Boise College Roundup, February 23

Students of Boise College
Davis, Johnson, McDermott and Law Place Second in Conference Competition

By LYN HEINE
Staff Reporter

"Intercollegiate debate," said debate coach Mr. Harvey Pitman, "is the longest competitive spell in any academic activity." The program started in September and ended in May.

Recently, BC debaters returned victorious from the Idaho Speech Conference which was held on campus of NNU Nov 16 and 17. Both Charles Davis and Gary Johnson took second place in the junior debate division and Pat McDermott and Larry Law took second place in the junior debate division.

50th Win Loss Record

To date, Pitman feels that the team has done exceptionally well. He said that a 50% win-loss record is good for any school and added that, "the BC debate team is certainly above that." Jan 26-27 marked the University of Idaho tournament. Debaters Gary Johnson and Charles Davis won four out of six debates. Other participants included Eugene Brown, Mike Robinson, Joel Flake and Larry Law.

It will enter 12 debaters in the Idaho Speech Conference to be held in Nampa Feb 16-17. All debaters in Idaho will be debating. Six debaters will be entered in the Linfield College tournament Feb 29 and Mar 5-6. BC debaters will meet Washington, Idaho and Montana debaters at the North Idaho Invitational to be held in April.

The concluding debate will be at the University of Montana in late April.

TV Championship

The Intermountain TV Championship moves to special educational television features. Debaters from Idaho, Utah, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado and Arizona. Brown and Hanson have won their last two rounds and will continue to the finals within a few weeks. The BC men will likely meet a team from Colorado or Arizona.

Major tournaments from west recently were Pacific University in October, Idaho State University in November, and Northwestern. Nevada College in December.

This school year's debate resolution is, "Resolved, that the government should guarantee a minimum annual cash income to all citizens." The first TV debate topic in which BC took the negative and defeated Utah State was, "Resolved, that the powers of the President of the United States should be made "S" foreign policy commitments should be curtailed." "Resolved, that only those males who have served a minimum of 2.0 G.P.A., although Pitman said that most of the Intercollegiate Debaters have a 3.0 or better. No experience in debating is necessary, Pitman emphasized. He further stated that only one-fourth of the debaters have previously debated in high school. He explained that veterans, freshmen, and high school graduates all seem to work about equally as well.

 artisanation and debate class is a two credit course at Boise College. 'Hunk of Paper' Disputed

The proposed college Constitution is a vast improvement on the "hunk of paper" currently in effect. In fact, the improved effectiveness of student government, as well as the recent Constitution, has already created some inequities through its distribution of power and authority.

The proposed Constitution grants the Senate the honor of choosing representatives to sit on the Executive Council. The Senate would become little more than a Lobby of the President for the best selection of the interested students who involve themselves in the affairs of the school, and who are deeply interested in its good name.

FLOCK OF SHEEP

To the Executive Council, the Senate is a flock of sheep, people content to follow the dictates of one persuasive speaker. In addition, the Student Senate, and that of the 16-man Executive Council, are two to the 3-man Judicial Committee, the Senate has no concrete power. If this school is to function properly, the Senate delegates are inclined to be "yes" men, but only because the proposed legislation is usually presented by only one person, giving only one side of the picture. If both sides of the issue were presented equally to the same members, then the Senate members, after conferring with their peers, could weigh each side and obtain the best choice.

The members of the Executive Council, because each is a part of an interested campus organization, can represent the students who benefit from the decision-making process. But duplication of efforts among Council members would narrow the scope of the members, and leave the Senate with less representation and less organization, thereby reaching a larger portion of the students.

CONCRETE POWER

As it now stands, outside of appointing two members to the 16-man Executive Council, the Senate has no concrete power.

Proposals taken by the Executive Council can be reviewed by the Student Senate, and that is all. It is said that the Senate exists primarily to obtain and disseminate information for use by the Executive Council.

The Senate must have the authority to reject Executive Council legislation, in addition to initiating its own policy. An amendment to the Constitution would be drafted that calls for more democratic control in the hands of the Senate.

Chief among reasons for granting power to the students through their Senate is the fact that such authority would force the Executive Council to be more responsible in government.

Second, by giving the Senate authority, it could create committees under its bylaws that would become meaningful and effective subordinates with the power to implement proposals.

REVIEW

Finally, the Senate would initiate the review, but that review would not be automatic. If all legislation were required to be reviewed, then the ineffectiveness of the present small-minded government would exist.

Unless the suggested Constitution is changed to meet this requirement, a proper selection in student government, there will be little point in having a Senate. Why should any organization ask people to react to the matters under question.

Under its bylaws that would become meaningful to partake in more responsible government.

LEGISLATION

An amendment to the Constitution would be presented fairly, and equally at the same moment, then the Senate would have a right to reject legislation, in addition to initiating its own policy.

徒然, that of the "ship of State." Coupled with it is the Judicial Committee, the Senate has no concrete power. Well, actually, that is not quite right. It can implement its own legislation, in addition to initiating its own policy.

Business Fraternity

Campus Newcomer

The newest organization to make the Boise State scene is Kappa Psi. Organized for male business students, Kappa Psi has just elected its first leaders: Russ Lebourdais, president; Ray Green, vice president; Don Brayse, treasurer; Richard Mittleider, secretary; and Dick Carr, Master of Rituals.

Under the sponsorship of the Phi Beta Lambda chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi, a national business fraternity, Kappa Psi plans to petition the national fraternity for admittance early in the fall. The charter membership of approximately fifty will hold meetings bimonthly with a guest speaker at least once a month.

The purpose of Kappa Psi is to further the relationship between business students, leading in the business community, and the faculty—reputed Bob Martin, Director of Public Relations.

Membership by invitation will be open to students with an accumulated GPA of 2.00 or better and at least a standing of second semester freshman. The faculty shows this year Mr. Peter Wilson and Leo Knowlton.

Phi Beta Lambda

The Phi Beta Lambdas will meet on Tuesday nights in the Silver Room of the SUB. Guest speaker will be Mrs. Ora Duann Freedom, new advisor for Boise Conclave.

If you are a business or business education major, plan to attend and join if you're not already a member.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor: While rummaging through some material I had at home, I found the following letters. I think you may find them very interesting.

"Dear Dr. Flagg: "Dear Dr. Flagg: "Dear Dr. Flagg: Each morning, when the National Flag is raised or lowered, I notice many people ignore it. Some throw away their hat on. When the flag is raising or lowering, I've seen many people ignore the flag in almost two years I've been putting the flag. In the dust, there are four people shop and respect the flag, but being being raised and lowered. Four people out of the student body of Boise College and the public of Boise. That's a pretty low percentage. I'd like to see this increase. There's one person who respects the flag, and itself, and I should continue to do all I can to increase it. I'm proud of my country and the flag whether anyone else is or not.

Singed: Carmen J. Bongiov, Jr.

Abstract Painting Needed by Student
A 5 ft. by 5 ft. abstract figure painting was taken from the upstairs living hall building. The painting belongs to Miss Suzanne Weidner and is desperately needed for a class grade and art contest. Miss Weidner would appreciate greatly the return of the painting to the place where it was "found." There will be no questions asked.
