BOISE STATE COLLEGE, BOISE, IDAHO 83707

BSC...BOTTOM OF THE PILE

by Phil Yerby

During the past several days the Arbiter has received a number of complaints from a number of individuals outside of the immediate college community. These particular individuals have stated that ASBSC President Tom Drechsel, has been deceiving the public by releasing erroneous facts concerning funding, enrollment, and student/teacher ratios at the four state institutions of higher education. In an effort to determine the credibility of President Drechsel's statements, the Arbiter will run a series of in-depth investigations into the areas mentioned above. The following is a first in our series.

The following chart indicates Boise State's exact standing with regard to enrollment and State funds.

	U OF I	ISU	LCSC
STATE APPROPRIATION 1972-73	$11,867,378	$8,943,061	$1,103,102
TOTAL ENROLLMENT	8,006	7,929	2,392
FULL-TIME EQUIVALENTS	7,929	5,280	761
NO. of STATE $ SPENT PER STUDENT BASED ON TOTAL ENROLLMENT	$1482.31	$1127.89	$461.83
NO. of STATE $ SPENT PER STUDENT BASED ON FTE.	$1496.71	$1693.78	$1449.54

On the front page of the January 11th issue of the Arbiter, President Drechsel indicated that "BSC has approximately 1500 more full-time equivalents than ISU and the U of I has about 1500 more than BSC". The Student Enrollment Report submitted by the State Board (October 6) includes exact figures of 7,929 FTE's for the U of I; 5,280 for ISU; and 6,752 for BSC. Therefore, the approximations are rather accurate in that differences are 1,177 between the U of I and BSC and 1,472 between BSC and ISU. The total enrollment figures quoted by President Drechsel are comparably the same as those in this report.

Through further investigation, the Arbiter discovered some additional points of interest. In reference to "grand totals", minus continuing education and special Vo-Tech. categories, the U. of I. has 5,181 men and 2,387 women; ISU has 4,058 men and 2,651 women; BSC has 5,596 men and 3,843 women.

In addition, the Arbiter was able to calculate the number of state dollars spent per student at the four state institutions of higher learning. With regard to the BSC total enrollment of 9500, the state spends $751.21 per student, and $1,071.15 per FTE, using the FTE figure of 6,752. ISU receives $1,127.89 per student (based on total enrollment figures) and $1,693.78 per FTE. The U. of I. receives $1,482.31 per student (using the total enrollment figure of 8,006) and $1,496.71 per FTE. Finally, LCSC receives $461.83 per student (total enrollment of 2,392) and $1,449.54 per FTE. The above monetary figures were compiled using the total figures of $7,136,459 (BSC), $8,943,061 (ISU), $11,867,378 (U of I.), $1,103,102 (LCSC), which were the state appropriations per institution for the 1972-1973 fiscal period.

Opinions & Letters

Survey Taken

Letter to the Editor:

December 7 and 8, 1972, I conducted a survey in four classes concerning the knowledgability of the students and their opinion of the performance of the ASBSC during fall semester 1972.

My reasons for conducting the survey were twofold:

(1) Personal desire to be able to better express my opinion and votes on issues arising during second semester.

(2) The survey was the basis of a term paper, written for Independent Study in Student Government. (The paper would be accessible to anyone who wishes to see it for a detailed analysis of the entire survey.)

For the benefit of all who are interested, I would like to release the raw percentages of the results in the BSC Arbiter. As I previously stated, the paper would be exposed to anyone by leaving me a message in my mailbox in the ASB offices or by phone: 345-9978.

Here are the results:

'We hold these truths...'

One of the truly unique things about this country is our freedom of the press. Every administration, including that of George Washington, had problems with the press, but it was under the Nixon/Agnew regime that it became fashionable to attack the press. We think the result of these attacks can be seen as more and more reporters and editors are pulled into court and treated harshly.

The latest, appears to be the two young men working for the BYU college paper who are in difficulty because of several stories regarding narcotics in Utah. A newsman just completed 46 days behind bars because of a story in California. An editor in Idaho is facing a stiff fine because of an editorial about rape.

If the power structure (whether it be local or national) is permitted to intimidate the newspapers we just as well hang it up. This trend must be reversed, and it must be reversed immediately.

'Any idiot can see....'

ASBSC President Tom Drechsel jumped in with both feet last week and from the phone calls and messages the Arbiter has received from outside the campus we believe he jolted some people...

If enough people get into the act with Tom and start demanding answers it is quite possible that BSC will be adequately funded...

I still do not understand why Idaho does not go to a University system and eliminate all the duplication and haggling over three individual schools.

Is it possible that the State Board of Education thinks that Boise State is going to get smaller or just go away?

Any idiot can see that BSC will grow as the Valley grows and that the U of I and ISU will have rough sledding just holding their own...

Registration is over (thank God and Lee Mercy) and it is still a mystery to me how something as simple as registration can get so confusing...

The other day I passed the gym during the blinding snowstorm and couldn't help thinking of the series "Student as Nigger" (see previous Arbiters) when I saw the long line of people in the snow...there has got to be a simpler way to do it...

The Governor delivered his budget message to the legislature and it looks pretty good for education this year...it would be fantastic if the legislature would just lay the politics aside for awhile and try to cooperate...

It is very hard to quarrel with a DECREASE in taxes but a couple of our legislators are doing their best...

God help us all if this was an election year...

Last week in this space I mentioned "a pretty girl to hold your hand," coming through registration. The other day there were several pretty girls from the health service administering free tetanus shots...and boy do they hurt...

At your service

This year is going to be an important one to all students attending BSC.

During registration which is always a difficult time for all students, there were approximately 3,200 concerned students that took some additional time to help the Student Lobby efforts by completing the ISL questionnaire. As representatives for you, we want and need to know your so we can work for legislation that is relevant to you.

As you know, in order for a Lobbyist to represent you, he must know your views on many subjects. This year the student lobby, both ISL and ASBSC Lobby want your input for the best results.

Lobbying can be done by any student in the way of a letter, or telephone call to your legislator or by helping on the Student Lobby Committee at BSC. No matter how much time you have to give your efforts will help in a cause that pertains to all students. By each one of us doing our part and getting involved, the 42nd legislature will be informed of our concerns as students and taxpayers. And I firmly believe they will listen. Once again I would like to thank the BSC students that took the time to fill out the questionnaire. As the ASBSC Lobby Committee, we will tabulate the results and work for your interests. Please call 385-1622 or come in to the ASBSC offices if you want any information or want to get involved in the committee.

One a' penny, two a' penny

By Don Maclean

WASHINGTON In England, there is a movement on to give writers a tiny royalty, say, a penny a time, for every time a book of theirs is checked out of a public library. So far as I can find out, this idea has been raised only occasionally in the U.S. and seems to be doomed to the file of lost causes.

The argument, as advanced by our overseas colleagues, is that an author may write a book that sells only 2,000 copies, of which 1,000 are sold to free lending libraries. But, according to their research, the average book is checked out of the library at least 20,000 times. If the author got just an English penny (equivalent to 2.5 cents, U.S.) each time, he'd still get only $500 for providing hours of entertainment or education for 20,000 people.

That's not much, admittedly, but it helps to put food in the fridge while the author types his next masterpiece. The librarians' answer is that the author should be satisfied with the royalty he gets from the 1,000 copies of the book that the libraries bought. But this might come to only $250.

The librarians also say that if authors aren't making enough money, publishers should raise prices so that the authors' royalties would go up. Unfortunately, books must compete with free TV and cheap newspapers and magazines. The price of books is already somewhat daunting to the customer. And, since libraries use public funds, if the price of books rose, the libraries would have to buy fewer of them.

At this point let me quickly say that I am not talking about the Harold Robbinses of the literary world, who sell millions of copies each novel, along with film rights, TV serialization rights, etc., and make a million on each one. I'm talking about the steady drones of the craft who grind out reasonably popular, but not wildly-selling things.

For every "Carpetbagger" there are 16 books on butterfly collecting or "A Study of the Punic Wars." There are the steady, solid detective and cowboy books that give enjoyment to millions, but each individual title never achieves more than modest sales. Did you know, for instance, that as long as four years after it was published, Ian Fleming had made only about $300, total, from his first James Bond book? Oh, sure, after he was discovered, it was reprinted and went on to earn a fortune. But not every author is discovered.

Yet they still have their fans, fans who want them to continue writing instead of giving it up to write advertising copy, or something. The authors complain that, compared to someone who writes a song and gets royalties for life, they are very poorly paid. There are no juke boxes or radio shows playing books and paying royalties on them.

The English Society of Authors has statistics which show the average, working author earns less than $25 a week from his writing. Most of them have to have other jobs in order to survive. A similar, though not quite as bad, situation exists in this country. England may soon provide help for its authors, Ireland already does so, through tax concessions. We should do the same.

YOU WANT US TO TELL YOU WHERE TO GO ...

Ever wonder where to go in Boise to find a good dance band? Sign a few drinks? Here is news for you!

CAPTAIN MIDNIGHT is the band currently appearing at Goofy's. The seven members sing as well as double on instruments throughout an evening performance. Fronted by lead singer, Brad Davidson, (who also plays trumpet and guitar), and the leader of the group, Ron Green, lead guitarist, the band projects a feeling of enjoyment of what they are doing. Doug Geoghegan is on bass guitar; Greg Row, drummer; Jeff Miller, lead trumpet player and singer; George Simanis on sax and flute and happy fingers Arnie Bruverus on keyboard.

Captain Midnight's extensive repertoire includes contemporary standards, rock tunes, Broadway and motion picture show tunes, and a sprinkling of original compositions.

The band also does a thirty-minute satirical look at the '50's rock and roll in which the entire group dresses and portrays the likes of Elvis, Bill Haley & the Comets, and the Platters. The audiences have really enjoyed the music and the chance to try jump'n and jive'n.

The Downtowner's Bottle and Cork Lounge has offered a popular style, easy listening, and dancing band, the HAPPY MEDIUM, from Eugene. Mike Wren is the lead singer who lullabies the audience in one song and belts out rock in the next breath. Doug Randall is the keyboard man—playing everything from Bach to Moody Blues. His brother, Gib, is the group's drummer. Ron Gorden is the bass guitarist.

The Happy Medium's music is a softer style designed for a mellower mood and smooth boogying. They will be appearing until February 3.

The Gamekeeper at the Owyhee Plaza features the SMITH FOUNDATION, Boise States's own. They appeared at Homecoming and they continue to give out a sound well worth listening to.

ASBSC Lobby Activities

Recently a petition against in-state tuition was circulated on the BSC campus. The petition, which was signed by three thousand plus students, was circulated by the ASBSC Student Lobby and Committee. This Committee is an organization of BSC and is funded by student funds. In view of the overwhelming response the ASBSC Student Lobby and Committee has opted to make the in-state tuition issue its first priority for the 42nd legislature. A complete breakdown of the topics to be brought to the attention of the legislature this year looks like this:

- balancing of the student/teacher ratio.
 - 4. Lobby for a review of the legitimacy of funding colleges with unaccredited programs such as LCSC.
 - 5. Lobby for more powerful and usable antipollution legislation.
 - 6. Lobby for a voting student member on the state board of higher education.
- If any student has a question, suggestion, or idea, they are asked to see Doug Shanholtz, Director, Bill Keyes, or any of the committee members in the ASBSC Offices. These people are here to present your views and translate the wishes of the BSC Student Body into effective input for the legislature. Use them!

GREEKS GREEKS

Among the aims of Alpha Kappa Psi are, fostering scientific research in the fields of commerce, accounts, and finance, and to educate the public to appreciate and demand higher ideals therein. It may seem strange for a business organization to have as a purpose getting the public to demand higher ideals in business, but the members of A.K.Psi are doing just that.

Part of the job is done through a program of guest speakers both at professional meetings and through the new "Executive In Residence" program which kicked off last semester with A.K.Psi member Governor Cecil D. Andrus speaking to students assembled in the business building. Featured speakers have included the Executive Board of the Insurance Underwriters Of Idaho, and Gard Skinner, a candidate for prosecuting attorney in the last election.

The professional meeting speakers will be led this semester by Mr. Bern Jensen, New Executive President, Boise Chamber of Commerce. The first meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m., Wed. Jan. 17, in the CUB. All those Business Majors who are at least second semester freshmen with a G.P.A. of 2.30 or higher are invited to attend if they are interested in joining.

In addition to the professional meetings, the Fraternity sponsors dances to raise funds. These funds are used in whatever community projects the organization undertakes, as well as supporting a scholarship program. At least once a year, the membership donates part of the money it has raised to a local civic group or charity.

A.K.Psi has been fortunate in having the complete cooperation of the business school in all of its endeavors, not to forget the talents of many of the faculty who are also members. The Fraternity has managed to receive the highest rating possible for efficiency from the national office, every year of its existence at BSC. The rating is given to those chapters who meet certain standards of performance in both school and community activities. Achievement of these excellent ratings has been possible only through the attitude of persons such as Mike Bingham, Membership Committee Chairman, and Marv Askey, President, both of whom stress "we are interested in new members, but only if they are the kind of people who wish to work hard for others with no thought of personal gain."

With that predominant attitude, it is no surprise to see the esteem in which the organization is held not only on campus, but in the community as well.

ISL: Student's Voice

During registration, the Idaho Student Lobby and the ASBSC Student Lobby and Committee conducted a survey concerning certain pertinent issues to be placed before the 42nd Idaho Legislature. About 3,200 students participated and the results are now being tabulated.

The Idaho Student Lobby is an organization comprised of the student government presidents and vice-presidents of all college rank institutions in Idaho with the exception of the College of Southern Idaho. The three lobbyists now representing students at the State Legislature are Dennis Davis of the University of Idaho, Mary Swanson of Idaho State University and Art Berry of Boise State College.

The ISL was formed last year and concerned itself primarily with the rights of 18 year olds, including lowering of the drinking age. This year, activities are being expanded to encompass all areas of student interest. At present, representation includes over 30,000 students.

Inasmuch as students are the largest bloc of voters in the State, it is the opinion of the ISL that their efforts and opinions should be taken into account by the legislature. Specific topics to emphasize will include adequate birth-control information, in-state tuition, problems encountered in the rental of student housing, and environmental protection laws.

The ISL is working with the Board of Education and the university level presidents to increase the size of the higher education budget in Idaho. The ISL has an educational tax status and is funded through membership fees based on full time equivalency at each represented institution.

Policies espoused by the ISL will be a reflection of opinion held by two-thirds of the participating constituent students. All students are strongly encouraged to present their views on pending legislation as well as suggest topics for consideration to Art Berry in his office on the second floor of the CUB.

Broncos host ISU, College Great Falls in hoop battles

The Boise State Broncos will cast aside old records and start some new ones of their own when they face Idaho State University for the third time this season in the BSC fieldhouse Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

ISU has won the two previous games against Boise State. The Bengals are undefeated in conference play and lead in virtually all Big Sky statistics.

Boise State, following a six game losing streak, will try and avenge ISU minus two key men, Maurice Buckingham and Booker Brown. Brown is out with a hernia and Buckingham broke a small bone in his hand which should keep him out of at least two weeks of action.

Head coach Murray Satterfield feels "this is going to be a big test," after dropping the last two games to teams the Broncos previously annihilated; Puget Sound 109-72 and Portland State 70-61.

Waiting for the starting call should be Clyde Dickey, Greg Bunn, Bill Barnes, Bill Cottrell and Steve Clifford.

Idaho State has built up a seven-game win skein coming into this match tonight. The Bengals soundly defeated Chicago State in their latest rout 102-73 last Saturday.

Jim Killingsworth's Bengals "have an excellent team," according to Satterfield. The ISU mentor led the team to a tie for second place last year in the Big Sky Conference.

The Buckingham-Brown gap will be hard to fill for the Broncos, while ISU has a full squad of healthy players.

The Pocatello-based team lost no lettermen last year. Standouts are 6-8½ center Ev Fopma, 6-6 forward Edison Hicks and 6-1 Jim Anderson, who has been the high man against the Broncos scoring over 20 points in each of the two meetings.

Taking a look at BSC, the Broncos are ready to play good ball against the taller, better-balanced Bengals.

Clyde Dickey has scored well all year for Boise State averaging 17 ppg. Steve Clifford should fare well as a strong streak shooter while Bunn and Cottrell will manhandle the strong ISU zone defense.

ISU's win streak should be easier to break since they will be playing at Boise State, not to mention the Broncos are hungry for a slump-breaking victory.

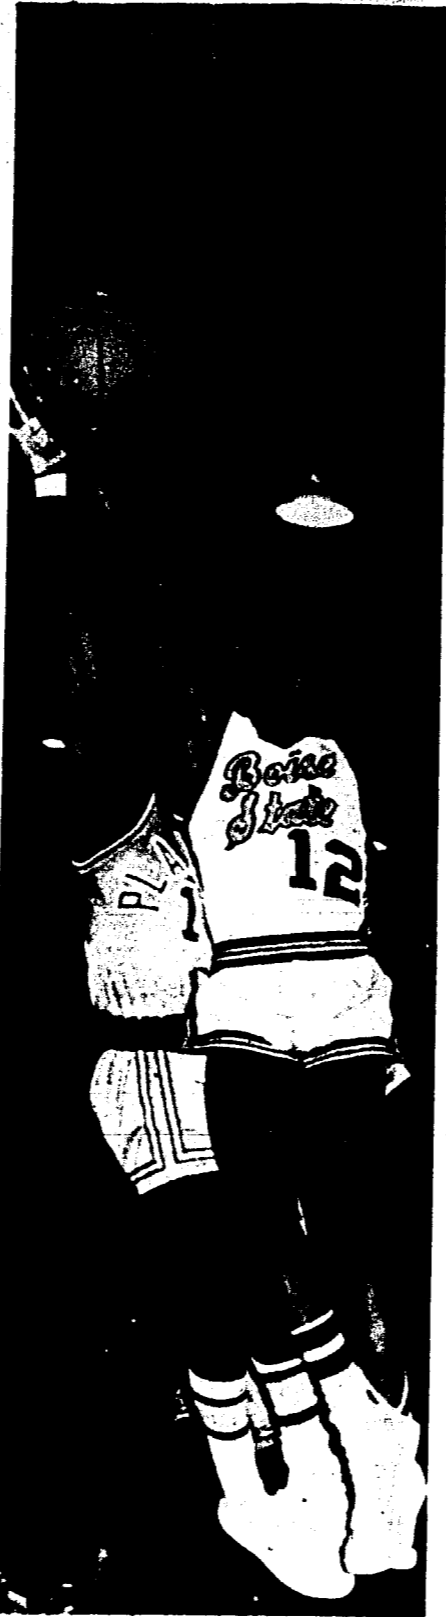

In the last pairing between the two clubs, Boise State was down by only a single marker in the half. The befuddled Bengals took to the dressing room and ironed the problems out of their stripes before going on to win 82-73.

The College of Great Falls will challenge the Broncos Jan. 20 in the BSC gym at 7:30 in a non-conference game.

The Argonauts return five lettermen after losing five the previous season. Runners-up in the NAIA District Number 5, coach R. J. Horejsi's crew will be seeking the continuing dominance over BSC. The teams did not play each other last year, but Great Falls won 79-78 and 85-74 in the '70-71 season.

Returning guards Mike Geniesse (18.5 ppg) and Reggie Rush (20.2 ppg.) will combine with return starter Jin Walczak (6.7 ppg) at forward to provide a nucleus against the BSC-five.

Expected to join these three in making up the starting lineup will be Kirk Steinsifer a 6-2 guard who carried a 22.5 ppg average for Mount Hood CC last season and Roscoe Seamon a 6-6 forward from Walla-Walla CC where he averaged 25.3 ppg and 18.5 rebounds.

Alonzo Goggins is only 5-6, but proves he can out-reach this stringbean from Mtn. Home AFB. The Colts won 104-58.

JVs play Bengal babes in gym

The Colts will host the Idaho State University JV's at 5:15 Thursday night in the BSC gym, prior to the varsity game at 7:30.

Coach Bus Connor's team looks for win number five of the year. The only two losses have come from Columbia Basin and the nationally-ranked College of Southern Idaho.

The latest Colt victory was over Ricks College 82-72.

George Glover, Alonzo Goggins and Pat Hoke will provide the scoring nucleus for BSC. Scott McIlhenny and Tony Saras will round out the starting five in what Connor predicts is going to be "one of the toughest teams we'll play this season."

Statistic-wise, the Colts have outgunned their opponents .456 to .391 in shooting percentages (does not include wins over Ricks).

Glover leads scorers with 19.6 ppg followed by Goggins with 18.0 ppg. Pat Hoke is third on the scoring list with 13.6 ppg.

Murray Satterfield resigned his position as head basketball coach (left). Bus Connor (right) will assume new duties.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Arbiter has received several requests concerning sports from North Idaho. After ascertaining that BSC has over 200 students from North Idaho we have made arrangements with Mr. Pat King, Publisher, and Mr. Bob Jones, Sports Editor, of the Coeur d'Alene press to start running sports from the Panhandle. The Arbiter feels this is a necessary service due to the fact that the other newspaper in Boise does not cover this area of the state.

Satterfield resigns position as head coach of BSC Broncos

BOISE, Idaho—Murray Satterfield, head basketball coach of the Boise State Broncos for the past eight years, today resigned that position with the school.

Doran L. "Bus" Connor, assistant basketball coach for the Broncos for the past five years, was named head coach to take over the varsity basketball team.

The announcement was made Tuesday by Boise State athletic director Lyle Smith.

"Last week coach Satterfield verbally indicated to me that he planned to resign at the end of the present season. Today he requested to be relieved at this time in the best interests of the basketball program at Boise State. Bus Connor, who has been Murray's assistant for the past five years will take over the duties as head coach," Smith said.

"Coach Satterfield said that he felt it would be in the best interests of the Boise State basketball program if he resigned at this time rather than at the end of the season.

"Murray has given a great deal of his life to Boise State and to basketball in the State of Idaho. He has been a fine asset to the school. His decision to step out of coaching is a great loss. He was a great man with which to work.

Satterfield began coaching at Boise Junior College in 1965 and was junior college coach for three years. When the school became a four-year institution in 1968, Satterfield continued his duties and took the Broncos to the NAIA playoffs in 1969 and the NCAA college-division playoffs in 1970.

Bowlers pace by EOC in tight games

The BSC varsity women's bowling team had to put up with little resistance against Eastern Oregon College last Friday night. However, the men's team sneaked by EOC with a hard-fought for two-pin margin.

Ron Arndt and Jay Aono came up with a 202 and 204 respectively to pace the men in the final game against the Tigers. Even with those high games, BSC lost the final match of the four game set by 80 sticks. Jim McMahan, high man for EOC with a four game series of 814, finished with a 233 his last game. He was joined in the 200 club by Steve Weissenfluh with a 212.

Top scorer for the BSC men was freshman keglar Jay Aono who edged out veteran college bowler Jay Knowlton 779 to 773. Buzz Tucker struck out for six in a row and nabbed the high game spot with a 233.

In the women's division, Boise State displayed awesome ability on the maple boards by nailing down the first game 884-712. They went on to grab the second game 825-713 before losing their only game, the third, 730-732. The fourth and final game saw BSC on top 777-736.

Senior bowler Chris Moore took high series honors with 689, just one pin over teammate Claudia Wilkerson's 688.

Bowling the high games for the women was Wilkerson with 220 and 205.

Bronco Keglers will trek to Utah State January 20 in an Intermountain Conference test. BSC is "numero uno" atop the standings in both the men's and women's divisions.

Varsity baseball hopefuls to report now!

Head baseball coach Lyle Smith urges all men interested in baseball on the varsity team to get in touch with him immediately at the Varsity Center.

The Broncos have 12 returning lettermen. Drills will begin in February. Lockers will be given this month.

Smith notes that the sluggers will face a 45-game schedule against tough opponents. "Gonzaga will be a strong arm in the Big Sky Conference," Smith stated.

Boise State will participate in the Banana Belt Tournament in Lewiston during the middle of March.

Those trying out for the team must keep in mind that it is necessary to be a full-time student and must have passed 12 credit hours this fall.

"NCAA rules require that the student be working towards graduation," Smith said.

Outdoor Education goes full steam ahead

Tony McLean
Sports Editor

Outdoor Education is "mushrooming at BSC," according to Fred Norman, director of student activities on campus.

Last semester, over 1,100 full-time students participated in the Outdoor Education program; the best turnout in any of the Idaho institutions.

Darlene Stewart and Tom Beeler, students at BSC, will be the co-chairman of the program. They will be responsible for planning activities, slating lectures and films, and setting up a clearing house for interested groups and individuals who want to know details like clothing, food, equipment, etc.

"The Outdoor Education program was well-organized through Ed Weber the first semester, Stewart said. "Ed has left the program because he graduated last spring and started working."

"The main problem is the lack of funds for a paid full-time worker for the Outdoor Education program," said Kent Kehler, Games Area director. "The program has gone extremely well so far and we should expect a definite increase in participation over last semester."

Participation has been a sharp rise of the graphs ever since the program was offered to meet student demands for activities.

According to Gordon "Gordy" Gochmour, the Physical Education department ramrod for Outdoor Education, "all 48 of our classes were immediately filled during registration; the response was terrific."

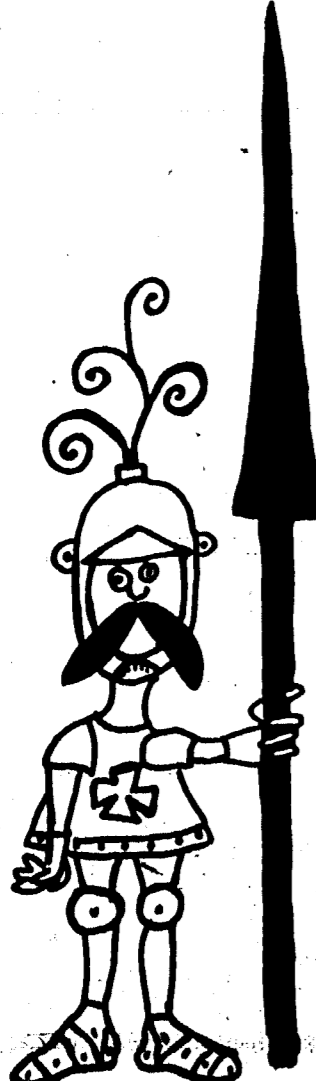

Gochmour emphasized some of the goals of Outdoor Education which include, "attempting to provide the students with a wide range of activities."

The PE department will provide the skills and the Outdoor Education staff will pick up on a recreation basis."

"The trend is towards individualism in outdoor activities," Kehler said, "We will recommend to individuals or groups of people the type of equipment to take on their trips and even help them find a place to go."

Outdoor Education is a service as well as an activity. The department will rent out equipment to those needing a canoe, backpack or whatever.

It is important that the students, faculty, and others know that Outdoor Education is here at BSC when you want it. The office, where you can gather other necessary information, is located in the Games Area on the first floor of the College Union Building.
