Boise State Broncos join the Big Sky

Boise State College and Northern Arizona University were admitted to the Big Sky Athletic Conference meeting held in Salt Lake City on May 30, as announced.

According to conference spokesman, approval by the President’s Council and unanimous for the first league expansion since its formation in 1963.

BSU and Northern Arizona join charter members Weber State University of Idaho, Idaho State, Montana State and Gonzaga of Spokane.

The league for recruiting and eligibility will apply to the members immediately, a spokesman said, though neither will be eligible for championship competition until the fall of 1976.

The 1970 football title will be the first seven-way conference. Gonzaga does not field a football squad.

It is, dependant, however, on whether or not the scheduling of the schools can be re-aligned. The University of Idaho has banned solid in football until 1972.

A committee was appointed to review basketball scheduling beginning with the 1970-71 season. Conference officials said that all eight members play each other twice during the season, on a home-and-home basis. Boise’s 1969-70 schedule already includes conference foes Idaho State (twice), Montana, Montana State and Weber State.

At present, officials noted, the six charter members all other conference teams three time a season.

No firm announcements were made on football scheduling, but a spokesman said the conference was working on an eligibility formula.

According to Bronco coach Tony Kupn, in a Nov. 23 talk to the Idaho Press Club, to be ... eligible for the conference title in 1970, it would take four conference victories. "In the beginning, we have Idaho State, Weber State and Montana State on our 1970 schedule and we would like to add University of Idaho as the fourth conference game," confere newsreps.

Idaho has a game with Portland State in 1970, and would like to tackle the Vandals for the fourth contest at this time. Kupn also suggested an alternative of designating a non-conference game such as Cal Poly or another school as the fourth game and count it in the standings.

However, University of Idaho Athletic Director Ed Knecht said the following day that the U of I had no plans to drop Portland State from its schedule to play another.

"We’re scheduled solidly through 1973, and either Boise State or Northern Arizona and those schools and all of the rest of the conference knew that when they made this week," Knecht declared. Knecht said that he felt that the University of Idaho showed its good faith when the University nominated Boise State for membership.

Vandal head coach V. C. McNeave felt that Boise State was trying to dictate the U of I’s schedule and said as far as he was concerned "we won’t be dropping anybody.

A lot to see somebody come into the league and start putting fingers at other people the first day out," McNeave said.

‘Scarecrow’ casts a spell during Subal production

by John Woodworth

Assoc. Prof. of English

Wednesday’s screening are call it what you will, the players and their attention was casting well this week in "The Scarecrow" by Percy MacKaye at the Idaho College on campus at BSU.

If the response of the audience is any indication of the necessary theatrical venture, Director Del Coellet should be pleased. Thankful this holiday season He has demonstrated once more that the age of play has not died, as far as the immediacy, that MacKaye’s drama of personal salvation will be reproduced and enlarged by the Vocational-Technical Division, Boise State and installed in the front of the new Voc-Tech building now under construction.

Could it be: White racism at BSC?

Campus Blacks encounter Idaho

by Greg Feider

Sponsored by the Encounter Idaho Committee, an evening panel discussion concerning "White Racism at BSC" was held Nov. 18 in the SUB Snack Bar.

The panel consisted of four Black students: Wendy Hart, Bill Burris, Renee Ruth and Sherry Burke. Comments with approximately 200 members of the audience was moderated by Jim Armstrong.

Throughout the evening, various issues were discussed covering national trends affairs as well as personal experiences of the Black student at the local level. Among these was the extreme difficulty that the Black students encountered in attempting to find housing. Various causes of such difficulty were discussed by the members of the audience.

The consensus at the close of the meeting was bewilderment at the state of the Black population in the Boise area, especia effort the small Negro population.

The encounter Idaho Committee felt the evening was beneficial, but that further follow-up steps are needed if any real progress towards racial understanding is to develop.

The Committee is now considering several evening lectures on Black culture and on African history.

... Everyone knows that the problems of pollution, slums and race discrimination exist only on the face of the city and on the other side of the fence. We have to get ourselves involved in solving these problems. We feel that it is up to us and which don’t exist in the Boise valley. Besides, it’s common knowledge that there are few people who operate outside of Boise and not involved with the city. (see to next page 1 col. 4)

Speaks as readily to today’s young audience as it did to the audiences earlier on the twentieth century when it was first adapted from Hardwood’s short story "Footpath.

Leading the cast is Eve Kelly, whose transition from Scarlett to man is most convincing. Kelly’s use of his voice and body to convey the change is masterful. His final scene brought moisture to this discerning eye.

Joining Kelly for top honors is John Hoot, whose Justice Gideon Merton is a shining display of pugnacious meekness. Hoot’s elegant band of under the management of Medieval vices. Wanda Garden’s Goody Glibb is just what a witch should be. Cory Rowland, who plays Justice Merton’s daughter, Rachel, breathes life into what might easily have been a nothing part. Chuck Mark, whose acts in "The Tempest" were such a delight, essay the role of Richard Talbot. Rachel’s brother-in-law, always a pleasure to watch, achieves a moment with the help of Dale Watkins and Sharenne Williams, who literally stem this with that’s funny.

Rounding out the cast are Kary Board, Richard Young, Terry O’Brien, Patty Powell, Mike Wentriska, John Edgerton and Don Coffman.

As for those technical details which should supplement rather

That overpower the actors, they are handled with great skill by special effects man Roll Heid and his help Joon Cappi. Powell has pulled in the starting areas of properties for the "Scarecrow who” and "The Scarecrow" is as little involved backstage as it is active in making "The Scarecrow" a fine evening in the theater.

I particularly wish to compliment Ron Kempter and Sam Johnson on the two audience sets, who thrived on the tension of the raked stage and but with a fascinating difference. Altogether a fine evening in the theater.

Amyx fields questions on housing, industry, movie

by Leon Feenathron

Editor staff writers

Boise Mayor Jay Amyx was re-elected to a second term "just a week ago." Following his victory, the mayor was interviewed concerning some of the current issues facing Boise City government and business today.

One of the key issues in the current campaign was the problem of shortage in Boise. This problem has been critical due to the influx of people into the city. The mayor has taken a "no-nonsense" approach to this issue, stating that he will not "sugar coat" the problem.

One of the main concerns of the mayor is the "housing crisis." He stated that there is a "critical housing shortage" in Boise, and that the city must take action to address this issue.

The mayor also spoke about the "economic crisis." He stated that the city is facing a "grave" economic situation, and that the city must take action to "revitalize" the economy.

The mayor ended his interview by stating that he is "looking forward to working with the city council and the business community to address these issues." He highlighted the "importance of working together" to solve these problems.

Elected to Office in 1961 and re-elected this fall, Jay Amyx is in his second term in office. He was born in Parma, Idaho, and is a graduate of Boise State University. He has been active in local politics for many years, and has been a leader in the community for over 30 years. He is married to the former Alice Burt, and has two children. He is a member of the Boise Chamber of Commerce, and is a board member of the Idaho Economic Development Association. He is also a member of the Idaho Farm Bureau, the Idaho Cattlemen's Association, and the Idaho Manufacturers Association. He is a member of the Boise Rotary Club, and is a member of the Idaho Military Affairs Committee.

Dear Editor,

DURING THE recent Moratorium, there appeared on this campus a number of placards proclaiming "Don't leave us defenseless. Don't run with surrender." The only illustration on these placards was that of an airplane dropping a bomb. There was no question to be asked about the American flag. Underneath this illustration a sign revealed that it contained 12 squares of 50 stars.

At first, this mistake may seem to be an obvious one. But I realized that the drawing had not been completed, nor was it completed with a certain amount of freedom in its execution.

The overabundance of the stars and stripes was due to the fact that there was no question present among the people in the United States who are not sympathetic with the Moratorium.

In this case, these people profess a patriotism out of proportion to reality. They see the exercise of the right to demonstrate as a submissive play. They find in the current Moratorium a plot to defame and to destroy both domestic and the nation in which they live.

The Moratorium is not a plot to destroy America. We who labored for its victory and who believe in the idea of a world government, why did businesses and housewives participate in the observance of this day? Why did college presidents join students in Moratorium action? Why did churches all over the country participate if there is a destruction connected with Moratorium? It is because only destruction is based artificially on boundaries between people.

As for myself, I don't call for the destruction of the United States I would rather have the people who believe in the idea of a world government, and its leaders to acknowledge the fact that the proved American dream is being spread to the nations who are not ready for it. The idea that we can solve the moral and economic problems by bringing in foreign workers, is one that we are to continue, we must still continue in the process of secularization and pacification of Vietnam. Today, there is none that works.

Peace,

Rick Hunt

Dear Editor,

While reading through the May 16 issue, I found my picture under "Arguments" by dormitory resident. Under the picture it was stated that we three girls were wearing "shoes for a dormitory girl." I don't believe that such a dormitory girl should be limited in her clothing to the standards of the dorms. I believe that the dorms may enjoy liberties not available to those confined by dormitory rules.

I regret to inform you that first of all, the picture was of a photograph, to the photographer, to the person who dressed the girl in either the annual or the handbook and not of me. I do not believe in Moratorium. Instead of all, I do not believe that the되기 dormitories should be considered a woman's campus. I feel that the boys feel that the dormitories are the boys. I feel that the college should come down and be here to help us to get into the classroom. I believe that I do not believe there should be a certain dress code for the men. I believe that the students who wear a dress code are the students who care for the students. I feel that there exist a number of places that only have the rules, for those special occasions that only have the rules. I feel that there exist a number of places that only have the rules for those special occasions. I feel that there exist a number of places that only have the rules.

White racism? - now really

Could it be that White Racism occurs on THIS campus?

Black students attending school in Idaho are encountering Idaho and finding the people just as we bit unconcerned as to man's inhumanity to man. A panel discussion featuring three ISC students, Wendy Hart, Renee Ruth and Bill Barnes, and a Boise 'High' cord, Sherry Buckner, attempted to delve into the subject. Results? Bewilderment on the part of the audience at the sudden realization that racism does occur in Idaho. (Woods photo)

Youth Movement

There's an accent on youth at Standard Insurance Company, and Boise State's Russell LeBourdais is very much a part of it.

Russ participated in Standard's College Intern Program, spending the summer in the Company's Boise Agency. There, he secured his agent's license from the State Department of Insurance and learned the basics of life insurance marketing.

He learned so well that he earned top honors this fall in competition with Interns from other Western colleges.

Russ will graduate from Boise State—and the Intern program—in June. He will then be a full-time life underwriter, applying young ideas to the financial planning needs of young people.

If you'd like to learn more about this young approach to an old problem, call Russell LeBourdais.

Senate may have accomplished something: This week committee's report on progress

Committee reports and appointments

At the Nov. 24 meeting, the BSC College Skydivers asked to be appropriated $351 to cover expenses at the collegiate sky-diving nationals held in Phoenix, Arizona Nov. 28-29. A state of emergency was declared, and the motion passed.

Gary Miller, head of the library committee, said that Miss Ruth McMurry, who had been very cooperative in recent years with the library for regular magazines at 10 cents per day. Reserve magazines are still 25 cents per hour, with a maximum of 52 per day, Miller noted.

In the reply to the student request that the library remain open longer on Saturdays and Sundays. Miller said that Miss McMillen thought this was almost impossible because of the limited budget to pay the staff. Joe Randall presented the proposed faculty evaluation form to be used this semester hopefully.

The forms will have three parts, a sheet that asks for student comments about a faculty member, and an IBM card which can be marked with the appropriate choice. The student comment will be sent to the division chairman in each respective school, and the IBM results will be tabulated and a faculty "honor roll" posted with two or three faculty from each department chosen. A state of emergency was declared, and the resolution passed unanimously.

Committee chairman Gary Johnson then presented progress report in the bookstore proceedings. The committee found items such as thumbtacks, paper, etc. to be in some cases 70 per cent higher in the bookstore than in other local merchants. Secondly, the committee disclosed a list of questions that were presented to Mr. Ackerman, the manager. Miss Elizabeth Foundry.

Neville Welker presented a resolution which urged that student membership on the division and sub division curricula committees as voting members. It requires them to stipulate that the representative of a junior or a junior, and have a 2.5 GPA in major field courses. Originally, the requirement was for a 3.0 GPA. General consensus of the senate was that a 3.0 GPA requirement would remove many interested and capable persons with a GPA between 2.5 and 3.0. Roll call vote on the issue was unanimous.

Vice president Jim Tible stated that senate attendance has been quite poor and that three unexcused meetings stipulate suspension according to the constitution. With poor attendance records will be removed. Tible said.

Chief justice of the Judicial Committee, Kassen Drowne, recommended that the constitution be sent back to that group because of vagueness in the functions of several committees. IDC President Pete Glete said that the constitution would be corrected and the constitution returned to the Judicial Committee.

Drown's indictment that the Judicial Committee will present new proposed procedures for the acceptance of new organization constitutions at the Dec. 10 senate meeting, the last this semester.

Indians Organize

A meeting will be held for those interested in organizing the American Indians on campus in the SUB Gold Room. Dec. 11, 7-8 p.m.

Letters to the editor

Front page 23 or right and if there were not enough hours, it would be too much now.

As it is, many of the freshmen students do not make the grade. Do you realize what is going on in our dorm alone, that over one one-hundred of them did not make the point? This is why I feel that if the rules allowed them more liberties, we would lose less face students and that we do not. I also think that dorm hours are needlessly being used up because everything closes, here in those of 11 a.m. anyway.

I do not think the dorm is a prison as this article suggests, neither do I concur with the opinion that the article are qualified to judge. They have the same fixtures towards dorm life in general and have expressed their feelings to include all dorms including the ones on campus.

Thirdly, I did not grant my permission for my picture to be used to imply what it did. In fairness, I feel my opinion about the matter should have been asked before this article was published.

I do not believe I really like playing the part of the public "guinea pig", and therefore, executing such slander. I feel that in the future, the kind of oversight of the truth facts should be avoided, and that a public apology would be appreciated. Thank you.

Darlene R. Pichet

Editor's note: No implication was meant that those pictured shared the opinions expressed. However, the article was written by residents of Marion Hall, the abstracts are qualified to comment on the rules.

We challenge you to a game of Horseshoes.

About nine-hundred million people have told us the horseshoe on our label is upside-down and that an upside-down horseshoe means all the good luck has poured out.

Well, next time you drink an Olympia keep your eye on the horseshoe. As you turn the can or bottle upside down, you turn the horseshoe right side up. Clever, eh?

Of course, most people don't even pay any attention to the label. They just want the beer inside to be good. Which is why so many people drink Olympia. We modestly claim it to be the best beer around because we're lucky enough to have the best brewing water around: the pure, natural artesian brewing water of Turnersville, Washington.

When you're choosing beer, choose Olympia. The nicest way to play horseshoes we know. Its the Water.

Lauded movie here tonight

On Friday, Dec. 5, "The Diary of a Country Priest" will be shown in the Liberal Arts auditorium at 7 p.m. This is a French film directed by Robert Bresson. The screen play is based on the novel by Georges Bernanos. The story is a pure and intense account of the anguish of a young priest whose faith is not understood nor accepted by his village.

This movie is not typical of the usual melodramatic religious movie that is filled with clichés, but it is intense and profound, film director John Smead said.

One well known critic wrote that movies can be "an experience that demands a really searching reappraisal of one's loves and faith and can lead to a profound Christian meaning. Some films, in fact, qualify as a form of religious experience. Anyone who has seen "The Diary of a Country Priest" will recognize what is meant by the foregoing statement."

This film received the grand prize of the French cinema and special award at Venice Film Festival as well as other foreign awards. Smead said.
