College newspapers endorse political candidates for a reason

Why should a college newspaper endorse candidates for a state office? Since last week's publication came off the press endorsing Cecil D. Andrus for governor, this one has been asked several times by both members of the academic community and the larger community as well.

As complicated as the answer may seem, the reason is quite simple. What happens on the state political scene has great effect on the campus. It affects not only students but faculty and administrative personnel as well. The tides and fortunes of politics mean the giving or taking away of the very life blood of Boise State College itself.

Andrus has demonstrated his concern for issues affecting the college scene in the state. But this editorial is not concerning its contents with that. We are concerned about what is happening at the state level.

The first two years of the Nixon administration have seen a tremendous rise in the violent, destructive activities which are destroying the academic community. Indeed, the President and Vice President have directly focused verbal attacks on the campus community with seemingly little regard for the outcome. The academic community needs someone to fight this wave.

Inflation hurts not only the interests of the larger community but the academic atmosphere. Student loans are more difficult than ever to get. Grants, aids, and scholarships are for taking a dip in the funding amount provided to colleges.

Important vote upcoming on adoption of newly proposed Idaho State Constitution

The single most important vote electors will make in the upcoming elections will be to approve the adoption of the proposed revised constitution. Idaho needs a revised constitution. The 1889 document swamps a reader with legalese, purely historical passages, and detailed statutory law. It is a document that is impossible to understand and to a quality environment, it eliminates bigoted, historical, and statutory passages; it denies sovereign immunity, it combines supreme court rulings on constitutional amendments and constitutes a shorter, more comprehensible, more widely distributed. Especially important to Boise State College, it affects considerable powers to all state institutions of higher learning.

The 1970 revision is an improvement over the 1889 constitution. Adopting it will lead Idaho out of the 19th century and into the 20th.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Andrus addresses Idaho students

An open letter to the College and University students of Idaho:

1970 is a particularly important election year for Idaho. We are at the point where decisions must be made which will affect our lives and the environment for years to come.

For example, if I win the governor's chair, it might well make the difference in Hell's Canyon since my opponent has openly stated in the campaign that he favors the construction of new dams on the Middle Snake River. I suppose further dam construction in the Canyon.

The White Clouds face a certain devastating assault if my opponent is returned to office. He favors surface mining in that state-wide office area over the objections of the Interior Idaho congressional delegation and Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel.

Equally important is the fact that the present governor has been a governor for a special few. It is my hope and desire to return government to all of the people, including the young.

I sponsored legislation which would have permitted the 19-year-old vote in Idaho during the last legislative session. I favor the national proposal to lower the voting age to 18. My opponent has not been a champion of the young and his attorney general, a Samuelson appointee, has filed suit to prevent the lowering voting age from taking effect.

I seek your support, I need your support and I pledge to you that if I am elected, I will not build a wall around state government and exclude young men and women from active participation.

Sincerely,

Cecil D. Andrus
Democratic Candidate for Governor

Hawaiian Club, therefore, the final heat should have been longer, more intense, and it wasn't.

We are not crybabies and are proud of Ken reaching the final heat. We are protesting the unfair and phony way the contest was run.

If this is the way the student body is going to run things, then we as Vo-Tech students will have an interest in running things on our campus. If that is the case, why bother?

If these rumors aren't true, would someone please correct me? I only hope that next year's homecoming committee and concerned people will take action.

Oct 21, 1970, we (Vo-Tech students) took part in one of the activities of Homecoming Week, the greased pig chase. Out of 20 we were definitely informed by ASB representatives who took the money, that this contest would be individuals competing against individuals.

At the time of the contest we found out things had been changed. Five or six men from a single organization chased the pig one time, therefore, that organization could not lose. Five more would catch the pig, organization man would hold it and that organization would be in the finals.

If we had known it was to be organization against organization, we would have had at least 17 participants, this way Vo-Tech would have had at least three people in the finals instead of one.

Two men in the preliminaries caught the pig fairly, by themselves, Ken Redmon from Vo-Tech and one member of the pig, therefore, that organization could not lose. Five more would catch the pig, organization man would hold it and that organization would be in the finals.

BSC Homecoming Week activities rated a giant success

Marlin Lawrence

The highlight of this year's Homecoming activities was the parade. Almost every club on campus competed and joined in on the activities. The parade through downtown Boise was the effort of students, faculty and alumni and was a culmination of all the work and fun experienced throughout the week.

Golden Z's took the first prize for the small float followed by Marian Hall, second place. Large float first, second and third trophies went to Esquires, Yo-Tech and IK's Valkynes.

The Homecoming game with Washington was good, considering that our second string played most of the game. The spirit surpassed anything ever seen in the new stadium. The drill team and band won the Spirit Stick and they agreed to share it with those who deserved it.

Several events were held on Friday. The turnout was tremendous and participation was even better. The greatest pig contest was won by Pat L. Covered with grease, dirt and sweat, Jeff Hartung finally chugged the greased pole long enough to win a bucket of Grace. The title of "King Glatten" goes to Circle R, they managed to inhale a pig faster than anyone else. The Turtle Derby was won by an independent named Doug Stewart. With knees doubled up to the chums, Alpha Kappa Phi made the loop to finish first in the Tricycle Race.

King Beard, Duane Smith, received a $10 gift certificate and a kiss for his untamed bush. For once, the sophomore class out-witted the freshmen. The sophos put a teaspoon of oil on the rope, watered down the fresh side of the field and tripped some of the bigger kids and then gave one mighty tug. The result? You guessed it. The Sophs won by 99-100 of an inch.

If anyone has seen two blotted bellies floating around, they probably answer to the names of Kay Heal and Tom Sullivan, they guzzled the most beer at the Bronco Hus.

The Mardi Gras dazzled as 700 students and alumni gathered for a dance. Earlier that evening, 214 attended the alumni banquet also held at the Mardi Gras. This year's President Trophy was awarded to the Esquires for their participation in homecoming.

Much thought and preparation is attributed to the success of Homecoming 1970. Those who attended knew of the fun and work. Those who were the committee experienced the work that started back in May of 1970.

For a job well done, Homecoming Chairman Michelle Macionis received an appreciation plaque from committee members Debbie Wood during Thursday's B.B. King Concert. (Photo by Dan Janssen)

King of the blues, B.B. King, awakens sleeping city of Boise

by Tim Messmer

On the night of Oct. 22, 1970, a sleeping city of Boise came to a new dawn of awakening. Before the charter of the Boise of Blues Committee, became the stage of the most tremendous experience thus far in the history of Boise concerts.

It all started off with a half an audience when Sonny Freeman and The Unusuals (B.B. King Blues Band minus B.B. King) took the stage with a swinging, but lazy blues number that set the mood for B.B. King's appearance.

When the king did come on, the crowd instantly responded with enthusiasm, unhindered applause.

At the completion of his first number, "Everyday I've Got The Blues", he received a well deserved ten minute standing ovation. From there on it was anyone's guess, the crowd was on their feet for most of the performance, screaming, clapping marvelously reacting to an impressive display of talent and charisma.

In his second number, "How Blue Can You Get?", he had the audience completely under his spell. Before the crowd could completely absorb the song, the guitar, almost as if the whole guitar was the instrument. The audience completely fell in love with the blues.

A famous name, makes some audiences into blind submission and equally blind applause. But this false response to the artist and his work is not what B.B. King wants. His kind of sincere response and appreciation he received in the gym Oct. 22. B.B. King, like the type of communication between audience and artist that he sensed when he toured with the Rolling Stones, the King of response he felt in Boise.

B.B. King began singing the blues when he was a boy in New Orleans. After the war, he became a disc jockey where he acquired the name "Blues Boy" by singing along with the songs he played on the air.

Since 1948, when he developed his own band, B.B. King has been playing in the blues. For the past 21 years, B.B. King has averaged 315 working nights a year, all of them on the road. Since he started on the "blues road", he has had only two months vacation.
Idaho Student Government Association examines issues

by Jane Dunn

Examining common problems, goals and issues was the key to the Idaho Student Government Association conference Oct. 15-17, and the organization is seeing where it can move regarding issues such as minority governance and campus unrest problems and teacher evaluation.

The president of the ISGA constitution states, "We the College Associated Student Governments of Idaho do recognize the need for an organization founded upon the concept of equal representation of Idaho college student governments."

The organization is five-years-old and just getting down to the issues with which students are really concerned.

Boise State ASB Vice President Lee Mercy said last week, this is the first year real problems were handled and resolutions were produced to try to correct them. One of them is Concerns on formation of rules and resolutions, constitutional affairs, formulation of the legislative affairs, student judicial affair and resolutions passed on forum taxation, a speakers bureau, student rights and responsibilities and community government spelled out the needs of organized student government.

Campus representatives were divided into two groups, those senators and student members not within the executive branch, and the assembly presidents and vice presidents from each school charged with voting. Each committee established is composed of one member for each school emphasizing equal representation.

The two schools were split this year into three regions. University of Idaho Lewiston, Idaho, Normal and North Idaho Junior College in region one, Boise State College, Northwest Nazarene and College of Idaho in region two, and Idaho State University, College of Southern Idaho and Idaho State College in region three.

Several hundred tons from all over the state were turned away and complimentary tickets are still coming in at a rate that would make any director smile.

I had never been a great lover of drama until I was persuaded to see Hammerstein's 'Sons' here three years ago and I have been a confirmed addict ever since. The enthusiasm of the cast and the production is such that almost every student production she has seen was superior to the Broadway productions she had seen.

The range of personalities who have gone to lose these productions is awesome. There is a letter from ten members of the Idaho State University who saw "All My Sons." They related the campus problems and personal problems whose letters of appreciation surround their letter. Another girl who has seen several Broadway productions included that she felt that almost every student production she has seen was superior to the Broadway productions she had seen.

This summer in Sun Valley "The Denizen" was produced to good reviews. This fall you will be able to see it in a small town and the quality is just as good.

Theatre is a big business. It is a reminder to the students that blacks are a part of society and the theatre is one way to achieve this equality. I hope that some of these people will go to Sun Valley for the productions that are being held there.

This is a big production, and I hope that all of the people who go to see it will remember that the purpose of theatre is to make us see things that we don't see in our daily lives. And if we can do this, then theatre is doing its job.

I have been looking forward to theatre for a long time now, and this is one of the things that I have been looking forward to.

Knox directs appointment move

by Terry Entner

During the ASB Senate meeting Tuesday evening, Senator Ward Knodt unveiled that administrator William Tom Jacobs, appointed by ASB President Wayne Mithelde, has yet to be approved by the Senate.

Other portions of the ASB budget approved by the Senate include raising the ASB office wages, under seven weeks, allocating $100 to Associated Women Students that will provide funds to rent a balloon for the Sweetherseball and additional funds for cheerleaders.

Senator Pat Lee, spokesman for the Fishburn Committee, said that $200 will not be allocated for the ASB scholarship given second semester.
Carol Hoffaker: "Well, I think they're pretty good, but at times it seems they're inefficient. I think they're doing a pretty good job most of the time."

Darnell Spencer: "I don't think it's that great. They could definitely do a better job."

Robert Wilson: "Uh, I don't know too much about law enforcement. I think they're doing things, especially mixed in with drugs."

Bill Adair: "Ah, I think they're too pretty. They're just a bunch of kids playing games. They play their own little games."

Ted Silva: "The ones that I know are doing a good job."

Cathy Unadel: "I think that generally they're fair."

Bill Richmond: "Oh, let's see. Wow! I think there has to be a definite improvement in communication between the law enforcement and the common people."

Don Miller: "My experience with the local law has been as a mail carrier. They seem to be pretty good."

Flurry of activity hits final days of political campaign

by Brent Peterson

Only four days remain until voters go to the polls in Idaho and a flurry of activity highlighted the final days by candidates of both political parties.

A focal point for speeches by Democratic candidates has been Boise State College during the past two weeks. Cecil Adams, Paul S. Boyd, Bill Brammer and Tony Park all made stops, attempting to appeal to the student population.

Boyd, seeking the Lt. Governor's seat held by Republican Jack Murphy, answered questions at a noon forum in the Student Union Tuesday. Boyd told students, "They would have a vote if they elected him to office over the incumbent."

"Why put a gun at the head of Mr. Andrus for the next four years, by electing a Republican?" asked Boyd. "Andrus needs a man who will support his policies, not fight them."

Boyd called for multiple use of lands saying, "We must find wise uses for our natural resources. But at the same time we need a lid to protect our environment for the future. Extremism in environment is not the answer. We need enforcement and stronger laws to protect us."

The Boise attorney said he would not make felons out of users of any drug. But he added, "When it comes to the pusher I favor stricter law enforcement."

Boyd questioned the sincerity of the current administration. "When the Attorney General lives in a home owned by the state, when a retired General doesn't know how to file an expense voucher and when a former state senator is engaged in a highly questionable hiring exercise, then I strongly question the majority of this entire administration of Republicans."

Various legislative seats are up for grabs, along with two initiatives and a pair of constitutional amendments. The two initiatives deal with the proposed constitutional revision as well as the pay increase for legislators enacted by the last legislature. The Constitutional amendments, which are separate from the revision package, proposed four year terms for the county treasurer and county assessor. Currently these offices are for two year terms only.

Candidates running for state offices include: Don W. Samuelson and Cecil Adams, governor; Jim McClure and Bill Brammer, House of Representatives from the First District; Jack Murphy and Paul Rady, Lt. Governor; Robert M. Rolston and Anthony (Tony) Park, Attorney General; Pete Converse and Winston L. Benson, Secretary of State; Joe Williams and Jack Hulley, Auditor; Majorie Ruth Moon and Wallace Conklin, Treasurer; D.F. Engeling and Gilbert T. McKinley, Superintendent of Public Instruction.

The ARBIFER has endorsed Andrus for governor and Brammer for Congress along with the proposed constitutional revision.

In the lone seat contested for the State Supreme Court, Justice Clay Spear is seeking reelection for another term against Will S. Defenbach.

Polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Eligible voters are urged to check their local newspaper for polling places and addresses. Students, faculty and administrative personnel wishing to vote via absentee ballot must obtain, complete and return the ballot to the county clerk, in their respective counties, by noon on election day (Tuesday) for the ballot to be considered valid.

In all, five ballots will be used for the election. A heavy voter turnout is predicted because of the interest generated in the gubernatorial race.
Dorm council gets with activity

The Interdisciplinary Council of the Boise State College jumped into the full swing of activity as the elected Debbe Hutchins president for the 1970-71 school year. Other officers elected last spring for the 1970-71 academic year include Sally Simmons, vice-president; and Ann Wesel, secretary.

Keith Carlson, president of the Stagger Hall program, explained a leadership convention (ISC) of the NNC sponsored by IEC and residence halls. The new program has gained a large segment of the business and professional population to young people seeking help in planning a career. The new concept is directed to students at the junior and senior high school level as well as those attending Boise State College.

The new program has gained rave reviews from participants both in the school system and at Boise State College.

Hendry continued his praise, saying, "RSVP is one vehicle to close the generation gap. Someone said let's stop talking about the problem and start doing something."

The program is not a job placement service. It is a source for professional careers are being caught without preparation. But now Boise Rotary, including both Hendry and Scott, are enthusiastic about its potential.

The program has just begun, but its leaders, including both Hendry and Scott, are enthusiastic about its potential. So are the 155 advisers involved in the Rotary pool.

Bonnie Fogg and Barbara Cooper, Morrison Hall

Others representing their halls include Keith Carlson, Roger Lamb, Bob Sloan, Pat Bishop, Dale McClary and Dave Hite, Chaffee Hall; Sally Simmons, Debbe Hutchins and Lisa Kuhman, Driscoll Hall.

Alternates from USC's are Jerry Shaffer, Dave Trunnell and John Gally.

Representing residence halls on IEC Council are Joan Gill, Wendy Rodick, Maureen Murphy and Bonnie Ahlers, Marian Hall, Shirley Quencer.

BSC gridders stumble past E. Washington Savages 12-0

by Tony Smith

Boise College's Broncos stumbled past the Eastern Washington State College Savages 12-0 last Saturday amid flurries of offensive mistakes.

In the third quarter Boise's Mike Haley capped the mistakes by fumbling the pigskin in the endzone after hanging across from the one yard line. Savages recovered ball for a touchback.

The 31 yard, three play drive that set up Haley's fumble in the endzone, began with 3:44 left in the third quarter as Boise State fumbled to EWSC on the Savage 47 yard line. The next play, the Broncos regained the ball by intercepting a Savage pass which set up the drive for Haley's fumble.

On the third play of the game, BSC lost 15 yards on a self recovered fumble. The Savages collected a Washington fumble with 7:38 left in the first quarter Eric Guthrie, BSC quarterback, failed in a field goal attempt with 7:03 left in the first.

With 2:03 remaining in the first stanza, the Broncos fumbled to the Savages on the Boise 49 yard line only to regain the ball on the next play due to a Washington fumble.

Early in the second quarter Boise State amassed another field goal attempt. Later the Broncos took the lead with six points as Ross Wright, smashed over into the end from ISU was named the Back of the Week for his outstanding performance. By. Dariel Brown, a defensive tackle.

The Bengals finished third in the Big Sky Conference last with a 5-5 record. This 1-1 victory, however, the coaches said they were welcome to come and try out next year. Any scholarships that the black players had will be continued for the rest of the year. Ken Warren, apostle, has dropped out of school and has returned home to Portland, Ore.

Helping to overcome this handicap will be the Bengals great quarterback, Jerry Dunne who had an outstanding season last year. Also returning from last season was such standout as Steve Mandlerow, defensive end. Ken Krainy and Milt Johnson, offensive tackle, ISU also picked up some fine newcomers in Pat Shurrock, offensive guard, Edgar Promewych, tackle, and Darrell Brown, a defensive tackle.

The Bengals finished third in the Big Sky Conference last with a 5-5 record. BSC is entering the game with a leading 9-1 record.

Boise State again scored on a 41 yard pass play with 7:03 remaining in the last stanza as Al Marshall carried the mail, with a combination short pass from quarterback Ed Shurrock and a fine bit of broken field running over the Savage secondary. The PAT failed, which left the Bronco lead 12-0.

Although the Broncos won 12-0, the game was strictly a defensive game. Both defenses managed to hold the opposing offense to limited yardage. The Savages rushed for 70 years and the Broncos rushed for 163 yards. The Bronco pass defense was compared to 13 for the Savages. Each team lost three fumbles. Eastern Washington passed 12 times at an average of 35.6 yards. Boise passed eight times for a 40.6 average. The Bronco's connected on 7 of 19 passes, with Washington taking one interception. Eastern Washington completed on 3 of 11 passes. The Boise State taking one interception.

Big Sky Picks

A Montana State University defensive end and a defensive back from Idaho State University were named Big Sky Conference Lineman and back respectively.

Gary Gustafson, a defensive end from MSU, was voted for his all around great defensive game as the Bobcats 28-8 win over Northern Arizona.

Gustafson made 12 tackles and recovered two fumbles as the second Win of the season and first conference victory.

The coaching staff said that they would have to stop Jerry Dunne this week for he is the key to the Eastern State defensive drive.

The majority of players are ready to go with few injuries.

Planker Dennis Pooley and split end Dennis Baird should be able to return to action against the Bengals this Saturday.

The game will be played at Pocatello in the Mini-dome with game time slated at 6:00 p.m.
Halloween Thriller

Would you like to have your hearts corrupted by the Creatures of the Lagoon and our friendly freak Mr. Frankenstein? Would you enjoy doing the delightfully macabre chamber music of Frigid Pink and Spooky Tooth and other frightfully heavy sounds. If you can dig on these films in addition to many mind-blowing extras, then please drop everything and rush directly to the 7:45 p.m. screening this Friday, 7:45 p.m., with a mere 25 cents for an evening of cheap thrills.

Looking for a Duchess

The Intercollegiate Knights will hold their annual meeting to elect a new Duchess Nov. 3. Any talented girls who are interested in becoming the new Duchess contact Vommeson Crenn. Qualifications are for talent only. She will be entered in the Miss I.C.K. pageant, the regional Intercollegiate Knight Convention, the national convention and next year’s Homecoming Queen contest.

Accountants

The Boise Chapter of the National Association of Accountants will hold an “Accountant’s Night” meeting to elect a new Board Nov. 10. 3:30 p.m. in room 284, Oct. 29.

Speakers will be Bob Overstreet, Touche, Ross & Co. representing the accountant in public practice; Terry Robinson, Boise Cascade, the industrial accountant; and Herb Bell, Boise State College, the accountant in education. A representative from the Internal Revenue Service will present information.

Refreshments will be served following the program.

St. John’s Hospital 315-8725 for further information. Candidates names must be turned in by Nov. 5. Campuses on the main and westside will take the week of Nov. 9.

Judo Club Elects

Boise State Judo Club officers are David Hilt, president; Tom Taylor, vice president; Judy Griffin, secretary; and Mike Harvey, publicity officer.

Harvey says anyone interested in judo is invited to attend club meetings and class practices. Meetings are every other Wednesday evening, 7:30 p.m., in the gym.

Class practices are Wednesday evenings 6-8 p.m. for beginners, 8-10 p.m. for advanced students.

Students and faculty interested in extended hiking, mountaineering, cross-country skiing or wilderness travel are invited to submit their names and addresses to Howard Mercier, BSC, P.O. Box 37. Further communication will then be possible.

In the Oct. 22 issue of the ARBITER, Mary Kay Saunders was misquoted in the Voting Reporter.

Concerning Homecoming activities, Miss Saunders stated “However some students are wondering why the students have to pay for some of the events.”

Soctests

Robert Soetens, interpreter of French music, will be in residence Oct. 30, 8 p.m. at Boise State College.

The musician, who is making his first appearance in Boise, was acclaimed as a “master” by the Venetian newspaper “Express” in 1966. Soetens has performed throughout the world with the leading orchestras, including the BBC symphony orchestra; the Amsterdam Concertgebouw; the Philharmonic Orchestra, Paris; the Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra and many others. His concert will include works by Franck, Milhaud and Debussy. He will be accompanied by Minka Routheva, who will also play a solo for piano by Ravel.

The concert will be in Cunningham Organ Hall on campus and tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for students.

activity notification

Plans are being prepared for the total campus activities program for Spring Semester, 1971. To have the most up-to-date information for the activities calendar Gary Risson, assistant director of Boone Center, requests groups to submit plans for the second semester to the Activities Office in Boone Center, no later than Friday, Dec. 30, 1970. A meeting will be conducted Thursday, Nov. 5, 1970, in room 106, to discuss the program. If persons plan to attend, notify the office when events are submitted or call 389-1224.
