Taking a bite

Closer to home, our own Sigma Pi is presently razing through the air this year, and their accomplishments have been few. The undergraduate bodies have been killed, the student government has been abolished, and only one major bill has been passed. The legislature has rejected out of hand every financial proposal made by the Student Body. The administrators have killed all the proposals, and the student body has been left with the responsibility of running the school alone.

Phil Yerby

So There!

No accomplishments

The Sigma Pi is in full swing at Boise State, and for some of us who are over the hill, it is the best of the summer. To those of us who are still in college, it is a time of deadlines, and the best of the short-term deadlines is... to keep the news columns full.

No accomplishments

The Sigma Pi is the only organization on campus that has been able to accomplish anything this year. The Student Body has been unable to do anything, and the administration has been too busy to do anything. It is a time of deadlines, and the best of the short-term deadlines is... to keep the news columns full.

An open letter to the "Oppressed Minority Student"

Dear Students,

As many recent articles have explained, the "oppressed minority" student does not get an "equal" chance, because Black, Brown, Spanish, or Polish students are looked upon with suspicion by second-class students or second-class clubs. This attitude does not prevail with first-class students, but is common among second-class students and second-class clubs. Our duty as students is to promote a climate of respect for all students, and to praise the achievements of all students. It is our duty to educate ourselves about the grievances of the minority student, and to work towards a more just and equal society.

Sincerely,

Mary Patton and Helen Fleenor

Heartfelt thanks

Dear Faculty and Students,

I am most grateful to the many who expressed their views in the meeting of the faculty, Dr. Carlos de la Fuente.

Phil Yerby

Rebuttal

Dear Editor,

In response to your recent article concerning student protest, I would like to point out the following:

1. The article does not mention the fact that the students are protesting because they feel they are not being treated fairly.
2. The article does not mention the fact that the students are protesting because they feel their voices are not being heard.
3. The article does not mention the fact that the students are protesting because they feel their rights are being violated.

Sincerely,

Bob Right

A few who care

Dear Editor,

As an interested, involved student, I write to you about the student protest on campus. It is a reflection of the depth of the problem and the need for action.

Sincerely,

Your student representative

LAND USE—Past and Present

by Joseph E. Gaerttler, Adviser, Soil Conservation Service

Problems resulting from soil erosion have created situations for which SCS has been called upon to provide solutions. Over the last decade or so, the dramatic decrease in the "thousands" of acres of problems in all parts of the Nation has been credited to the contributions made by farmers and landowners through locally organized soil conservation districts (SCD). This vote of confidence has been well earned and justified. A few more would be helpful to get to the point where people are willing to repair soil damages.

After a period of depression and court-mandated techniques to farmers, a successful program of promoting soil and water by farmers and other land users (through locally organized soil conservation districts) has been initiated. This vote of confidence has been well earned and justified. A few more would be helpful to get to the point where people are willing to repair soil damages. DOWNTOWN SAN FRANCISCO has solved a difficult terrain problem involving people and parking. In the hub of the shopping district is an attractive 2.6-acre park, planted with palms, Irish yews, boxwood and bright flowers—a place where one can withdraw from the busy flow of cars and shoppers. Underneath the park is a four-story parking ramp which accommodates over 1,000 cars, with a turnover of 2,700 cars a day.

Tutoring jobs open

The Director of Financial Aid has announced that this year many enough jobs are open for financial aid. According to Dick, those few students who are selected are told that the school has been, and is going to continue to be, financially independent. This is because the school has a large and expensive faculty.

Student-Teacher ratio

BY TERRY FITZGERALD

In the course of the current funding scandal, the subject of student-teacher ratio was mentioned. Several statistics are mentioned, but not fully discussed. In this report the student-teacher ratio is 1:25.3. While this is not the lowest in the state of Idaho, it is still one of the lower ratios.

P.A.W. bowlers

The question "what do we do with our P.A.W.?" has been asked many times.

Now that the season is over, we can look back and see what we did with our bowlers. The President of the P.A.W. was questioned about the season. He said that the team did not do as well as expected. The most successful bowler was John Smith. He averaged a score of 200 per game. The team finished in the middle of the league, but that was better than expected.

Nursing applications

The Boise State College of Nursing is currently accepting applications from high school students for the upcoming school year. The college offers a variety of programs including a Bachelor of Science in Nursing degree. Applications are due by the end of the school year. Interested students are encouraged to apply early and attend the information sessions.

On Tuesday, Dr. Richard Prather, director of American Studies at the University of Idaho, spoke on the legal aspects of Indian-white relations, dealing with treaties between Indians and the U.S. government. Their relationship over the centuries has been characterized by a system of treaties providing "protection" for the Indians. This was not received warmly by some Indian members of the audience. The Indian Institute presented Don Long, director of the Denver office of the American Indian Movement. The AAIM is a more militant Indian group seeking to gain full rights for Indians. Long's address was somewhat in line with the "protectionist" idea of the public's mind that would make it illegal to use the word "Indians" in any context. The words of the right wing of the new active member are Diane Ayres, History Professor at the University of Idaho, and Rachel Brooks, who is an attorney.

Idaho Student Lobby Report

Art Barry, ES Director and Boise State College student, left Thursday, February 26, for Washington, D.C., to work on the National Student Lobby's meeting in Washington, D.C. He is working as a lobbyist for the National Student Lobby's Committee on Higher Education. He will be working on the lobbying efforts on the Higher Education Funding Bills now being reviewed by Congress. These bills are important to all public institutions for their financial aid.

The Idaho students are being well represented by having Art on the National Student Lobby's lobbying committee. We will be meeting with the Idaho Congressional Delegation and discussing the problems of the Idaho students on Congress's bills pertaining to higher education. Dennis Ward appointed 1973 Easter Seal
Society Chairman

The appointment of Dennis Ward, Boise State College education major as Youth Chairman of the Easter Seal Society, the Crippled Children and Adults of Idaho's 1973 Centennial unit, was announced today by Rev. E. Leviston, the Society's Executive Director. This youth chairman, with his March 1 through Easter Sunday, April 15 board of directors, is a national officer in the United Crippled Children and Adults organization, Democratic Party, which was established in 1945 to serve the special needs of the handicapped.

Ward is a member of the National Youth Organization for two years and is serving as a national officer in the Idaho chapter. He was appointed Youth Chairman for the 1973 Homecoming and is a national officer in the Associated Student Body.

The Easter Seal Society is a unique among voluntary health groups, most of which are research-oriented, in that they are a direct service agency that spends 90% of funds raised on programs for the handicapped in Idaho. These programs include speech therapy centers in Boise, Twin Falls, and Idaho Falls, kindergarten classes for children with speech handicaps in Boise and Twin Falls, and a preschool class for children with learning disabilities in Boise. They provide funds for medical centers, speech therapists, and educational aides, all of whom are trained and supervised by the National Organization. The funds are raised through a variety of activities, including the sale of Easter Seals, through which young families can contribute to the cause.

DENNIS WARDA senior majoring in Education at Boise State College, was appointed the 1973 Chairman for the Easter Seal Society in Boise.

THE LADY'S NOT FOR BURNING

Dan Coffman, a pasting artist at Boise State College, designed and built the Christopher Plop for THE LADY'S NOT FOR BURNING which will be presented at the Star Theatre March 8-13.

Dan chose to design the set for LADY'S NOT FOR BURNING to fulfill his requirement for senior project. The work, production and completion of the technical aspects of a production, was something Dan has always wanted to do. He chose the design and show because he thought they were very prosperous to do. Moreover, he is tempted to resort to the convenience of the boogie-woogie style of some numbers, particularly the "Six Juke," for reasons which will be obvious.

This particular job is the most demanding and underpaid in the theatre. It requires skill and dedication. Dan said that his work experience at Boise College prepared him for the work in the theatre. He has worked on many theatre scenes and has been a part of several productions. His first complete set was THE SHEIK'S FANTASIA, the college's musical of 1972. Dan also acted for the college, Boise State Theatre, Theatre Liza, and Theatre at the Boise Center. Dan is a member of the Idaho Drama League.

EARTHKEEPING MAKES IT CLEAR

American today is up to his necks in its environment. "People like natural "environments,"" says one observer, "but when they talk about it, they usually mean free air and open spaces." This, of course, is only part of the truth. The whole truth is that the American environment is a matter of dollars and cents, of values and attitudes, of the way we live and work and play. It is a matter of our total way of life.

By Bob McFadden

WASHINGTON—Everyone talks about the electric car, but in the U.S. nobody seems to be doing much about it. The same is true of local and regional environmental problems. From the beginning in 1962, Earthkeeping has been at the forefront of the movement to take a look at our environmental problems and begin to solve them. Earthkeeping's efforts are not always successful, but they are always clear, wise, and constructive.

Earthkeeping is a non-profit organization that promotes the use of renewable energy sources, such as solar and wind power, and advocates for the protection of the natural environment. It is dedicated to educating the public about the importance of sustainability and the need for action to address environmental issues.

EUROPE GOES ELECTRIC—POLLUTION PROBLEMS FADE

Europe is rapidly transitioning to electric vehicles as a response to pollution problems. With the growing concern over climate change, governments are promoting electric vehicles as a way to reduce emissions and limit pollution.
