March 1 will be the day that students on the BC campus will vote for the officers of next year's Associated Student Body. Ballot boxes will be located in the SUB and in the Library. Also on the ballot will be the decision of voting for or against the new proposed constitution.

Students running for the office of ASB President are Scott Baker, James (Dyke) Nally, and Leon Olson; for vice president, unopposed, James H. Gray; for secretary, unopposed, Kathy Eason; and for treasurer, unopposed, Pat Fleenor.

Candidate for president Scott Baker, currently a Junior class representative, is a junior majoring in elementary education.

If elected, Baker's plans include the setting up of scholarship funds for academics, newspaper and annual, and the music and drama departments. Money for these scholarships will be obtained by assessing each student $2 per semester.

Baker revealed some of his intentions in carrying out the duties of the office of president as follows: "In making all presidential appointments to committees, I would try to give the entire student body equal representation through varied membership in each committee. I would continue to build up the Student Union Board and enforce a three-phase program for Homecoming. I would continue and expand the monthly newsletter to all alumnae and I would definitely establish the Alumni Association with coordinating officers."

Also in the running for ASB president is Dyke Nally, a senior majoring in business administration and pre-law. Lacking some 16 credits from graduation, Nally will be able to plan his curriculum so that he can spend a large amount of time in fulfilling the office if elected.

The following is a series of statements in an open letter to the students. "I hope that through the past week of campaigning I have had a chance to meet many of the students that I previously did not know. I have enjoyed the chance to meet with you, and hear your problems and expectations for next year.

WINNER of the Glamour Magazine contest of Best Dressed College Coed, Margie Von der Helde is a sophomore at BC majoring in Home Economics. Competing with ten other contestants, she was judged on three outfits, including on-campus, off-campus and evening dress. Runners-up in the contest were Vicki Simpson and Suzie Johnson. Sponsors were Engineers Club for Von der Helde, IK's for Johnson and Nurses Association for Simpson.

"I believe that the present student body administration has generally done a good job. They have had some shortcomings, but these, such as the lack of getting student involvement in campus activities have long plagued this college. This is but one of the problems that we will attack next year. I say we must attack these problems because this school is getting too large for one president or administration or one senate to cope with. It will take the combined effort of all of us.

"I am very pleased to see the undertaking of club projects like the Valkyrie marquee, the Esquire mall and the new broadcasting transmitter. I can safely predict if not promise that more projects of this nature will be begun and completed in the next school year."

Entering as ASB president candidate also is Leon Olson. He is a second semester Sophomore majoring in general business. He plans to complete four years at Boise State College, then to continue on to obtain a masters degree for teaching business subjects at a college level.

In the following statements Olson gives a summary of his intentions and platform. "I wish to thank you for allowing me, so far removed from this generation, to be a part of the vibrant youthful zeal so characteristic of BC. "My platform is to allow you to place "the monkey" on my back. I do not believe in "running off at the mouth", but rather to put action where the mouth is! I feel the heart of the problem can be reached three ways.

The first would be to 1. place the student body first, 2. place Boise College second, and 3. place the faculty third.

The second way to achieve this action would be to: 1. listen and seriously consider student problems individually or collectively. 2. Rationalize the problems in close cooperation with other ASB officers. 3. Coordinate efforts to correct or improve any situation deemed in the general interest of the student body.

The third plan of action consists of 1. Standing firm on all issues that are for the betterment of your problems regardless of the adversary. 2. Heartily endorsing your decisions on all issues placed in referendum. 3. Always respect your intelligence on a level with the faculty.

Vice President

Running unopposed as candidate for vice president is Jim Gray. He is a junior and majoring in his

Secretary

Candidate for secretary and running unopposed is Kathy Eason. Majoring in history with a secondary education option, she is a member of the Junior class and is currently junior class representative.

Her campaign will be based on the need for a better constitution and involvement by more students in student government. Her campaign manager is Janet Priddy.

Treasurer

Pat Fleenor, running unopposed for ASB treasurer, is a Junior majoring in business. In giving his intentions for filling the position as treasurer, Fleenor gives the following statement. "When Boise College becomes Boise State College in January, 1969, we must have a strong, yet flexible, student government. Many problems, as yet unapparent, will become evident as the change-over takes place.

"It is with these aims in mind that I announce my candidacy for the office of treasurer of the Associated Student Body."

EXPERIMENTAL PSYCHOLOGY COURSE INTRODUCES TRAINING LAB AT BC

By HOWARD WRIGHT

A new upper division course, Experimental Psychology, is being offered for the first time this semester.

The class, designed for psychology majors, stresses the application of scientific methods to the study of behavior, according to Delbert D. Heacock, instructor. Design of experiments; methods of analysis and interpretation of data; and the writing of reports and theses on behavioral research are emphasized.

The 12 students presently enrolled in the class have the choice of either using a classical experiment, or designing their own experiment. Two students enrolled in the class have B.A. degrees. "The training lab for students allows freedom and originality of the student, yet it allows the student to become familiar with the field of Experimental Psychology," Heacock stated.

The training lab, currently being constructed, is located in the east end of building T-1. The lab is completely climate controlled, using new heating and air-conditioning equipment. The constant temperature and absence of sunlight and noise will make ideal conditions for experimental work.

Primary subjects for the experiments will be white rats and volunteer General Psychology students. The white rats will be of the special "Sprague-Dawley" variety, noted especially for their curiosity. "Persons concerned with the welfare of the animals will be relieved to know that there are strict rules for the care of laboratory animals. They are not to be punished, and any students who neglect their experiment will fail the course," Heacock noted.

At the end of the term, the students will enter their animals in a rat decathlon. Events planned for the contest are the bar press, ladder climb, tightrope walk, maze run and solving discrimination problems. After the events are completed, a champion will be selected.

Requirements for the class consist of a junior standing, a year of freshman or engineering math, and a semester of statistics. One year of zoology is recommended.

The laboratory facility may also be used in future psychology courses.

Although small in size, the latest equipment available will be used in the lab, including computerized programs for animal experiments.

LOOKING ON one of the subjects of experimentation to be carried on in the new laboratory facility for experimental psychology are (l. - r.) Bill Hart, Delbert Heacock, instructor, and Robert Lord. The facility is now completed and is being used at the present time by 12 students enrolled in the class.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Student:

With concern and dismay I read the editorial in last week's Roundup. Unfortunately, the editors of our student paper—ones who should be blessed with some degree of insight, if not accurate information in affairs concerning the student body—apparently view the proposed constitution as some sinister conspiracy, conceived in the selfish interests of the current Executive Board.

The truth is appeals have been made to the Senate, the service clubs, and the student body at large, for any suggestions or proposals for a new constitution. One was received: it concerned raising the GPA requirements for elective office: it was incorporated. The Executive Board proposes the new constitution to facilitate the administration of student government in the future. The proposals are based on the experience of a full year in office, with the best interests of the college and its future students.

It is not the purpose nor the desire of the Executive Board to dictate to the campus press, but neither is it the function of the paper to be the vehicle for the one-sided, uninformed opinion of the people who print it. The overriding purpose of the student press is to print facts. The facts are as follows:

The constitution presently governing the student body is outmoded, inequitable, and creates an unworkable structure. The Senate is predominately an association of service clubs not truly representative of the entire student body. The proposed constitution creates an Executive Board of elected officers—the four student body officers—the four class presidents, the eight class representatives, and two representatives elected by the Senate—twice the size of the present Executive Board. The proposed Executive Board is far more representative of the student body than either of the current bodies. Most student governments do not even have a senate such as the one that exists on our campus. However, the proposed constitution provides for a senate that not only establishes a communications link between the Executive Board and an active segment of the student body, it also establishes a sounding board, an confluence of student opinion, upon which the Executive Board can base decisions of policy, which, after all, is a prime function of the elected officers of the Associated Student Body.

Whether or not the proposed constitution is adopted is up to you. My concern is that it be considered on its own merit and not fall victim to a torrent of half-truths and biased, uninformed opinion.

BOB G. CHRISTOPHER
ASB Vice President

Editors note:

All newspapers have a right to voice editorial opinion. The assertion that the Roundup is uninformed is academic. Actually, members of the staff have been actively involved in school government and the new constitution.

Dear Editor:

The editorial published last week pointed out, although this is certainly not what was intended, the necessity to ratify the proposed constitution. The editorial, in a few places, very few, does show insight and objectivity. The authors show insight when they speak of the present constitution as a "hunk of paper" and when they speak of the "present snail-paced government" but there it ends.

The authors of this editorial suggest that the members of this student body reject the proposed constitution on the grounds that it would deprive the "interested" students of the fair representation that now exists in Senate. As it stands now in Senate, the representative from an organization with a membership of sixteen, for example ROUNDUP, can cancel out the vote of a much larger group such as Chaffee Hall with between four and five hundred students or by opposing vote cancel out the vote of the Freshman class representative who speaks for over fifteen hundred students. Is this really true student representation? Under the present constitution the class officers have no more power in the formation of legislation and student policy than the representative of the Rodeo Assn., Circle K, Roundup or Spanish Club.

The editorial argues that the members of Senate should have this triple representation through the Student Body officers, class officers and their club representatives because they constitute the only "interested" students on this campus.

If my memory serves me correct, it was this group of "interested" people who could not muster up a quorum so any business could be carried on at the last regular meeting of the Senate. When the Constitutional Revision Committee asked in the school newspaper for suggestions two weeks before they started to write the proposed constitution only one of the suggestions came from a member of Senate.

The authors of this editorial suggest that the solution to our problem is to rewrite the proposed constitution so it will give the clubs more power through Senate. Under the present constitution Senate has the power as shall be necessary. (Article III, Section III, Clause II) How much power do they want?

As I see it, the only fair student government is one that offers equal representation to all the students of the body which it represents, without special and additional representation for the members of the special interest groups. The only way to do this fairly is to place all members of the student body on one level as far as having a voice in their government.

The proposed constitution for the Associated Student Body of Boise State College does this by placing the control of the student government back in the hands of the electorate through an executive and legislative body chosen by the entire student body.

The Constitutional Revision Committee and Executive Board looked over the constitutions of many colleges and universities and found the type of organization found in the proposed ASBSC Constitution the most prominent and workable. I personally feel that Boise State College will benefit a great deal by the adoption of this constitution. I also feel that the students of Boise College will vote in favor of ratification of the proposed ASBSC constitution on March 1.

Gerry Felt.

(EDITOR'S COMMENT)

Felt's comment about the editorial appearing in the Feb. 23 issue of the Roundup is incorrect. The Roundup wants the Suggested Constitution defeated, NOT ratified.

Felt maintains that the co-called elected class representatives will serve their constituents. The fact is by their own admittance, the elected officers do not know what their constituents want. The officers have agreed that while they are huddled in the ASB offices, the club representatives are talking with their fellows and with other students.

Felt points out correctly that the Senate has power to enact legislation UNDER THE OLD CONSTITUTION. But under the Suggestion such authority would not exist. The Senate would be nothing but a discussion group.

And as to the assertion that the Senate did not have enough for a quorum, the fact is that under the old Constitution and according to Robert's Rules of Order the Senate does not need a quorum for conducting business. Besides, the meeting in question was poorly publicized.

The idea that the Roundup (or any other organization) is over represented is not true. Actually, considering the number of students marching in and out of this office registering opinions and complaints about the school, the Roundup probably represents the widest influx of students of any organization. There are no class alignments in the Roundup, but there are plenty of opinions.

But most important, Felt seems not to be up-to-date with his own colleagues. Last Friday, Feb. 23, Scott Baker, John Poulson, and Ron Oliver agreed on a proposal by Baker (a member of the Constitution Revision Committee) that the Suggestion should NOT be on the ballot, but that it should be rewritten. Baker cited the need for certain changes because of the haste in which the original document was written.

It remains that the Executive Council would have full control of nearly $100,000 of Student fees. That must not be allowed to wield full control over that money. Under the proposal advocated last week in the newspaper and as agreed by Baker, Poulson, and Oliver, the student government could be strengthened and representation increased.

The Roundup position is unchanged.

Students of BC:

The proposed constitution that will be on the ballot has many workable points, but to put a document with this many inequities before a student body, asking them to vote it in as a whole, and adding a conciliatory statement that it can be amended later if necessary is like asking a man to sign a blank contract for a car purchase and telling him that you will fill in the details later about total amount of purchase, monthly payments, and amount of interest.

I feel that this constitution should be put back into committee and have as many of these inequities as possible worked out before the student body is asked to vote on it.

If it is rejected, and I hope it is, I will help on a new committee of revision and I'm sure that we (the opposition) have created enough interest to get a larger committee with a greater spread of interest to work out a better version of a constitution.

I admit that we need a new controlling force for the student government but, no matter how badly I need a new car, I don't want to sign a blank contract.

by Lloyd Love

In the depressed thirties, with fascism preparing to overrun Europe, there was widespread apprehension that a like fate awaited America, and that our variant of the fascist plague would be spawned in the South. It is still possible. Huey Long's often quoted warning - that fascism would come to America in the guise of Americanism - may yet prove prophetic.

An explosion is clearly in the making. The Negroes of the urban ghettos are in revolt and the Johnson Administration shows little willingness to respond to their real needs. And at this juncture the South is staging a counterrevolution which bodes no good for the nation.

But is "counterrevolution" the right word? That the Negroes have staged a revolution is a romantic and misleading notion. It has been a mistake from the beginning to call the civil rights movement a revolution or anything that resembles an uprising peaceful or violent, with intent to change the existing form of government. The Negro has been calling not for a change in the legal order but for changes in society to conform to the Constitution and the spirit of laws long since enacted. If an American citizen demanding the rights due him by virtue of his citizenship is a revolutionist, the term has been given a new and discordant meaning.

The real revolutionists, of course, are in the South. Throughout the nation the pace of desegregation has been slowed to a walk, if not reversed. In the North the segregationists are still on the defensive and reluctant to show an openly racist spirit, while in the South regressive and bent on rolling back such slight gains as the Negro has made. The Wallaces and the other dixiecrats now flocking to the Confederate colors seek to defy the Constitution and halt the forward march of American democracy. About all this there is a smell of something highly indigenous, yet European too - of

SADIE HAWKINS DAY DANCE SPONSORED BY VALKYRIES

The annual Sadie Hawkins Dance, sponsored by the Valkyries, was held in the SUB Ballroom Feb. 24. Stag or drag, the dance featured a Marrying-Sam booth, complete with wedding pictures.

Wedding rings were made of pipe cleaners for the boys and pipe cleaners with marshmallow for added appeal for the girls. The booth was a project of the Valkyrie pledges for the purpose of raising money for their pledge project.

Entertainment was supplied by the Baroque, with an unforeseen intermission lasting from 9:00 until 10:00 p.m., due to power failure.

EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

The Executive Council has approved the appointment of seven students to the Student Union Board. These are Kathy Eason, Lina Blacketter, Tim Hedges, Linda Baril, Becky Ackley, Larry Linsky, and Jamie Freeman.

According to Phil Rank, SUB director, the student board will plan and coordinate an immense variety of activities, including dances; pool, bowling, and chess tournaments; movies and lectures. The board will eventually have eighteen members and any interested students are urged to apply.

It was also announced that Dick Karr will work with the Life Lines as chairman of a special student committee to help set up future blood drawings.

CHAFFEE HALL DANCE

There will be a dance from 9 until 12 midnight in the SUB the night of March 1. Admission will be $1.25 per person. Entertainment will be provided by the "New Critics." The event is sponsored by Chaffee Hall and the public is invited.

"I think Dave's an excellent student who is dedicated to his instrument," commented Bratt. "Unlike many talented people, Dave is a strict disciplinarian in his practice and studies and I feel that he has a tremendous future ahead of him because of his combination of talent, dedication and the willingness to work very hard to attain his goals. I have the utmost confidence in him as a student and as a person."

upstarts and demagogues seizing power and doing it as Hitler did, under cover of legality and with an appeal to the worst instincts of the worst section of the populace.

Lyndon Johnson's response to this dangerous state of affairs was to devote a few tepid lines in his State of the Union Address to the problem of civil rights, while using most forceful language on behalf of "law and order". Rather than confront America with its obligation to make democracy meaningful for all, the President has chosen to meekly follow the current wave of public opinion. This action helps to legitimize Wallace's campaign. The demands for "law and order" can no longer be branded as the rantings of a racist, because these demands have been endorsed by a "liberal" president. Lyndon Johnson has acted immorally in his attempt to steal the right's thunder in order to improve his standing in the polls. The cruel irony is that over the long run the gain will probably go to Wallace.

STUDENT JOURNEYS TO FORT WAYNE IN COMPETITION FOR $300 AWARD

by Lyn Heine
Staff Reporter

David Runner, Boise College music major and organ performer, has become well known in the area for his winning talent in several organ contests.

Runner won the regional student competition in the National Federation of Music Clubs in Salt Lake in March 1967.

He was unanimously voted the winner for his three selections: "Prelude and Fuge in A Minor" by Bach, "Allegro from the Sixth Symphony" by Widor and "Pageant" by Sowerby.

In competition with five organ students from Washington, Oregon, Utah and Montana, Runner received first place honors in the American Guild of Organists Regional Convention in Spokane in June of last year.

He will compete in the AGO National Convention in Denver later this year.

Runner is one of eight finalists in the National Organ Playing Competition. His tape audition of "Toccata in F Major" by Bach, "Adagio from Third Symphony" by Vierne and "Pageant" classed him as one of the eight best of 38 contenders.

David will journey to Fort Wayne, Indiana on April 2 to try for the $300 cash award which is awarded to the winner. This is a national contest open to any organist under age 35.

The winner of the finals will play a recital in Fort Wayne on April 2 as one of five finalists in the First Presbyterian Church Music Series.

Runner began study at age 11 with Glenn S. Daun of Santa Barbara, California. He also studied under Prof. Ralph Wallin at Minot

FLACK TO SPEAK

John Flack, one of the most sought-after speakers in the collegiate world, will appear on the BC campus from 7:00-8:00 p.m. Friday night in the lounge of Chaffee Hall. He is sponsored by Campus Crusade for Christ.

All BC students are cordially invited to hear his speech on "How to Start a Campus Revolution."

Flack, a graduate of Princeton University where he played football for four years, has just returned from one and a half years on a tour of colleges and university campuses throughout Europe. He has spoken on over 300 college campuses to athletic teams, fraternities, sororities, faculties, and student bodies.

His other accomplishments include visiting professor of English for one year at Rikkyo University in Tokyo, Japan.

BCSCA Outlines Advantages of Membership

The usual reasons given for joining or belonging to a sports car club such as competition, comradeship, social activities or just a general interest in sports car, seem to me not as important as the fact that because of the relationship between car and driver that develops because of a club membership, safer and more capable cars and drivers are on the highways.

Stop and think about it. When did you last see a keen club member with anything but the best tires he could afford on his car and inflated at the proper pressures? Have you ever seen the cockpit cluttered with shrunken heads, deodorizers, and fancy daddies on the steering wheel. When was the last time you saw a true sports car approaching you at night with one headlight burning or out of alignment. Did you ever see a club member come to a screeching stop at a light, all wheels locked up and sideways? How long has it been since you saw the driver of a sports car talking with his hands or his charming lady sitting almost in his lap, arms wrapped around his neck? As nice as it sounds, let's admit it's a bad practice and proves nothing.

This is not only a reference to BCSCA people and their cars, but to all sports car clubs and all their cars. Whether they own Morris Minors, Volkswagens, American sedans or any other type of vehicle, the same rules seem to apply. The odds are that the person who bothers to join a club is exposed to so much knowledge and experience from other members that he cannot help but become a more capable driver with a more roadworthy car. Granted our cars may be dirty most of the time, noisy, with no hub caps and wide wheels making them look a little mean, but a road machine they are. True, we may drive a little faster than we should by law, but with both hands doing the proper job, in a car that fits us, sitting in a seat that also fits (even if we have to bend it to make it so), maneuverable we are.

The association with other club members makes us aware of the tires, brakes, suspension, the art of fast driving, the importance of positions, driving lights, rear view mirrors, seat belts, top grade brake fluid, proper tire pressures,

ICAC TOURNEY

March 1st and 2nd will be the dates for the 1968 ICAC Wrestling Tournament, to be held in Rexburg.

The mat meet will include the five teams which make up the conference: BC, Mesa, the host team, Ricks, Snow and Dixie. Wrestling coach Ray Lewis considers Mesa a strong team this year, as well as Ricks, who narrowly defeated the Broncos last week and who have dominated the conference in past years. But the Boise cornering technique, proper use of the gear box and road conditions. These are just some of the subjects that the average sports car club member can talk about with more intelligence and authority than most of the people who sell them, install them and possibly even the people who manufacture or create them.

Being a member of a sports car club is like serving an apprenticeship in car owning and driving that should last all our lives. This, is the important advantage of club membership. Excerpt from MSSCC "Panic Slip"

Bronco Cagers Rated Sixth In Nation; Head For Regional Tourney Monday

By Howard Wright

Boise College will host the NJCAA Region I Basketball tournament on March 4 and 5, in the Boise College Fieldhouse. The tourney will include Boise College, Treasure Valley Community College, Phoenix Junior College and the Sub-regional Winner of the 16th district. Boise, the defending Region I champs from the 1966-67 season will put their title on the line, March 4, probably against TVCC of nearby Ontario, Oregon.

Coach Murray Satterfield will bring his BC Bronco crew into the tournament with a 23-3 mark for the regular season. Last season Boise College compiled a 26-10 overall record, winning their second ICAC Championship and a ninth place finish in the NJCAA National in Hutchinson, Kansas last year. Wendell Hart, Bill Otey, Keith Burke, and Rodell Hill are the returning members of the 1966-67 club; which form the nucleus of this year's squad.

Coach Carlyle Dean will bring his Treasure Valley Chukars fresh from a Feb. 23 and 24 Tournament victory in the Oregon Community College Conference. Big gun for the Chukars is 6'8" center; Dane Hill and Dean has a pair of fine backcourt men in Mike Moore and Les Harris to back up Hill. The Boise College crew has, however, defeated TVCC in two contests earlier in the season, 65-46 and 75-70.

The other two teams in the tourney include Phoenix Junior College, conference winner of Arizona; and the winner of the sub-regional contests held Feb. 27 and 28 in Twin Falls. Competitors for the sub-regional title are host College of Southern Idaho, Rangely, Colo., North Idaho J.C. of Cour d'Alene; and the College of Eastern Utah of Price.

CSI, with a 21-5 record has split home and home contests with Eastern Utah and NIJC. Rangely and Eastern Utah both remain largely of unknown quality, but Rangely is known to have lost a pair to Eastern Utah, the first by a wide margin and the second in a 100-99 squeaker. However, in the 1966-67 season, Eastern Utah split a series by equal margins in sub-regional competition with Boise College last year, only to lose the deciding AMA by a close 65-63 to Boise.

In this year's sub-regional contest, CSI Coach Eddie Sutton launches his Golden Eagles with hopes centered on 6'6" post man Tom Bush, 6'3" forward Ples Vann, and back court ace Larry Barnett. Coach Rolly Williams of NIJC has 6'9" Don Barnes and a pair of smooth-operating guards in Rick Sweeney and Clyde Smith to help his cause.

Boise College, though, has split a pair, 48-54 and 68-66 with CSI and has twice up ended the North Idaho squad, 83-75 and 83-59.

Game time for the NJCAA Regional Basketball tournament, held in Boise on March 4 and 5, is at 7:15 p.m. both evenings with two games each evening. Gates will open at 6:00 p.m. both nights and admission for Boise College Students with ID card is 75c.

General admission is $1.25 and 75c for ages 6-18 years.

BRONCO BEAT

BY JEFF HARTSHORNE
Roundup Sports Editor

The Boise College Broncos were sailing along, with only one loss in their last 23 games. Then, all of a sudden, things took a turn for the worst. Playing the Weber State freshmen, they were plagued with problems.

Keith Burke's effectiveness was noticeable hindered by a case of the flu, and the big center came up with only three points. Then Ronle Austin became the victim of an ankle sprain, and there went our rebounding strength.

Having relied on these two players all season, the Broncos found the going rough without them, and even though Burke revived himself for the second game, the loss of Austin was felt, and the Broncos fell to defeat for the second straight time, which goes to show how much the five starters meant to them.

During this time, 6'7" Joe Gillespie was faced with a big task—he had to fill the shoes of Austin, who has been an invaluable aid to the team, because of his rebounding ball control and twisting close-angle jump shots. Gillespie did a good job of filling in, despite the odds that were against him, and with Austin back and leading the Broncos to a stunning upset over CSI, the Broncos will be virtually unstoppable as they fight their way through the fast competition of some of Idaho's top collegiate teams in the 1968 NJCAA Regional Tournament.

Having attended most of the home games for the Broncos, I have heard a number of below-the-belt punches aimed at Gillespie, by some of the big-mouthed spectators at our school, who apparently feel all they have to do is put on a Bronco uniform and thrill the crowd. If our students realized the pressure that is on Joe, who has to come in when one of our starters is injured or in foul trouble, and the fact that this is his first year for the Bronco's, they would think again before putting him down. True, he's not as talented or as experienced as Austin, but he wouldn't be second string if he didn't have some talent.

I certainly hope we can appreciate the job the basketball team has been doing representing our school this year. It's been a fine season, and the Broncos have nothing to be ashamed of, win or lose.

Meanwhile, let's root them on through the Regionals and on to the Nationals.

TRACK

For anyone wanting to participate on the Boise College track team this year, there will be a meeting March 11 at 3:15 in the gym. Those interested in coming out can see Coach Lewis next week, after completion of the NJCAA Wrestling Tourney to be held March 1 and 2.

TENNIS

Daily workouts have begun for Boise College Bronco tennis team, starting at 3 p.m. each day. Interested members are asked to contact Coach Conner in his office any morning or either Tuesday or Thursday afternoon. Team hopefuls are very optimistic for a successful season.

Mrs. Yvonne Quist read all of Bromfield's "The Man Who Had Everything" while her husband fixed a flat. She reads at 3,500 words per minute.

You'll find this hard to believe, but Mrs. Yvonne Quist of Salt Lake City actually sat in the back seat of their 1965 wagon and read (not skimmed) an entire book, cover to cover—270 pages of medium sized print. All this in the time it took her husband to change a tire.

Impossible, you say? A freak talent?

Mrs. Quist will be the first to tell you she's no genius when it comes to reading. All her life she read about 314 words a minute—just a little faster than the national average.

The problem with Mrs. Quist was that she read the "old way"—word by word.

If you don't think that's a problem, try an experiment: see how fast you can talk. You'll find you reach a limit—about 225 words a minute if you're good. When you sound out words in your head, you bog down in the same way. Even reading phrase by phrase has its modest limitations.

But when you train your eye to move down the page and read chunks of text—even long paragraphs—at a glance, there's almost no limit to the amount of material you can cover.

Can one really comprehend this way? Why, you're doing it all the time. For example, when you drive a car, you don't look at everything happening on the road, item by item. Your eye takes in the whole scene at a glance, and your mind puts it together to form a "picture."

You can do the same thing with reading.

So why do we tend to read slowly?

We're trained to hear every word we read, and see each word in sequence. Until recently, nobody believe it could be done any other way. It took Evelyn Wood almost twenty years of study to evolve a new reading technique that allows you to read at unusually high rates with no sacrifice of comprehension or reading enjoyment. There's no trick. And there's no mystery. We show you what to do, and you practice until the new habit is formed.

You can do it, too!

You probably have one more question—is Mrs. Quist an exceptional reader? Not really. Just take a look at the beginning and ending speeds of typical graduates.

Each demonstration lasts 1 hr. and 15 min.

- One person at end of this series of demonstrations will win a fully paid scholarship to Reading Dynamics.
- You will see a Reading Dynamics graduate read at amazing speeds from a book he has never seen before and then tell in detail what he has read.
- You will see a documented film that includes actual interviews with Washington Senators who have taken the course.
- You will learn how we can help you to faster reading, with improved comprehension, greater recall.

Money Back Guarantee
We guarantee to increase the reading efficiency of each student AT LEAST 3 times. We will refund the entire tuition to any student who, after completing minimum class and study requirements, does not at least triple his reading efficiency as measured by our beginning and ending tests. Reading efficiency combines rate AND comprehension, not speed alone.
