● LYNN CRAIG REIGNS OVER BC CAMPUS

Esquire Candidate to Vie for Miss Idaho Title; Catherine Wentz Voted Miss Congeniality

By MIKE SCHINDELE

Eighteen-year-old Lynn Marlene Craig was crowned Miss Boise College of 1968 at the fifth annual pageant, held in the school's gymnasium Saturday evening.

The five-foot-four brunette also won the talent competition with a flute solo, "Carnival of Venice."

Miss Craig, a freshman and a 1967 graduate of Boise's Capital High School, was sponsored by the Esquire Club. She is currently a member of the Boise Philharmonic and has won several scholarships to the Sun Valley Music Camp. The 115 lb. coed said that her future plans do not rule out the possibility of her performing with a symphony orchestra.

The ceremony of pageant night was concluded when Dr. John B.

Barnes presented Miss Craig with a bouquet of roses and a kiss. She will receive a tuition scholarship, various other scholarships, gifts from local merchants, her title and crown, along with the chance to compete in the Miss Idaho Pageant later this year.

A 19-year-old sophomore, Catherine Wentz, was voted Miss Congeniality by her fellow contestants. She was third runner-up for the 1967 Miss Boise College pageant.

The three runners-up in this year's contest were: first, 19-year-old Cathy Barker, a sophomore; second, 18-year-old Barbara Forman, a freshman; and third, 18-year-old Kristin Williams, a freshman. All three finalists are from Boise.

One of the highlights of the fifth annual Miss Boise College Pageant was the presence of Miss Idaho of 1967, Kristine Phillips. She was interviewed briefly by Master of Ceremonies Lon Dunn, and then performed several organ solos, much to the delight of the audience.

In talking with Miss Idaho backstage after the pageant she remarked that she thought the BC pageant was one of the better ones she had attended thus far this year.

Miss Phillips, who is from Rupert and attends the Idaho State University at Pocatello, won a $1,000 scholarship at the Miss America pageant last summer for placing in the swimsuit competition.

Miss Phillips stated that she felt any girl who had talent or beauty, and had aspirations of becoming a local or state pageant winner, should give it a go. "It's an experience that will live with you forever."

The Golden Z Club and Inter-collegiate Knights produced this year's event, as in the past. The co-chairmen of the pageant, Becky Ackley and Doug Dingeldein, said, "Our purpose in producing such a pageant is to give all our coeds with potential an opportunity to display their outstanding personalities, their talents, and beauty. The profits earned will be used for scholarships which will enable the winners, as well as outstanding members of our respective clubs to further their education."

Linda Eyre, Robin Van Liew, Joie Ruby, Erma Camfield, Pat Call and Gwen Lewis.

Children modeling are Teresa Erickson, Terry Romer, Le Ann Thames and Randy Boyack.

The luncheon will be provided by Saga Foods and Mrs. Wayne White, president, will introduce the club officers for the next year.

WEARING the crown of her title as Miss Boise College is 18-year-old Lynn Marlene Craig. She is a freshman and a 1967 graduate of Capital High School in Boise. Sponsored in the contest by the Esquires, she will receive a tuition scholarship, gifts from local merchants and a chance to compete in the Miss Idaho Pageant later this year.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

KBSC Pres. Defends Broadcasting Station

Dear Name on File:

If you would like to cite examples that KBSC is being used as a toy and validate your accusations of "... in order to be a good DJ one must act like a conceited know it all with his nose stuck in the air," I will consider your Letter to the Editor as constructive criticism.

Since the format of KBSC is "Popular Music" (Hard Rock and Folk Rock), Roger Williams and "other greats" have not been included in our program for the obvious reason that Roger Williams and "other greats" have not recorded "Popular Music."

Students who want to hear Roger Williams or Roger Miller or Roger Maris should let their desires be known. When enough BC students have informed us of their interests and wishes, we will enlarge our format to include more than "Popular Music."

Also, "Name on File," in the American system of justice, the burden of proof rests on the shoulders of the accuser, not the accused. You must prove that your accusations are true with some facts.

Sincerely,
 Johnny D. Ashcraft,
 President,
 BC Broadcast Club

Interfaith Council Makes Presence Known

Dear Editor:

The Interfaith Council of Boise College has been concerned with the fact that our organization appears to be little known on the campus. For too long, the Interfaith Council has had the image of being one of those "inactive organizations," among those few who know of the existence of the organization.

As one might guess, the Interfaith Council is an interdenominational organization which seeks to foster a spirit of brotherhood and unity among the religious organizations and groups in mutual activities. The Council has been in existence from almost the conception of the school and has been putting on the Christmas, Easter and Thanksgiving programs in the Music Auditorium every year. Also, in past years, the Council has conducted worship at the break and has collected foot baskets for Thanksgiving.

Thus it is our goal to continue these things and add to the list of our activities in years to come, thus making it one of the active organizations. It is also our goal to increase the representation of the Council. According to our constitution we are to have two representatives from each religious organization, group or denomination. Presently we have representatives from the Presbyterian (Westminster Club), Baptist (Roger Williams Fellowship), Roman Catholic (Newman Club), and the Latter Day Saints (L.D.S. Institute). If there is no representation on the Interfaith Council for your denomination, then we urge you to come to our meetings every Friday at noon in room LA 208.

On April 12, we will have our annual Easter program. It will feature the choir and a sermon called "The Jesus Game," given by one of our members, Jay Scott. I am quite sure it will prove to be very controversial so it is well worth all students to attend.

Randall H. Kingsbury
 President, Interfaith Council

Outraged DJ Clears Up Station Policies

Dear Editor:

In regards to the letter which appeared in the April 4 Roundup concerning KBSC and the DJ's, I was outraged. Whoever wrote it didn't know anything about the college's own radio station and how it is run.

The station is not "run" by anybody. One of our major offices is station manager. The person who now holds this office, does have some background in broadcasting. He is there to remind the rest of the club of its policy and give advice when it is needed. As long as the DJ's follow the club policy they are pretty much on their own. Most of the DJ's haven't had any experience in broadcasting before and they have their own air shifts now.

The DJ's are not a bunch of "conceited know-it-alls with their noses stuck in the air."

If the person who wrote the letter knew what he or she was talking about, they would know that due to technical problems KBSC is not broadcasting into the dorms—just into the SUB.

At our March 28 meeting our club president told us that if we had any gripes about some person or something in the club we should go right to the person involved. We meet upstairs in the SUB at 12 noon every Thursday. So "Name on File," come out, wherever you are.

Becky Johnston
 KBSC DJ.

Do Students Have to Be Asked to Pay Respect?

Dear Editor:

In the past this paper has printed several letters in regard to being respectful to the American flag. By showing respect to this symbol of American democracy, a person shows his loyalty to this great country in which we live.

These last few days Americans have been showing their respect to a man by flying our flag at half mast. This is perhaps one of the greatest tributes that can be offered to a man who has served his country. Martin Luther King was a man dedicated to the promotion of peace. So dedicated, in fact, that everywhere he went, violence soon followed. The aftermath of his death was the senseless deaths of hundreds of innocent men, women and children. Who says anything

The Score Is . . .

By RON OLIVER

Because of a significant age difference among us (31-14), we younger Olivers don't see much of each other. Imagine the excitement when, after six years, my brother Don met brother Troy—in Vietnam.

Don is a Marine corporal who gets a big bang out of building new radios after the navy blows up the old ones. Troy is a captain who has played cops and robbers with the black market and is currently making like an S-3 while hoping for a company.

Although both have been over there for some time, they didn't anticipate meeting very soon. But Troy was reassigned to Con Thien, about 35 miles north of Don's normal head rest. However, Don was in Dong Ha building a radio when the captain stopped in.

Later, Don hitched a ride to Con Thien, having received Troy's message. The meeting of career officer and temporary enlisted man must have been interesting. Corporal Oliver hadn't shaved for a week and isn't too concerned about haircuts. In addition to that, bathing isn't too common over there and his nose was bleeding. (It seems the driver of the broken-down truck had a Grand Prix complex). At any rate, Troy treated him to lunch—C rations.

As of last word, the two are now within about 200 yards of each other. Perhaps they'll keep tabs on each other, so we'll get a better idea of what they're doing!

Council to Purchase State Flag and Seal

The Executive Council will purchase a state flag and a Boise State College seal for student government with the coming status of State College. Plans were made official at the Executive Council meeting of April 3.

Currently under discussion is the merging of the Lyceum and Social committees and the Student Union Board under one director. However, the three groups will remain separate for the remainder of this year.

Members of the council would appreciate the teachers reading the announcement in class to keep the students informed, as many tend to disregard announcements of special assemblies and such. At the meeting the council also issued a notice that all long distance telephone calls for "Choice 68" will not be paid for by the ASB since they hold no responsibility for it. Also, a reminder to all club presidents that all budgets are to be turned in to Pat Fleenor, ASB treasurer by April 19, 1968.

about flying the flag at half mast for them?

What about the boys in Vietnam, both negro and white? Why don't we fly the flag at half mast for them?

It is no wonder students have to be asked to pay respect to the American flag. It no longer means anything to them.

It seems to me that it would be the wish of this great man of peace that the American nation keep the flag at half mast until these boys in Vietnam, who are fighting to preserve freedom, are no longer being killed and are returned home to their families.

Names on file.

Practical Nurses Graduate Ten Freshmen In April 7 Exercise to End Year's Studies

By Pat Karr

Graduation exercises for the practical nursing class at Boise College were held Sunday, April 7, in the Liberal Arts auditorium.

The practical nursing course is a one-year training program in co-operation with St. Alphonsus Hospital and the Idaho State Board for Vocational Education. This is the first year the practical nursing course has been designed to end in the spring. Another class will begin next fall.

Mrs. Lois Hale, class president, and Dr. John R. Marks, superintendent of the Idaho State School and Hospital in Nampa, spoke to the graduating nurses. Marks, who received his M.D. at the University of Wisconsin, advised the students that the certificate awarded upon completion of their training was only one more tool to serve humanity.

Receiving their certificates were Mrs. Grace Byington, Mrs. Edyth Gilliland, Mrs. Ruby Gray, Mrs. Harriet Griffith, Mrs. Lois Hale, Mrs. Helen Hazen, Mrs. Florence Parve, Mrs. Phyllis Roe, Miss Marilyn Johnston and Miss Lux Talamantez.

During their year of instruction the practical nursing trainees have been involved with hours of supervised hospital nursing experience in caring for patients under medical and surgically treated conditions, caring for sick children and caring for new mothers and infants. The students were also taken to various health agencies in the community including nursing homes and state hospitals. Classroom work consisted of hours of theory in the needs of humans in sickness and health, with emphasis on the practical nurse's part in meeting these needs.

VISTA VOLUNTEER RETURNS TO BC; TELLS OF QUASI-ESKI EXPERIENCES

By MIKE SCHINDELE

Twenty-three-year-old Carol McDonald, the 1964-1965 president of BC's Valkyries, recently related her experiences as a Vista Volunteer during 1966 in White Mountain, Alaska.

Miss McDonald, who is returning to complete her education at BC this coming fall, left Boise in June of 1966 to serve for a year in the Volunteers in Service to America.

She and her roommate were trained for six weeks at the University of Alaska, and then were assigned to White Mountain by the Department of Economic Development and Planning Division of the Economic Opportunity Office at Juneau.

Upon their arrival at the village, which served as a lookout during the Eskimo-Indian Wars, the village council asked the two Vista volunteers to start a pre-school program, a recreation program, and to help the villagers with their local garden.

Her first undertaking, to set up a pre-school program in her home, had doubled in size at the end of her stay in that Alaskan village. In order to start a recreation program she sent away and received from Boise College, much athletic equipment.

"Living there in the cold and complete isolation made it necessary for me to adapt. But I learned to love the village and the slow and easy pace of life there," she said.

Located on the Seward Peninsula, White Mountain is boxed on three sides by hills and trees, and on the fourth side by the Fish River. At one end of the settlement was a Swiss missionary foster children's home, an elementary school, a native store, a small gymnasium and an armory. At the other end of the village Eskimo homes were scattered everywhere.

Living in that "gold rush type" village was not easy for Miss McDonald at first. She lived in a one-room cabin with one end partitioned off for bedrooms. At the other end of the room was a sink and a bucket for water. White Mountain had no running water so a well was used during the summer, and water was packed in from the river during the winter.

After becoming more familiarized with the inhabitants of White Mountain, Miss McDonald and her partner began to think up new ideas to aid the community. "We tried to develop community organization by involving the villagers as much as possible," she said.

Miss McDonald set up a public library. It is now run by local villagers, with many other individuals volunteering their services as librarians. She also helped start Campfire Girls and Blue Bird troops, which are now led by local women.

"We set up and supervised projects such as entertainment, and we helped the villagers with their problems whenever they became evident. Mainly, we tried to acquaint them with outside agencies which could aid them after we were gone," she added.

"I think the greatest thrill for me was my ability to communicate with the people. The fact the Eskimos believed in what I had tried to accomplish and backed me in the various projects was the biggest success I could possibly have hoped to achieve."

THINCLADS WIN QUADRANGLE MEET; NNC INVITATIONAL SCHEDULED NEXT

The Boise College track team pounded the soggy cinders to sweep to its second win of the season in a relay meet at Bronco Stadium Friday.

Boise accumulated 52 points to second place NNC's 44, while Treasure Valley College and Eastern Oregon College finished a fairly distant third and fourth, in a meet which was run against cold and blustery winds.

Turning in a creditable performance for Coach Ray Lewis's crew was Buzz Renn, who ran a wind-aided 9.7 time in his 110-yard leg of the Broncos' winning (44.8) 440 relay team. In addition, Renn won the long jump with a distance of 21'7" and placed fourth in the triple jump.

Roger McClure got another first for the Broncos with a 13-foot effort in the pole vault, while BC's Mike Matthews took third. Doug Ward, who anchored the 880 relay team to first place, as well as running on the Bronco 440 relay, won the triple jump with a leap of 40'11". Other firsts were obtained by Boise's mile relay team, anchored by John Kaufmann, and Steve Rudd, with a 41.2 time in the 330-yard intermediate hurdles.

By placing in all but one event in the meet, the Broncos showed an overall balanced team effort. The next scheduled meet is the annual NNC Invitational, to be held at Nampa's NNC oval, Saturday, April 13.

Broncos Finish 6th in BC Diamond Classic; Baseballers Even Current Season at 4-4

The Boise College Broncos took sixth place in the BC Baseball Classic April 6, with an 11-3 loss to the U of I Vandals at Simplot Stadium in Caldwell.

Fresh from a 13-3 romp over NNC, the Vandals took advantage of the Bronco pitching staff and continued their attack after Boise opened the scoring. The Broncos started the scoring when Phil Smith banged out a single, scoring Rich Yocum. Then the Idaho attack started, with center fielder Phil Reser hitting two singles and a double for five rbi's. Hurler Fred Horn also helped the Vandal cause by driving in two runs.

Starter Bob Peterson for the Broncos had control problems in the chilly weather and walked seven Vandals. The University of Idaho won, 13-3.

LEWIS-CLARK

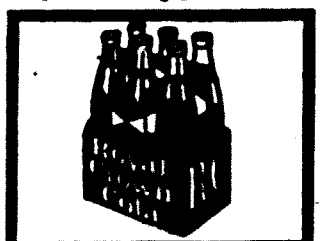

In the earlier April 6 contest, Boise bounced Lewis-Clark Normal 7-2 at Nampa. The Broncos jumped into the lead in the first frame when Yocum swatted a wrong field single, stole second and scored on a bouncing double by George Sapphire.

Lewis-Clark knotted the score 1-all in the third, but Boise came back with two in their half of the inning with two more. Boise again added three more in the fourth and another in the fifth to wrap up the game.

GONZAGA

On April 5, Boise College dropped a 10-5 decision to Gonzaga. Boise had clear sailing for the first five innings with Phil Smith allowing only one run. But in the sixth, the roof collapsed, as a double by Zag Doug Anders pushed across three runs. A fourth run in the sixth came across for the Zags and tied the score at 5-all until the ninth when the Gonzaga crew pushed across five runs and won, 10-5 on the final inning surge.
