State SB Leaders To Lobby For Funds

Student body presidents of Idaho colleges and universities will meet for the first time under the name of the Idaho Student Government Association at Boise State on Jan. 30 and 31 for a two-day convener.

Jim Gray, ASB vice president and host for the meetings, announced Monday that the tentative roster includes meetings with Gov. Don Samuelson and Superintendent of Schools, Jack Larrington, and the association's first drive is to lobby for funding for the entire Idaho school system.

Gray said:

"We have to find out what department funds what organizations."

Organized in December at a meeting at the University of Idaho, the ISGA is made up of members from the U. of I., Idaho State University, Lewis and Clark Normal, Ricks College, Boise State, College of Southern Idaho, North Idaho Junior College.

Members of the association's Executive Council, which is made up of one voting representative from each member school, are student-body presidents Larry Craig, U of I, temporary chairman; ISGA; Leon C. Fulcher, NNC; Michael King, ISU; Ron Boyd, C of I; David Sauer, NUC; Dyke Nally, RSC; Larry Hargrett, Lewis-Clark Normal; Leon Wright, CSI, and Ken Meacham, Ricks.

Project Expounds Purpose

Keeping with their purpose "to explore, study and make recommendations to those problems and issues which are closely related to the welfare of education in the state of Idaho, the ISGA members are initiating a study to reduce the legal voting age in Idaho.

Each voting member school of the association will conduct a campus survey for changing the legal voting age. The U of I group already completed their survey with results showing 71.2 per cent of the university students in favor of reducing the legal voting age.

Forum members at ISGA also will conduct a similar survey next week. Gray announced the survey will be conducted by each school representative polling 25 per cent of the students in their particular School. It is hoped that 12 per cent of each school will be polled.

"Hypothetically," Gray said, "we should come out with a pure cross-section by working with the forum members and through the Schools."

Craig Aided by ASUI

ISGA temporary chairman, Larry Craig, the University of Idaho, was aided in conducting the survey by the Associated Student Body officers, which includes Dyke Nally, president; Pat Fleenor, vice president; Jim Gray, vice president; Kathy Folk Coffee House, treasurer.

Craig said his decision was due to financial reasons and suggested one of the sophomore reps be moved up to take his place and then another rep. be appointed by the Senate.

The same old question of "Who funds whom?" was raised at the Senate meeting when ASB President Dyke Nally presented the proposed budget for the Idaho Association for spring semester.

 Asking for $1,835 from ASB funds and approval of being accepted as an ASB funded organization, the Rodeo Club wanted immediate action.

Following a discussion on whether the club should be funded through ASB or the Athletic Department, the matter was tabled until next meeting.

A reminder that student body elections are coming up in March was made by Nally and ASB treasurer, Pat Fleenor, pushed the ballot box also.

Financial reasons also were given for his action. Appointment of a new president is pending.

Senators Highlights: Madsen Resigns; Bulletin Board Fiasco; ID Mix-up

Sophomore class president, Dennis Madsen, surprised members of the BSC Senate Monday night when he stood and read his resignation as his class's representative. Madsen said his decision was due to financial reasons and suggested one of the sophomore reps be moved up to take his place and then another rep, be appointed by the Senate.

The same old question of "Who funds whom?" was raised again at the Senate meeting when ASB President Dyke Nally presented the proposed budget of the Idaho Association for spring semester.

Social Chairman Dave Rolfe complained to Senate members about the mix-up during registration of the temporary paper I.D. cards. Rolfe said dozens of students flew lost or thrown away their I.D. because, "no one informed them of their importance."

Rolfe announced the permanent cards will be distributed by senate members in two weeks and until that time, all students should hang on to the white slip of paper.

The Highway Burial Board Committee reported that city and Chamber of Commerce officials are still giving them the "runaround" and Nally asked for some sign of progress.

Don Quixote Film Is Friday

The Boise State College Film Society's offering tomorrow night at 8:00, in the Liberal Arts auditorium will be "Don Quixote De La Mancha," from Spain. Billed as the most ambitious work yet filmed in Spain, no expense was spared to bring the fascinating to the screen.

As the screenplay writer and director, Rafael Gil has given Spanish motion pictures one of its most luminous works ever made.

Starring in the film based on the novel by Miguel De Cervantes, Rafael Rivelles plays Don Quixote, with Juan del Rio as his sidekick Santiago Pueyo. Others are Ferrน Ray, Manolo Moron, and Sara Motelf.

Coming next week in the series of films, will be "All Quiet on the Western Front," one of the greatest motion pictures ever made about struggling conflicts of war.
Perhaps the biggest issue before the Idaho 40th Legislature is the funding of the state colleges and universities through the State Board of Education. Originally the Board had recommended that $9.4 million be approved for ISU, $32.6 for the University of Idaho and $9.23 million for Boise State. When Gov. Don Samsonnet released his 1969-70 budget request to the Legislature, the State Board found cuts from the budgets of the universities and vocational-technical education.

With sectionlining and anti-boise sentiment due to legislatures re-apportionment already present in the State, the call "Stop Boise" was echoed throughout the state (especially in the former district and Lewiston areas) when Boise State’s budget request was not cut as Samsonnet removed $2.8 million from the recommendation for the University of Idaho and $3.3 million from that of Idaho State-P.E. Cries arose from the various sources that criticized the Boise Chamber of Commerce executive when the Chamber requested more funds and facilities for BSC. These charges generally asserted that the Boise Chamber didn’t “know much about education” and the Boiseans had no right to request additional funds for the Boise schools.” With the trimming of the university budgets by Samsonnet, these same sources criticized the cuts themselves, or more accurately, the lack of them.

It is evident that these sources of criticism are not taking into account the needs of BSC. For one thing, many of the time expenditures such as teachers salaries and retirement must be considered. Also any student who uses the BSC library frequently will cite the volume of material.

This usually leads to a trip to two of the Idaho State Traveling Library, Boise Public, not to mention trips to the College of Idaho in Caldwell. According to American Library Association recommendations, BSC’s Library should have at Rasti 200,000 volumes instead of the present number of 70,000 books, Elms, and bound periodicals. Shortage in staff, class rooms, and office space are prevalent with crowded classes and limited number of sections because of being used by student. Of many students cannot take the recommended course load because of limited faculty and facilities. Facilities that must be built are small dollar storage closets, and sometimes in a corner of a class room. Several classrooms which could be used have been converted into complexes of faculty offices instead of being used as additional classrooms. Many students who would otherwise attend school in the daytime also must have night classes to obtain the required courses.

Even the night classes were as many canceled due to the shortage of faculty. Before the integration into the state system, state colleges were on 7-7-7 schedule. BC, The valuation of the the main campus has been placed at $4,23,426, 43 and also included are the new science and office building, vocational-technical building, and new physical education building, pool, and physical education facilities. The new buildings will be financed by the school and part of the cost of the school is $5,23,426. The campus land itself is valued at $5,23,426.

The vocational-technical building will replace the present wooden structures, many of them built prior to 1940 when the campus served as the Boise Municipal Airport. The new stadium replaces the present wooden structure that was declared unsafe two years ago, but constant repair keeps it from collapsing. The stadium is used not only for football, but also for community activities as well as Boise Public School athletics. The physical education building will provide additional space for P.E. classes. The swimming pool will also be used for college swim meets as well as public swim meets for P.E. swimming classes which are presently held downtown at the Y.M.C.A.

Also stop to consider that BSC’s budget was cut from $11.2 million to the present figure to $9.23 million before it was even considered. How much were the budgets cut for the Universities before they were submitted to the State Board of Education. This fact hasn’t been released.

As for BSC’s budget, we shall “wait and see”. Maybe “common sense” will prevail over sectionlining. H.E.W.

What’s The Word?

Final word on the controversial schedule change at Boise State College will come from President John B. Barnes and he is alone to make “the right” decision. A decision that must keep the students, the faculty’s “friend at court” and the State Board of Education, which is currently recruiting a new sargeant-at-arms.

With the “common sense” schedule recommendation from members of the college faculty (they voted last week 12 to 5 in favor of the change), but results have not been released, a resolution from the ASB Senate to accept the calendar schedule which was to be voted on by the students on the current schedule and results from a recent poll taken by The Arbiter staff (which showed that only 1.2 per cent of 1,418 voting students were in favor of a schedule change)... Barnes will have to make a decision.

The showdown has finally come following a series of arguments and more arguments. The first line came when BSC students realized that along with their new schedule, half and semester finals would be scheduled after the holidays instead of before them. The bad news came when President John B. Barnes said that the schedule would be disastrous in June rather than in early May.

The Arbiter’s letter was signed and was heard. The faculty was next to wake up. They are by proposing Plan A and Plan B and put their votes on a reference... sidewalk scuttle-butts say the faculty voted heavily for Plan B. Plan B puts semester break before Christmas vacation, plus a few other “unKnows”.

Statements, requests and proposals on the schedule change are being directed to Dr. Barnes. If majority rules at Boise State, the president can only make one way, and he shifts into reverse, well... Dr. Barnes, what the world?
Dr. Gould Slates Classical Music Series on KBBK

“Music of the Masters,” a three-hour stereophonic program of classical music, will be initiated by Dr. C. Wallace Gould, BSC. Associate Professor of History, Political Science and Music, Sunday, January 26, on radio station KBBK.

The music show, which will be broadcast every Sunday evening from 9 p.m. to midnight, is “an attempt to bring higher class music to radio listeners in Treasure Valley,” according to Dr. Gould. He feels that there has been an increasing desire for fine music on the radio.

According to Dr. Gould, the broadcasts will be a set of songs interspersed with commentary which at times ran a bit overlong. Her soft-voiced, easy-flowing style of singing and deft guitar accompaniment were pleasing except for her tendency to fade out on phrase endings so that certain words were lost.

In addition to the production of fine tunes and unique blends, they also are dedicated to being a part of the solution instead of part of the problem. They’ve been a big plus factor in a sometime negative world.

What’s so great about the New Folk? It’s the thing they’ve got about how they live and how they communicate. In explanation, well, the group’s master of ceremonies puts it this way, “Men are coming to the conclusion, through the process of elimination, that Jesus Christ is the answer to the world’s problems simply because nothing else works.” The New Folk carry the action with them. That’s their bag. Jear them and judge for yourself. It’s all free.

THE NEW FOLK, nine voices with the versatility of “Spanky and Our Gang” and the individuality of “The Sandpipers”, will appear in concert Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the SUB snack bar. The free coffee house is sponsored by the Student Union Board in association with the Campus Crusade for Christ International.

A REVIEW

‘Song-Swapping’ Singers Please Folk Enthusiasts

by David Evans

An appreciative audience of about 300 heard the relaxed “song swapping” of Rosalie Sorrels and Lou Killen in the Liberal Arts auditorium last Friday night.

Miss Sorrels appeared first for a set of songs interspersed with commentary which at times ran a bit overlong. Her self-voiced, easy-flowing style of singing and deft guitar accompaniment were pleasing except for her tendency to fade out on phrase endings so that certain words were lost.

Lou Killen then appeared to provide a contrasting style in his British background, especially to his lusty singing of English country song. His accompanying on the concertina provided a perfect background, especially to establish the mood for the nautical numbers, although certain ballads were effectively done a cappella.

After Killen’s set, Miss Sorrels returned to the stage and the two “swapped” songs on similar subject matter for another hour. Especially well done were the “farewell” numbers. A highlight of the segment was a humorous story told by Killen to illustrate the dialect of his native Newcastle-on-Thyne in northernmost England where the speech resembles the nearby Scots tongue.

In a final encore, Miss Sorrels and Killen provided a contrast to the plaintive ballads of the evening by belting out, with relish, “Your Cheatin’ Heart.”

A HAPPY NEW YEAR

Boise State students brought special New Year happiness to Mrs. Vonda Winsky, the blind widow of a former piano tuner at the college, by presenting her with a $50 check. Mrs. Winsky has three children, all under the age of 14.

MAT TESTS SCHEDULED

The Boise State College Wrestling Team, fresh off a 27-8 upset win over NCC, now begins a three-meet home stand, as the Bronco Matmen host Blue Mountain Community College Friday evening at 5:30.

NEW FOLK SWING WITH ‘IN-NESS’

A new kind of people with a new kind of purpose, The New Folk, will bring a new kind of “in-ness” to Boise State Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the SUB snack bar as the Student Union Board in association with Campus Crusade for Christ International present the group in a coffee house concert.

One of the most versatile groups, nine performers, representing nine different campuses, the New Folk have a sound all their own. Words can’t adequately describe their sound, which, by comparison, emulates the smoothness of “The Association”, the intensity of “Simon and Garfunkel”, the impact and excitement of Baja Marimbas and the naturalness of Glen Campbell.

In addition to their production of fine tunes and unique blends, they also are dedicated to being a part of the solution instead of part of the problem. They’re a big plus factor in a sometime negative world.

Boise State Beats NNC; Hosts Portland State

The Boise State College basketball team hosts the Portland State College Vikings Friday night in the third game of a four game homestand. The Vikings will be seeking revenge of an earlier season upset over the 82-70 loss in Portland. The Portland School, which has won 24 of 26 home games this year, is the only team in the league to beat the Broncos, led by their 6-7, 210-pound junior center, Leon Edmonds. Edmonds accounted for 32 of the 82 Portland State points in the first meeting and since that date he has been averaging well over 40 points per contest.

The Knights of Warner Pacific, another Oregon school, come to Boise Monday night to test Murray Satterfield's charges. The school, which did not field a basketball squad last season, comes to Boise with a 10-13 overall record.

SENATE HIGHLIGHTS

anybody's hand for three straight minutes also added up to a change in the school's mascot. "How about a three-armed Stinker?" he asked.

Keeping with Fleenor's mood, "the Sun Valley Escapade" was dispensed and dropped because of non-participation and arguments from the floor. The Senate members were to travel to the Boise area this weekend for a two-day retreat.

Several senate representatives argued with retreat chairman Brad Janss over the purpose of the retreat and felt members could accomplish just as much by remaining in town. Janss came back with the idea of a more relaxed atmosphere being an aid to accomplishments but was chuckled down by his fellow participants. "We could always furnish the members with snow and sunshine, but we won't put them on the bench at the Holiday Inn."

Consequently, Janss called Sun Valley and canceled the Senate's reservations and ASB Secretary Kathy Eason informed members that the retreat was to be held every Saturday at noon in the Silver Room.

The Senate kicked off the retreat by electing Dr. John Stoer, treasurer; Dave Lawrence, secretary; Becky Moe, Room of the Student Union manager; and Jim Townsend, station manager.

KBOI Returns to the Air

Boise State College's campus radio station, KBOI, is back in action following the semester break and is operating through two fully-equipped studios.

President Clint Timley said the radio staff will begin broadcasting into the Student Union Building next week and regular staff meetings will be held every other Sunday at noon in the Silver Room.

The new staff includes a KBSC star member, Dave Fordham, program director, and Jim Townsend, station manager.

Idaho Sanctions Is Speech Topic For SNEA

Dr. L. E. Wesche, Department of Education head at Northwest Nazarene College, will speak on "Sanctions In Idaho Education" tonight at 7 p.m. at the Silver Room of the Student Union Building.

A guest speaker for the BSC chapter of the Student National Education Association, Dr. Wesche will inform interested education majors on what a sanction is and how it will affect new teachers in Idaho.
