Entry Into State System Requires Revision Chore

Gary Kleeman, Student Union Assistant Director, said Monday if all campus organizations go by the student handbook they are not at this time officially recognized.

He says his job is to enforce the rules as set down by the college and which evolved through participation of administrators and student representatives in the past.

Going through the files from last year, Kleeman says problems arose through reorganization of Student Union functions and the move from a junior to a state college. The rules as outlined in the student handbook are out of line with what currently exists and they must be put into perspective.

Kleeman asked the ARBITER to notify all student organizations of the immediate need to fill out forms with his office to apply for official recognition with the college. All organizations at this time are allowed to have three organizational meetings, and they then must make application for a formal recognition.

The student handbook, as prepared by the Dean of Men's Office, stipulates for organization:

1. Documents--submit to the Dean of Men and the Director of the Student Union:
  - a. Statement of purpose (aims and functions)
  - b. Constitution and by-laws
  - c. List of advisor
  - d. List of charter members
  - e. Information concerning sources of financial support
  - f. If the local group is affiliated with a national organization, the above information concerning the national group is required.

Any changes in the above information, other than item d., will be reported to the Director of the Student Union within ten days of the change.

All recognized groups are required to elect a qualified Faculty Advisor.

2. Ad hoc organizations

The Director of Student Union is authorized to grant a student organized group for a one time event or single purpose of supporting or opposing a candidate on ballot measure in any special or regular ASB election.

It is the policy of the college to oppose and prevent in any activity or organization discrimination based on Race, color, or creed (religion) and requires each organization to include said statement in their national and local charter, constitution, or laws on non-discrimination.

A group is no longer officially recognized when it has ceased to function as evidenced by:

1. Notice of dissolution from officers and/or advisor or
2. Failure to hold any meetings over a twelve month period or
3. Failure to submit or report changes in the organization as required in C. 1. above.

The Dean of Men, the ASB Senate and Director of Student Union's office may withdraw recognition whenever conditions of the recognition contract are violated or the rules and policies of the college are violated. Prior to withdrawal of recognition the group will be warned, given the opportunity to take corrective steps, or be given a hearing before the appropriate board or council on student conduct.

Dean of Men Edwin Wilkinson said the necessity for all campus organizations to submit their applications for official recognitions comes because as of January 1969 the institution moved to the state school system and all organizations must conform to state regulations.

This is just an updating procedure for all files, including information of current officers so they may be cleared for eligibility for conferences to be conducted.

Swim Annex Nears Okay

Plans for BSC's newest addition to its physical plant were revealed Tuesday by College President John B. Barnes and Nat Adams, Boise, architect.

Originally designed as a part of the physical education complex, the new swimming pool annex had to be dropped due to lack of available funds. But, according to Barnes, the annex was finally added after the student funds were invested and showed a profit. The new facility will provide both swimming and diving facilities on a year round basis when completed.

According to Adams, chief architect for both the physical education and swimming plants, the new addition is an L-shaped structure and includes some 10,000 square feet. Adams said general dimensions of the pool area includes five feet in depth at the racing portion and 12 feet three inches for the diving area.

Barnes said final specifications and cost estimates would be ready for presentation to the state permanent building fund council Oct. 1.

Students in the SUB find another rule to follow.

College Government Must Emphasize P.R. Contact

ASB President Wayne Mittleider said Tuesday the whole ASB program is geared to new publicity this year with the help of publicity Directors Tom Dreschel and Tom Jacobs.

Mittleider said in the past publicity has not reached the students involving student activities such as Senate elections, dances, films, concerts and campus speakers.

He said the Boise State College campus will become in the future a cultural center for the city, and if both factions work together, the concept can be achieved.

He feels the students should also be notified of where their funds are going to support the campus through building projects, student activities and government functions.

The date for Senate elections was proposed the first week of school, and publicity has been offered by means of posters, radio announcements and handouts.

Petitioning for the Senate was continued until Friday.

At the time, a alternate estimates for such items as tile for the pool deck, an entry plaza on the south side of the structure, a weight room annex, landscaping and mobile bleachers will also be furnished for presentation to the council. But Barnes added the additional expenses will not be included if the total cost of the project goes over the allotted finances for the project.

Sept. 25 for all interested students who did not receive information concerning the elections.

Mittleider said apathy is very apparent on campus and stressed involvement on the part of all students.

Beside Senate elections, there are openings now for positions on several campus committees. A handout supplied by the ASB publicity department says there are openings for:

1. Student Personnel Council
2. Committee of Foreign Relations.
3. Lyceum Committee
4. Pollution and Ecology
5. Drug Education

6. Placement
7. Scholarship
8. Community Relations
9. Honors and Recognition Program
10. All Idaho Week
11. Constitutional
12. Art Planning on Campus

Mittleider said if a ny student wants to be on a committee, walk into the ASB offices in the Student Union and talk to the officers. No applications are needed. All information required is names, addresses and telephone numbers.

Apply now while positions are still open.

Exec. Council Tabs Proposal

BSC's Executive Council gave the green light to proceed with a new student evaluation of faculty. At its weekly meeting, the council approved the pilot program and scheduled the evaluation for the fall semester.

According to BSC President John Barnes, the study will be carried out under the supervision of the college's Faculty Senate. Dr. Barnes said the proposal will be initiated by individual instructors in the classroom. After the student completes the prepared evaluation form and returns it to the instructor, the faculty member will forward the data to his department chairman. From there a computer "read-out" will be tallied and results sent to the instructor, the department chairman and the Executive Vice-President.

Barnes said the evaluation ves BSC the opportunity to obtain, "a new dimension as to the performance of an instructor which," he says, "has to help the faculty member concerned in his performance at the college."

"We've pushed for this program, and now it is a reality," said Barnes. "We are all together on this, and the Faculty Senate is fully committed to its success."

In other matters the council approved a motion not to allow outside groups to regularly use the physical facilities on the campus. The move was made because of increased construction activities on the campus which made it difficult to provide adequate space for student groups. The council also voted to continue with the student traffic appeals court for at least the fall semester.

Beautiful Old Home And Trees Make Way For New

Errteritorial

by Terry Ertter

Save a tree today. . . you may need some air tomorrow. That in an acorn shell is the theme of the People's Park group which is currently manning a booth in the SUB lobby. Their protest revolves around the city's plans to "pave paradise," (Boise Old Soldier Home) and "put up a parking lot," (Curtis road extension).

The former Old Soldier Home and grounds is a beautiful park on West State Street. With the huge trees and abundant grass, the park has always impressed me as one of the more peaceful spots in Boise. Many of you may remember the ex-trees between the Science and Nursing Buildings. The large, magnificent elms have gone to that great acorn in the sky and its getting tougher all the time to find a real tree on campus.

Take a look someday at a five year old aerial photo of BSC. Then get a look at a current photo. Please notice all the good solid brick which has replaced the frail old trees. The same thing is happening all over Boise. We seem determined to pave everything we've got before we reluctantly expand in a lateral direction.

The people manning the booth in the SUB are doing all in their power to save a portion of the real world. You can help. Sign the petition they have at their booth. For those of you who believe in working within the system this is your big chance. It doesn't hurt, take a stand.

A Fad Of The Time

It is commonplace in our society to become a victim of modernization and the American version of the academic community is no exception to the rule.

The "Ivy Covered Walls of Higher Education" have seen the chance to wave their flag of idealism and have climbed on to the Black Studies Bandwagon with great enthusiasm. So proficient has been this cultural revolution of sorts that the change is having a serious effect on the entire scope on non-white America.

Ideally the Black Studies crusade argues such an outlet would give young blacks the cultural identification they need. But the scope of cultural identity is too broad and too complex for a mere course to even attempt uncovering. This has an effect on the individual participating in the examination; he, very often, becomes further confused than he was before he enrolled.

Traditionally it has been argued the role of the academic community is three-fold; service, research, and education. None, of the three are being filled in this case. What is being done is polarizing non-white America against its Caucasian counterparts.

The ideal validity of such a program is a worthwhile concept. But it is the reality of the situation that conflicts with original purposes.

Boise State initiated its course in Afro American studies on an experimental basis this fall. It is conducted largely in the evening educational program. While there is still time to make solid evaluation of such a program, it would be wise to examine the entire scope on minority life surrounding the campus.

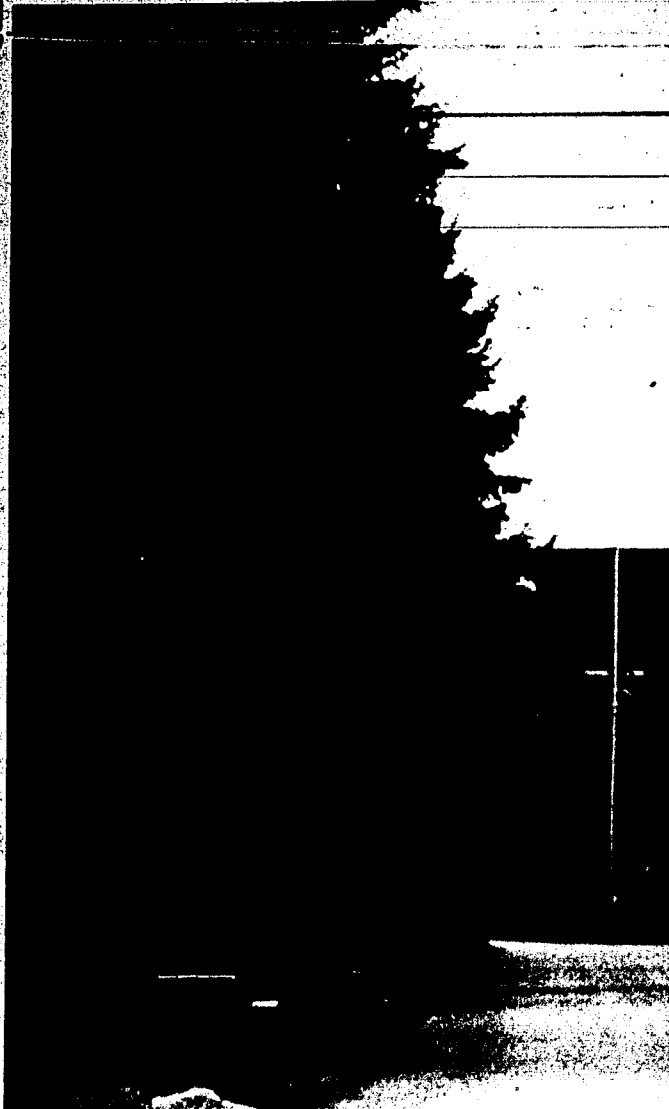

For example, there are three basic Indian tribes within the Idaho boundaries and two locate their tribal boundaries on the outskirts of this area. The Shooban to the south and the Kootenai to the north. In eastern Idaho the Shoshone-Bannock culture plays a major role in day-to-day living habits. There are Mexican Americans in the area. The recent agricultural strike in the Treasure Valley pointed out little has been done to aid the plight of that group. Another factor is a campus' Oriental student.

Instead of "keeping up with the Jones", academic institutions must take a hard look at the situation it has created. Mexican-Americans, the Indian and even the Oriental are not served by a single course in Black Studies.

There have been some attempts to solve the problems of cultural identity. Instances have been shown where tions are enlarging their score to include minorities which are prevalent in their area. Boise State should do likewise.

mmA positive step would be to initiate a Minorities Studies Department, that includes courses in economic, social political and literary background. Only in this manner can such a program be truly effective. One class in Black Studies is nothing more than a fad, of the time.

Letters to the Editor

Editor, the ARBITER

Where does our money go? Each semester a certain amount of bucks from each student's fee is put into the Associated Student Body fund to be handed out to organizations and other student functions as the officers and senate of the ASE see fit. Why then is it that nobody knows where our bucks are going?

Rumor has it that our ASB President has "appointed" a new "assistant" to join the honored ranks of the ASB. This rumor also has it that this position is payed to the sum of $950 a year.

Has President Mittleider overlooked that part of the constitution which states "the duties of the Senate... to approve or remove by two-thirds vote of all members any presidential appointee," Of course, s tudent, w h at's $950 of your money?

Along with this rumor is another that says that President Mittleider raised his own pay and that of other elected officials, but surely this can't be right because the constitution under "Duties of the Senate" again states "to approve by two-thirds vote of all members the proposed ASBC budget and establish s tudent o fficers fees and salaries" proposed ASBC budget. What's that? Oh well, things will surely look better when the new Senate gets elected.

Where is the new Senate? Well, again the constitution states "the class. presidents and school senators shall be elected in the fall semester by Friday of the third week of class." Well, I suppose President Mittleider and the other half of the 2M Company could write their own constitution to cover up t hese m istakes!

There are other rumors of misappropriation of student funds by 2M Company, but I'm quite sure that President Mittleider will be more than happy to provide this newspaper, for publication to the students, a complete, itemized list of all expenditures since he came into office last spring. After all, I supported, and voted for the 2M Company, but we are allowed one mistake aren't we?

Editor, The ARBITER

We recognize that the image of the Police Department is not as good as it should be with some people. This was reflected in an article that appeared in the ARBITER Sept. 3, 1970, advising s tudent what do in case they are stopped by the police or arrested.

The police recognize and respect an individual's rights. Protecting those rights is part of our responsibility we take it seriously. It created Don't look now but if you haven't picked up a petition to run for your favorite office it's probably too late. At five o'clock Monday, ARBITER staff was rummaging through some new stuff we got and we ran across a petition for this year's elections.

Funny thing, the due date on this petition was Wednesday noon, Sept. 23. Since ARB doesn't even come out until Thursday afternoon, at the earliest, it hardly seemed possible that we could notify would-be can'idates in time.

A couple of us from ARB dropped over to see what was going on and pick up a couple of petitions. We got the word that the deadline had been extended to Friday. As to why we had not received any info about this earlier it was explained that a mix-up in publicity had resulted in the total lack of advance notice.

We can accept that, since we once made a mistake too, but we feel if the ARBITER didn't even know about it there's a good chance a lot of other people, who may have been interested, got left out in the cold.

The ARBITER is not going to blame anyone for an unfortunate mistake but we would like to suggest that the entire election schedule be set back a week, (no big deal since it is already out of line with the school calendar.)

OK. So now you've got it and ARB would like to apologize for its negligence in not knowing about this a week ago.

an unfavorable and, we believe, an unfair impression when students are advised that they cannot count on police to respect their rights, that they may be subject to harassment and that if arrested and "raise hell" may be subject to brutality.

Our responsibility is to protect persons and property, also to enforce the laws which elected representatives have enacted. If arrests are made, it is not because police want to harass people, but because our society has decided that violation of these laws harms people. Laws and law enforcement exist to serve people. If you should need the assistance of a policeman, you can count on him to come to your aid. If you are assaulted you can count on us to try to recover it. If you do a joint or break the law in any other matter, you can also count on us to take what steps are necessary to arrest you.

Alpha Kappa Psi

The nation's oldest business fraternity, Alpha Kappa Psi, became a chartered fraternity at BSC March 13, 1969. BSC's A K Psi members are very active; in their first year on campus the members reached the 100,000 point maximum which is a "first" in the history of the fraternity. Points are given for service projects, reports handed in on time, members present at the meetings and a number of other assignments.

Alpha Kappa Psi's goal is to learn something beneficial in the business world other than "what's in the books". With this in mind guest speakers are featured at the meetings. Four are scheduled this semester.

Officers at the present time are Dick Carlson, president; John Suliak, vice-president; Randy Albertson, treasurer; secretaries Harry Buckmaster and Jim Crawford and Master of Rituals, Joe Boehelke. Advisors include Mr. Maxson and Dr. Lamborn.

Projects underway include plans for the dedication of the new business building Nov. 14 and the regional conference Feb. 12-13, which is open to any chapter in the U.S.

14 pledges are working toward initiation this year but new pledges are still being taken. The fraternity has 44 members.

Attention Seniors

BSC's new placement director today called upon all seniors to establish credentials with his office.

Dick Rapp, formerly of the University of Oregon, said recruiters will begin arriving on campus in October.

Rapp especially encouraged those seniors already having plans following graduation. "Even if your plans are set," said the director, "you should keep a file with our office. We intend to service your needs even after you leave Boise."

Rapp indicates that students wishing interviews with the recruiters should contact his office in the administration building at least a week prior to the arrival of the representative. Notice of representatives will be given at least two weeks in advance by the center.

Last Date For Student ID

The last date for students to pick up student identification cards from the Information Booth in the Bronco Center will be October 14, 1970. Student Identification cards are provided for all full-time and part-time day students. This card permits a student to be admitted to the library and student activities. Students must have their I. D. cards validated each semester.

Smith musicians strive for uncommon image

Smith, in its short existence, has paid a lot of dues. Now reformed after internal conflict that took the group off tour for several months, Smith has it together.

Smith formed as most groups do, adding members here and there, lead vocalist Gayle McCormick in St. Louis, organist Larry Moss in L. A., lead guitarist Alan Parker and bassman Jud Huss after the time of the change, and most recently, drummer Phil Parker joined the group.

They were originally discovered by Del Shannon, and signed by Dunhill. Their first album, "A Group Called Smith," climbed the charts, and a single "Baby It's You" sold a million copies.

Now, they're back on the road, working with their own sound, producing a unique hard-rock, with the faintest flavor of country-western.

Jud Huss got into rock in a peculiarly oblique way. He started as a medieval music freak, building rebeks, citterns, lutes, and the like. Then he taught himself to play them. When modern instruments began to interest him, he learned to play trumpet, guitar, flute, bass, various hand drums, and an assortment of Afro drums.

Then it was 1965. "The minute I heard 'I Saw Her Standing there' I ran right out and bought an electric guitar.

"I was in about 15 groups, I guess. The draft or personality conflicts broke up most of them. I didn't work for about four months and decided the hell with it, and dropped out of music.

"Then I got asked to join Smith. I liked their sound and went with them."

Gayle McCormick, now 21, started in St. Louis. She started singing with a group in high school, then joined another group, which she says was "very brassy, very into other people's material." From then she joined Smith.

Her voice carries an incredible range, from the soft sweet balladeer, to the brassy belting of a blues singer. And, on stage, she uses them all

Off stage, she is friendly, but shy and withdrawn, always quietly courteous toward fans and the public.

Sky Diver Improving

Due to his relatively rapid recovery, Wally Benton, BSC skydiver injured in dedication ceremonies of the new stadium Sept. 9, will probably be moved out of the intensive care unit at St. Alphonsus hospital this week.

Based on several visits with Benton, Dr. W. W. Hendry, Dean of Student Personnel Services stated that Benton is making very satisfactory progress and appeared to be coherent. But even though his condition is improving, Benton still faces a long recovery period.

With luck, bone grafting will not be necessary and doctors are quite sure that the use of both legs will be recovered.

Visiting is still restricted to family but notification will be made when Benton may receive visitors; however, friends and concerned students may help by participating in fund-raising events being planned by BSC student body officers.

Question of Mini or Midi lengths triggers reactions

by Marilyn Lawrence
Many thousands of years ago, much to the dissatisfaction of Adam and Eve, clothes were invented. They were not invented due to unattractive bodies, but rather to give protection against the cold in winter and heat in summer. Today, they are worn for approximately the same reason.

Throughout the centuries styles have changed drastically, from scanty fig leaves to high topped, lengthy hemmed costumes, to the mini bikinis, which seem to cover less than the original greenery worn by Adam.

Styles in those early times were simple. Today they have become so advanced it has caused people to gather in protest. In the early 1900's controversy was raised over the rising hemlines. Some people found it shocking and disgusting to see women's ankles. Today the entire leg is displayed and then some. For the most part men like to see lots of legs but don't mind longer styles on some girls. But just mention long skirts to some girls and you may be standing in line for a hearing device.

Women all over the world are parading and demonstrating to keep the skirts mini, while designers are creating with the midi in mind.

What do men think of all this adding and subtracting of inches to skirts? To find out, a survey was taken on the BSC campus, covering a cross section from three categories of men. Group I consists of "Liberals," Group II "Conservatives," and Group III "Athletic." Four main questions were asked of five men from each category.

The first question is, "What do you think of the girls wearing jeans and baggy shirts to class?" Several guys from each group think it is up to the girl to wear what she feels is most comfortable. Some like females to look like girls, but others like the very casual effect of jeans. One member of Group III thinks jeans are the best. "As long as the holes are in the right places." Another feels it detracts from a good looking girl.

Question two, "What do you think of mini skirts?" Only one young athlete says he is against them, simply because: "It leaves nothing up to my fantastic imagination!" Group II thinks modesty should control the hemlines. Mike DePalma states, "The girls at BSC wear minis for attention and second looks, not for comfort." Several gridironers think girls should wear sauna belts and nothing else.

On the question of "Do you like the midis?", almost everyone says no. Some think it was fine for cold weather, or as a change, but not for everyday wear. One guy says they are fine for girls who have ugly legs. Ron Cooke says, "They have their place," and when asked where, he made a hasty reply. "In the attic." Only one out of Group III approves of the midis. Brian McCarter says, "For me they show a girl who is up in the world of fashion, someone on the move, intelligent."

All one jock would say is, "I like 'em low and short, with a lot in between." Another liked the maxi coats, but not the dresses. To that answer, Brian Sopatyk, a big northern brute replied, "I look just as good in a midi as I do in the rest of my dresses!" The favorite expression among the jocks seems to be "I'm a leg man myself."

One of the Hawaiian Freshman gridders doesn't care what girls wear as long as they are 100% female beneath the garb. He also likes the idea of a "see-through Fig Leaf."

Question Four has one answer. "Out of all the styles what do you like to see your favorite girl dressed in?" They all demand modest lengths, well-kept hair and lady-like manners.

Smith, a common name for an uncommon group

Drummer Phil Parker has been playing for 11 years, starting in Detroit with local groups.

He drifted west with a club group, and, "for five or six years, I was heavy into clubs. I recorded about that time, then worked Vegas with a lounge act, and was programming myself into the Top 40 music number. Then I got tired of that garbage."

He was born and raised in Alhambra, California. When he quit college, he went naturally into music.

Musically, he claims no source of inspiration - "I've flashed on just about everybody."

"The best thing about Smith is that we are all free - able to be spontaneous." Spontaneous - as Parker rips out a long solo of his own composition. "Feel the Magic."

He first got into rock by way of listening to Chuck Berry and Little Richard. He took up piano at 16, and joined a group. "There were 10, 15, maybe 20 bands. None of them ever re-

Story Omits Contribution

Last week in the ARBITER we failed to include one section of the story about the Black Studies program at BSC.

Bill Barnes, a Boise State student, was instrumental in initiating the Afro-American studies. He says, "I'm happy and looking forward to the class with interest."

When asked his reaction to a white instructor, Barnes commented it was difficult for a white instructor to teach a Black studies course. However, Barnes said it was commendable for Mark Hansen to instruct the course.

He expects participation by a large percentage of the Black students on campus.

Battle Looms Over Old Soldiers Homes

There is a group of interested citizens on the Boise State College campus and in the city of Boise to save the Veteran's Home on State Street, the planned site for a highway connector.

A booth has been manned in the Student Union Building this past week asking for persons to give their support to save the home by signing petitions. As of Wednesday more than 1500 persons had signed the roster, according to Jack Storey one interested citizen. He said a meeting was scheduled for Thursday night at the Campus Christian Ministry on Campus Boulevard for all persons interested in joining the activities.

The problem involves a 1968 proposal to put a highway through the Veteran's Home that will connect Highways 15, 30 and 44. Storey said Mayor Jay Amyx explained it was too late to save the home, but Storey feels it is not.

He said, "We are trying to get the point across whether it is more important to have a highway or save the home which is on park land. Why not put the money which was to be spent for the connector into a mass transit system for Boise?"

He continued, "We are trying to keep any association out of it. We veterans are trying to stress how much we are like the citizens. Most of the supporters are those people who have grown up in the north end of town."

Monday night the situation will be part of the agenda for the Boise City Council meeting. An open forum is planned to be called, according to Storey, to support the Veterans.

He said citizens and families of the Veterans are prepared to occupy the building with shovels, brooms, rakes, etc., to protect the land and maintain its condition in the event the plans for the highway are to be carried out.

Storey said the action does not advocate violence. The home is still on state land, and they will be trying to stop bulldozers and land moving equipment.

The petition being circulated states, "In 1893 the citizens of Ada County donated 40 acres of land to the State of Idaho. This land was given for the benefit of U.S. war Veterans.

"On a portion of this land a beautiful park was developed by the Veterans living there. We believe that this property with its many beautiful trees and other assets presents an unusual opportunity for a Veterans Memorial.

"We would like this park preserved and plans made to extend the park throughout the balance of the property. Where feasible we would like the existing buildings preserved and maintained for use by Veteran groups and the public in general.

"We do not want this land further abused or desecrated. We are opposed to the destruction and/or reduction of this property, especially the existing trees and park grounds for highway use of purposes not in keeping with the Veterans' welfare."

John Beery: "No more time than they take, I see nothing wrong with it."

Jess Hinman: "An unfortunate necessity caused by the gross negligent attitudes of a few careless individuals."

Mike Stoy: "Don't mind it at all. Because it only takes a few seconds and besides I don't go to the library."

Opinion Poll Run By Young Republicans

An opinion poll sponsored by the State College Republican League Sept. 3-4 on the Boise State College campus has revealed Democratic gubernatorial candidate Cecil Andrus is the favorite for the state's top political position.

Forty-one percent of the persons questioned classified themselves as independents and 34 percent indicated they were Republicans. Incumbent Republicans Lt. Gov Jack Murphy and Rep. James McClure defeated their Democratic opponents.

Forty-six percent of students indicated they wanted marijuana laws stiffened and 38 percent wanted the issue legalized.

An important issue on the BSC campus is student voice, the poll indicated, with 30 percent of the total. Statewide, 53 percent of students indicated the most important issue was Education, while Kindergartens tied for last with 3 percent of the vote.

Boise State is the first of several Idaho colleges to have the poll taken. Lynn Ellsworth is the chairman of the BSC College Republicans.

According to Gary Chase, state chairman of the College Republicans, "The poll is a resounding denial that students rejected participation in the American political system. Ninety per cent of those responding believe that while the system is not perfect, it is best to work within the system for change."

Gary Johnson, BSC senior and chairman of the statewide opinion poll, stated, "Boise State students lean to the Republican Party and support the Nixon administration. Eighty six per cent consider the President's job anywhere from fair to excellent; 49 per cent support the President's Vietnam policy; and Republican Congressman James McClure gains the support of 80 per cent."

Chase said, "The results show that there is a great potential for the Republican Party on the Boise State campus, but Republicans must work to keep student support."

Roving Reporter

This week the roving reporter asked the question: How do you feel about the library book check?

Bill White: "A transfer student from Weber State feels the check is ridiculous. The people are college ago and they're being treated like little kids."

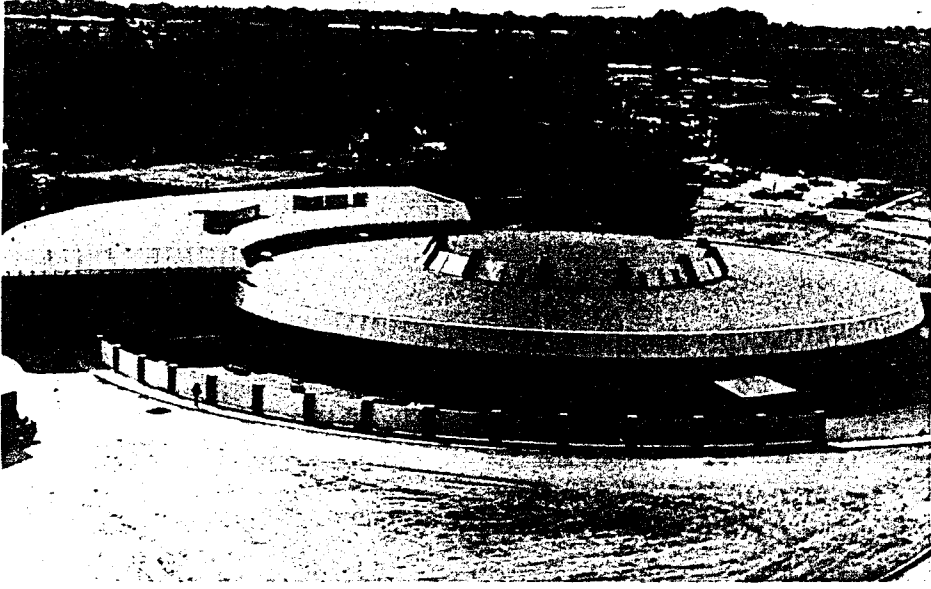

Alan Fitzgerald: "If students are going to steal books, they're going to get them one way or the other. The check is ridiculous."

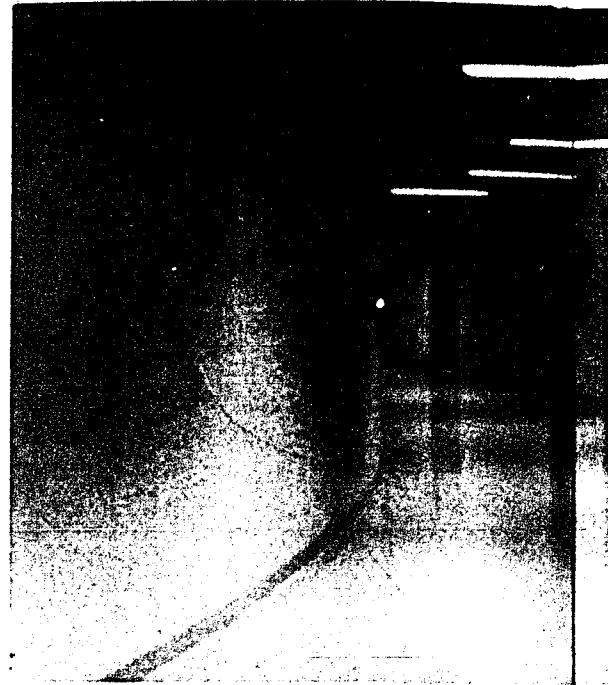

Dick Fuller: "The program is great. It cuts down on the loss of books."

Handy Helper Builds Men Through Experience

There is a student on the Boise State College Campus who after being imprisoned at the Idaho State Penitentiary decided "to do something right and help somebody else."

Dave Cypher, a psychology major, is the manager of the Texaco Station at 1815 Boise Avenue, a vocational development center for Handy Helpers, Inc. The function of the center is to train the mentally retarded and physically handicapped in mechanics, personality, appearance and work habits.

Handy Helpers, a non-profit making organization, has been in operation for one year under the direction of 12 interested Boise citizens. The board of directors includes John Street, of the Advertiser and Graphic Arts Publishing; Keith Gabriel, serving on the Governor's Committee on Mental Health; and Mr. and Mrs. Dale Honea, program originators.

Cypher says most of the credit for the center belongs to Mrs. Honea who worked in other states in similar programs. Through her efforts as executive director and through the Shelter Workshop on Park Avenue in Boise, this program is possible.

The group leased the Texaco station at Boise and Protest Avenues and equipped it with donated supplies. Ten mentally retarded and physically handicapped students from private homes and vocational centers attend regular classes to learn how to approach and greet customers in a sheltered atmosphere.

Cypher says the youngsters, ranging in ages from 16 to 29, need a controlled environment and could be harmed by one harsh word or action.

His two assistants, Don Watson and Kent Cook, help to educate the boys to learn to compete in the labor market without repercussions. "I'm damn choosy about who works with these boys. Volunteers have to be pretty special. Until people realize a man can be useful and successful, there is a lot of help and work to be done."

Cypher was asked how he became a part of the vocational program. He said, "Two and one-half years ago I was in solitary confinement at the prison, and one day Fred Abrams, the warden, came to speak to me. He was the first guy who really believed in the 'Love thy neighbor' philosophy and really lived it. He gave good guidance and showed that somebody really gave a damn if I lived or died. Two years later I was married in his home."

He says the vocational group was looking for volunteers for the program and asked if he could help. He told them how he felt about the need to make all people useful members of society and was hired. "Society is a very misunderstanding animal, and mentally retarded people are not understood or approved. We've been trying to change this situation. I want to prove to people that if a man makes a mistake, he is still able to gain a position in society."

He is now taking 16 credit hours at Boise State, including one course in psychology from Dr. David Torbett. "He is the one who swung me toward psychology. I hold consultations with him on the boys' problems. I bring in the information, and then I take the solutions back to the center and a planned program is used."

Cypher says the program is having financial problems, and he walked into the BSC Administration Building last week to see if he could get some help. He paused at the door of the ARBITER office and came in.

In an interview he said, "We need to have people stop in and get gas and have their cars repaired. We have a competent staff to handle the mechanics. The boys may be a little slower in service, but they provide a useful function. We have a lot of loss--from $50 to $100 per month, from people taking advantage of the boys or through mistakes. This problem is undesirable, but it must be coped with."

Cypher says they need customers. Gas and maintenance prices are as reasonable as anywhere in town, but they are providing more than that. They are giving mentally retarded youngsters a chance to build self-sufficient lives.

"We are not in the business to make a profit. We make just enough to cover expenses. We are not state-supported, and what little profit we do make goes to the boys for salary."

He says the biggest headache is his own limitation of knowledge. "After a year of school I realize how very little I know." He would like to stay in the vocational development and the BSC programs until he receives a doctorate in psychology. After that goal is accomplished he says he would like to reenter the penal system to work with prisoners.

Cypher asked the ARBITER to put out a big scream for help. "If we don't get some business, we will fold. If we do, we lose. But we will lose less than the youngsters. They can't always find other chances to learn. It's frustrating to have a problem and not know how to solve it."

"Education is the key to the whole damn thing -- for you, me and the boys."

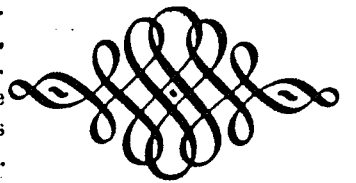

After the interview, an ARBITER staff member left to gas up at the Texaco station. When he returned, he said, "I only asked for a dollar's worth of gas. They cleaned my windows all around, were polite and friendly and asked me to come back again. And I had borrowed the dollar from a friend to get the gas!"

There is one converted customer. If you have a buck and need some gas or if your car needs to be mechanically checked, go into the Texaco station at the corner of Boise and Protest Avenues and you will be helping more than your car. You will be providing part of a chance for Handy Helpers to stay in business.

BSC Frosh Open Against Eastern Oregon

Boise State College's frosh football team will open their gridiron season against Eastern Oregon College as the Broncos host the Oregon team Sept. 28.

In the way of a game schedule the freshman team has only three games with frosh teams from other schools. The other two games will be played Oct. 10 against the University of Idaho to be in Caldwell, and Oct. 28 against the University of Montana at Grangeville.

Even though the frosh season is short, gridgers are allowed to play in non-conference varsity games. Eight of this season's eleven games are non-conference.

With this number of non-conference games freshmen football players may also letter in football. To letter they must play in at least five and one-half games and do their jobs well enough to influence the coaches.

The freshman head coach is Adam Rita, who is aided by assistants Doug Woolsey, linebacker coach; line coach Rocky Lima; Lew Mc Farlain, defensive back coach; and Jake Hoopai, offensive line coach.

Coach Rita says the BSC defensive frosh team is the best the Bronco freshmen have had. Two men from Hawaii help make this evident. Defensive tackle is Blessing Bird, 5 ft. 11 in. at 220 lbs., Kawaii's lineman of the year. Also defensive tackle Sanford Kaninau, who is 6 ft. and 240 lbs.

The defensive ends likely to be on the starting lineup are Mike Cook, Lewiston, and Mark Duncan, California. Prospective cornerbacks are Bruce West, Borah High, and Wes Farris, Glens Ferry.

Ralph Burkenshaw, Dave Rigsby and Eric Hooping are the likely linebackers.

The frosh football team looks like the best to come in a few years, and fact that the team is coached by many BSC graduates is helpful.

Coach Woolsey was an All-American offensive guard at BSC prior to his coaching at Stan Lovan.

CHAFEE ELECTS OFFICERS.

Recently Chaffee Hall elected new officers for the 1970-71 school term. Those elected include President Keith Carlton;

Vice-President Roger Lamb; Secretary Tim Mink; Treasurer Stan Lovan.

Boise State Stops Eastern Montana

by Ginger Water

Boise State College shut out Eastern Montana College (EMC) 35-0 before 7,115 fans last Saturday. The win gives BSC a 2-0 record in non-conference play.

Neither team could mount an offensive drive, and the first quarter ended scoreless. Eastern Montana then started to move the ball with runs by Randy Ecker and Jim George. With the ball on Boise's 39 yard line, Tony McAnally intercepted Ron Bayduke's pass and stopped the only real Yellowjacket drive.

With 8:36 left in the half Dennis Baird caught an Eric Guthrie pass for the first BSC touchdown. Guthrie then kicked the first of five conversion points.

After the kickoff, Montana failed to move the ball and were forced to punt. Jim Hayes the Yellowjackets' punter, fumbled the snap and was nailed by Pete Skow on the 3-yard line. Three plays later, Guthrie went in on a keeper, and the score was 14-0 in favor of the Broncos.

In the next series of plays, EMC was stopped on its 30-yard line and forced to punt. Again Hayes had trouble with the ball and BSC recovered on the Yellowjacket 10-yard line.

Ross Wright ran a sweep around the right end for 10 yards and a touchdown. As the teams left the field at half-time the score was Boise State College 21, Eastern Montana College 0.

Girls Have Sports

The women's P. E. Department will be having practice for field hockey every Wednesday and Thursday at 3:40. All women interested in playing hockey should contact Mrs. Thorngren.

The team will be playing the College of Idaho, Northwest Nazarene College and other area schools.

There will be a women's intramurals meeting Monday, Sept. 28 at 4:00 in the gym to discuss possible activities. Questionnaires will be passed out to find out the interest of the students.

Volleyball, basketball, track, and field and softball are planned for the season. Depending upon interest, some sports may be offered that are co-ed.

All students wanting to participate in intramurals this year are urged to come.

Late in the third quarter, the Broncos finished a 49 yard drive in nine plays when Mike Haley plunged over from the one-yard line for the only touchdown of that period. The last Boise score came when a Pat Ebright pass hit Dave Toney with 9:10 left in the game.

Boise picked up only 11 first downs compared with 12 for Montana. However, BSC led in every other department. The Broncos rolled up 143 yards rushing and 143 yards passing to Eastern's 61 yards rushing and 88 yards passing.

Wright with 89 yards led in the rushing department, and Guthrie was leader in the passing game with 5-19 for 64 yards.

BSC lost one fumble, but intercepted Montana three times. Boise was penalized 50 yards and the Yellowjackets lost 25 yards to penalties. Alan Ellert and Charlie Holmes led the defense in stopping Eastern Montana as Bayduke was dumped seven times for a loss of 46 yards.

The Broncos will meet Central Washington this Saturday at 1:30 p.m. on the home field.

Bowlers Match Pins

The BSC bowling teams will have their first match Oct. 23-24 at Boise. The teams are made of up the top five women and top five men in each league.

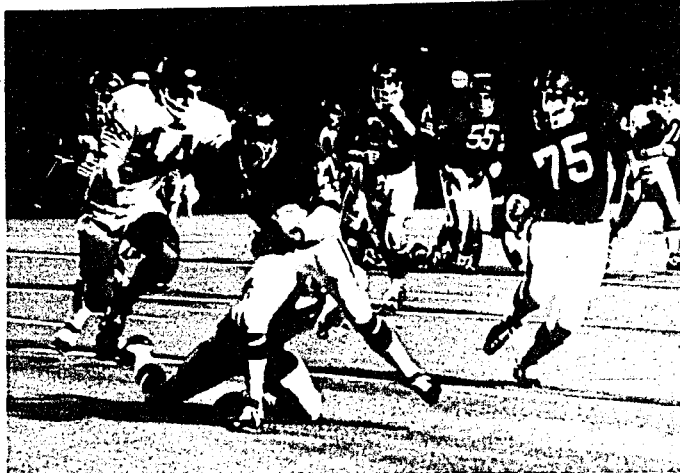

Last year both teams won first in conference play, the men winning first in regionals, and girls placing second. In national out of 200 colleges, the men placed fifth and women received sixth place.

Twelve women came out for the first practice and more than 40 men signed up to play. The members of the teams practice two hours a day.

Returning from last year's team are Sandra Sasaki, JoAnn Schafer, Chris Moore and Linda Cheney. Four men are returning including Larry Germain, Dan Garland, George Windle and Greg Hampton.

The teams are in the Intermountain Bowling Conference and will play the University of Utah, BYU, ISU, and Weber State College.

Coach Ken Kehler encourages interested persons to come out and bowl the league. There is no cost when a person has won a spot on the BSC bowling team.

Above, Bronco Ross Wright (27) shows form that won him back of the week. Also pictured are Dave Russev (75) and Tom Hauser (55).

Intermurals Begin

by Jim McCoy

The week of September 28 will mark the beginning of the 1970 BSC Intramural competition. All fraternities, clubs and independents who have not yet turned in rosters are encouraged to do so by 3 p.m. on the 28th to Mike Young or Dan Bofenkamp in Room 202 of the gym.

Dates for individual games will be posted in the gym entrance. The schedule and results of the game will also appear weekly in the ARBITER.

It has been anticipated that a total of 18 teams will be participating in the sport this year. These teams are then to be divided into three leagues. Winners from the leagues will then meet in a round robin tournament to determine the champion. This year the championship team is to be awarded with a school team trophy.

Other intramurals planned for this year are tennis; to be presented this fall. Basketball, badminton, and volleyball, which will be offered during the winter. However, the latter two will only be presented if there is a reasonable amount of interest shown.

The winter intramurals are due to begin sometime between the first and the middle of February. Definite dates and enlisting rules will be posted later for interested persons.

Team managers are responsible for notifying team members of dates and times of games. There will be a meeting Friday at 1:30 p.m. for those interested in managing intramurals.

Arrows Fly

All full-time BSC students interested in joining the BSC archery club, please come to Room 205 in the gym, Wednesday, Sept. 30, at 12:30 p.m.

Anyone interested but unable to attend this meeting, please contact Dick Beaver 344-9323, Gary Harvey at 343-9519 or Mrs. Bowman, the club advisor. This meeting is for all former and prospective new members.

There will be a Golf team meeting Friday, Sept. 25, at 2:00 in Room 202 in the gym.

All varsity members and those interested are urged to attend.

Astroturf Spares Injuries

by Bob Radloff

One person who often goes unheralded on a football team is the trainer. It is this person and his staff that keeps the team together.

Mike Prentice, head trainer, is in his first season with the Broncos. He was trainer for the College of Idaho the last four years and has been trainer for the Caldwell Cubs.

In a recent interview with Prentice and his staff we asked him to compare the injuries from the new Astro-Turf to regular playing fields. We were told that on the turf, players are sustaining more a brasive than any other type of injury. To correct this players are wearing armand elbow padding.

Only one serious ankle injury has cropped up this year, compared to several knee and ankle injuries last year. Less knee and ankle injuries are sustained due to less impact on the turf. Prentice feels that the turf is softer than regular fields. He also feels the Broncos held a psychological advantage over opponents by familiarity with the turf.

The team will practice on regular grass each week before traveling out of town to re-acquaint themselves with the dirt and mud of natural turf.

Helping Prentice in his new quarters this year are Ned Levitt and Pat Miller. Also assisting is Mel Frost, head equipment manager and his staff.

Several new pieces of equipment are employed in the new facilities in the Sports Complex. a Hydrocallator for hot packs and another for cold packs. This saves time in running for ice and heat lamps as before. Also new is a G-5 osolator for pointing on pain and muscle spasm, and an ultra-sound muscle stimulator.

For Sunday morning aches and pains there is a sauna room to limber up stiffness. Also employed is a 8 x 8 sunken whirlpool and a small portable one for small injuries to arms and legs.

Prentice says they are planning to run two training rooms, the new one in the complex and the old one in the gym.

So the next time you see your favorite blue and orange fallen in pain, don't worry, for the men in white are near at hand.

FOR ANYONE INTERESTED IN THE GOLF TEAM THERE WILL BE A MEETING FRIDAY AT 2:00 IN ROOM 202 IN THE GYM. VARSITY GOLFERS ARE URGED TO ATTEND.

Guthrie Nets Honors In Big Sky

Boise State College's quarterback Eric Guthrie and University of Montana's defensive tackle Larry Miller were named Big Sky Conference back and lineman of the week.

Guthrie earned "Back of the Week" honors for his efforts in the Bronco's 49-14 lashing of Chico State of California. He passed 25 times hit on 10 and emmassed 190 yards, as well as running for another TD. Eric was also successful on seven for seven PATS.

Larry Miller, who stands 5' 9" tall and weighs 240 pounds, an All-American defensive tackle won "Lineman of the Week" for his part in the University of Montana win over North Dakota 28-7. Miller was credited with 9 unassisted tackles.

Skow, Wright Picked By BAA

Ross Wright and Pete Skow were named the outstanding back and lineman of the week respectively by the Bronco Athletic Association.

Wright, a 180-pound running back from Mountain Home AFB, carried 14 times for a total of 89 yards. He accounted for nearly half of the yardage in the one sustained drive in the second half.

Skow, a 210-pound defensive end from Weiser, played havoc in the Yellowjacket back field. He nailed the Eastern punter on a miscue to set up one of the Bronco's TD's.

Coach Dave Nichols gave a scouting report on Central Washington. Central was tough against Linfield College in a 10-0 loss.

Nickel spoke to approximately 100 people and said that the defensive coaches were upset with the plays of their units. Much work will be spent this week on tackling.

Saturday's game will be a 1:30 p.m. contest as will the remaining other three home games.

the Broncos waxed CWS 61-7.

The 1969 season record for the crimson and black Washingtonians was three wins and six losses.

The out-of-state team entered this season with losses in the quarterback and tackles positions. Transfer student Jeff Short is expected to fill the position of command. Despite the loss in key positions such as the tackles and others, there are returning players with experience to help them.

Wildcats Tangle With Broncos

by Tony Smith

Saturday, Boise State's Broncos will mix strategies with Central Washington State College in gridiron action. The Broncos will host the Wildcats at 1:30 p.m.

Central Washington State College is situated in central Washington and has an enrollment of 8,000 compared to 7,776 students at Boise State College. The enrollment was for the spring semester 1970.

CWS is a member of the Evergreen Conference, making the game non-conference competition. BSC frosh ironmen are eligible to display their talents in the game.

The Wildcats have entered our arena twice before in gridiron play and have met disaster both times.

Head coach Tom Parry and his Wildcats fell to the Broncos 37-7 last year in BSC's first game of the season. In 1968
