Relocation of Events Center deliberated at forum

Boise State College students were given a rare opportunity this week to discuss future construction plans. President John Barnes, A. group of 75 students, faculty, and staff members turned out Monday evening at a public forum called to discuss the proposed Special Events Center and the Pedestrian Mall. Dr. Barnes agreed to attend the forum after student criticism began to mount following an announcement. reduction in the seating capacity of the Center from 450 to 350 persons.

Discussion at the forum covered a number of topics including proposed curriculum changes, construction of a new Science Building and Vocational-Technical Building as well as the Events Center and the Pedestrian Mall.

Students comments about the Fire Department centered on the plans for the center, or the vario- us suggestions.

Fire Chief Yost expressed concern over the plans for the center, or the vario- us suggestions. Fire Marshall Yost complained that there is always a considerable amount of smoking at rock concerts, and there is no cooperation from the audience. Yost said he is not knocking rock concerts, but the Fire Department is not going to be responsible.

Mustard, who refuses to allow police to frisk concertgoers, with the seating capacity and the location of the facility. When plans for the center were first announced, the building was scheduled to seat 450 to 500 people. However, according to Dr. Barnes, the state of the building was slightly less than $1,000. However, according to Dr. Barnes, failure to secure contributions from private sources resulted in the reduction of seating capacity.

After students leaders began to voice opposition to the cuts in seating, Dr. Barnes said he was "I'be to find an additional, $100,000" with which to bring the seating capacity up to 425 persons.

Student Union administration officials present at the meeting expressed frustration over the number of seats. However, members of the Student Union Programs Board board said that the contention that 425 seats were adequate. Pop Concerts Committee Chairman George Mustard listed several examples of past events sponsored by the Board which could not be adequately handled in a theatre-type facility, but would attract too large a crowd to allow legalization of the 425 seat Center. Mustard contended that 700 to 750 should be considered the minimum capacity of a facility.

Dr. Barnes countered this argument by explaining that the present SUB Ballroom will hold 700 people and would be suitable for the events mentioned by Mustard.

Although he agreed that a larger theatre would be more practical, Barnes stressed that money was not available for an increased seating capacity.

The second major complaint voiced by participants at the open forum concerned the location of the building. As is now planned, the building would be located in the center of the large, grassy area between the Union and the Auxiliary Gym. The area is currently used by the Physical Education Department for athletic activities and as a playing field for women's sports.

A new Science building and number of seats. However, area is not going to be. In one corner of the The senate approved, a plan for the restoration of the Events Center. He also stated the hope that "in the future Dr. Barnes will consult students earlier in the planning phase of each project and continue to discuss the project with them until its completion." Barnes agreed with the statement and said that he would ask Shanholtz to attend all future meetings with the architect.

Special Center discussed in Senate

At Tuesday's student senate meeting President Doug Shanholtz was hit with a barrage of questions from the senate concerning the proposed Special Events Center. The center was the major topic of the open forum held with Dr. Barnes the evening before. Only one senator, Dave Ward, attended the forum; not even Vice-President Dwanye Flowers showed up.

Shanholtz described the evening as "productive. Barnes laid it all out on the table." The senate did not understand the plans for the center, or the various explanations for the changes in plans. They complained about not being consulted by Dr. Barnes before, planning reached its present stage. Ron Ellsworth said, "He hits us with the plans and tells us how its going to be." The senate also believed they needed more student input, and decided to hold a meeting with Dr. Barnes after they receive more feedback from students.

The senate approved a plan for a new typewriter machine for the Arbiter. The machine will cost $6,500 and will be financed by an Architect's fee loan from the Administration.

The machines presently used by the Arbiter are paid for each week and are returned on a lease basis. The new machine will cost the newspaper $30 a month, a savings of $120 per month.

At the meeting, Editor Gracy Betchel told the senate, "The new machine will be more efficient, and the cost of the machine will be paid for each week, so there will be something to show for the investment."

The senate approved the appointment of the following members to the Student Handbook Committee: Sue Stutzman, Sheryl Duncan, Steve Adams, Charlotte Clark, and Helen Fleener.

Dave Ward wrote a letter that will be sent to all ASSC funded organizations. The letter requests that the committees comply with a Senate Act requiring them to report to the senate every month. So far this year, the law has been virtually ignored.

Light my fire

Students asked to police themselves

"Tuning on the houseights may be the answer," said a resigned George Mustard after a meeting with fire department officials, Vice-President for Student Affairs David Taylor, Student Union Director Dyke Nally, and Programs Board Director Fred Norman.

The group met last week to try and find some solution to the smoking-at-concerts problem. After pointing out that the Crosby-Neah concert was out of control as far as smoking was concerned, Fire Marshall Yost complained that there is always a considerable amount of smoking at rock concerts, and there is no cooperation from the audience. Yost said he is not knocking rock concerts, but the Fire Department is not going to be responsible.

Shanholtz states intention to provide yearbooks

Editor, The Arbiter

In response to the last issue of the Arbiter on the problem of last year's yearbooks, I would like to restate and clarify my position in regard to this delicate issue.

The Arbiter article pretty well defined the problem with the leftover yearbooks and the obvious waste of student money. However, this year it is the intent of this office to set an example for an efficient distribution of yearbooks for all those who desire them. First, seniors who wish to have yearbooks mailed to them may do so by indicating their interest and paying the mailing fee of 45 or 50 cents to the receptionist in this office. A formal contract with the publishing company has been signed. Further, register photos will be used where feasible to save money. A photographer will be on campus early this semester to take photos that all underclassmen who missed their picture taken during registration.

Finally, your input and opinions are important in forming the best policy possible for everyone at Boise State. Also, Jerry Bickett, editor of the yearbook, will make a follow-up on this article to give further particulars on the new yearbook.

Jerry and everybody in the ABSC is trying to provide yearbooks to the student that wants them this year. There have been many requests by the usually silent student population. In every poll taken this year students have definitely wanted yearbooks. We've cut out 45 or 50 cents to the receptionist in this last week's Arbiter, because in the past the money has become too wasteful. So this year we are going to do the best job we can to provide services to all students including yearbooks.

Sincerely,
Douglas Shanholtz
ABSC President

WASHINGTON — The powerful House Ways and Means Committee has been discussing promising tax reforms for two years. In 1972 and again in 1973, the committee sponsored this first priority — next year.

Two new years have now come and gone, but there has been no noticeable improvement in the tax laws. On the contrary, each Christmas brings the fear of further increases. New tax benefits have been hung on the Christmas tree for the special interests. Each new benefit has cost the rest of the taxpayers a few more million dollars.

But now the taxpayers are up in arms. They have discovered that President Nixon paid no income tax on $230,000 annual income as an ordinary worker with the same site family pays on $7,000 annual income. Ouch!

But there is evidence that the White House communications people have produced the golden goblets they eventually turned over to the courts.

We recently reported, for example, that the White House is preparing to spend $300,000 on a recording system to tape the dinners and ceremonies who appear in the East Room. Those specifications provided to bidders were prepared by the President's Communications people. The White House cost benefit analysis is relatively straightforward. These specifications are incredibly detailed and highly sophisticated.

Nearby two years ago, White House communications men installed a sophisticated sound system in hangar six at Andrews Air Force Base, where the President's plane is kept. Contractors worked around the clock to the $700,000. Yet Nixon didn't use it once he arrived home from Russia.

Every other sound system the White House has constructed, in short, works perfectly well. Why, then, do the Watergate tapes reveal little more than staggering incompetence of the President's communications staff?

Impeachment Deadline: House Judiciary Chairman Peter Rodino has assured Republican House Speaker John Rhodes that the presidential impeachment inquiry will be concluded in April. His own committee members and staff indicate Rodino will have trouble meeting that deadline.

The committee hasn't yet obtained the special subpoena powers necessary to secure important evidence. Meanwhile, the water is flowing over their heads. The committee is not doing much work of other investigations.

Little or no independent digging has been done by the committee. In some cases, documents gathered by other committees have been used, including some which have been requested by the Judiciary staff.

Some of Rodino's investigators have not used the committee's time efficiently. Some have had to make last-minute appearances to make the time on recording cards.

In order to meet the tentative April deadline, the committee will have to do all of the necessary, background work during the month of February. Hearings would have to begin no later than March, with the conclusion in April.

Readers on the committee doubt that a verdict can be found. This means, of course, that a stenographer will have to prepare the record of proceedings for the Judiciary Committee.
Late registration fees defended by Hunt

An open letter to Katrina Brown

I read your article in the Arbiter on late fees with some concern because while the statements you made are interesting and relevant I feel the things that I didn&#39;t say we also significant.

Late fees are not new nor should they be seen as a reasonably alert student should be uniformed to as to their existence. Page eight of the Idaho State Bulletin (catalog) reads, "All fees, tuition and other charges are non-refundable...The State Board of Education acting as the Board of Trustees for Boise State College". Page nine reads "Late Registration Fee $5.00. To help defray the exact cost involved with late registration, a fee of $5.00 is charged after the regularly designated days for registration." Obviously the policy calling for payment of late registration fees is not more nor am I in a position to change it. All I can do is help enforce it.

BSC has tried to publish a class schedule that is as accurate and as informative as possible in just a few printed pages. We have tried to include in the schedule information that a student needs to successfully complete registration. In your article you quoted freely from the spring semester class schedule but you omitted several critical technical paragraphs. Page four reads, "Registration is not complete until fees, tuition, and other charges are paid. The TIME OF REGISTRATION EACH SEMESTER. REGISTRATION IS NOT COMPLETE UNTIL ALL FEES ARE PAID." Perhaps you have confused two different policies. One requiring students to pay late fees if they complete registration after Monday, February 10th, and the other extended in holding packets intact for one class day for students who go through most of the steps of registration in the gym but who leave their packets at the cashier's before payment.

I think we all realize that acquiring desired class cards is a vital necessity and the country extended in holding packets intact for one class day for students who go through most of the steps of registration in the gym but who leave their packets at the cashier's before payment. The first is, of course, to refrain from smoking. The suggestion that "you can get just as high by eating it as by smoking it" has shot its merit. No security person will make you throw away your brownies. You can help by convincing the person next to you not to smoke. Let's not get in a situation like Utah. Their state legislature has enacted laws that make it mandatory that the house lights be turned on at the first hint of smoke. They are not turned on until the problem has been solved.

We could disallow non-students. This is something that would cause a change in the type of concerts that are produced. We couldn't afford to produce the concerts we have done in the past without the money. Most people that attend these concerts have cooperated, this includes most non-students; it is the few that are causing us all the problems. At the next concert if you see someone smoking, ask them to stop.

The fire department and the administration have cooperated with the students in the past. However, neither feel that they can allow this dangerous situation to persist. Something must be done. It is not now up to you, the student.
Outdoor recreation forms challenging plans

There are the things I prize and hold of dearest worth:
Light of the silent sapphire skies.
Hold of dearest worth:
These are the things I prize and hold of dearest worth:
Shelters of forests,
Peace of the silent hills,
Bike hikes, case exploring.
Mountain climbing, repelling.
Floating, and skiing are on the agenda.
We plan to hold clinics on these few things listed here along with many other things we have planned.
I promise to be a challenge to any one who joins us.
If the poem touches you, come out and meet people that you feel like you and have experiences to share with you.
We will meet Thursday, January 31, 1974, in the Minidoka room of the Sub at 7:00 pm. For further information contact Mike Weston in the games room.

ASB seeks applications

Applicants are being sought at the present time to fill vacancies in a number of Associated Students positions.
Applicants must have a GPA of at least 2.5 and should have a business major. The position pays $50 a month.
Applicants for the Finance Board Chairman position.
The Finance Board Chairman's duties involve conducting elections for the ASBS. Persons interested in these positions or positions with various other committees should apply in the Student Services Office located on the second floor of the Student Union Building. Interviews will be arranged for all interested applicants.

Boise City Police ask parking help

The Boise City Police and ISC officials are asking students at Boise State College not to park in double lines on the SOUTH side of Campus Drive. (The street along the river.) There have been repeated occurrences where cars are jammed in and cannot get out due to the two lines of parking on the one side.
Cars should not be parked on the sidewalk right-of-way, but on the edge of the street itself. Cars should not be parked on the sidewalk right-of-way, but on the edge of the street itself. Cars month," he said.
Because of insufficient funds, Delaney is not considering installing the Jungalow about coffee shop this year. "Scheduled for February 6 in the Lookout is Skip Beam and Steve Ferris, guitar and percussionist. There will be doing two forty-five minute performances beginning at 7 p.m. Between sets and afterwards, there will be open mike for anyone who'd like to play.

Guest lecturers to speak on Japan and Pacific

Sir James Plimsoll, Australia's ambassador to the U.S. and Richard L. Strobel, Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for East Asian and Pacific Affairs are also guest lecturers tentatively scheduled to speak at Boise State this spring.
Both will participate in a special topics course "Japan and the Pacific Community," offered by the Department of Political Science at Boise State.
The course will examine changes in Japan's domestic politics and foreign affairs emphasizing her present posture in the Pacific and her role as an emerging center of regional power.

The Northwest has become an even more attractive source of lumber. The importance of trade with her can be emphasized by the fact that all the Northwest governors, including Idaho governor, Cecil Andrus, have journeyed to Japan.

Japan is also interesting as regards to its commercial successes over the past two decades. These successes according to British historian Willard Barter, can be laid to a public that is nearly 100 percent literate; racial homogeneity; national savings habits; widespread participation in achievement ethos; quick adaptability to new technology; and effective cooperation between business and government.

The Boise City Police Department and the administration of Boise State College ask the student's cooperation in this matter to avoid inconvenience and frustration to everyone.

Delaney is now looking for students to form the Coffeehouse Committee. He's also offering any club, organization, or individual an opportunity to make some money by providing concessions during Lookout programs.
"If you've got anything you'd like to share by means of the Lookout, or an interest in working on the committee or with concessions, contact the Programs office, SUB second floor, 4H-5123," Delaney said.

Hansen and McClure at Boise State

ASBSC President, Doug Shanholte, announced today that during the past week Boise State was honored to have Congressman Orval Hansen and Senator James McClure on campus.

Congressman Hansen spoke to Dr. Eastlake's Economic class Wednesday, January 16, 1974. Senator McClure spoke to Dr. Amsel's Economic class the following day. Both representatives had a question and answer period which was very informative and highly indicative of students interest in our community, national, and world affairs.

Both Congressmen are your representatives. I would like to provide you with their phone numbers so you may give them your views to carry back to Washington, D.C. Their offices are located at 6th & Barnacle, Senator McClure's phone number is 345-2080; Senator Hansen's phone number is 343-1421. Also, Senator Church and Congressman Symms are representatives and although they were unable to appear this week at Boise State, I am sure your input and feelings would be appreciated by them. Senator Church's phone number is 342-2711; Congressman Symms' phone number is 336-1492.

Student Services, Boise State's directive agency

"The Student Services office will be open Monday thru Friday from 9:00 am to 4:30 pm this semester," announced Kit Christensen, Student Services Director.

Located next to the ASBSC offices in the SUB, the Student Services has a full-time staff of student volunteers. It also has access to a number of community agencies willing to help the student community at BSU. Student Services can advise a student where to take their academic complaints. "Student Services doesn't act on academic gripes but rather directs the student to the proper committee or board that makes his complaint heard," explained Kit.

Grocery list aids in meal planning

The important thing to do before your weekly shopping tour, is to make a grocery list and plan to stick with it. If you must make changes, make substitutions, not additions of things you see in the stores. When making your list, keep your monthly food budget allotment in mind as well as the tentative menus for the next week.

Read labels and ascertain that it is the size and item you need. Watch brands and prices and you may find you can save some pennies on items. The convenience food packages are expensive. Buy pastas (macaroni, spaghetti, etc.) in quantities of at least a pound or more if you have storage room.

Good Medicine Store, haven for organic food fanciers

by John Elliott

The Good Medicine Store, located at Tenth and Front, is a haven for the fanciers of organic and natural foods. The element that makes this store totally different from most other health food stores in the area is the atmosphere of the establishment is conducive to the product. The store building is an old and ordered edifice with natural woods and antique brick. The atmosphere of the Good Medicine Store is quietly natural.

Not only does the establishment deal in organic foods, but there are good selections of Environmental Literature and natural soaps, shampoos and toothpastes. MINT BIDDIS, a non-tobacco cigarette, can be purchased here which is indeed a new experience in smoking pleasure.

The prices are perhaps higher than the local supermarket, but none of the foodstuffs sold are processed. Naturally grown and non-processed foods are more expensive to produce than the packaged dinners so many people have become so dependent upon.

An organic sandwich bar can be located in the back of the building. Prices are competitive and the food is interesting. For the natural food connoisseur, The Good Medicine Store is a good place to shop; for the average underfed American the Good Medicine Store is a good place to visit to see what you are missing.
A scene from the acclaimed movie "Soldier Blue" starring Candice Bergen and Peter Ustinov. "Soldier Blue" is the story of the Sand Creek Massacre of 1864 in which almost three hundred Indian men, women, and children were killed by the Colorado Militia. The film is to be shown January 27 at 8:00 p.m. in the Big 4 room of the SUN. Admission is free.

Theatre productions surveyed

by James Hayworth

THEATRE IN A TRUNK opened its '74 season last week and with a production of John Millington Synge's RIDERS TO THE SEA under the accomplished direction of Andrea Partridge-Harris, a play which has come to be considered the most perfect one-act play in the English language. The cast was led by talented young Boise actress, Sallie Greiner in the role of Maurya, a role she portrayed with few of the unfortunate pitfalls that usually accompany a young actress portraying an elderly woman. Regardless, the execution of the play was consistent with those qualities which have decided the Columbia Record Company to release these informative and interesting albums. Probably the most innovative feature of TRUNK's production of the Irish drama was the prologue taken from Synge's own journals. Rod Jones, the actor who portrayed the scene, did an adequate job of acting without lines, one of the most difficult challenges that faces an actor, yet was too highly stylized, too rigid, in his movements to make me comfortably lend his efforts. Too, it should be remembered that Synge was an Irishman with "the true Irish heart—one who speaks Irish and knows the people," as J.B. Yeats, father of the poet, once remarked in a review for THE UNITED IRISHMAN. As such, his voice should have betrayed a strong accent, something the narrative prologue lacked and proved to further encumber Jones's endeavor. But the narrative itself was smoothly adapted, something for which a young man named Krawte should have himself stood up and taken a bow.

A few other minor incidents also bothered me, particularly the three mourning women who's entrance went unacknowledged although this scene, for capturing the sheer ritual and mood of the play, was the premiere strength. The keening voices of the women against the soft rush of the sea pounding the rocks, the technical perfection of it, was moving. Rich not only in its audible beauty, but in aesthetic appeal to the eye. Consequently, the entire ensemble carried the remaining dialogue gracefully to its conclusion.

Of actress Greiner, I can only remark that I have always thought of Maurya, especially the long speeches beginning "Barney will be lost now" and the next one, to be as equally abrading Lear's, "had I your tongue and eyes," or his preceding, "Come lets away to prison." However, Cathleen, Elizabeth, and Streiff, seemed to me unable to sincerely carry role at times, and as the older sister, could not rely on the innocent naive as did Cheryl Hurrie. But these are "picky" and obviously subjective criticisms that are far overshadowed by the virtuous ensemble as a whole, John Sharette as Barry, the headstrong young brother, war, if occasionally uneven, nonetheless believable as were actresses Barbara Martin, Lea Sharette and actors Steve Phelps and Andy Milhan. All said, my earnest congratulations to both cast and crew in the hope the company will continue to reward Boise audiences in forthcoming productions.

Greatest Hits' create interest in classics

by John B. Scott

In recent years there has been a resurgence of classic music appreciation. Not to ignore this phenomenon, the Columbia Record Company has introduced a series of albums designed not only to give the listener a good general knowledge of classical music and composers, but to bolster the sales of their "long-hair" music artists.

The series of albums is titled "Greatest Hits." Such well known music giants as Frederic Chopin, Ludwig von Beethoven, Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart, and Johann Sebastian Bach are featured through their most famous and famous pieces. It would most be entertaining to see what these great composers would have to say to the Columbia Record Company about marketing their music in such a fashion. Imagine if you will Gustav Mahler having to face an album proclaiming to the world MAHLER'S GREATEST HITS, and when examination of the album came about the master's

Conference lead at stake when BSC hosts Bengals

The lead in the Big Sky Conference basketball race is at stake Friday night when the Bengals from Idaho State invade the Boise State gym to tangle with the Boise State Broncos. Tip-off will be at 8:00 pm.

The BSC Colts will meet Mountain Home Air Force Base in the preliminary game at 5:45 pm. Idaho State, first in the loop, is 4-0 in the Big Sky and 11-4 overall while the Broncos are 3-1 in the league and 8-5 overall. A Bronco win would create a tie at the top between Boise State, Idaho State and Gonzaga. The Zags have a 4-1 mark and do not play a league game this week.

"We have to play the same type of game that we have been playing," commented Bronco head coach Bus Connor. "We can't get in a moving game with Idaho State because they are a high-scoring team."

Idaho State is leading the Big Sky in scoring with a game average of 81.6 points per game. Boise State is second in the league at 79.9 points per game.

"We have to take that good percentage-shot and rebound with them. They will have something different to show us, possibly on defense. We are going to move and man them," Connor added.

This is the third of a four-game series between the two schools with both teams holding a win. Idaho State won the first game 73-65 in Pocatello and the Broncos won in Boise late in December by a 57-53 score.

Commenting on the last game, Connor said, "I don't feel that the game was that physical after looking at the film. Both teams will be 'up' for this one. We won't have to spend any time this week in telling our players to get ready," he added.

Starting for the Broncos will be guards Clyde Dickey, 6'3' (18.2 ppg) and Terry Miller 6'4' (7.2 ppg); forwards will be George Wasson, 6'7' (16.6 ppg) and Maurice Buckingham, 6'6' (6.1 ppg); center will be Jim Keyes, 6'11''0'' (14.6 ppg). Starting for the Bengals will be Kevin Boyd, 6'0''9''3'' (8.1 ppg); forwards will be Jim Anderson, 6'5'' (16.5 ppg) and Leroy Gibbons, 6'7'' (5.1 ppg); center will be Dan Spindler, 6'10'' (15.7 ppg).

BSC-ISU clash to be aired

The Boise State – Idaho State Big Sky Conference basketball game Friday, January 25 at 8 pm, will be carried live on KAID-TV, Channel 4 in Boise. KAID-TV will also originate the telecast which will be carried by the Idaho Public Broadcasting Network stations, KGVL-TV in Pocatello and KUID-TV in Moscow.

This is the first time a Boise basketball game has been televised on Channel 4. The game will be broadcast from the Sawtooth Mountain Inn, 5000 Fairview Ave., the Marriott, at 8:00 pm on Thursday, January 24th.

On Saturday, January 26th, Boise State will be holding its Clinic On-The-Snow, in the immediate vicinity of Boise; exact location can be had by calling 376-3731. This will be a 'come and learn how' or 'come and improve your style' session that will last all day and will be available to all who register. Call 376-3731 to register for the out-door session. Registration is not needed for the Thursday evening session.

Due to the great increase in the popularity of the sport and the ever-increasing number of people participating in cross-country skiing, Frank Florence, of Sawtooth Mountain Inn said, "We thought that the cross-country skiers all fit our city would appreciate seeing and being helped by some one of Matsu, calibe and standing in the sport."

Wrestlers hope to strike gold in MIWA Tourney

The Bronco wrestling team has placed eighth in the preliminary round of the Mountain Intercollegiate Wrestling Association (MIWA) tournament. The tourney will be hosted by Northern Colorado Friday and Saturday, January 25-26.

"I think we have a good shot at winning it," said defending Big Sky Conference champion Tom Say that a vast majority of them will be good," he added.

Starting for the Broncos will be guards Clyde Dickey, 6'3' (18.2 ppg) and Terry Miller 6'4' (7.2 ppg); forwards will be George Wasson, 6'7' (16.6 ppg) and Maurice Buckingham, 6'6' (6.1 ppg); center will be Jim Keyes, 6'11''0'' (14.6 ppg). Starting for the Bengals will be Kevin Boyd, 6'0''9''3'' (8.1 ppg); forwards will be Jim Anderson, 6'5'' (16.5 ppg) and Leroy Gibbons, 6'7'' (5.1 ppg); center will be Dan Spindler, 6'10'' (15.7 ppg).

Wrestlers in MIWA Tourney at Boise State

Clark Matis, Nordic ski coach at the University of Colorado and member of the 1968 and 1972 United States Olympic Cross-Country ski team, will conduct two clinics in the Boise area. The clinics will be held on Thursday, January 24th and Saturday, January 26th.

Matis, who was also a member of the 1966 & 1970 F.I.S. team before earning the much coveted berth on the Olympic team, will show films and hold meetings on the technique of skiing and waxing for the many cross-country fans in Boise. The clinics will be held in the Sawtooth Mountain Inn, 5000 Fairview Ave., the Marriott, at 8:00 pm on Thursday, January 24th.

Randy Watson escapes from this Oregon College of Education grappler to earn another point leading to his 7-2 decision. Boise State won the dual meet by blanking OCE 54-0.

O.K. Ladies, third time's the charm. We're not sure about what it will take to quell your desire for redemption, but we ask you (if you're a veteran) to please, please come in. This is not, we repeat, not a token position... We really need you. Contact the office of Veterans Affairs, 385-1679.
Skiers trek to first competition

The Boise State ski team will compete in their first meet of the season Friday and Saturday, January 25-26 in Bend, Oregon at the Montanta State Invitational. The meet will bring together all of the Big Sky teams. Other schools outside of the loop may also participate.

Ron Sargent, Boise State ski coach, says there will be four events in the initial competition. Saturday the slalom begins with the jumping Saturday afternoon.

Sargent said that Montana State and the University of Montana will be the teams to watch. Weber State is strong enough to be a factor in the alpine events, he added.

"This meet will be a good indication of what we can expect in the upcoming Big Sky meets," Sargent said. "We will do well in the downhill and in the slalom. The jumping and cross country will be our weakest events," he said.

"We will have competitors in all of the events and I think that we will be up there challenging for the meet title," he added.

The team Mt. Bachelor part of the MSU Invitational will be: Rich Gross, freshman from Boise, second in the garbon and slalom; Dave Watkins, senior from McCall, Idaho - slalom, downhill and country; Craig Marotz, sophomore from Ashton, Idaho - downhill and slalom; Bill Vernon, junior from Caldwell, Idaho, cross country; and Doran Ward, junior from Anchorage, Alaska - cross country.

VARSiTY women blast EoSC, play Coyotes in gym tonight

Women hoostpers at Boise State blasted Eastern Oregon State College 50-17 and 42-21 in a doubleheader between sets of A and B teams last weekend in LaGrande. The games opened up the season for both schools with both playing again tonight at 7:00 PM, Bronco gym, against the College of Idaho.

Penny Gillispie, a senior, led a hot BSC team in the first game with 12 points. The Broncos were consistent with a 41 percent from the field.

Kendra Falen and Deanne Brower added 10 points apiece for the A squad with Elaine Elliott contributing nine points. Jayne Van Waters sloved five for BSC and Elaine Greitly rounded out the figures with four.

"We played two very well of the players with EoSC," said women's varsity basketball coach Thorngren.

"Boise State has a chance to play and scored at least four points," continued Thorngren.

Idaho State frosach cancel two games with Colin

The Colts will play Mountain Home Air Force Base Friday night at 7:45 in the Bronco gym. MHAFB will be originally scheduled, but was added when the Idaho State University-freshmen cancelled two games with BSC.

Coach Mike Montgomery said ISU players were disappointed at the administration's decision to cancel the games. "They were looking forward to playing ball for the Colts," he said, ISU all cancelled remaining games with Utah State.

"This is unfortunate," said Montgomery, because freshmen games are used to measure the progress of these men. They are the breeding grounds for their potential talents."

"We appreciate all of our spectators," said Thorngren, "and we try to keep away from all forms of unsportsmanlike conduct and that includes infractions by the administration's decision to cancel the games, must be kept in mind that we don't play under men's rules."

Women's basketball rules differ from those of the men, Thorngren claims "Women's basketball has become a long way and soon should be no different than men's (basketball) at all."

Good sportsmanship is cheering and clapping for good play, according to the coach. Boosing is for losers and shows more and more the shallow moralities of some insensitive fans.

Booing is for losers

Differences in women's rules draw fans' ire

Head coach of the women's varsity basketball team, Connie Thorngren, would like spectators to be aware of the differences in their rules as compared to the men's basketball rules.

Women cagers have no penalty for going back and over the halfway line. Thorngren notes many men in the audience get verbally irate with the referees when a player takes the ball over and back again, thinking an infraction has gone unnoticed.

"We appreciate all of our spectators," said Thorngren, "and we try to keep away from all forms of unsportsmanlike conduct and that includes infractions by the spectators.
