No money from Legislature

Holding pattern for classes suggested

by Katrina Brown

A resolution to prohibit the addition of new courses of study to the BSU curricula "until such time as adequate funding is made available" was considered by the Faculty Senate at their March 28 meeting. Though it was referred to the Committee on Committees for their recommendation, the resolution had its impact: requests for approval of new curriculum from both the Communications Department and the Department of Societal and Urban Studies were denied. The stipulation that "the existing teaching overload situation at BSU be given higher priority," was attached to the Curriculum Committee's request that the Senate approve an area of emphasis in Journalistic Communications and a new major in Urban Studies. Academic faculty at BSU are currently teaching from three to six more hours than their counterparts at ISU or U of I, according to Orvis Burmaster, chairman of the Idaho Conference of the American Association of University Professors. Accreditors who visited the university in February warned that BSU is "likely to lose excellent faculty unless remedies are sought."

courses and new programs have to come along."

One senator who said it is "ridiculous to offer new courses and new programs when we have a faculty overload," suggested a study to establish academic priorities. Because of inherent difficulties, this suggestion was not accepted, but a proposal from Senator Spulnik to establish a procedure to hold courses that are academically sound in abeyance until there is enough money to implement them, was enthusiastically received.

Communications Department Chairman Robert Boren, who initiated the request for increased journalism curricula, endorsed Spulnik's idea. Boren said that in presenting his proposal to department and school-wide curriculum committees he had made it quite clear that he had no intention of attempting to implement the changes for at least another year. The Senate should judge programs without knowing their fiscal impact, he said, and then review them when money becomes available.

When contacted Friday, Spulnik said the details for this holding pattern have to be worked out, but that such a procedure would allow the university, rather than the State Board of Education, to establish priorities. Spulnik said the holding action should be on the dean's level, since the Faculty Senate "obviously knows nothing about budgets."

Senator Scudder's response was that "with the time lag they're operating under now, even the administration doesn't know what they're doing." He explained that budget sessions at the State Board of Education meeting this week will allocate money for the academic year 75-76, while money for the coming fiscal year still has not been distributed to universities, schools, and departments.

A legislature which "has not seen fit to provide the money necessary for expansion of programs" and the increased cost of running a university, including support of personnel, were cited as the chief reasons behind the proposal by Senator Duston Scudder, School of Business, to limit new courses. Scudder said he was quite serious in his proposal, and that he wanted to provoke debate on the matter so the faculty would become aware of the rate at which the university is expending its resources.

Both Scudder's resolution and the Curriculum Committee's proposals prompted lively discussion among the senators. Perhaps the most newsworthy remark was one by Senator Joe Spulnik, Dean of Arts and Sciences, to the effect that there will be no money for new faculty next year.

Senator Ruth McBirney, head librarian, expressed her concern about the impact of the proliferation of new courses on the Library. Accreditors recommended that BSU spend 10-12 percent of its total budget next year on the Library, and Senator McBirney asked how the Library could be expected to acquire books when it still did not have all the books needed for classes being offered now.

Debate on the resolution was divided between those who questioned whether it was ethical to approve a course when there would clearly not be enough money to implement it, or when it would create overloads, and those who protested that BSU can't remain static, that "new

Marijuana Bill passed by Legislature--sent to Andrus

by Barb Bridwell

A measure increasing the penalties for possession of marijuana passed the Idaho House of Representatives Thursday by a vote of 44-26. The bill, Senate Bill 1445, previously passed the Senate 30-4 and has been sent to Governor Andrus for his signature.

The bill provides for a felony charge for anyone caught with three or more ounces of marijuana, with a penalty of imprisonment up to life and/or a fine of not more than $25,000.

Debate on the bill was heavy in the House with Representatives Norma Dobler, Rudy Anderson, Herb Fitz, Butch Otter, Jack Kenneville and Patricia McDermott speaking out against the bill, and Representatives Wayne Tibbitts, Doyle Miner, Lester Hartvigsen, Harold Reid and Gene Winchester rising in support of the legislation.

Starting off with what turned out to be a full day of debate, was a public hearing before the Health and Welfare Committee, called by Chairman Rudy Anderson after several individuals requested one be held. The hour long hearing was attended by approximately 200 people, many of whom were of high school and college age. Testimony at the hearing ranged from those who were much in favor of the bill to those who were much opposed.

E. C. "Chuck" Palmer, Ada County Sheriff spoke at the hearing saying that the killing of a young girl last year was caused by a man under the influence of marijuana and tequila. Palmer contended that the marijuana caused the man to commit the crime.

Representative Norma Dobler asked if the liquor couldn't have been just as much to blame, which brought a round of applause from onlookers. Palmer replied that this was possible but that he felt the law would serve to deter the use of marijuana, a statement hotly disputed by many in attendance.

Another law enforcement official speaking for the bill was Canyon County Sheriff George Nourse. "Somewhere a line has to be drawn to remove the extra burden on law enforcement officials of proving intent to deliver," he stated.

Debate on the bill in the House started immediately after the committee hearing adjourned, when Representative Rudy Anderson moved to have the bill placed on General Orders for amendment. That motion failed. Opponents of the motion termed the move as simply a ploy to kill the bill.

Representative Doyle Miner was floor sponsor of the bill. He said that the legislation was needed to "give law enforcement officials one more tool" with which to fight drug abuse. He also stated that "those who oppose the bill are users and pushers."

Patricia McDermott stated, in retaliation to Representative Miner's statement that she had never used drugs and was against their use but she was still opposed to the bill. She pointed out that the bill made the use of marijuana a greater offense than use of heroin. (continued on page 4)

The gallery of the House of Representatives was packed Thursday, March 28, when a bill increasing the penalties for the possession of marijuana passed after a 4½-hour debate, 44-26.

Scholarships to be awarded to General Liberal Arts majors

At their March 28 meeting, the Faculty Senate directed the Financial Aids Committee to appoint a sub-committee to serve as a department for the purposes of awarding scholarships to students who have declared no major (code 0000), and also those students who have declared General Liberal Arts as a major (code 0501).

The effort to provide some source of scholarship money for these students was made by Senator Bill Mech, after he noted that recent changes in the Procedures for Awarding Academic Scholarships left both groups out in the cold. These scholarships are funded by institutional monies, including $3 from every full-time fee-paying student.

This new department will be treated like any other department within the School of Arts and Sciences, and will receive money according to the percentage of full-time enrollment in that area, as outlined in the Procedures for Awarding Academic Scholarships.

Rand called best qualified

On Wednesday and Thursday of this week, the students of BSU will select next year's ASBSU officials. Many students are not at all interested in the elections. This is understandable. In the past, student government has not established a very admirable record. A few of the programs of the ASBSU have functioned extremely well, as a result of good management, but most have failed to function at all. The key ingredient is the people who run the programs.

An organization is only as good as the people who run it. In the past, this has been the reason for the troubles of the ASBSU.

This year, however, there is a possibility that things may turn out better. One of the candidates for president has proven that he can handle the job. The question is, who will win... Jon Rand or Kit Christensen.

Kit Christensen has been a student at BSU for one year. Jon Rand, on the other hand, has been at BSU for three years, and has been involved in student activities during the entire time.

During Christensen's year at Boise State, he has served as Director of Student Services and Chairman of the Personnel Selection Committee. As Director of Student Services, Kit collected $65 each month from October up to the present despite the fact that the Student Services office has been closed during most of that time. When the office finally resumed operation this semester, it was largely because of the efforts of the National Federation of Student Social Workers.

Christensen's other position, Chairman of the Personnel Selection Committee, has been handled in an equally ineffective manner. As chairman of the committee, it has been Kit's job to make sure that student committees are fully staffed. About a month ago, the Appellate Traffic Court was forced to cease operating because of a shortage of court members. The Personnel Committee, chaired by Christensen, had failed to keep the court's membership up to strength, thus forcing the court to shut down, and depriving the students of the opportunity to appeal parking tickets.

At the other end of the spectrum, Jon Rand has displayed exceptional effectiveness in dealing with problems. When last year's ASBSC election was declared invalid because of neglect and mismanagement on the part of election officials, Jon Rand was called in to run a second election. In little more than a week, Rand revitalized the election board and ran one of the tightest elections on record.

Among other jobs, Rand served in the Student Senate two years ago and, this year, as Director of the BSU Student Lobby, worked for the passage of legislation favored by Boise State students.

The differences between the two candidates' experience and performance are strikingly clear. Rand has had three years to learn how to get things done, and he has learned well. He has proven his willingness to work hard and effectively to assist the students.

By the end of this week, next year's ASBSU president will have been selected. The election of Jon Rand would indeed be a promising sign, and would signal the beginning of a very promising year.

Follow the yellow brick road

A day at the Legislature

For all of you concerned kiddies who were unable to attend the legislative session on March 29th when our Representatives voted to make the Killer Weed "really illegal" here is a blow by blow description of our lawmakers at work.

First of all, let's examine the personal appearance of some of our more noted Public Officials. Rep. Butch Otter was a walking dream decked-out in Peacock Blue, while the more conservative Loveless (can you believe it) of Pocatello was sporting a rather unimaginative drab, dark business suit. Rep. Winchester of Elmore County was ablaze in conflicting colors, which incidentally matched his discordant information.

Rep. Miner, St. Anthony's man in Boise, was an absolute coup in Pink Penny's Double-knit... sound familiar fashion buffs?

Well, to begin with the story. At 8:30 am we were all herded into a room, that has the audacity to be named the "GOLD ROOM." Surrounded by Pros and Cons, we were given the reasons why and wherefore Marijuana was harmless and yet a major threat to the civilized world. Undisciplined people were given to showing their enthusiasm by means of applause, but were quickly reprimanded by Boise Representative Anderson, who incidentally proved to be quite a knowledgeable legislative official.

The testimonies given were for the most part haphazard, that is except for Canyon County Sheriff Nourse whose words and motives were well planned and undoubtedly rehearsed. Our own Chuck Palmer brooded and wept at the thought of losing anymore power to the people. He showed beautiful photos taken at a recent murder which PROVED the danger of the "Killer Weed."

At approximately 9:30 am this meeting broke-up and we were all advised to attend the legislative session. Those of us who were not too broken up briskly walked over to the House of Representatives and took our places in the gallery.

I have never seen such a melange of people, and evidently neither had the members of the House. They looked up into the gallery area and chortled nervously to their cohorts on the floor. Some even had the barbaric urge to point out various members of the gallery and guffaw out loud. Of course, there were those in the gallery, who seeing the examples set, reciprocated by waving back at the Representatives in a most descriptive manner. From here on things and events went steadily downhill.

The Speaker of the House, Rep. Lanting, called the house to order,

Student suggests constructive ideas for parking

Editor, the Arbiter,

Don't get me wrong. I think the parking problem deserves all the publicity it gets. My experience has been that the only reliable way to find a place to put your car is to reserve a slot in the Bronco Stadium parking lot. My solution? I moved closer to the campus, got a good pair of walking shoes, and bought a bike.

No, fellow sufferers, rank DOES have it's privileges. Whether we (the students) like it or not, there will always be reserved faculty parking at Boise State. If there are enough cars to fill the lot, and if the faculty needs the ego boost that comes from being privileged, I say let them have it! The library lot is almost always full. But the lot in front of Admin. is never more than 2/3 full. Students could use 1/3 and the faculty wouldn't even feel a pinch. And what about slanted head-in parking in the road parallel to the river? That would double the number of cars that could park along that road, and there would still be plenty of room for one lane of traffic in each direction.

Sure, the problem STINKS. But if anything constructive is to be done, we are going to have to put our brains in gear before we put our pens in motion.

Bunny Fux? Really!

Campus policeman defends parking rules at BSU

Editor, the Arbiter
Open Letter to BSU Students

I have been associated with the parking situation on campus since the summer of 1969. I feel that I have a reasonable understanding of conditions pertaining to the pinched parking condition.

I feel we have the finest Student Body ever, and enjoy my relationship with the majority of them. However, there are a few that do not have a very high opinion of me, being that I am the one that writes the violations. I'm sorry, that's my job.

I only wish that students would look to other universities and colleges to see how their parking situation is handled. Talking with faculty and student transfers from other areas about the charges for parking and distance to the buildings, BSU is far better off than some of the other campuses they have been on. Only students that have not attended another university or college would tend to be critical of our efforts.

No official, from the top man down, wants to demean anyone. The decal on a vehicle simply acts as a license on campus as do your plates when on public roads. We need control of sorts or we would have chaotic results. It's not expensive to anyone, if each individual will follow the rules and regulations, and show consideration for their fellow students. I have seen many situations when a number of cars have been spread along a curb using a great deal more space than necessary.

Regarding the "Special Parking" for faculty and staff; if you take time, (as I have been assigned to do), count the spaces on "Faculty and Staff" lots, you will find them short of the spaces needed. Students DO get ticketed for being in Faculty-Staff parking, visitor parking and Handicapped parking without a decal. By the same token the Faculty-Staff receives tickets for being in "Student" parking and "Visitor only" Areas. I feel I must be fair to students and faculty alike, so they are ticketed alike. I get just as many "beefs" from faculty as students, only with more pressure.

I'm hoping this will help to show how I feel about the parking situation. As long as they pay me to enforce the parking rules, that is what I'll do, only because it's my job.

Your friendly campus policeman,
Zack

Student's queries answered

Editor, the Arbiter,

In last week's Arbiter I read a letter to the editor by a girl with a name almost just like mine.

She wrote about something I've been wondering about a long time too. That was about the sun getting back to the Towers in the morning. I went and asked my science teacher how it happens, and this is what he said. He told me that when it's day-time here, in other places it's night-time. In order to make the places that are night-time day-time, and to make the places that are day-time, night-time the earth goes around the sun. It's kind of like if you're laying under a sunlamp and you turn over. Now what I can't understand is where is the sun when it's kind of not dark, but kind of not light.

I hope, Miss Fux, that I have shed some light (ha-ha) on your question.

Student support shown for ASBSU candidate

Editor, the Arbiter,

An election at Boise State University April 3 and 4 involves a position of considerable importance to the institution and its student body.

On that day voters will choose a President of Associated Students of Boise State University.

This job is no sinecure or honorific post. It requires a person of knowledge, energy and confidence. He must act and speak for the student body, be prepared to lead and act promptly and constructively in coping with student problems and in meeting injustices.

Jon Rand is a man who qualifies. No Jonny-come-lately, he has been a student at BSU for three years, during which he has demonstrated clear capacity to take action. His election folder cites ten specific instances in which as Vice-Chairman of the student Senate, Director of Boise State Student Lobby (to get University status) and in direct contact with the State Legislature he has "done good" for BSU.

Self-confident, he is completely at ease, whether talking to the Governor, Chairman of the State Board or the President of the University.

I hope Jon Rand gets elected.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

Writer apologizes to Grievance Board

Editor, the Arbiter:

Thank you for printing my report on the Academic Grievance Board. The article has begun to reap results for all the students at BSU, and the reaction to the article was immediate. I am grateful to you for your interest, and for your concern for the students at BSU who have had no chance for a reversal of injustice during past times at BSU. In the distance I perceive a glimmer — perhaps a gleam — of light.

It has been brought to my attention, by a phone call from one of the members of the AGB, that some of the faculty members weren't even notified of the Board meeting. To those Board members I owe an enormous debt of apology for the strongly worded criticism in the last issue of the Arbiter. I hereby offer an apology to them, with the assurance that I am repentant toward any member of the Board who is innocent through ignorance of the Board meeting which was held without their notification.

The fact remains that there are serious functional irregularities in the operations of the appeals system at BSU. These irregularities must be dealt with logically, at once. The students at BSU today are representative of the driving forces which will propel our democracy tomorrow. To instill in their comprehension of the democratic process any doubt concerning its eventual guarantee of justice for all persons is an open invitation to disaster through apathy. I believe we are burdened with more than enough of that already. The "loser's syndrome" is already too evident in our way of life.

I thank you again for your interest and concern in this weighty matter. I apologize again to any and all members of the AGB who were unjustly offended and/or injured because of the impact of yesterday's article. I suggest that the names of the Board members be made available to anyone concerned, as a method of insurance against future injury to persons in a similar circumstance.

Yours truly,
Bob Stephenson

ASBSU President encourages action, thanks students

Editor, the Arbiter:

Throughout my term as ASBSU President, I have made myself available to as many students as possible. All phases of student programs, and in general all areas of student life will only evolve through responsible student leadership. This last year at BSU was a successful one for the students, but only because many responsible students realized that they are a viable force in effectuating changes where needed.

An exerted effort was made last semester to fill all committee positions within the ASBSU. It is imperative that we again fill these committees. Many outstanding students will be graduating and many vacancies will exist — now is the time to ponder and give serious considerations about next semester and which committees you would like to serve on. These committees function to provide a better place for you. Do your part for yourself and for Boise State.

The entire ASBSU structure and its effectiveness depends on you — shortly, there will be a new administration in the ASBSU office and what you want for the next year will be decided April 3rd and 4th during the general election for ASBSU officers. Many beneficial changes occurred during my term in office and an enormous number of students found out their one vote, or by physically showing up at the right time and place, as in the case of the BSU legislation, does make a difference. Don't drop the ball now! Openly work for, promote, support, and vote for your candidate, these people need you and your input, by the same token you need the best ASBSU officers available. We have had a good thing going for the student — let's continue in a positive and productive direction.

As President and for the majority of my staff, we will continue after the general election to familiarize the new officers, whomever they may be, with as many aspects of this office as possible. By doing this, they will be able to function as fully as possible, in the least amount of time.

Finally, in all sincerity, the last year has been a successful one for all the students at BSU. There has been both good and bad occurrences, but the good by far outweighs the bad. The memories of this past year shall reflect upon those who actively gave more time and effort to enhance student life at BSU. My special thanks to all those who took an active part — let the good things continue to bless BSU — it's up to you!!!!

Flowers defends Grievance Board

Editor, The Arbiter,

In last week's Arbiter, Robert J. Stephenson, lodged a complaint against the Academic Grievance Board, listing many of its weaknesses and even questioning the validity of the board.

I agree with Mr. Stephenson that in many instances the board does lack true strength, and that the credibility of the board is questionable, but on the grounds that this is a newly established committee and to this date the board's powers have not been tested. We have not been confronted with a legitimate grievance!

Mr. Stephenson failed to tell the readers in his article that he waited a complete year after receiving a failing grade before trying to make any appeals what so ever. If he were so concerned with his GPA why did he wait so long to make such an appeal? Also, Mr. Stephenson stated that he submitted a plaintiff's complaint form to me and it was subsequently lost and thus deprived him of a speedy trial and due process of the laws. My reply to this accusation is that Mr.

Stephenson is lying. The complaint forms were left in my mail box by Bob. I was informed later by the ASB secretary that Mr. Stephenson returned to the ASB offices and removed the grievance from my mail.

Bob even goes on to say that I made him condense his complaint submitted to the Academic Grievance Board. This is true. I asked Bob to condense his grievance because I was in receipt of an eight page document of slanderous innuendo against a character of a professor and not the facts relevant to Mr. Stephenson's case. I was also given an after thought by Vachel Lindsay. I asked for the facts so that Bob, if the board deemed it necessary, would receive a fair hearing, so that the facts would not be hidden in the trivia of the first document.

Today, I feel that maybe an injustice has been given to Bob. His grievance should have and will be heard, but, I hope that the next time he airs a complaint in the Arbiter he will use the facts and nothing but the facts.

There's no easy way for Charlie Nelson to become Dr. Nelson.

But there is a way to make it somewhat easier. Our way. The Armed Forces Health Professions Scholarship Program. It won't soften the demands of your professors, or those you make upon yourself — but it may free you from those financial problems which, understandably, can put a crimp in your concentration.

If you qualify, our scholarship program will cover the costs of your medical education. More, you'll receive a good monthly allowance all through your schooling.

But what happens after you graduate? Then, as a health care officer in the military branch of your choice you enter a professional environment that is challenging, stimulating and satisfying.

An environment which keeps you in contact with practically all medical specialties. Which gives you the time to observe and learn before you decide on your specialty. Which may present the opportunity to train in that specialty. And to practice it.

You may also find some of the most advanced medical achievements happening right where you work. Like at the Brooke Army Medical Center in San Antonio, Texas, long noted for its Burn Treatment Center. Or the home of Flight Medicine, the famed Aerospace Medical Division, also in San

Much debate on Bill 1445

Representative John Reardon, also a supporter of the measure, stated that the "only thing that will stop the pusher is the thought of swift and severe punishment." He also stated in support of the three-ounce limit, opposed by some as being too small a quantity, that "you can make 300 marijuana cigarettes out of three ounces of marijuana."

Representative Gene Winchester displayed a jar with what he said contained three ounces of marijuana. He stated that "It takes one week to dispel the effects of one joint."

Winchester also cited two cases of death by marijuana, one by an overdose. This statement caused those in the gallery to protest what was termed "shear ignorance." House Speaker William J. Lanting quickly stopped any more such outbursts by threatening to have the gallery cleared.

After an adjournment the House reconvened to finish considering 1445. There was another motion to have the legislation placed on General Orders for amendment which failed 28-36.

A legislator debating against the bill, Herb Fitz, stated he hoped none of the Representatives had children or grandchildren because he said, "They will be the ones affected, not you."

Legislator Rudy Anderson termed the penalty of a felony much too harsh, citing an example of a 14 or 15 year old who, if caught with the prescribed three ounces, would be liable for a felony charge. He also gave examples of what an individual charged with a felony couldn't do, such as vote, hold public office, serve on a jury or practice such professions as law and medicine.

"This is the wrong way to go," Anderson stated.

Wayne Tibbetts, who supported the bill, remarked in a return volley, "The integrity of anyone who uses these drugs is in question."

Representative Jack Kennevik opposed the measure stating that harsher laws would not stop the drug problem. "The world's oldest profession has not been stopped by harsher laws, only education will help. Ladies and gentlemen, I think we are making a tragic mistake."

Rising in support of the legislation, Representative Reid stated, "We must give the power back to the police."

Butch Otter also opposed the bill, saying that the "Cure is worse than the illness."

The measure finally passed the House after almost 4½ hours of debate. After the final vote, Representative Rice moved for reconsideration of the bill. That motion failed.

Business community provides experience

Part of the learning experience for students in the MBA program in the School of Business at Boise State University is having the opportunity to acquire knowledge first hand from various segments of the business community.

Executives and finance specialists from First Security Bank of Idaho provided the learning experience this spring semester. "Such opportunities provide a pragmatic bridge between theory and practice for students," according to Dr. Charles Lein, Dean of BSU's School of Business.

First Security Bank sent thirteen top executives from its Boise offices as well as from Salt Lake City, for two days of discussion and interaction during the MBA Seminar.

President and chief executive officer, Ralph J. Comstock Jr. served as both moderator and spokesman for First Security. Comstock and his associates brought with them a wide range of expertise in the banking business. Areas covered included a bank's financial structure, management, lending, investments, and bank cards.

Bank portfolio management specialist George L. Denton, a senior vice-president, investment division, and David R. Pingree Jr., vice-president and security panel analyst, both from the Salt Lake City based Security Corporation were featured during the concluding session. Also representing the Boise offices of First Security was James E. Phelps, senior vice-president and Southern Division supervisor, who conducted a lending function

Results of Campus Crusade survey

by Greg Johnston

I would like to present the results of the questionnaire made available to BSU students fall and spring semester 73-74 by the Campus Crusade for Christ. Now DON'T STOP READING or move on to something else. See what this survey has to say. It has some interesting results. How would you have answered?

So far about 400 students have been polled with the following results:

2. Class: freshmen 182-47%; sophomore 71-18%; junior 72-18.6%; seniors 55-14.2% and graduate students 6-1.5%.
3. This question involved "major" and varied from agriculture to social science. (In the interest of space I will summarize sample questions)
4. Are you now or have you ever been a member of any religious group or church? Yes - 347 (89.8%) No - 39 (10.1%).
5. Would you care to give the name of this group or church? (Again the answer ranged from Assembly of God to Seventh Day Adventist.)
6. If asked to explain your philosophy of life, would your answer be? definite - 179 (46.6%) vague - 193 (50.2%) no philosophy - 12 (3.1%).
7. To what extent could you honestly say you have lived according to your philosophy of life? all the time - 65 (17.5%) most of the time - 238 (64.1%) half the time - 58 (15.6%) seldom - 12 (3.2%).
8. What, in your opinion, is the basic problem of man (humanity)? within man - 301 (77.9%) without man - 81 (21.9%) not sure - 4(1%).
9. Does your philosophy of life include a solution for the basic problems of man? yes - 186 (48.5%) no - 197 (51%).
10. Do you believe in a God that is both infinite and personal? yes - 287 (77.1%) no - 57 (15.3%) unsure - 28

(7.5%).

11. Have you ever seriously read through the New Testament? yes - 136 (35.2%) no - 116 (30%) more than half - 47 (12.1%) less than half - 87 (22.5%).

12. Who, in your opinion, is Jesus Christ? teacher, philosopher, prophet & founder of church - 84 (21.8%) Son of God - 213 (55.3%) not sure - 47 (12.2%) myth or philosophical idea - 41 (10.6%).

13. How have you come to this understanding? religious source - 231 (61.2%) secular source - 146 (38.7%).

14. How have you come to this understanding? belief - 130 (33.9%) church - 55 (11.2%) life-style - 170 (44.1%) born - 9 (2.3%) don't know - 21 (5.4%).

15. If you could know God personally, would you be interested? yes - 324 (84.5%) no - 42 (10.9%) unsure - 17 (4.4%).

The last figure is interesting not only from the standpoint that 84.5 percent want to know God but that these people believe there is a God.

Salvation is a gift of God, it's not good deeds or works. That is what's so wonderful about God's Grace and his way to salvation, it's free to anyone who wants to accept Christ as his Personal Savior. It does not turn us into robots, but leaves us free to develop our spiritual gifts to the utmost. The rewards for living the Spirit Filled Life are fantastic.

Death is the second most thought of thing in student's minds. Christ will take that burden and the burdens of this world off of your shoulders.

If you really want to know God, with an open heart accept Christ into your life, and as ye seek ye shall find. If you want to know God badly enough, he will reveal himself to you, that's his promise to you. If you have never read the Bible, pick up a Living Bible or a New American Standard (the King James is a good translation, but it is a little hard to understand) and go through Romans and the Book of John. Here you will find valuable points about salvation, knowing Christ, and getting a better understanding of the scriptures.

If God really speaks to your heart while you study, or in a quiet moment, and you want to talk to someone, get in touch with a member of the Campus Crusade for Christ

Although Truffaut evokes the romantic nostalgia before World War I, JULES AND JIM exquisitely illuminates a modern woman. Kathe, amoral and classically beautiful, loves two fraternal friends and must have them both - even if she must die to do so. For her, no commitment is forever and only death is final. Joyously realized and vitally acted by Moreau, Werner, and Serre, the film established Truffaut as the leader of French New Wave directors.

International culinary delights

Student gourmets, we have for you today two culinary delights from opposite sides of the world. The first is from Indonesia and is somewhat lengthy in preparation time. The second originates from somewhere between Boise, Idaho and Mexico, and is quick but good.

VEAL SATAY A LA MELISSA

This recipe requires a mortar and pestle or a blender.

VEAL:

1 tbs ground almonds
1 small piece of sliced ginger root
1 tsb coriander
1 tsp tumeric

Grind these together into a paste. Add 1 1/4 cups coconut milk (shredded coconut soaked in milk for 15 minutes then strained). Slice 1 lb. veal (or beef) into cubes and marinate for at least 2 hours in coconut milk mixture.

Remove and grill or dry fry, sprinkling with salt, pepper and a little brown sugar.

SAUCE: 2 onions - (fry one onion in 2 tbs hot peanut oil. Chop the other and put in mortar with:

3 ounces roasted peanuts
1/2 tsp chili powder

Grind into a paste (approximately). Add to frying onions and stir fry 2-3 minutes. Gradually add 2/3 cup warm water and 1 tsp brown sugar. Cook for a few minutes until it has a thick consistency. Season with salt to taste. Add 1 tbs. soy sauce, juice of 1/2 lemon. Serve over grilled veal cubes.

TORTILLAS DE BABS

Fry package tortillas in butter. Put slices of shredded cheddar cheese in tortilla. Fold and fry it until the cheese melts. Eat with greasy fingers.

VETERANS- Are you interested in a 13.6% increase in your G.I. benefits? This proposed increase is included in House Bill 12628, now under consideration by the U. S. Senate.

VETERANS- How about an increase in the time you're permitted to receive education benefits, from the present 8 years to 10 years? This is also included in House Bill 12628.

VETERANS- How about reducing the disability for vets in the Vocational Rehabilitation Program, to 10%? Right now the disability requirement is 30%.

VETERANS- How about allowing more students to participate in the VA Work Study program, and granting them up to $500 for 200 hours of work per semester?

VETERANS- Are you interested in a ruling allowing you to count periods of active duty training in computing your time of eligibility for veterans benefits? This point is also under consideration by the Senate.

VETERANS- What about adding in anytime you might have been imprisoned by the enemy after your discharge date, when computing your time in service for GI benefits?

VETERANS- How would you feel about allowing up to six months of assistance with refresher courses, which aren't allowed right now under the GI Bill? All of these points are under consideration.

VETERANS- How about allowing eligible wives, widows and children of veterans to pursue farm cooperative training under the War Orphans Education Program?

VETERANS- Do you think that schools offering courses which don't lead to a degree should be able to measure these courses on a semester basis so you could attend them under the GI Bill?

VETERANS- How about re-routing the VA reporting fee of $3.00 per veteran from the school to a joint apprenticeship training committee? The House Bill recommends this too.

VETERANS- How about establishing a communication center exclusively for Vietnam-era veterans, within the Veterans Administration? This center would increase the effectiveness of the Veterans Outreach programs.

This House Bill was passed by the U.S. House of Representatives on February 19, with a vote of 382-0. All eleven of the mentioned points are included in the bill, which is now before the Senate. If you're interested in having Bill 12628 passed, giving an increase in the amount of your GI check and other benefits, please write to our Idaho senators, Sen. Church and Sen. McClure, and give them your support. Every card and letter received will help our chances of seeing this bill passed and made law.

Opinion

Eagles: excellent concert

Boise is one of those towns where many rock groups don't see a need to put on a good performance. Reasons are that there is not much good music here, either live or on radio, and Boise is a small isolated place that is not producing a great deal of local talent. It is a welcome sight when first Crosby & Nash and then the Eagles bring us excellent concerts.

Expecting to hear a Top 40 group play their favorite hits just like you would hear on the radio, I was very pleased to witness talented musicians perform difficult variations of their popular songs. Guitarist Bernie Leadon, was outstanding with his lead work on acoustical and electrical guitars and banjo.

The future of Boise State rock concerts has been in a precarious position since the Crosby & Nash concert in December. Boise City Fire Dept. threatened to stop concerts in the gym when the audience lit matches as a salute to Crosby and Nash at the end of their performance. The Fire Dept. said that due to the fire danger caused by smoking and match lighting this practice would have to cease.

Of the Eagles concert, a Fire Dept. representative said that the crowd was orderly. He reported that there was a little smoking, but overall the crowd looked good.

As is expected at the end of any concert, the crowd demanded the Eagles' return to play an encore. The group responded by playing three, the last two new and quiet songs. The impatient crowd began to leave before the Eagles were finished, although it was the crowd that asked for the encore.

The group's music was predominately rock with a mellow country flavor characteristic of the New Riders of the Purple Sage. The Eagles appeared to have their act together and enjoyed what they were doing.

The group did several foot stomping and dancing numbers. It was unfortunate that there was not more floor space near the stage for the crowd to get up and move their feet.

It's very good to know that there are still a few people in the music business that sell on their musical abilities and not on their flashy stage show.

'As You Like It' starts April 25

William Shakespeare's rollicking pastoral comedy, "As You Like It," is cast and is in rehearsal for production on the Subal stage April 25 through May 4.

The plot of this much performed play is very simple. Orlando DeBoys, lovestruck for Rosalind, daughter of the banished Duke, runs off to the forest, not knowing that Rosalind, who also loves him is in search of her uncle in the same forest. Orlando tells Ganymede, who is actually Rosalind, and Aliena, who is actually her cousin Celia, that he loves Rosalind. Phebe, who is loved by Silvius, falls in love with Ganymede, who is actually Rosalind. Oliver, Orlando's brother falls in love with Celia, Touchstone falls in love with Audrey—and anyway, it all ends just "as you like it."

Isn't that simple?

The cast for this production will include many seasoned veterans of past Subal productions as well as many promising newcomers.

The director of this Shakespearean classic is Dr. Charles Lauterbach with JoAnne Olsen as assistant director.

Dance concert to be held April 12 in BSU ballroom

A dance concert featuring Spurtango will be held in the ballroom on Friday, April 12 at 8 pm. Cost will be $1.50 which will benefit the Rocky Mountain Cultural Unity Consortium, a community organization which was recently formed by artists, craftspeople, individuals from local spiritual groups, and other people interested in building a strong feeling of community co-operation and unity in Boise. The Consortium's first two projects will be a regular weekly Saturday Market featuring hand-made arts and crafts, and the Cultural Unity Fair to be held May 25-26 in Julia Davis Park.

The fair will feature booths by artists and craftsman, and a variety of musicians, dancers, and speakers. The goal of this fair will be to bring many different people together in one great gathering to discover the Unity between us all and build the Consortium as a sponsoring agency for educational, artistic, and spiritual events for the benefit of the Boise community.

The Consortium is now holding regular weekly meetings open to everyone. New ideas and energy are always welcome. Call 345-4476 if you would like more information.

BSU track and field goes to Moscow April 6

It will be the first rematch of the year for the Boise State University track and field team, as they tangle with the Idaho Vandals in a dual meet in Moscow, Saturday, April 6.

The two teams met once before, just two weeks ago, in a double dual in Pullman, Washington with host Washington State. Boise State beat the Vandals in the double-dual, 87-70, but Bronco head coach Ed Jacoby isn't taking the Vandals lightly.

"We will have to get a better performance from our half-milers to beat Idaho. The Vandals have the potential to be a good team, they have excellent half-milers and men in the shot and pole vault," Jacoby said.

He added that when the two teams met before, the Broncos were without seven of their regular personnel, all of whom are expected to be in shape for the dual on Saturday. Boise State's current strength is in the sprints.

Two Bronco printers, Karl Bartell and Sam Jenkins, have qualified for the nationals in the 100 with 9.5 times. At Saturday's Bronco Invitational triple jumper Gerry Bell qualified for the nationals with a leap of 50'-6½".

Over 700 participants took part in the Bronco Invitational last Saturday and the Bronco track and field team broke five school records. The 440-relay team of Bartell, Jenkins, Ken Carter and Rolly Woolsey had a time of 41.6 to break the old school record mark of 41.7.

The second record to fall came in the 880 relay when Carter, Woolsey, Jenkins and Larry Stark cruised in with a time of 1:27.6. Carter broke his own record in the high hurdles with a time of 14.3.

The last two records were in the field events when Larry David put the shot 53'-2" and Henry Mago threw the discuss 164'-0".

Tennis team prepares for Inland Empire Tourney

With two victories under their belts, both against Big Sky teams, the Boise State University tennis team will have about 11 days to get ready for the Inland Empire Tournament to be held in Moscow, Idaho and Pullman, Wash., April 12-13.

The Broncos defeated Weber State 9-0 and the University of Idaho 6-3 in the rain-shortened Bronco Invitational tennis tourney last weekend in Boise. Both matches were held on indoor courts.

"Just because we beat Idaho, the defending Big Sky champion, doesn't mean that we are going to win the Big Sky title this year," commented Bronco tennis coach Dan Owen. "I was happy that we won, but I feel that we still have a lot of work to do before the Big Sky championships in six weeks," he added.

The matches with the Vandals from Idaho were close ones, with six of nine being decided in three sets. Of those six matches, three were won by each team. The Broncos and Vandals will meet twice more, at the Inland Empire and at the Weber State Invitational later in the season.

Sophomore Nacho Larracoechea paced the Broncos' two wins at his number one singles spot. Bill Steege, Tony Pontious, Dave Graham and Larry Parsons also won their matches.

At the Inland Empire tourney, a total of six teams will be taking part. This includes co-hosts Idaho and Washington State along with Boise State University, Montana, Weber State and Spokane Falls Community College.

Hundreds of American students placed in RECOGNIZED OVERSEAS MEDICAL SCHOOLS through Euromed!

For the session starting July, 1974, Euromed will assist qualified American students in gaining admission to recognized overseas medical schools.

And that's just the beginning.

Since the language barrier constitutes the preponderate difficulty in succeeding at a foreign school, the Euromed program also includes an intensive 12-16 week medical and conversational language course, mandatory for all students. Five hours daily, 5 days per week (12-16 weeks) the course is given in the country where the student will attend medical school.

In addition, Euromed provides students with a 12-16 week intensive cultural orientation program, with American students now studying medicine in that particular country serving as counselors.

Senior or graduate students currently enrolled in an American university are eligible to participate in the Euromed program.

BSU baseball team to meet Gonzaga

The Boise State University baseball team will get their first taste of Big Sky Conference action this week against the team some pick to win the Northern Division — of the loop — the Gonzaga Bulldogs.

The Broncos and the Bulldogs square-off for a doubleheader Thursday, April 4 at 1 pm on the Boise State field and then meet again for a nine-inning single game on Friday, April 5 at 1 pm.

Boise State has a 10-8 record going into their game with the Zags, not counting a game with Northwest Nazarene on Tuesday. The Zags are now 18-4. Boise State had a 2-2 record in the rain-plagued College Classic Tournament held in the Boise area last week while Gonzaga was 3-1 at the Classic.

The major plus coming out the Classic was the Bronco hitting. The team average at the plate jumped from .248 to .265 in four games. "Going into the Classic the one disappointment had been our hitting and our pitching had been good," commented head coach Ross Vaughn.

Paul Levar (2-1, 1.07 ERA) will start the first game against the Zags with Scott Hunsaker (3-1, 3.11 ERA) getting the nod in the second game of the twin bill. Either Jerry McConnell (1-2, 4.32 ERA) or Nick Mitchell (2-2, 5.96 ERA) will get the call in the nine-inning third game on Friday.

Leading the Broncos at the plate after 18 games is senior catcher Bruce Bergquist from Boise with .367. Third baseman Garry Allen, from Richland, Wash. is the second leading hitter with a .345 average.

The starting infield against Gonzaga will have Vic Wells at first with either Kent Peterson or Mike Guindon at second. Allen will be at third with Greg Frederick at shortstop. Junior Bob Papeorth, who was injured in the first game of the Classic, is a hopeful starter in left with Dan Armitage in center. Either Max Stith or Bob Murray will get the call in right field.

The BSU Outdoor Activities Club is sponsoring an overnite backpack trip to Halverson Lake this weekend. For details see Mike Wentworth in the SUB Game Room office.
