Questions to Appear On April 24 Ballots

In view of the growing concern over the war in Vietnam and the “Urban Crisis,” CHROIC will offer students a chance to express their opinions concerning the handling of these two problems facing America today. CHROIC’s coordinator Chuck Harkins reports that the Vietnam questions will be offered as an alternative for students, as well as a general opinion poll.

Regarding the “Urban Crisis,” students can state their views on how they feel the government should handle the situation. Such opinions will include measures for curtailment of discrepancies in education, riot control, control of the drug problem, and so on. An opinion poll on revision of the draft laws is being conducted, and an ad appears in the bulletin.

Students should make an extra effort to vote, to make sure the candidates they support are elected and proposals they favor have been passed. Students should know that their opinions are as valid as any other, and that by voting, they have a voice in the future of their school.

CONSTITUTION

Dear Editor:

It was with great concern that I convened a new constitutional convention of the student body on the very day after I took office. My concern was whether the committee could come up with a document that would best serve the interest of the students. Fortunately, I can say that I may have had unfounded.

Having the privilege to read the new proposal, I feel that it is very well presented and gives the students what they should have and need in a student government. Because of this, I want to commend the committee for a job well done. They have carried the needs of the entire student body into account, and I truly urge everyone to support this proposal and any suggestions to the Forum next April 10, from 9:00 to 10:00 in the Student Union ballroom. The程序ary of the new Student Union President Paula McGoldrick was featured during intermission.

Disgruntled Student Comments on Station

There's a radio station that transmits to the dorms on campus. In the by-laws of the Broadcasting Club it states that this radio station, KBSC, is not for the students and shall not be treated as such. This reveals a problem, but does not solve it.

The people who run KBSC are turning it into their own little.
