Students of Boise State College

Although this file was scanned from the highest-quality microfilm held by Boise State University, it reveals the limitations of the source microfilm. It is possible to perform a text search of much of this material; however, there are sections where the source microfilm was too faint or unreadable to allow for text scanning. For assistance with this collection of student newspapers, please contact Special Collections and Archives at archives@boisestate.edu.
The recent decision by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus to cut back appropriations to state agencies by one percent makes emergency funds available for Idaho, according to Vice President of Financial Affairs Roger Green.

The cutback in allotments to state agencies will make nearly $1 million available for the emergency funds for such things as supplemental appropriations requests. The decision was reached because of tax revenue figures released and because of the announcements on the national economical policy of Phase 2.

The State Tax Commission released figures which showed what was collected so far in fiscal year 1972 for the general fund. The goal is $125.3 million to be reached by the end of this fiscal year, but only if appropriations are to match income.

Green said the situation is "like a poke in the eye with a sharp stick" for Boise State. He said the college will have to come up with $50,000 for the one percent affecting all of fiscal year 1972, but there will instead be a two percent cut for the last six months of fiscal 1972. Most department budgets have already largely been spent in the first half of this year, he explained.

He said those departments which were waiting until next semester to spend most of their allotted budgets will really feel the pinch because they will have to give back more money.

Green said the administration will be conducting analytic meetings to see just from where and how the money will be called back, but until that time, details are limited.

He noted that funds could be collected from two areas, capital expenditures not already committed, and funds for teaching positions not re-filled following resignations of instructors scheduled to complete this fiscal year.

Andrus' cutback costs BSC $50,000

State board members rap with students

Approximately 50 students and faculty listened to and questioned State Board of Education members and university and college presidents at a student rap session held Thursday.

The panel included two members of the State Board, Donald Kline and Steve Barnett, and three college presidents. U of I Dr. Ernest Hartung, NNC's Dr. John Hiley, and BSC's Dr. John Barnes.

Major topics discussed were the funding formula for Idaho state colleges and universities, building on campus, the Boise State College night program and student participation on faculty selection committees.

Though the formula does not always reflect the needs of each college, said Steve Barnett, "The State Board considers it to truly reflect the cost of education."

The formula is the method used by the State Board of Education to figure the amount of money which should go to each state institution of higher learning.

Dr. Ernest Hartung, University of Idaho president, said, "None of the institutions is adequately funded now."

The various state institutions have dedicated revenue of about $4.6 million to the Permanent Building Fund," said Dr. Donald Kline. "However," he added, "they have need of $16 million to complete construction of more needed facilities." Said Dr. John Barnes, "In this state we must keep up with the facilities needs of the institutions."

Dr. Kline outlined construction problems at both BSC and U of I. It was recently refused by the Permanent Building Fund, he said, an example of this.

Lack of money for continuing education is the reason the night program at Boise State is not fully funded, students were told. BSC's program is the biggest in the state. Because the program is fully funded, night students cannot be considered full-time students, Dr. Hartung said. "I feel strongly that the state legislature will have to fund these programs because these people are taxpayers. The problem is one of facing realistically the fact we are treating people in the program as second-class citizens."

Kline says funding may be harder to get if colleges' image isn't better

Educators and students must work to make public opinion on education more positive, said Dr. Donald Kline, director of the Office of Higher Education.

Kline addressed State Board of Education members, college presidents and ASB officers last Thursday.

Kline outlined six "things to be concerned with in education in the 70's", adequate funding, curriculum mismatch, new roles for colleges and universities, growth, need to provide for satisfaction of students and a final and in loco parentis. "Whether we like it or not," Kline said, "we are living in a climate where the public questions whether they are getting their money's worth in education."

Kline said, "I think the public is fed up, may filter down into the legislature making funding for colleges and universities harder to get. News media coverage of the "booze and breasts" issue, he said, does nothing to build up college's image. "These are not basic issues on campus," Kline said.

Colleges are also, through curriculum mismatch, building an overmismatched, overmismatched, areas of overmismatched are mismatched.

"Twenty-seven per cent of the total student population attends state colleges now," said Kline. "In the 70's we will see that increase to 33 1/3 percent of all students.

As a result, he said, each college and university will be looking for a unique role or position in the state system.

The biggest issue in the 70's, he said, will be providing for satisfaction of the students.

Finally, Kline continued, though the idea of in loco parentis is dead, "colleges and universities are going to have to respond to the emotional needs of the student by teaching him to express himself in creative ways outside his chosen career."
Letters to the Editor

City engineers are dangerous to living things

Heed the call

An Open Letter to the Students of BNSC.

In January, 1971, the Idaho Legislature will convene in Boise. During this session issues of vital concern and interest will arise, but the heart of which will be higher education appropriations. The question to be answered is whether the students are going to have a voice with the policy-makers.

The eight-year-old vote is a reality but as of yet an untested force. People are watching and listening for the impact of these newly enfranchised. There is no precedent by which Legislators can learn therefore they have to listen for the first time. If the students fail to organize to look after their concerns it will be three or four years before anyone will pay attention to them again. If students expect to become a politically viable force they have to do it this year.

There is an infant attempt by the ASBSC to organize a Student Lobby at BSC. The purpose of this committee will primarily be to lobby for equitable funding for the state's higher education institutions. There will also be a need to lobby for the three bills which students, under auspices of the Idaho Student Government Association are sponsoring. These bills deal with one voter registration, eighteen year majority and ecology.

People are needed to make this committee a functioning body. Immediately after the Thanksgiving committee will begin to contact the Legislators. People are needed from all over the State. If this sounds of interest to you I implore you to come into the ASBSC office on the second floor of the CUB and sign up. Do not leave it up to the other guy.

This attempt to lobby concerns each and every student because it deals with him or her education and quality of life. Don't let it fall a potential forceful group go unheard.

Remember if students want people to listen they have to get all their drifts.

Sincerely,
Mark Litteras

Letters to the Editor

To Boise City:

This is a call in! After extensive surveys, expenditure examinations and observations, the Boise City engineers, Ada County engineers, and whoever else is responsible have proved beyond a shadow of a doubt that Lucky Peak Dam, Diversion Dam and Barler Dam are definitely hazards to Boise River aquatic life. Afterashing off the water flow from these measurements of human engineering the survey parties came to the astounding conclusion that they did indeed need repairing. Meanwhile back in the river, thousands of fish are gasping for breath, tons of concrete, car bodies, steel cable and beer cans are tearing their gills and the survey crews are persistently eating their lunch. It is this water flow shutdown for an annual event! Does it have to deplete the Boise River once a year for these examinations? Why don't we build concrete walls and bottom for the river? This would mean against all current and bottom better flood control and permit faster water run-off and for all ameliorate all life in the Boise River

Sean Moughan

President's Council

In my opinion

Pat Ehrig

In some tool programs, they would like it to be a more dynamic group that can be definitely helpful in solving some important initial problems, and some as projects, programs or services that are constantly being formed through the ASBSC office.

Here are recommendations coming from the last meeting held Thursday at 4:00 in the Senate Chambers. Included in the compilation of a packet of ASBSC program services and areas where students could get involved. The main point brought out to those present was that their student members did want to get involved in some areas of community work, but did not know what was available or how to go about applying.

Other recommendations included more advertising in Liberal starting advertising in radio and in newspapers.

Letters to the Editor

Sorry, Henry

In the last edition of the Letter some words were left out of Henry Browne's letter to the Editor which left unclear what he was when the sky diving club was given funds for their trip.

At the time the vote was taken Henry was discovering a new ID card system with the Executive Council. This was Senate business and therefore the other time that it could be conducted.

Letters to the Editor

GIFT ITEMS FOR THE FAMILY!

KOPPEL'S BROWSEVILLE

world headquarters for fun shopping

Hurry Bottom Boots $49.95 & up

Mini Pack Socks $2.79

Hiking Shoes Boots from $11.95

6-l Camouflage Poncho Liners

Jacket

Hooded Parkas

New Style P-Pants

Skirts

Warm! Pants 10.95

GIFT HEADQUARTERS

Sleeping Bags

Camp & Hunting Supplies

Koppel's Browsville

Hats by Larry Barnes, Chevrolet

123 Turner, Boise, Idaho 83706
The Boise State College student government is asking that academic credit be awarded to all ASB officers besides a salary that they are now receiving. A random sampling of 90 students was questioned as to their feelings on the matter.

Carol Collett, Grandview, sophomore, feels the students should accept credit or money, but not both.

Mark Sheenaker, sophomore, Boise, said, "I can see why some of the students really desire the credits and the pay, but nothing really fantastic. Right now they would be getting too much if they got both."

Joyce Lant, Mountain Home, feels that the officers should receive money or credit, but not both of them.

Sharon Evans, sophomore, Boise, remarked, "I don't think they should be given the credits because they are voluntarily serving when they run for office."

"I don't think they should get the credits if they are getting paid for their work," said Carol Sandly, a junior, freshman.

Linda Vippertman, freshman, Mountain Home, said, "I think they should have to choose one or the other. It is unfair of them to want both."

Geoff McRae, BSC public relations director for the student body, commented, "I feel that if I have learned more at the Phoenix than I have in the past three years of college, I earn $150 a month and carry eight credits. I am not in the position for the money. Obviously, I just enjoy people and I would eventually like to pursue a public relations career. The job takes up a lot of my time, but I enjoy it so I don't mind. I am in favor of receiving money and credit for my work. I don't believe that one's college education is confined to the classroom and as long as I am receiving the practical application of a job then I feel that credit is warranted, the same goes for the ASB officers who are greatly involved with politics and legislative processes.

Those students who are officers and spend a lot of their time working to represent the BSC students are in favor of the idea of credit and money for their services. They all feel that it is a practical experience and is simply removed from the confines of the classroom. The students are involved through the tots book, but the actual doing is taking place outside the classroom."

Doug Sandahl, senator from the School of Education, feels that education does not stop with books and the instructor in the classroom. "Since I have been a senator, I feel that I learned much more about politics than I would have in a semester of political science. You can learn the fundamentals in the classroom but not the practicals. I am not paid for my work, but I do feel that credit is justified. I spend about 10 to 15 hours a week on preparation of my job, either in meetings or involved in that research."

Happines is a gift
FROM Molenaar's... Where you can shop with Ease and Confidence!

For a few dollars — or many — you're sure to find a gift to please.

Student discount and convenient terms
Molenaar's
1 730 BROOKS
304 FRANKLIN

Students introduce bills

Boise State College, through the Idaho Student Government Association will be introducing three bills in the legislature this winter. Pat Hight, ASB president, Hight was speaking before an Education Day luncheon Thursday.

"Students," he said, "are already active in the social and academic sides of their respective colleges. Now we're becoming active politically.

The three bills are in an IDGA priority. Hight said, and deal with problems important to students — the vote, 18-year-old driver rights and ecology.

The first bill will consolidate all voter registration-city, state and national. Eighteen-year-old majority began this year and Hight said, includes both rights and responsibilities.

Unfortunately, he said, the legislation will result in the standardization of drinking laws in Idaho.

A one-cent tax on all non-refillable bottles and cans is the aim of the third bill.

Attending the luncheon were three members of the State Board of Education, three college presidents and ASB officers from most southern Idaho colleges.
Richie Havens reads the Bible.

If you don't have a Bible, we'll send you one for just a dollar. Hard cover and everything. Just one should do it. The Bible lasts a long time.

Wally Benton hopes to jump again

One year ago on Sept. 11, Wally Benton, BSC student, reached to the turf in the dedication ceremonies of the new Bronco Stadium while parachuting from an airplane.

Strong, gusty winds and Benton's inexperience with a new type of flying parachute were named as the causes for the near fatality. It was Benton's tenth jump, but his first with the new type of parachute before thousands of spectators. Benton crashed to the turf and severely broke both of his legs. He was told by his doctor that he would never walk again, much less jump again.

In the past year, he has suffered many setbacks besides undergoing four operations on his legs. Benton also had to have his gall bladder removed. After seven months of healing, he began to walk again and suffered another broken leg.

Wally Benton has suffered more than most people and yet he smiles and talks amiably of the time when he will make his next parachute jump.

As a result of his tragic accident, there has been much adverse publicity given to the sport of parachute jumping. Many feel that the Boise State College parachuters should not be supported by student body funds. However, through Benton's encouragement, BSC's student body has maintained and organized a financially supported parachute team.

This parachute team represented BSC in the National Collegiate Parachute Championship Collegiate Competition last year and won the first place in the Nation.

Benton has said, "I urge students to support the club and I also urge the Associated Students to continue to back the club regardless of the bad publicity given the sport as a result of my accident." Benton maintains an airplane from his hospital bed safely for the purpose of parachute jumping.

Benton is now able to be on crutches. He is recuperating at home and goes to the hospital for periodic checks. His doctor has continued to say that he will never jump again, but Wally has contradicted him saying, "I will jump again."

Concerned about your education and the quality of our environment? Want to make students a viable political force?

Join the BSC Student Lobby
Don't leave it up to others!

Sign up in the ASBSC offices, second floor of CUB.

Begins immediately after Thanksgiving
Special Auto Rates
on Young Married Drivers, "Unlucky Drivers.", National Farmers Union
Baldwin-Weaver Co.
537 West Idaho
Boise, Idaho

Formal Wear
Rental & Sales
Alexander's
Campus Shop
1002 Vista
Ph: 343-5291

National News Glance

Monday
FOOTBALL NIGHT - JOIN US FOR THE PRO GAMES & ENJOY 15¢ HOTDOGS & 15¢ MUGS FOR ALL MEMBERS OF THE MUG CLUB.

Tuesday
LADIES DUNK RITE - 104 SCHOLLERS FOR THE LADIES - 7 TO 10 PM

Wednesday
EVERYBODY ENJOYS 10¢ SCHOLLERS - 7:30 PM

Sunday
GIANT SPAGHETTI FEAST - ALL YOU CAN EAT FROM 6:00 PM - 8:00 PM, INCLUDING SALAD AND FRENCH BREAD - ALL FOR 70¢

Skinners
CHOW NOW Drive-in 1905 Broadway
343-0709
Special This Week:
Taco Cheese
Dogs - 45¢

Washington (CP): A study of the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education has concluded that 494 small, obscure colleges with relaxed admission policies are the "kind most likely to become extinct."
The report said American higher education may suffer a severe loss of its diversity, unless steps are taken to save some of them. The colleges enroll about 500,000 students and represent nearly one-fourth of the undergraduate colleges in this nation.

Seventy per cent of the schools have fewer than 1000 students, 50 per cent have fewer than 150, and the college is classified as having unsatisfactory admission policies as reflected in their small enrollments and lower average academic ability of their students.
They include teacher's black, Protestant, and Roman Catholic schools.

The report suggested that state and federal aid should be used to save some of them but stated that "institutions that are plainly incompetent have no particular right to support or security."

The report went on to say that these institutions are "caught in a bind between the elite colleges, which are able to charge high tuition fees because of their popularity with prospective students and the public institutions which lack the prestige of the elite colleges but can attract students because of their very low fees."

FBI takes Ellsberg paper

New York (CP): The FBI has subpoenaed and received a paper delivered before a Council on Foreign Relations seminar by Dr. Daniel Ellsberg under strict rules of confidentiality.
The private study group of 1,500 prominent Americans surrendered the paper when advised by lawyers that they could not successfully resist the subpoena.
The paper, on "Scrambling as a Military Strategy in Vietnam,'" was given at a seminar in November of 1967. Ellsberg is the former Pentagon researcher who has admitted giving the classified Pentagon Papers to the press.

The Council refused to voluntarily turn the paper over to the FBI a month ago.
According to John T. Swing, associate executive director of the Council, "We did not turn it over to them then because we have a council rule on confidentially which extends to the government and which we take very seriously."
The agents returned two weeks later with a subpoena signed by the clerk of the U.S.
District Court in Boston, where the federal grand jury has been investigating the leaking of the secret papers.
The council has threatened such severe action as removal of its history, but heavy stress on confidentiality discussion in order to encourage a more open exchange by members and guests, including dissidents.

Council members were not informed of the surrender of the document prior to the FBI seizure. Stanley Huffman of Harvard stated that it was particularly surprising that the council did not receive information and did not even make a move about turning over the papers.

He said: "It is appalling that one can't even give a paper before a study group without having it subpoenaed.'
Boise State College theatre Arts presents "J.B."

A series of disasters culminating in an atomic blast is only the first act of "J.B.," the Boise State College Theatre Arts Department's second production of the year. The play runs from Dec. 2 through Dec. 11.

"J.B." by Archibald MacLeish is a modern version of the Biblical story of Job. The play is staged in a circus motif with God and Satan portrayed by circus vendors. J.B. or Job is a successful businessman with a model family. Job's comforts are represented by a minister, a revolutionary, and a psychiatrist. The updating of this story adds to the relevancy of Job's or any modern man's faith in God and himself.

Cast as Mr. Zuss and Nicholas are Steve Drakulich and Dan Coffman, respectively. Job is portrayed by Pat Nance and Patty Murphy is his wife. Pat Delane, Susan Hartnett, Susan Carpenter, David Borchers, and Cathy Rodgers play Job's children. The roles played by Dan Peterson and Steve Marker. Job's comforters are played by Mark Colby, Alan Green, and John Eichmann. The old women are Victoria Holloway, Kelli Powell, Andrea Parenteau, Cecily Tippary, Jackie Byens, and Ginger Scott. Celebrities include Gwynn Barnes, Deborah Long, Rod Jones, C. Jackson Ramsey, and Lisa Streiff.

The box office will open November 22 according to Director Charles Lauerbach, the play's director. The box office will be closed for the Thanksgiving holidays but will reopen November 29. Reservations and tickets can be obtained by either phoning 385-1462 or coming to the Music-Drama Annex between 10:00 and 6:00. Curtain time is at 8:15.
Special Auto Rates on Young Married Drivers, "Unlucky Drivers." National Farmers Union BALDWIN, WEAVER CO. 975 West Boise, Idaho 343 -7721

Formal Wear Rental & Sales
Alexander's Campus Shop 1002 Vista Ph: 343-5291

Special Auto Rates

Wednesday...EVERYBODY ENJOYS 10c SCHOCKS...7 to 9 P.M.

Saturday...GIANT SPAGHETTI FEED...ALL YOU CAN EAT FROM 6:00 to 8 P.M., INCLUDING SALAD AND FRENCH BREAD...ALL FOR 70c

Skinners CHOW NOW Drive-in 1905 Broadway 343-0709 Special This Week: Taco Cheese Dogs - 45c

--

National News Glance

FBI takes Ellsberg paper

New York (AP) - The FBI has subpoenaed and received a paper delivered before a Council on Foreign Relations seminar by Dr. Daniel Ellsberg under strict rules of confidentiality.

The private study group of 1,100 prominent Americans surrended the paper when advised by lawyers that they could not successfully resist the subpoena.

The paper, on "Rebalancing as a Military Strategy in Limited War," was given at a seminar in November of 1970. Ellsberg is the former Pentagon researcher who has admitted giving the classified Pentagon Papers to the press.

The Council refused to voluntarily turn the paper over to the FBI a month ago. According to John F. Swing, associate executive director of the council, "We did not turn it over to them then because we have a council rule on confidentiality which extends to the government and which we take very seriously."

The agents returned two weeks later with a subpoena signed by the clerk of the U.S. District Court in Boston, where a federal grand jury has been investigating the leaking of the secret papers.

The council has throughout its long history, put heavy stress on confidentiality discussions and meetings in order to encourage a more open exchange by members and guests, including diplomats.

Council members were not informed of the surrender of the document prior to the FBI's action. President of Stanley Hoffman of Harvard stated that it was particularly upsetting that the council did not set forth to inform its members and did not ever make a few low assurance of turning over the papers.

He said, "It is just appalling that one can't even give a paper before a study group without it being subpoenaed."

Open admissions are an endangered species

Washington (AP) - A study by the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education has concluded that 494 small, obscure colleges with relaxed admission policies are the kind "most likely to become extinct."

The report said, "American higher education may suffer a severe blow of its diversity," unless steps are taken to save some of them. The colleges enroll about 500,000 students and represent nearly one-fourth of the undergraduate colleges in this nation.

Seventy per cent of the schools have fewer than 1,000 students, 60 per cent have fewer than 750. The colleges are characterized as having insular admission policies and reflecting in their small enrollments and lower than average academic ability of their students. They include teacher's, black, Protestant, and Roman Catholic schools.

The report suggested that state and federal aid should be used to save some of them but stated that "institutions that are viewed as incompetent have no particular right to support or survival."

The report went on to say that the institutions are "caught in a bind between the elite colleges, which are able to charge high tuition fees because of their popularity with prospective students and the public institutions which lack the prestige of the elite colleges but can attract students because of their very low fees."

Library hours for the Thanksgiving holidays will be as follows:

Wednesday, Nov. 24, 7:30 am-11:00 pm
Thursday, Nov. 25, closed
Friday, Nov. 26, 8:00 am-5:00 pm
Saturday, Nov. 27, closed
Sunday, Nov. 28, 2:00 pm-10:00 pm
Boise State College theatre Arts presents “J.B.”

A series of disasters culminating in an atomic blast is only the first act of “J.B.”, the Boise State College Theatre Arts Department’s second production of the year. The play runs from Dec. 2 through Dec. 12.

“J.B.”, by Archibald MacLeish, is a modern version of the Biblical story of Job. The play is staged in a circus motif with God and Satan portrayed by circus vendors. J.B. or Job is a successful businessman with a model family. Job’s comforters are represented by a minister, a revolutionary, and a psychiatrist. The updating of this story adds to the relevancy of Job’s or any modern man’s faith to God and himself.

Cast as Mr. Zuss and Nichols are Steve Drakulich and Dan Coffman, respectively. Job is portrayed by Pat Nance and Patty Murphy is Sarah, his wife. Pat Delana, Susan Barrett, Susan Carter, David Borchers, and Cathy Rodgers play Job’s children. The roustabouts are Dan Peterson and Steve Marker. Job’s comforters are played by Mark Golay, Alan Greene, and John Richtmann. The old women are Victoria Holloway, Kelli Powell, Andrea Parenteau, Cecily Tippery, Jackie Byers, and Ginger Scott. Celebrants include Gwyn Harms, Deborah Long, Noel Jones, C. Jackson Ramsey, and Liz Streiff.

The box office will open November 22 according to Doctor Charles Lauterbach, the play’s director. The box office will be closed for the Thanksgiving holidays but will reopen November 29. Reservations and tickets can be obtained by either phoning 385-1462 or coming to the Music-Drama Annex between 3:00 and 6:00. Curtain time is at 8:15.
U.S. Representative and recently announced Senatorial candidate James McClure and Boise State College President Dr. John Barnes, spoke at a luncheon held on Government Day of All-Idaho Week.

Present at the luncheon were thirteen area state legislators and representatives of Boise State student government. McClure delivered a short address concentrating on the need for a balance between Idaho natural resources and its need to offer economic opportunity.

McClure defined the conflict in Idaho as being between maintaining the high quality of life and recreation opportunities we now have and continuing to increase the economic growth.

"Too many young people are trained for jobs that cannot be found in Idaho," he said. "These young people are forced out of the state to find work. And many spend the rest of their lives trying to come back."

McClure said he felt that economic opportunity must be increased in Idaho, but that no more of a sacrifice in clean water and clear skies should be made than absolutely necessary. Some economic sacrifice as well as a sacrifice in natural beauty must be made to achieve a balance between the two.

"No our students are not burning buildings but building them," said BSC president Dr. Barnes, who spoke after McClure, and expressed his hope that the people of Idaho will realize that Idaho students are not unreasonable radicals but sincere students.

Barnes pointed out that 95% of BSC students are from Idaho. "This is deliberate, we feel that Idaho taxes should educate Idaho youth, so we go to great length to recruit students from within Idaho."

Barnes said he hoped it would not be a bad year for Idaho schools, as some people predict, because the taxpayers are fed up with the antics of some student radicals. "Our students are just not like that," he said.

The effort of the students to help build this campus is the greatest in the country, Barnes said.

After the luncheon the visiting legislators were given a tour of the BSC campus.