Open forum Monday to discuss building

Boise State President Dr. Barnes has agreed to hold an open forum concerning numerous building plans for the campus, on Monday night, January 21.

Barnes said that the forum could deal with major projects for a new Vo-Tech Building, Science-Education Building, Campus Drive closure, Special Events Center, and the Stadium-Varsity Center project. An uproar among students created over changes in floor plans for the proposed Special Events Center has resulted in the administration's agreement to hold the open forum.

In June, the State Board of Education approved plans for the Special Events Center to be built adjacent to the Student Union Building. It was to be administered by the Union and seat up to 500 people for Theatre Arts productions, lectures, pop and foreign films, small concerts, and other student events.

Since the State Board approval, the seating has been cut to 350, stage and lighting facilities have been reduced and the building site has been moved 100 yards away from the SUB.

A major objection by students is that the building would seat only 30 more people than LA106. They feel that the building would serve only the Theatre Arts productions, and that one million dollars is too much money to pay for 30 additional seats.

The latest report is that Barnes has agreed to increase seating to 425 people at a cost of $200,000.

George Mustard, Concerts Coordinator for the Programs Board said that even if they increased seating to 550, it still wouldn't be big enough for most activities.

Another controversial project to be discussed is the Campus Drive closure plan. This is to be the first step towards construction of a building complex that would double the size of the existing main cluster of buildings on campus. Barnes claims that by closing the road, "five building sites could be made available."

He plans to build as close to the Boise River as legally possible, reasoning that buildings on the river would "provide a tremendous aesthetic advantage to citizens, as well as students of Boise State."

The plan is facing opposition from students for a number of reasons. Closure of Campus Drive would decrease accessibility to the campus, and add to the congestion problems on College Blvd.

A Boise city planner who works with the Boise River Greenbelt committee said that his general reaction to the master plan was favorable. He approved the closure of Campus Drive, and creation of a pedestrian mall, but added that he would like to see provisions for bicycle traffic included in the plans.

He objected to the location of the buildings, saying, "50 feet from the river is a bare minimum." In city center areas we'd like a 75-150 foot greenbelt strip, because of high use in these areas."

Despite repeated denials by Barnes, some city planners and students suspect Barnes may want to move into the park. They question Barnes' motives for wanting to build a footbridge across the river.

The forum will be held next Monday, January 21 at 7:30 p.m. in the senate chambers of the SUB. All interested students are urged to attend and make known to Dr. Barnes where they stand on these projects.

State Board OK's tenure policy

The State Board of Education (Regents) unanimously approved Friday the proposed legislation granting university status to BSC. If legislation is passed the new initials BSU will be effective by July.

Also approved was the Board's controversial tenure reform policy which must be implemented by July 1. The revised policy is an attempt to be more responsive to student needs and involves students in the competency review and granting of tenure processes. Dismissal procedures are absent from the policy due to a recommendation by the regents for further legal classification. The old dismissal policy will be effective until the new one receives final approval.

Also approved by the Board for legislative proposal is a $238,000 increase in state taxes for a total of $835,000 transfusion for athletic programs at the three major state institutions of higher learning. Budget requests for intercollegiate athletic expenditures will serve as ceilings for athletic budgets. The University will have the lowest budget of $704,855. Idaho State will be limited at $722,941, while Boise State will be allowed $759,078.

The new program will use these general fund monies to make up the difference between athletic revenue and expenditures. Due to the quantity of gate receipts and donations, Boise State will require $223,000 of tax money to maintain its program. ISU will receive $338,214, and Idaho $274,055.

However, the new appropriations concept provides that the institutions must meet certain requirements in return.

1. Recruiting expenses have been limited to $25,000.

2. Athletic budgets must be administered in the same way as institutional budgets.

3. The number of athletic scholarships will be frozen at the current Big Sky limit.

4. Full-time football coaches will be limited to five.

5. All excess monies in the revenue bond accounts for athletic facilities will be frozen immediately.

6. Finally (and about time) "hidden" expenditures for athletics which are absorbed in other areas of the institutions must be identified.

An artists sketch of the proposed pedestrian mall. Dr. Barnes stated that the buildings would add "tremendous aesthetic quality" to the students and public. An open forum for discussion of the plans will be held Monday, January 21 at 7:30 p.m. in the Senate chambers.

Les Bois editor faces problem of yearbooks

One of Jerry Bittick's first duties as Editor of the Les Bois has been to figure out what to do with the left over books from last year. As recently as January 1 there were still 1900 yearbooks in storage.

Since the Les Bois has been revived Bittick has been preparing to mail out 1100 books to last year's graduates. He said the mailing arrangement was made last year so "graduates are expecting their books to be mailed to them." He has quoted mailing expenses on two occasions, $50 and $250. On the latter occasion, he stated that mailing cost was 15 cents a book because "the books weigh a little over a pound each." He added that he had not weighed any of the books.

When packaged and weighed, one Les Bois tips the scales at 4 1/2 pounds, which means 48 cents in postage, at book rates. The packages in which the yearbooks will be mailed cost $170, bringing the total cost of mailing to nearly $800. When mailing is completed, there will still be 1000 unclaimed books left in storage. The students paid $9 per copy for the yearbook, and will spend at least another $800 to get rid of them.

It has been said that up to 1500 copies of the 71-72 Les Bois were burned last year, because no one wanted them. It cost the students $13,500 to print the books that were burned.

One half of the 4000 books printed were picked up by students. Three hundred of those books went to people who were seniors last year, some of whom could be receiving a second book soon. After ordering mailing labels for every graduate, Bittick now says he will check the list of students who picked up yearbooks to assure that graduates who already have a yearbook don't receive another.

It is reported that the Varsity Center has received yearbooks "hand over fist." Also, Lee Dowdle is reported to have given them to "friends, associates, and anyone else who would take them."

Now Doug Shanholtz has promised the students a yearbook of 'good' quality for $4 per copy. Shanholtz's bargain includes a $8000 reduction in printing costs, and no operating budget for the yearbook staff. No formal contract with the publishing company has yet been signed.

At Tuesday's Senate meeting, Doug Shanholtz reported that Bittick is now preparing to use last year's individual pictures in this year's Les Bois. He will be using the 1300 earlier photos because only 350 students had pictures taken during spring registration.

Just some of the many yearbooks stacked up in storage waiting for BSC students to pick them up

Theatre Arts plans festival January 24-26

The Boise State College Theatre Arts Department is sponsoring their annual Theatre Arts Festival January 24, 25, 26. The Festival will be held on the campus of Boise State College and will offer a variety of activities.

The idea behind the Festival is to interest graduating high school seniors to attend Boise State College to further their education. High school students from all over the state of Idaho will be in attendance.

The winners in the various competitions will be offered scholarships to Boise State for the 74-75 year.

Spring registration lacks long lines

Last week 10,000 people filed through the BSC Gym to register for spring classes. Usually registration at BSC is marked by long, long lines, followed by more long lines. This time, however, the most noticeable thing about registration was the lack of lines.

Explanations as to why this registration session ran so smoothly are unlimited. Nearly everyone has his own opinion about what contributed most to the operation. Some people credit an increase in the amount of time devoted to registration. They claim that spreading people out over a longer period of time reduces frustration, and allows more time for individual attention.

One official attributed the success to the fact that most people had registered here before and now understand the system.

Still others credit the cold weather with keeping away long lines and resulting in a steady flow of people instead of a stampede.

Whatever the cause, the results are perfectly clear. This was one of the most pleasant registration sessions in recent years. Everyone associated with the program should be congratulated.

It is rather ironic that this particular registration session should have run so smoothly. For the past several months work has been progressing on a proposal to replace the current registration system with a system of advanced registration. A survey conducted during the fall semester showed that an overwhelming majority of students and faculty favored an advance registration system.

Now, after such a successful registration session, the future of the advanced registration system seems to be a little darker. The report of the committee which has been studying the question was presented to the College's Executive Council Tuesday. The report received what has been described as a "cool" reception. The Executive Council referred the report to the faculty and student senates for their consideration.

If the committee's recommendation to go ahead with the advanced registration system receives the support it is expected to, the proposal will certainly be adopted.

If, however, the proposal is discarded or postponed because of this one successful registration session, students may well find themselves standing back in long, long lines next fall.

Student accuses profs of needless expense

Editor, the Arbiter,

I went to buy my books today, and I was simply shocked at how much they cost. I know you're supposed to buy your books before classes begin, but I waited until I went to class. And it's a good thing I did.

One of my professors had a big, long list of books I was supposed to buy. But when I went to class I found out I didn't need all those books. I have a funny feeling that the professors don't want us to really use those books. They just make us buy them for no reason at all. A lot of us students just don't have the money for all those books.

And another thing. The high cost of books is simply appalling. Why, I had to pay nearly $40 for books this semester. Now don't get me wrong. I'm not saying those books weren't worth the money I spent. All I'm saying is with the energy crisis and all I just can't afford to pay that much for books. And I don't even use a lot of them.

I know this sounds like I'm making a mountain out of a mole-hill, but I think this is a serious problem for all Boise State pupils.

Bunny Fox.

Energy office probes big oil profits

WASHINGTON - The federal energy office has announced an investigation into oil profits.

Rather than wait for the results, we have conducted our own investigation. We have talked to sources inside the big oil companies and managed to obtain corporate papers which were never intended to be read outside the executive suits. Here are our findings:

The oil companies definitely have squeezed higher profits for themselves from the oil shortage. For example, the Persian Gulf countries have increased their oil income by doubling the taxes and royalties from three dollars to seven dollars a barrel.

The oil companies, however, are permitted to charge off these payments, dollar for dollar, against their U.S. taxes. Then the companies add the foreign tax to the price of the oil. In other words, the consumers really pay the overseas tax increase, but the companies take credit for it on their U.S. returns.

The oil companies have also used the shortage as an excuse to cut back some of the products that aren't too profitable. The oil industry produces around 3,000 products, some of them vital to other industries. Now oil companies are channeling the available oil into the products that make the most money for themselves.

The majors are also closing their less profitable gas stations and putting the squeeze on independently-owned stations. This means the oil shortage will wind up increasing the profits that the big companies get from their retail outlets.

So far, the oil shortage has been a bonanza for most companies. Only their customers are hurting.

DELICATE STAGE: The Arab-Israeli talks have now reached a crucial juncture. The Israelis have offered to pull back about 18 miles from the Suez Canal into the Sinai mountain passes. In return, they want the canal reopened and the towns along its banks resettled. This would be insurance, the Israelis feel, against a renewed Egyptian attack.

The Egyptians, however, have refused any "partial settlement."

They will accept the Israeli offer only if it is tied to a timetable for total Israeli withdrawal from Egyptian lands. The Egyptians want to go back to the border that existed before the 1967 war.

Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan flew to Washington to win U.S. support. Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy flew to Moscow to win support.

But in the strictest secrecy, Fahmy has informed Secretary of State Henry Kissinger that the Egyptians would rather not work too closely with their Soviet allies.

The Soviets, for example, wanted a seat on the military working group which is trying to separate the Egyptian and Israeli forces on the Suez-Sinai front. Fahmy confided to Kissinger that Egypt didn't want the Soviets on the working group.

It will take delicate diplomacy, meanwhile, to achieve a settlement. But Kissinger privately is optimistic.

CRACK IN LATIN LEFT: The overthrow of Salvador Allende's Marxist regime in Chile has thrown the leftist movement throughout Latin America into a tizzy.

Secret intelligence reports quote Cuba's Fidel Castro as calling Allende a weakling and blaming his timid leadership for the downfall of Marxism in Chile. Allende's failure, Castro has said, only confirms his own convictions that a Marxist revolution is impossible without mass mobilization and a complete crack-down on the opposition.

But other Latin American leftists, according to the intelligence reports, have bitterly blamed Castro for letting down the Allende regime. They have complained that the Soviet Union also backed off when Allende needed support.

Increasingly, the leftist movement in Latin America is sharply split between the regular Communists who follow the Moscow line and the splinter groups. These range from extremists and terrorists to moderate socialists.

The anti-Soviet leftists look upon Castro as a Kremlin lackey. They believe Cuba has fallen under the influence of Moscow until it no longer supports revolutionary movements for the sake of reform but merely carries out Soviet policy in Latin America.

WATERGATE WHIRLPOOL: Some of our most respected government agencies have been caught in the Watergate whirlpool. The central Intelligence Agency became a cover for laundrying campaign cash in Mexico. The former FBI director destroyed incriminating evidence in his fireplace. The Secret Service has been accused of ordering millions of dollars worth of improvements on President Nixon's private homes.

But the agency which has been hurt the most - and the one that can least afford it - is the Internal Revenue Service. The American people pay their taxes on the honor system. We suffer in silence on the assumption everyone else is doing the same.

Over the past year, however, we have learned that the President got away with paying less taxes than the average working family. Anyone else who had virtually wiped out his taxes with huge deductions would have been subjected to a thorough audit. Yet all Nixon received was a whitewash.

Now the President has invited a joint congressional committee to review his taxes. Our sources inside the IRS say this made the agency nervous. Fearing congressional sleuths might find something its own agents had missed, the IRS hastily ordered a reaudit of the President's tax returns.

Our sources say the agents are taking a particularly close look at the financing of Nixon's San Clemente estate. The President bought the estate with money loaned to him by his millionaire friend, Robert Abplanalp, who canceled the debt in return for a deed to a part of the property. Yet the President wound up with the most valuable section and he has been using Abplanalp's portion rent-free.

Our sources confide that the President is almost sure to have to pay some back taxes.

BOISE STATE COLLEGE LIBRARY

Senate approves $12,000 for 1974 annuals

Last spring the ASBSC senate voted to refrain from producing a 1973-74 edition of the Boise State yearbook, the Les Bois. At that time members of the senate, faced with severe budget restrictions, felt such action was the best course open to them. Public support for the yearbook was at an all time low. The previous year, 1971-72, the Editor of the Les Bois, Richard Tackman, had experimented with a radically new yearbook format. To say that most BSC students were not pleased with his approach would be an understatement of monumental proportions. The Les Bois was received so poorly that only half of the $4,000 copies were picked up by students. The remaining 2,000 copies were reportedly destroyed.

This year, after the first semester had almost passed, many students began clamoring for a yearbook. In response to their wishes, ASB President Doug Shanholtz started the ball rolling for a 73-74 yearbook. His efforts ended in success last month when the senate approved a budget of $12,000 for the Les Bois.

As the newly revived yearbook began to take shape, the Arbiter staff decided to check up on the success of last year's yearbook. In doing so, it became increasingly apparent that the 72-73 yearbook has been received as poorly as the "notorious" 71-72 edition. Only one half of the 4,000 yearbooks have been claimed by the students who paid for them. Translated into dollars, that means that around $18,000 of the student money is setting idle in a warehouse.

But that is not the worst of it. Plans are now underway to mail over a thousand copies of the books to last year's graduates at a cost of $800: despite the fact that around 325 of them have already picked up a year book. Also, well-founded reports of wholesale give-aways of the expensive books are prevalent and apparently true.

The danger that this year's yearbook will end up in the same way as the past year's editions appears great, unless a few student leaders take the time to make sure that the money they have been charged with is not dumped down the same drain.

With Ron Hendren
A YOUNG VIEW OF WASHINGTON

The disease of credit consumption.

WASHINGTON — Last week this column suggested that one of the real culprits at the bottom of the nation's present energy crisis is credit consumption.

modern inconveniences," Mark Twain called them decades before).

Few people realize the speed with which living on borrowed money became acceptable, even praiseworthy, in our society. As late as 1956 Merriam-Webster defined credit as "Reliance on the truth . . . belief; faith." By 1963 the primary meaning had changed to read "time given for payment for goods or services. . ."

These new energy users combined with a growing population to place astonishingly accelerating demands on the nation's and the world's energy supplies, once thought to be nearly bottomless. And even though our present dilemma was predicted years ago, the emphasis remained on producing more and more energy-using goods and services, not on dealing with the fuel crisis our credit-heavy economy was heading for all along.

But the real loser was the American consumer who has been hoodwinked into believing that it makes sense to go into debt for virtually everything from a trip to Spain to an electric back scratcher. And although one well-known advertisement jingle begins "Never borrow money needlessly," Americans are nonetheless exhorted from every quarter and in countless suggestive ways to hock their futures for goods and services they do not need with money they do not have. Indeed, their own President, who speaks out strongly against deficit spending in government, sets an altogether different example on the personal level by borrowing more than $600,000, in a manner that has caused his judgement to be questioned, to purchase a California retreat.

Perhaps the energy crisis we now are forced to face will cause us to come to our senses, to fold, spindle and mutilate our computerized payment books, tear up our credit cards and stop indulging in deficit spending and 18 percent interest rates. If so, the mental well being of us all would be benefitted and perhaps our government might even follow suit — for some strange reason, politicians seem to be listening more and more to their constituents these days.

Only seven years lapsed between the publication of these two books. The striking difference between the definitions tells a story of the battle between a society's insatiable appetite for increased goods and services versus the value it once gave to individual independence and self-reliance.

Of course, instant gratification won and the advent of easy credit provided a ready market for the products — from electric knives and trash mashers to power-everything automobiles — made possible by America's rapidly advancing technology. The booming market meant companies put even more money into research, producing products that were increasingly bizarre ("All the

Reader criticizes bus riders

Editor, the Arbiter:

Boise is too large not to have a public transportation system. We are in the process of forming one. However, if we do not wise up, we will not have one long.

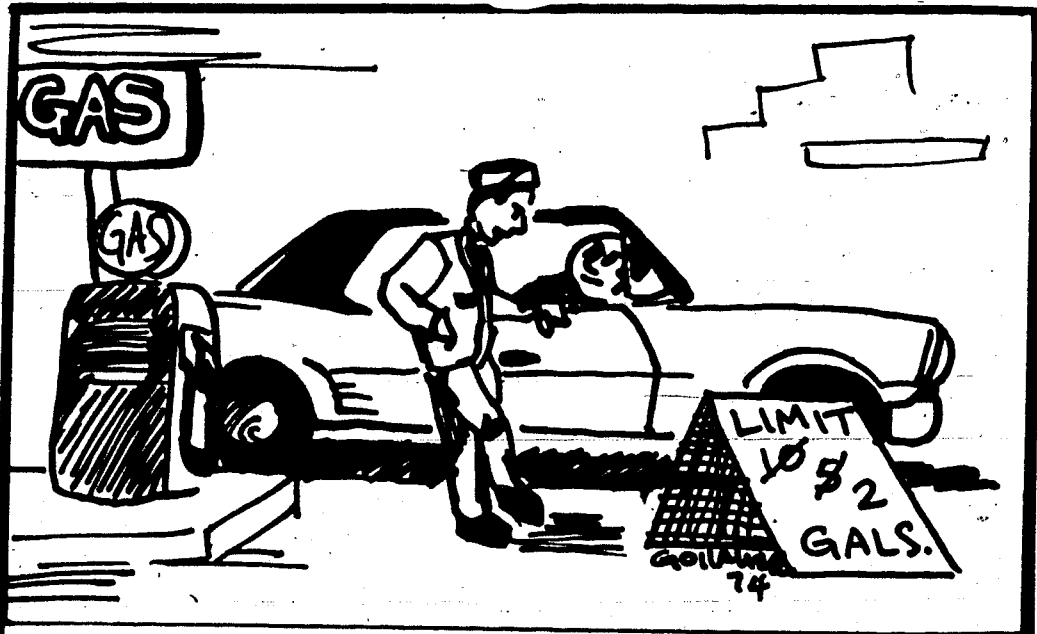

I ride the bus to and from work each day. There has not been one day in which at least one adult, supposedly executive-type male, has not harassed the Latah-Vista driver. The drivers, at least on that route, have got to have the patience of Job. They are continuously being subjected to verbal abuse and criticism about their driving ability. Such remarks as "Hey, Buddy — Not down this street," and "Hey, you missed one!" place the driver in a position of trying to satisfy dozens of back-seat drivers. Anyone who has ever taken advise from a passenger in a vehicle knows that this is impossible. These drivers, however, in an attempt to please their customers, try very hard to comply with such directives. This often results in bus drivers having to make more than one stop per block. This results in buses running behind schedule, increases possibility of accidents, and makes it extremely difficult for their fellow riders to make transfers to other buses.

There should be only one bus stop on each block. This would eliminate the need for the bus to stop more than once, sometimes as many as three times, on each block.

Perhaps the bus company should import some bus drivers from places like New York, Portland, or Seattle. If this were to happen, our bus system would change for the better. This would force the people of Boise to be polite and a little more thoughtful to the bus driver and their fellow passengers.

Late fees

The burn, the shaft, or whatever you will

by Katrina Brown

Pay up, and keep paying, it's the story of college life! To even get in the door at registration one has to make sure that library and parking fines from the previous semester are paid. After gaining entrance to the gym and filling out all the forms, be prepared to shell out nearly $200 in assorted fees, plus another dollar to reserve a parking space in the stadium parking lot. Then there's books...

And if you weren't fortunate enough to have cash on hand the day you registered, or you weren't able to make it to the bank by then, don't expect to get off easy. According to the spring semester class schedule "NO CREDIT OR DEFERRED PAYMENTS WILL BE AUTHORIZED." The penalty for paying late, even though it involves no extra work for computer or human, is five dollars (%5.00).

At least that's what they charged me last Monday, January 14, when I went to the cashier's office to pay my fees. The cashier informed me this was traditional policy, but I have never been asked to pay such a fee before, and I've paid after registration was officially over a number of times.

It had been my understanding that there is a certain period of grace after registration before a late fee is charged. Indeed, reference to this period of grace is made in the same paragraph to which Dean of Admissions, Guy Hunt, referred me when he tried to justify the cashier's charging me the $5.00 late fee:

"If a student does not pay his registration costs in full at this time (station 7) his registration packet will be retained by the cashier. If payment in full is not received within one (1) class day of registration, his packet will be returned to the Admissions Office where it will be stripped and class cards released for drop-add use. Students desiring to register after this time must reacquire class cards and pay a late fee." (Spring Semester Registration Bulletin, p.4)

On the day I registered, January 10, the cashier told me I could pay without penalty until 4:00 pm of the following Monday, January 14. About noon of this day, which also happened to be the first day of class, I paid Boise State College $178 in registration fees plus a $5 "late fee." My registration packet had not been returned to the Admissions Office and it was not necessary for me to "reacquire class cards." An attempt was then made to justify the charge by citing a passage which clearly allows a period of grace in paying registration fees.

I want my $5 back.

TKE's plan ski trip

Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity is planning their Second Annual Winter Fling at Bogus Basin Ski Area. The event is scheduled for February 12, Lincoln's birthday. Price of the ticket includes bus transportation to the area, night skiing, reduced rental rates on equipment, dinner, and a dance with live music. There will be several contests for skiers to compete in such as an obstacle race and a hot dog competition to be judged by ski instructors from Boise and Salt Lake.

Tickets will be available at the Sub Information booth next week. As only 500 tickets are available it would be wise to purchase them as soon as possible. Price of the tickets is $6.00, which includes everything. Door prizes of ski equipment will be given away by local merchants at the dance and to contest winners.

The cashiers rake it in at registration.

Proposed initiative insures appearance

At an executive meeting of the Idaho College Republicans League last Saturday, it was decided to prepare an initiative for a presidential preference primary to coincide with Oregon's primary date. Representatives from Boise State and the University of Idaho CR's will present the initiative to the 1973 Legislature which would bring a voice to Idaho voters in the national conventions. National Presidential Candidates will enter the state to campaign prior to the Idaho-Oregon primaries enabling Idaho residents to get a clearer picture of the national race.

The Idaho College Republicans plan to implement the initiative action which if approved will be brought to the ballot in the November elections as a petition for a referendum. A number of signatures will be required for the initiative prior to the election and will be gathered by the CR's of Idaho.

BLT holds stage manager workshop

Boise Little Theater held an all day stage manager workshop Saturday, January 12th. The doors opened to the public at 9:00 am and the program began at 9:30 am. There is no admission.

In charge of the B.L.T. workshop were Mrs. David (Kay) Stowell and Mrs. Mathys (Pam) Abas, Co-Chairmen of the Development Committee. Mrs. Stowell said, "Many times it is believed the stage manager is a set builder and general handyman. Certainly, he is these, but only a part of his many duties. The purpose of our Saturday Workshop was to emphasize that stage management is not restricted to men and that it does not just involve carpentry. Its mechanics, technical aspects, assignments, and duties were discussed and shown."

Opening speaker was Dr. William Shankweiler, Boise State College Associate Dean of the School of Arts and Sciences. He discussed stage management from the director's point of view. Main morning guest speaker was Dr. Charles Lauterbach, who is in the Drama Department of Boise State College.

There was a sack lunch break at 12:00 noon until 1:15 pm.

List of E-102 books and profs available

If you plan to take E-102 (English Comp) this semester but don't know how to choose among all those sections, the English Department may have some help for you. They have printed a list of all E-102 instructors and the books they plan to use so you can get some idea of what to expect in each section. Several instructors have also provided brief descriptions of their approach to reading and writing in their sections, along with the kind of assignments they will require. For a copy of the list, see Mrs. Jacobs in the English Department (LA 201). All members of the English faculty also have copies and will be glad to share them with you.

Senate meets new year with four committees

The first student senate meeting of the new semester was full of decisive action. The senate established four committees, and issued three directives.

Treasurer Tom Moore presented the above financial statement to the senate. He said that he plans to present a statement monthly, and that "financially, things look pretty good for us right now."

The senate, hoping to avoid the budget hassles of last year, has set dates for budget hearings. They will be determining budget priorities at the January 29 meeting.

Jon Rand told the senate that student government has been operating illegally for years. He was told by an attorney that the ASBSC constitution requires that all students serving in student government must have a GPA of 2.25. Rand said, "If this was enforced, a hell of a lot of people would be cut out of student government involvement."

The senate approved Doug Shanholtz three appointments to student government positions. Owen Krahn is the new Public Relations Director for the ASBSC, Bruce McCain was appointed to the Curriculum Committee, and Lloyd Herod to the Academic Standards Committee.

During the discussion to approve the appointment Ron Ellsworth said that he heard "through the grapevine" that it would be a mistake to approve McCain's appointment. When asked, he knew of no other reason to deny the appointment.

Greg Brown was the only senator to not make it back from winter break. Shanholtz is now looking for a replacement for the resigning Business senator.

Registration to change at Boise State College

by Ron Wilper

The long line in front of the gym at registration may be a thing of the past if the executive council accepts a recommendation to proceed with development of an advanced registration system at Boise State.

A twelve page report was submitted to the council by the ad hoc registration committee headed by Dr. Charles Davis. The committee was formed at the request of the executive council in October 1972.

The committee studied student and faculty opinion and evaluated proposed advantages of the new system. According to Dr. Davis, "The new system would be a great thing for Boise State College."

Dr. Davis said an advanced registration system would allow the administration to react to what the students want. "They wouldn't be herded around like cattle anymore."

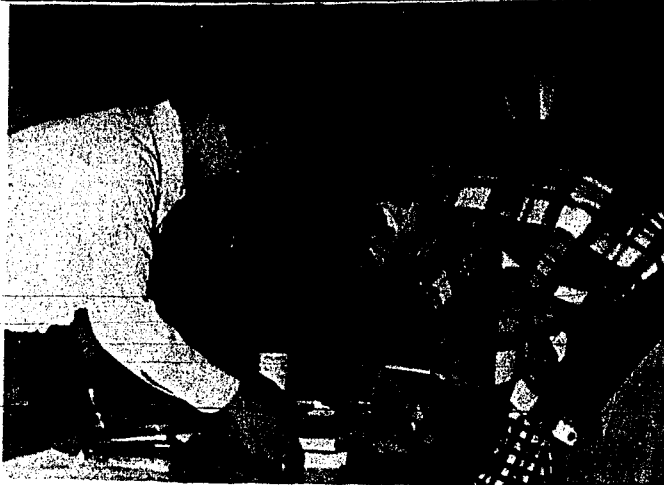

Dr. Richard E. Bullington, Executive Vice President said, "Under an advanced registration system the student would know his schedule prior to the start of the next semester." He believes it would cut down on a great deal of confusion and schedule changing during registration. Another advantage of the proposed new system is that students could spend more time with their advisors before filling out their schedules. "In a two day period we just can't advise 10,000 students," Bullington said.

Both Davis and Bullington indicated that they are very much in favor of the new advanced system. "The committee has worked hard," Davis said, "Now we have a good solid base to build on." "But," he added, "Unless it's carefully prepared we could be damn sorry."

Dr. Bullington feels that Boise State should, "make the change now before we're a huge institution of higher learning." He said the executive council would investigate very thoroughly before the new system could actually be implemented.

The men said it would be at least Fall 1975 before the system could conceivably be ready but, as Dr. Bullington pointed out, there's no guarantee that the executive council will agree to the new system at all. "If not," he said, "we'll concentrate on revising the present system."

Again this year members of the Intercollegiate Knights are conducting a used book sale in the Student Union Building.

Positions for minority program now open

The Office of Vice-President for Student Affairs would like to announce that applications are available for three (3) positions of "Student Assistant in Minority Affairs". These positions will be under the general framework of Student Personnel Services at Boise State College working out of the Student Advisory and Special Services Office.

General responsibilities for each position will be: (1) work with minority, handicapped, and disadvantaged students in areas of orientation and adjustment to the College environment; (2) serve as a resource person (information, liason contact, referral agent, etc.) for minority/disadvantaged students and their problems; (3) serve as a resource person for Student Personnel Services staff to keep them aware of needs, concerns, problems, etc. of minority/disadvantaged students, and (4) assist with research, surveys, and other studies related to minority and disadvantaged students.

All students (male or female) who have an interest in these positions are urged to apply. The following minimum qualifications must be met in order to be eligible for consideration: (1) experience in working with minority groups and/or minority programs; (2) enrolled as a full-time student and possessing a cumulative GPA of 2.00 or better; and (3) eligible for assistance through student work-study program. The student will be expected to work from 10-15 hours per week and will be reimbursed at the student work rate of $2.50 per hour.

Applications for the position of "Student Assistant in Minority Affairs" may be secured from Boise State College, Career and Financial Services Office, Room 117-Administration Building. We would like to make final selections by January 31, 1974.

Deciphering and nutrition classes offered

Would you like to learn how to decipher secret messages? Boise State has the solution for you. Dr. Keith Ekblaw's fascination with language secrecy inspired him to develop a class on the art of writing and deciphering secret codes. This class is listed as M-297, Codes and Ciphers, and will be taught by Dr. Ekblaw during the spring semester in the Extended Day Program.

Another new class offered in the same program is HE-497, Nutrition and according to Dr. Polly Moore of the Home Economics department, will be taught by Joyce Tanimoto. Joyce has her Master's degree from the University of California and has worked for the United States Agriculture Department.

Nutrition is a subject that has aroused considerable interest recently because of the fact that so many of our young people are suffering from malnutrition. The unusual angle on this condition is that these individuals are not from the poverty-stricken class but are members of affluent families, the cola-snack clan.

Television has become aware of their commercials and the appeal to young people of all ages. A few days ago, I saw a new type commercial being slanted to the very young and instead of "selling snacks" the commercial was emphasizing the advantages of a well-balanced meal.

Self-defense at YWCA

A discovery of the high incidence of rape—about one per week—in Boise has prompted the Boise YWCA to offer a course in self-defense for women. A graduate of the class will not be skilled in the art of Judo or Karate; the course is designed simply to teach a woman how to free herself from an attacker.

The course will begin January 21, and will be held every Monday night from 7:30 p.m to 9:30 p.m. for the next five weeks. The six lessons cost $10 and will be held in Room 109 of the YWCA, 720 Washington Street.

Robert Rudrine, instructor, advises participants to dress in pants and other loose clothing. Women may register the first night of the class.

Havent you had enough of big brother government offering paternalism with one hand while screwing you with the other?

EXAMPLE: Wage/price controls were implemented with the naive hope that they would force wages and prices downward. All controls have done are create shortages, unemployment, black markets and destroyed your basic right to negotiate the wage for which you are willing to work and the price for which you are willing to sell your product.

EXAMPLE: The Watergate revelations provide Americans with dramatic proof of Lord Acton's axiom, "Power tends to corrupt; absolute power corrupts absolutely." The massive concentration of political and economic power in the government has turned America's Republican form of government into a squalid national oligarchy. Given this situation the fact of Watergate should not be surprising, nor is the likelihood of further Watergates caused by politicians and special interests lusting after big brother's paternalistic favors.

WE HATE TO BE AN "I TOLD YOU SO" BUT Young Americans for Freedom had the economic wisdom to oppose wage/price controls from the outset. Since our inception in 1960 we have been involved in the constant battle to preserve our liberty by staving off demands for more governmental control over our personal lives.

The Foreign Films committee presents Seven Samurai (The Magnificent Seven) Friday, January 18 at 8:00 p.m. in LA 106. Admission is FREE!

Foreign Films shows 'The Seven Samurai'

The BSC foreign film committee would like to welcome the students back to another good year for foreign films. We start the spring term with SEVEN SAMURAI (THE MAGNIFICENT SEVEN). Winner of the Venice Film Festival, SEVEN SAMURAI is one of the greatest films in the career of Akira Kurosawa. It is a successful blending of elements from American westerns and gangster films into the classic Japanese samurai movie. In a sense, SEVEN SAMURAI may be considered the definitive "eastern-western". This epic tale, however, is more than an exciting adventure film. It is also a moving and compassionate drama of men fighting to protect their way of life, no matter what compromises they may have to make.

This film will be playing this Friday, January 18, 8:00 p.m., in L.A. 106. "It is not only director Kurosawa's most vital picture, it is also perhaps the best Japanese film ever made."

Music Department continues series

The Music Department of Boise State College has announced the continuation of their Faculty Recital Series following the semester break.

This fourth recital of the series will feature George Thomason, guitar, and Daniel Russell, piano.

Mr. Russell is an Assistant Professor of Music, and teaches conducting and directs several of the BSC vocal ensembles. Mr. Thomason serves as a Special Lecturer in Guitar, a position he also holds at the College of Idaho and Northwest Nazarene College.

Mr. Thomason will be joined by Susan Norell, flute, William Hsu, viola, and John Best, cello, in a performance of Schubert's GUITAR QUARTET, OP. 21.

This recital will be held in the Music Auditorium on Friday evening, Jan. 18, at 8:15 p.m. Season tickets will be honored, and single admissions may be purchased at the door.

Governor Andrus recommends academic gains in State of the State speech

In his State of the State message Monday, Governor Andrus called for a reappraisal of the significance of higher education and recommended "substantial gains in both the academic and physical needs of our college and university campuses."

Andrus also introduced a proposal to combine the resources of Oregon State University, Washington State University and the University of Idaho in order to establish a School of Veterinary Medicine. He said this joint effort would ease the shortage of classrooms in that field at a fraction of the cost.

The implementation of a state-financed scholarship program for higher education was urged by Andrus. Initially the program would provide twenty-five $1,500 scholarships each year for four years, and ultimately reach a maximum of 100 scholarships. Recipients would be selected on the basis of academic ability only, and scholarships could be used at any accredited Idaho institution of higher learning.

In public education, Andrus asked for an increase in state aid, and questioned the legislature's "reluctance" to establish kindergartens. Citing the success of Child Development Centers in Lewiston and Idaho Falls, he recommended that the program be expanded to cover the entire state on a voluntary basis. This would include auditory, visual, dental, and developmental tests, as well as tests for anemia and an assessment of physical growth.

Andrus said he "strongly favored" wilderness designation for Idaho lands already so categorized, but added that the use of Idaho's rich natural resources is being hampered by the conflict over a roadless areas which the federal government is currently considering categorizing as wilderness. Many of these roadless areas obviously "do not meet the high qualifications of wilderness," he said, and recommended that they be studied, and then released "for commercial timber harvest or the use of other resources they contain."

On other environmental issues Andrus recommended passage of four land use planning bills which emphasize local land use control. He also asked the legislators to delay enactment of minimum stream flow legislation until a study has been completed by the Idaho Water Resource Board and the Fish and Game Commission. Until the courts decide whether the 1971 Stream Channel Protection law applies to lakes as well as streams Andrus advised against any new legislation.

Daylight Saving Time was termed "a dilemma yet to be resolved," and the governor told the lawmakers "Your decision will not meet with widespread public support regardless of what you decide."

Creative variety for those end of the month food blues

By Frances Brown

Here are some main dishes to add variety to your cooking:

BARBECUED RIBS

1½-2 lbs. country-style ribs (pork) or beef short ribs. Arrange the ribs in a shallow pan. Bake for 1 hour at 325 degrees F. Drain liquid from the ribs; turn the ribs and bake ½ hour longer. Drain any additional fat from the pan and then pour the following barbecue sauce over the ribs and roast for an additional half-hour.

SAUCE

- ½ cup sliced onions
- ½ cup catsup
- ½ cup water
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1 Tbsp. Worcestershire sauce
- 2 Tbsp. cider vinegar
- 2 Tbsp. brown sugar
- 1 tsp. dry mustard

Cook the sliced onions in a tablespoon of fat until tender but not brown; add other ingredients and cook for a few minutes until well blended. Set sauce aside and reheat when the ribs are ready to be basted with the sauce. A couple of times during the final roasting, spoon or baste the sauce from the pan over the tops of the ribs. A tossed green salad and crusty french bread will make a meal with these ribs.

SLIM PICKINS' SPECIAL

- ½ lb. frankfurters, cut diagonally in ½ inch slices
- 2 medium potatoes, cooked, peeled, sliced
- ¼ cup finely chopped onion
- ½ can drained canned peas
- 1 can (10½ oz.) condensed celery soup
- ¾ cup milk
- 1 Tbsp. prepared mustard
- Shredded cheese or buttered bread crumbs.

Combine soup, milk, onion, and mustard in a saucepan and heat. In greased 1½ quart casserole, arrange alternate layers of potatoes, soup mixture and sliced frankfurters. Top with buttered bread crumbs and/or shredded cheese as you prefer. Place in heated oven and bake covered at 350 degrees F. for 30 minutes. Serves 2-3. This would make a meal served with celery and carrot sticks, fresh fruit and an oatmeal cookie.

BSC HASH

- 1 lb. frozen hash-brown potatoes
- 1 12-oz. can corned beef
- 1 small onion diced (¼-½ cup)
- Shortening or bacon fat
- 1 tsp. salt
- dash of pepper
- 2 Tbsp. diced green pepper (optional)
- ½ cup evaporated milk

Heat skillet with 3 Tbsp. of fat; add potatoes, green pepper, onion, salt and pepper and fry at a medium heat, stirring the mixture over with a spatula frequently so that it cooks and browns evenly. When the potatoes are almost done (this will take at least 20 minutes), open the can of corned beef, breaking it up with a fork into small pieces and add it to the potato mixture. Pour milk over the mixture and cover tightly, cooking over a very low heat for 15 minutes. Uncover, increase the heat and cook a few minutes longer until crusty on the bottom. Loosen from the skillet with a spatula and serve. (3-4 servings). For a complete dinner, serve a coleslaw salad, dill pickles, rolls and a gelatin fruit salad.

MEAT LOAF

- 2 lbs. ground beef
- 1½ cups soft bread crumbs
- ¾ cup milk
- 1 envelope dry onion soup mix
- 2 eggs
- 1 can (4 oz.) mushroom stems & pieces (drained)
- ¼ cup catsup
- 1 tsp. salt
- dash of pepper

Pour milk over bread crumbs. Add remaining ingredients and mix thoroughly. Pack into 9x5-inch loaf pan. Bake at 350 degrees F. for at least an hour. Medium-sized baking potatoes may be baked at the same time (can be tested by pricking with a fork for doneness).

The 'Adding Machine' opens January 24

Elmer Rice's expressive fantasy, "The Adding Machine," opens for ten performances on January 24 at 8:15 p.m. in the Subal Theatre. Students may purchase tickets beginning January 17 at the Subal ticket office or by calling

Women cagers introduced

The women's varsity basketball team travels to Eastern Oregon State College Saturday to open up the 1974 cage season. Game time is set for 2:00 pm.

Connie Thorngren, the BSC women's coach says her players are "working real hard and look very good."

Three seniors return for the Broncos. Penny Gillaspay, Jayne Vari Wassenhove and Ginger Waters will form the starting nucleus.

This year the coeds will have two women over 6-0 who will alternate at the center position. Betty Will (6-2) and Elaine Godfrey (6-1) are both freshmen and will particularly asset the women on the boards.

The team has no juniors, but four sophomores will bolster the ranks. DeAnne Brower, a transfer from Idaho State, will be joined by returnees Cindy Fralick, Connie Coulter and Maureen Hirai. Rounding out the team are freshmen Kendra Falen, Elaine Elliott and Rosie Brower.

Thorngren decided Northwest Nazarene College will be the strongest in local competition while Ricks College is the biggest threat in tournament action.

"We have a lot of outstanding people and it looks as though this is going to be our best year ever," Thorngren said.

Colts make clean sweep, Binder is barn burner

The BSC Colts meet the Treasure Valley Community College Chuckars today at 5:45 pm.

According to freshman basketball coach Mike Montgomery, "TVCC really hustles and can do a lot of different things."

The Colts, who have won their last three games in a row, lost Rip Walker to an ankle injury. Walker is expected to be out for at least two weeks.

Because of the injury, Montgomery will reorganize the offense for the TVCC game.

"We will use Kevin Humphrey at the low post position and Ed Chontos at the high post in order to make up for the loss of Walker," Montgomery said.

Chris Binder and Kip Newell teamed up for 20 and 17 points respectively to rake the College of Idaho 74-59 last Thursday. Then Ed Chontos picked up 19 points the next night which saw four Colts indouble figures to pace the BSC squad to an 85-81 victory over Northwest Nazarene College in Nampa. Binder was hot on the nets in that game for 14 points, Randy Hayes added 13 and Kip Newell rounded out the double figures with 12.

The next meeting with the Crusader Jayvees saw the Colts dump them 70-56. Binder had another good night with 15 points, but it was Chontos, the 6-8 forward from Hobart, Indiana who carried the Colts to the victory with a total of 17 points. Binder is a 6-3 guard from Ontario, Oregon.

The Colts are 4-2 on the season.

Judoists place high in tourney

Three BSC students placed first in a judo tournament January 12 at the Boise Valley Judo Club in Caldwell, Idaho.

Those places were earned by John Gregory - lightweight Brown and Black Belt division, Tom Hauser - heavyweight senior White Belt division, and Don Davis - heavyweight Brown and Black Belt division.

The Judo team is currently preparing for the Northwest Collegiate Judo Championship to be held at BSC March 9.

Boise has won the event three of the last four years, placing second last season at Washington State.

Loggers play in BSC gym tonight

For the first time in over two weeks, the Boise State Bronco basketball team steps out of league action when they host the University of Puget Sound Loggers Thursday, January 17, at 8 pm.

Boise State now has a 7-5 season record and are 3-1 in the Big Sky after last weekend. On Thursday they defeated Northern Arizona 73-65 and Saturday dropped a 66-49 decision to Weber State.

Coach Don Zech's Loggers come to Boise with a 5-9 record with one of those wins over a Big Sky school. They beat Montana 59-58 in Tacoma. Their most recent win was over George Fox 81-65.

"Puget Sound has some fine players back and they have always played well against us," commented Bronco head coach Bus Connor. The veterans on the Logger team are junior Fred Cain and senior Sam May. Cain is the team's leading scorer at 15.9 ppg while May is averaging 7.5 points per game. Cain is getting 6.9 rebounds per game to lead the squad.

One of the biggest helps to the Loggers this year has been the play of freshman center David Johnson. Johnson is averaging 11.8 ppg and pulling down five rebounds per encounter.

Connor said that he will start Terry Miller and Clyde Dickey at the guards for the Broncos with George Wilson and Maurice Buckingham at forwards. Pat Hoke and Jim Keyes will be working this week for the starting center spot.

Commenting on the recent Big Sky road trip, Connor said, "Basically we did what we set out to do - split on the road. In other years that would be a great accomplishment, but six of the eight conference games this past week were won by the visiting school.

"We played well enough against Northern Arizona to win and played well at times against Weber State. We had our chances in the first half, but we just couldn't capitalize on those chances," he said.

"Clyde Dickey had a great effort against Weber State," Connor added. "Right up to the end of the game he was working hard," Connor said. George Wilson was also nine of twelve from the field for the Weber State game.

In a preliminary game Thursday night, the Boise State Colts will meet Treasure Valley Community College at 5:45 pm. The Colts, 4-2 on the year, won three straight games last week.

BSC shares second place in conference, split pair on road with NAU and Weber Splitting a pair of games on the road last weekend dropped the Boise State cagers into a second place tie with Gonzaga in the Big Sky Conference standings.

BSC drubbed the Northern Arizona University Axers 73-65 in Flagstaff, then had the tables turned on Saturday night when defending league champion Weber State held off the Broncos 66-49 in Ogden, Utah.

Cross-state rival Idaho State University leads the conference with a perfect 4-0 season mark while BSC and Gonzaga are each 3-1. Weber State and Montana State are even at 2-2 thus far and Montana and Idaho both have 1-3 records. NAU holds down the cellar spot with an 0-4 showing.

Fouls and turnovers plagued the Axers as the Broncos shot a torrid 62 percent from the field on 24 of 39 while NAU had 30 of 69 for 43 percent.

Strong Athletes in Action squad challenges Boise State Friday

What could be the best competition of the year is on deck for the Boise State wrestling team when they host Athletes in Action Friday night at 7:30 pm in the Bronco gym.

Boise State is now 4-1 in dual meet competition after defeating Weber State 25-14 last Saturday night in Ogden. Athletes in Action is 7-2 on the year.

It will be a full night of wrestling in the Bronco gym. Athletes in Action will have a clinic from 5 pm to 6 pm followed by three matches going at the same time from 6 pm until 7:30 pm.

Borah High of Boise will wrestle Pocatello, Capitol of Boise will go against Highland High School and Boise State's second team will face the College of Idaho. All of those matches will be run at the same time in the gym.

The Boise State first team will then face Athletes in Action at 7:30 pm.

"Athletes in Action will be the strongest team we will meet this year," commented Bronco mat coach Mike Young. "They have an East and West team now, but before they split up into two teams, they lost one dual meet in six years."

"There will be three or four national champions and contenders on this team. Gene Davis, the coach, was on the U.S. Olympic team—and will be wrestling at 150 lbs. for them," Young said.

AIA compiled an 11-1 record last year, losing only to Oklahoma State, 18-17 at Stillwater.

Wrestling for the Broncos against AIA this Friday will be: 118-Jack Serros; 126-to be determined; 134-Tom Harrington; 142-Jeff Howell; 150-Dan Warren or Randy Watson; 158-Dave Chandler; 167-Greg Leonard; 177-Rory Needs; 190-Vance Casperson; Heavyweight-Mark Bittick.

An excited crowd roared its approval and then disappointment in the final match as BSC heavyweight Mark Bittick finally pinned Weber's Kim Peterson in the third period.

Boise, with the pin, floored the Wildcats 25-14 last Saturday night to prove their dominance in the Big Sky wrestling.

Peterson was on top of Bittick on a couple of occasions but couldn't out-grapple the BSC sophomore as he rolled on to his eighth straight pin.

Two valuable decisions from Jeff Howell at 142 and Rory Needs at 177 helped the Broncos. They won 16-2 and 15-1 respectively.

Northern Arizona had foul trouble which sent guards Nate Payne and Emerson Gordon to the bench along with Keith Middleton. Before the night was over, the Axers were whistled on for 32 infractions as compared with only 13 for BSC.

George Wilson, a junior college transfer from St. Louis, Mo., scored 13 points in the first half to give BSC a 41-31 halftime lead.

Freshman guard, Terry Miller converted eight of nine from the line in the second half and helped the Broncos with a total of 19 for the night. BSC coaches praised Miller for having played "exceptionally well, considering he was having a bout with the flu."

The Axers, though shorter in height, managed to outrebound BSC 45-19, a figure that head coach Bus Connor will dispute.

SCORING: Miller 19, Wilson 17, Dickey 13, Hoke 11, Cottrell 5, Keyes 4, Buckingham 3, Swanson 1.

While BSC was having it out with NAU, Weber St. was being shocked by ISU 71-67 at home. It was only the second time in six years that WSU has lost in their own gym.

The Wildcats, suffering from a little bit of fan abuse because of the loss, got back on the track and derailed the Broncos 66-49 Saturday night.

"It was a must game for them," said assistant BSC coach Burt Golden, "and they won."

Boise State ran the same offense against Weber as they did against NAU.

"They're (Weber) a better team than NAU," Golden commented.

"They jumped higher than we did and got more rebounds."

Boise held Weber to a cold 29 percent from the field in the first half, but the Broncos gave up the ball 16 times which put them behind 27-23 at intermission.

Wilson had another good night from the field and hit 19 points to even Steve Flemming's performance for the host team.

SCORING: Wilson 19, Dickey 14, Hoke 6, Keyes 4; Buckingham, Miller and Frazier 2.

The BSC hoopsters have put their prints on the national scene recently when statistics on field goals came out last week. Rated seventh in that department, the Broncos edged out Hawaii, LSU and Canisius.

Boise is enjoying a .522 percent from the field while North Carolina, New Mexico, Notre Dame, Maryland, Wisconsin and UNC Charlotte top the list of the best in the country.
