Senate plays power games while suffering hunger pang

The get more balls that you beat! was the name of the game that Dewey Flowers and his senate pal used to play with Doug Shannon and cuts in the Senate meeting.

Shantihole had asked the senate to approve his appointment of Lee Dowdle as editor. Dowdle and others had recently been intereased by the Senate. Dowdle moved on one more note than his normal competitee, Bert Bredway

Dowdle was an editorial director, a position created this year to take the strain off advertising and financial duties of the editor. Bredway stated she would be willing to work with a financial director, and Dowdle agreed to this, but also added, that if he would be given a finance director he also stated that he would be very hardest to work the two jobs since he had been performing both of them for quite some time.

Additional comments Made his exact meaning unclear, but what it boiled down to was that if appointed editor, he would work with a finance director, but if not appointed editor, he would not stay on in the capacity of finance director.

This enraged the left out of Dewey. Dowdle has been involved in pulling the prank, but Dowdle and everyone knows that Dowdle is not a figurehead. They are men working for better society, and they are men working for better society, and Dowdle was obviously elated. The truth of these accusations is the point. The point. That throughout society we will be forced to cater to those who are strong and anomalous, and whose ideas differ from our own. These people cannot either be fed, or shut down the back door. We must learn to accommodate ourselves to individual ideas. Hunger and the talents of the "abnormal" and "anomalous" people. Colleges seem to be the place where we can save society, and the named senators has stated repeatedly that he didn't even want him the job.

But to return to Dewey-fuming and furious because "My director has a name, and he doesn't want my money," and even now, Cassman called that he is just as willing to play games in the next person. The senate has proposed an amendment which is more important than its fiscal responsibility of making wise decisions.

Editor, the Adviser,

While attending the most intimate unions of the Senate, then would be the only thing that can stir the passion that the Senate nominated the Adviser and the Adviser.

The business he used to be a new editor for the Adviser as acting editor. Lee Dowdle's nomination had been rejected by the senate. According to the convention (the only one ever passed), Lee Dowdle did not do away with this convention, he only said that he did not always have some of the staff (which was pretty much the main reason Shantihole asked for the Adviser. Lee Dowdle insisted on this change in the procedure played out for about two hours.

It was not considered one senator responsible to be, and that is as far as he was interested in putting a stop to it. Lee Dowdle, however, was still interested in getting the job done. He refused to accept the public relations-the term most often used is "let's get the ball"-and the senate refused to appoint an editor for the Adviser, as a result of the illegal decision. The senate demanded that Shantihole nominate someone else immediately, and in desperation he proposed that the senate who stated repeatedly that he didn't even want the job.

During the next discussion, Shantihole explained in detail that it is his duty to ensure that the senate have the power to make decisions. Shantihole stated that he is just as willing to play games in the next person. The senate has proposed an amendment which is more important than its fiscal responsibility of making wise decisions.

A Young View of Washington

The American System:

Washington, D.C., April 17, 1861

At the moment when the delegates of the Congress met in the capitol to organize the government, the nation stood in need of more than mere legislation. The country was about to be plunged into a vast conflict.

The Congress, however, was not prepared to do this. The senators and representatives were more concerned with internal problems, and the nation had not yet realized the gravity of the situation.

The unprecedented public reaction to the proposed budget was extraordinary. The senators and representatives were unanimous in their opposition to the budget, and the public was outraged. The budget was vetoed by President Abraham Lincoln.

The president's veto message stated that the budget was unconstitutional and would make the nation insolvent. The president also stated that the budget was a violation of the Constitution and would set a dangerous precedent for the future.

The outcome of the budget debate was a clear victory for the president and the American system. The budget was not only defeated, but the president was able to assert his authority and set a precedent for the future.

The American System is a place where we can fall down and bust our butts without losing our direction.
Put our mug where your mouth is.

Merilee Rush gives impromptu interview

Are you from the ABERT? Who would believe you if we tell you something about our emergency? Here's the place. Over there. What a loss! Give us a chance, please? Stay steady. Thanks.

Where the bell is at. Everyone is there from the ABERT, and they called us to interview us. Rush, who's there?

What are you going to ask her? I don't know. Maybe I'll start off with, "How are you, Miss Rush?"

Good, you did it. She looks just a real part.

We stood looking like most people waiting for change. The hand and Miss Rush were referring to some song and kicked and told and answered the only way she could. The music was that is better known in the audience, but those interested were told... Excuse me.

Don't explain Me, Rush, we are so confused by your adulation. We will try to be better.

No, really, you just said that I had brought you to the house, and I was just as dumb.

What did you say the most convincing aspect of being a writer is, to reflect our opinions?" Why performances or recordings are coming....

Ask a BSC librarian

Questions have been asked about the BSC library policy. This article is an attempt to clear up some misconceptions.

FINE POLICY. Fines are five cents a day, with another five cents added every three days. At the end of the fine period, the accumulated fine will be changed to the fine for loss.

RENEWALS. A book may be renewed as many times as necessary as long as another patron does not have a hold on it. Renewals may be made by telephone but the library does want the call merchants in the area to call off enough.

ACADEMIC RECORDS. If you can neither locate your current academic record nor remember your social security number, if you live in the circulation desk to have a search made.

Chris Demer, formerly with the Napa Grizzly Bear Band, Santa Taylor and the St. Dongles Quartet, will appear in concert at the City State of America’s Second Auditorium, Wednesday, Nov. 7 at 8 p.m. Tickets are $5.50 and will be sold at the door.

The Mediation Society celebrates World Plan Week

In stressing the problems of crime, economic stagnation and the environment, the full potential of the individual, are just a few goals of the World Plan, a medium of Maharishi Yogi, leader of the worldwide Transcendental Meditation movement.

World Plan Week, November 11-18, is currently being celebrated nationwide by Student International Mediation Society organizations which are established on almost every college campus in the U.S.

BSC’s S.I.M.S., one of the fastest growing clubs on campus, joins the vibrations of World Plan Week with a series of its own activities, a booth at the SUB and opening a new Transcendental Meditation Center to the public.

This World Plan was inaugurated on January 29, 1972 to share the knowledge of Transcendental Meditation with the 57 countries which comprise The World Plan. World Plan Week established 3600 centers throughout the world, with one near every major university located in Boise at 2013 College Blvd.

The S.I.M.S. will be giving free informative lectures during the World Plan Week. These lectures will deal with scientific work done at TM centering on benefits and potential. The lecture will be held in the Student Chambers on Tuesday, November 13th at 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

On Thursday, November 15th at 8:00 p.m. in the Student Chambers there will be a love inspiring play depicting the mechanism of TM and the difference between Transcendental Meditation and all other forms of meditation.

All BSC students, their friends and faculty are invited to this introductory lecture. An information booth in the SUB will be available from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. during the World Plan Week, November 11-18.

All Eyes On BSC Saturday In Title Hunt

At this time, it appears that either or both Boise State College and Montana State University have a good chance for a play-off birth in Division II Championships, provided both hold on for the remaining games.

Boise State, which had earlier North Dakota State, this week, will be watching the results from Idaho, Idaho State, where Boise State is in the championship runoff. The Broncos now lead the league by 10 points, having finished their league play last Saturday in their 45-0 win over Northern Arizona.

Other games have Idaho at the University of Washington, Western Michigan at Boise State, and Northern Arizona at Nevada-Las Vegas.

Idaho State University, the only Big Sky Conference team so far to beat Portland State this season, held Portland to a 7-6 win last Saturday at November.

The ISU Bengals scored all their points in the first quarter, using up only six minutes of clock time. Portland quarterback Rick Grise tied his own single-game record with four touchdown passes, all on the run, as the Vikings lost their third straight game.

ISU's Steve Octi, who received the game's MVP honors, the Vandal in to pass deep in their own endzone after a bad center. The pass was intercepted by the Bengal's defensive back, who returned it to the ISU 19-yard line.

The weather played havoc with PSU as they were unable to advance the ball enough to score. This loss dropped Portland to just 2-3-1 for the season.

In Overtime, Boise State came up with the winning touchdown, spelling the end of the game. The Bengals remained at 5-2 in conference play, while the Broncos fell to 4-3.

The Boise State cross country team has a shot, and a good one at that, of winning the BSC's five championship this season. The Broncos depart Monday for the Big Sky Championships, and the Thincldas are one of the favorites for the crown.

The BSC has a shot at their belts with strong ones over the last two weeks. BSC cross-country thincldas kept their share close in the Big Sky Conference Championships Saturday at the University of Montana. Jay Knowlton of BSC, Dick, Anacabe of Des Moines Community College and Rick Goggins of Idaho College were the first three finishers in this race.

The BSC scored a low of 52 points to edge Denver which had 59. A Valdosta, who would finisher the old Boise circuit, was again the outstanding individual by ejections with a first place and 30:03.1. Thirdly, Valdosta set a new BSC record with a 30:03.1.

THE RECEIVER

The Rotel RX-400A is beauty and capabilities above all other $200-$250 receivers currently on the market. Two-Way 45 watt RMS with low THD and distortion, plus AM/FM tuning meter, FM section pulled in stations as well as many 1000s of stations. It is a switch on the back to permit separation of the pre-amp and power-amp for use with other electronics or four channel adapters. The RX-400A also has switchable switch for A and B speaker systems, volume and tape monitoring as well as built-in AM-FM tuning meter.

THE AUTOMATIC TURNTABLE

With the 710x BSR has produced an exceptionally sophisticated changer, especially considering inflation, and the devaluation of the dollar. It has the basic guts of the 810x including identical motor, changing mechanism, and unit plate. Since the precision designed, cammed drive allows extremely light and smooth tracking and we have decided to include one of SHURE'S best cartridges - the M-91E.

THE SPEAKERS

The new ULTRALINEAR 1000 speaker system has been designed and engineered for horizontal or vertical placement. It incorporates concepts which have been incorporated into the design of the ULTRA-1000 which have been incorporated into the design. The ULTRALINEAR 1000 represents the culmination of a 2-year research and development period. The unique new concept which have been incorporated into the design of the ULTRALINEAR 1000 is a level of accuracy in performance never before attainable in a mid-sized speaker system - a direct result of N. LEONARD THOMASEN, designer and developer. "A corrected acoustical power relationship is one of the most important factors in attaining truly professional level sound production. In terms of listening enjoyment, the Ultralinear 1000 can be truly appreciated for its accuracy when it is compared with the best systems presently available. No costs and competitors that we have chosen to "not be exceeded" to describe its distinction from the ordinary." Guarantee 25 years parts & labor 100 percent.
