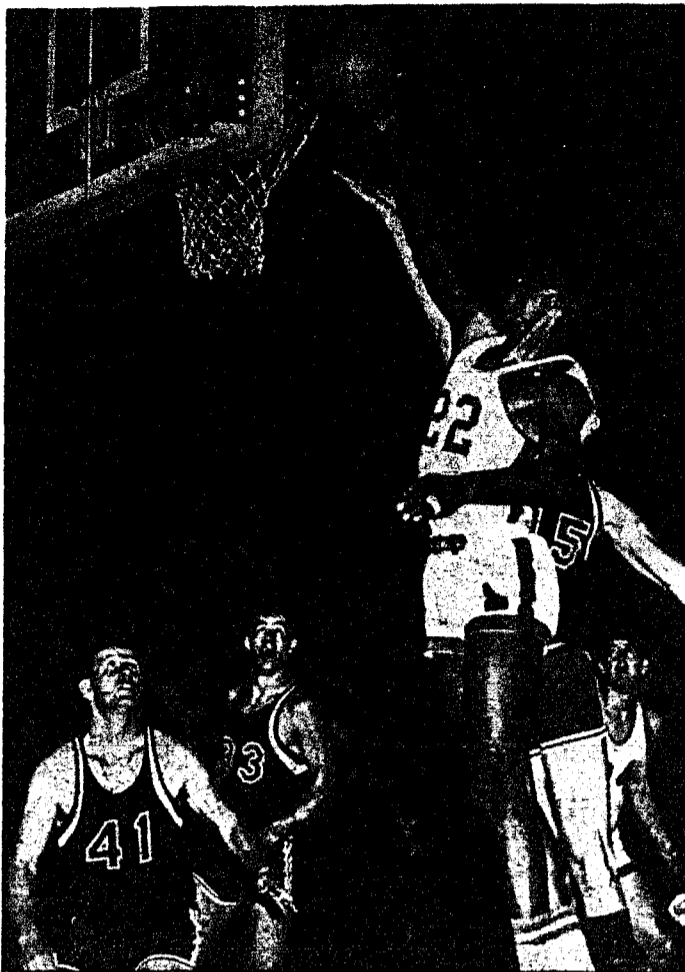

"The kids are working real hard this week," said Lewis. "We'll be ready."

Roundballers Meet Chukars and Vikings

The Boise College Broncos meet the formidable cagers from Treasure Valley Community College and Ricks College on BC's home court this week.

Coach Carlyle Dean's TVCC Chukars, last year's regional runner-ups, sport an even .500 record this season in ten outings. Paced by the 6'9" duo of Walt Buck and Dane Hill, who are ranked in the top ten scorers along with '67 high scorer Make Moore, the Chukars offer some superior height. Bruce Howell, at 6'2", set a school record of 35 points in the Chukars' last contest and will be guarded closely when the two clubs tip off Tuesday.

The Broncos encounter the BILL OTEY (22) drives for a lay-in, despite an attempt by Western Montana's Clay Robinson to block the shot. Awaiting a possible rebound are WMC's Gary Warhank (33) and Mike Griffin (41), and Bronco Rodell Hill (24).

Hart, Otey and Burke Place in Scoring Race

BC Broncos Wendy Hart and Bill Otey are up near the leaders in basketball competition to date as Hart ranks third on the strength of 200 points this season, while teammate Otey follows in fourth place with 189 points. Both have stayed consistently near Ricks Vikings here Friday night. They, too, are a tall team, capable of changing the course of a game with their fast-break offense. Six-foot-six Wyand Hart, a former high school protege of Assistant Coach Bus Conner, has been a standout player for the Ricks five, now even in the won-lost column.

20 points per game, in addition to leading the valley's top-ranked defense. Keith Burke, averaging 13.1 tallies per game and 158 on the season, is also placed among the top collegiate roundballers in Southern Idaho.

The BC Broncos kept up their habit of winning last weekend with two hard-earned victories over northern Idaho teams.

Another fine performance by Bill Otey helped propel the Boise College Broncos to a 76-69 victory over the Idaho State frosh, January 5 at Pocatello.

Otey hit 10 out of 17 field goal attempts to end up with 20 points, high for the Broncos. Otey's vital rebounds also gave the team a big lift when it was needed. Boise was behind 40-39 at the half but quickly overcame the deficit due to a great showing by the entire team. Nevertheless, the Bengals kept it close all the way, but due to the rebounding of Otey and company, were never able to seriously challenge the lead again.

The Broncos showed four in double figures, with Wendy Hart pumping in 18; Keith Burke 17; and Ronnie Austin 12, to back Otey. The Bengal frosh were led by Tony Ioane and Jerry Harris, who tied for game scoring honors with 24 apiece.

The Broncos stretched their current win streak to six as they blasted North Idaho Junior College, 83-59, at the Bronco fieldhouse Jan. 7.

The game featured another superior performance by Bill Otey, whose 20 points led four Boise players in double figures. Otey also took team honors with 11 rebounds, while his defensive play kept the Cardinals out of range all night.

The Cardinals got very few opportunities to work the ball inside and hit sparingly from the outside due to the constant pressure of the Bronco defense. However, little Bill Sweeney stole the show with 19 points, most of them coming in the second half, exhibiting great shooting and playmaking for the Coeur d'Alene crew.

Boise was red hot in the first half, hitting 50% of its shots and taking a 42-17 halftime lead. But NIJC didn't get untracked until the Boise reserves came in and outscored them, 26-20 in the final seven minutes.

All in all, however, the Broncos played a good defensive game down to the last man and held NIJC to a mere 21 field goals in 84 attempts.

A STAR IS BORN

At the opening game of the high school basketball season, my nephew scored the first basket. Everyone cheered, his mother loud-est of all. After things began to quiet down, she turned to the man sitting next to her and proudly explained that it was her boy who had just scored. "Yes, lady," he sighed. "I know. I sat by you last year."
