Congestion and all it’s diagnostics

Parking has long been a problem on this campus. Though there are more pressing problems, such as building adequate facilities, attracting outstanding educators, and student housing, parking remains the major obstacle to peace and tranquility here at Boise State University.

There is in existence a most unattractive reality that all commuters must face, the parking ticket. When a driver parks illegally, disregards the use of decals, or drives where he should not be driving, he is given one of those little epistles from the Office of Buildings and Grounds. Annoying as it sounds, that is just what happens.

Many of the people ticketed feel that they have been unjustly treated, or that this minor annoyance does not warrant any consideration whatsoever. Ergo, they simply ignore that little piece of paper until they are reminded by a semi-ugly letter from the folks whose job it is to let them know they have erred.

Most of the ignore-ants feel that they should have certain rights and privileges, and among these rights is the right to park wherever they please.

Because of the lack of response from students who have received these notifications of wrong-doing, it has come to my attention that drastic measures are being considered...measures that I do not approve of; however, they did not ask my opinion. There are rumors circulating that the parking situation on this campus may be turned over to the city of Boise.

Well, my friends, need I say more? We all know the effective means by which the city of Boise dealt with their parking problem. If we are invaded by our friends in blue, we can be assured of many useless hours spent in magistrate’s court being fined over and over again for a stupid parking violation.

Consider the cause and effects of our passed actions, I say “our” because I am as guilty as the next person...as a matter of fact, I owe this school $9.00 in past parking violations.

President greets students, explains changes in policy

Before this article becomes involved in the happenings of the past summer vacation, may I extend a welcome to Boise State University freshmen and transfer students and say “welcome back” to BSU’s returning students. I’m sure it would be safe to say that this summer seemed to pass too quickly.

Probably the first question that needs to be answered is, “why the $3.00 increase in student fees?”

This fee increase is for a new student insurance program offered through the Associated Student Body. Because of the many problems and complaints associated with last year’s insurance program, the ASB President’s office compiled new specifications for a new insurance program. These specifications were unanimously endorsed by the ASB Senate.

In these specifications, we called for local claims service which should omit the problems of delayed payment we had with last year’s policies. Also, we called for an on-campus representative to assist any student requiring help with his insurance claim(s). This representative, in my opinion, will play the most important part in this insurance program.

The representative from the insurance company, Tony Bello, will represent Boise State University freshmen and transfer students. The offices of the Arbiter and Associated Students are located on the second floor of the Student Union Building, Boise State University, 1910 College Blvd., Boise, Idaho, 83725.

Articles and letters to the editor must be received prior to 3:30 Monday the week before publication. All articles and letters to the editor must be typewritten and bear a legible signature.

Changes affect library

Changes in library circulation policies which go into effect on September 3 will be greeted as good news by some people and bad news by others. Most students will welcome the news that books will be checked out for one month, allowing those who like to get an early start on term papers to be spared the inconvenience of renewing books so many times. Exceptions to this policy are books from the McNair collection, periodicals, and reserve materials.

A little known policy which has been in effect for some time is that there is a five-day grace period: Fine will not be charged for books returned within five days after the due date. However, on the sixth day, the minimum fine of $1.50 is assessed and the fine will accumulate at 25 cents per day up to the cost of the materials.

If you cannot locate a book on the shelves, the circulation staff will search for it. Helpful can also be placed on books. A hold is placed if you will be called when the book arrives. If a book is not needed or that the person who has it out cannot renew it. Any book can be renewed after two weeks if requested by another campus borrower or recalled immediately for reserve. If you believe a book is lost, report it, and renew the book to allow time to locate it. Reporting a book lost will stop the fine from accruing.

When a person checks out library materials he/she assumes responsibility for those materials. The library will attempt to send two courtesy reminders of overdue materials, but failure to receive the notices does not relieve the borrower from responsibility for the return of those materials.

The library will take action on time or paying any charges incurred.

As usual, both the student photo ID card and the current active card with student number will be required to check out materials at all circulation desks. This is to prevent you from using the protection so that your name and student number cannot be forged by another person.

Books may be renewed once by telephone, and then must be brought to for a second renewal. The telephone number to call is 385-1204 for both general circulation and for reserve books.

The library exists to fulfill your information needs. We welcome suggestions or questions about the library. Please feel free to talk to any librarian or drop a note in the suggestion box.

History department adds three classes to lineup

Boise State University's History department has announced the addition of three new classes this fall.

"Diplomatic History of Europe Since 1815", a Special Topics course, will deal with international relations from the Congress of Vienna to the present. The role of nationalism in the 19th century and the resulting breakdown of European peace in 1914 will be emphasized. Effects on the 20th century resulting from that breakdown will also be closely examined.

Another Special Topics course, "History of Southeast Asia" will be offered. The course will deal with the historical development of Southeast Asia from earliest times to the present. Emphasis will be placed on colonial and post-colonial periods.

Countries to be studied include Burma, Thailand, Malaysia, Indonesia, Laos, Vietnam, Cambodia, and the Philippines.

An indepth survey into Islamic culture will be offered through a course entitled "Islamic Civilization".

Emphasis will be placed on the political organization, philosophy, art, and religion of the cultures from the birth of Mohammed through the 19th century.

Additional information can be obtained by contacting BSU's History Department, Room LAZ22, by phone 385-343.

Five new courses will be added to the growing Political Science program at Boise State University. Three Special Topics courses and two regular listings are offered for the first time this fall.

"Students and Politics", a Special Topics class will be offered on two levels. There will be a class for lower division students which will serve as a prerequisite for upper division work. These two classes will examine student political activism in historical, international, and contemporary perspectives. The development of the student into a political person will be analyzed with respect to political, psychological, and sociological factors at work within his life. The nature of confrontation politics in the 1960's and the effects of student radicalism on the political system will be highlighted.

"Intergovernmental Relations", an informative course which examines the inter-unit cooperation and conflict in the American Federal System. Also included will be a study of state-local relationships and metropolitan dispersal and integration.

In conjunction with the department of Societal & Bureaucratic Structure will be offered. The course is a socio-political analysis of the theories and concepts of complex social organizations, their application to public administration and the inter-relationship between political science and sociological organizational theory.

The Political Science department at Boise State University is located in room LA 120A. It can also be reached by phoning 385-1457.
Everything from alligator books to Zen is available at the 'Campus Store'.

by Kristi Kitchen

The Boise State University bookstore has gone through myriad of changes since the end of spring semester 1974. The old face has been replaced by a new manager and a changed philosophy. "Your Campus Store" exists primarily "to serve you - when you need", whatever your needs might be as a student, faculty or staff member.

The store is still located in the same floor lobby of the Student Union Building. Eight to five will be operating hours except during registration days when extended hours are needed to serve the students pre-registration needs. The store will be open from 8 AM to 9 PM, August 29 and 30; from 9 AM to 1 PM Saturday, August 31, and Saturday, September 7 and 14. "Your Campus Store" will continue to operate 8 to 9 hours the first week of school, September 3 through 6 and the second week, September 9 through 13 with regular hours resuming on September 16.

The store will be carrying along with the 3,420 required texts and 289 recommended titles, the usual school supplies, paper, pencils, pens, folders, staplers, and refillers for everything. Art and engineering students will find an entire section filled with the special equipment that these disciplines use.

Books carried are not restricted to just required and recommended types, general and specific reading of all kinds are carried in the store. The new manager, Betty Brock, is especially interested in the sort of books the Campus Store carries for the university community to build a permanent library from. Catagorical divisions have been created to group books together with the same subject. This "grouping" arrangement has resulted so far in ten sections. One of these, entitled "Liberation", concerns the women's and men's movements here and abroad. The section also includes titles dealing with the relationships between the sexes.

Next to this section, another new section is the vast field of "Metaphysics" including books on astrology, graphology, eastern religions, meditation. Tia Chi and similar disciplines with reading on psychic phenomenon in general.

Poetry follows with everything from Richard Brautigan to Walt Whitman. School of Business majors will be excited with the collection of books on industry, trade, commerce and corporation affairs. Capitalism Today, America Inc., and Religion and the Rise of Capitalism along with consumer interest titles are just a small example of what can be found there.

Ethnic studies, "How to..." and recreation will be found this year on the south wall. Recreation includes an enormous variety of books from bicycling to backpacking, to skiing, to sailing.

Any book not immediately available in the store can be special-ordered at a new "Service and Special Order" desk located approximately in the store center with only a 4-week wait or less. Also available for special order are diplomats of gratitude, plastic lamination of formal certificates and diplomas, the BSU rings, and Greek and other organizations' jewelry. Film and film processing will be taken care of there, also.

In recognition of the superior work of BSU's own campus departments, a new section has been established for student-created art, craft and literary work with another section for faculty authorship.

An extensive assortment of gift items and BSU embossed T-shirts are also being stocked in the Campus Store. Stationery, candles, BSU silk-screened mugs, cups, and steins, table study lamps, unusual greeting cards, binders and folders will be available in the store.

More students are working in the Campus Store this year than ever before. In the previous year, only one student was usually employed part-time during the regular school year. Now, the number of students has risen to sixteen. Ms. Brock's thinking includes utilizing the experience of more students to the store will better serve other students.

Also, a suggestion-questionsnaire is now in the front of the store to inform the store personnel of ideas, services and merchandise that customers would like to see materialized.

The changes in the Campus store are not over. Very soon, a money-order service will be available. And during the second or third week of September, an enormous sale will take place in the Campus Store with a large variety of useful and beautiful items priced to clear. The changes continue to occur daily, in response to the requests of those who use the store a great deal. If you have ideas, suggestions, criticisms or any other thoughts, Ms. Brock and her staff ask that they be informed so they may act "to serve your every need".

Curriculum enriched with 8 new English classes

The fall semester curriculum at Boise State University will be enriched with eight new classes offered by the English department.

"Women in Literature", will study recent fiction, poetry, and essays by or about women and will emphasize stereotypes and roles into which women are fitted and the problems created by these roles.

"Existentialism in Literature" delves into central problems relating to the interaction of Christianity and literature. Reading include selections from the New Testament, St. Augustine, Dante, "Future Studies" is an attempt to investigate the method of "future studies" including science fiction, with intent to determine the implication these studies have for individuals.

As a study of representative works of fiction, poetry, and drama written by Southern authors will be presented under the heading "Literature of the American South".

"Existential Experience in European Fiction" is a study of the existential experience and philosophy as manifested in the works of Dostoevsky, Laberbitz, Kafka, Camus, and Sartre.

"The Jazz Age and the Lost Generation" will offer a selection of the major works of the so-called "lost generation" whose most important writers gathered in Paris in the 1920's. Works will represent American, Irish, Canadian, and French literature of that age.

School of business welcomes seven new faculty members

A former head baseball coach, an oil industry consultant, and a lawyer are among the seven new faculty members being welcomed into the Boise State University’s School of Business this fall.

Patrick Shannon joins the BSU faculty as assistant professor of accounting and data processing, after completing a graduate teaching assistantship at the University of Oregon in Introductory Business Statistics.

He received his M.S. in management with emphasis on statistics, from the study of the network of social relationships and cultural values inherent in the economic systems of primitive and peasant people. Emphasis is placed on production, consumption, distribution, and exchange in non-industrial societies. An examination of the federal court system is made through a course entitled "Federal Court and Criminal Procedures." It includes a study of district courts, courts of appeal, and Supreme courts. A study of the "Juvenile Justice System" is an informative look into the multi-dimensional system designed to handle the juvenile offender: Police workings, juvenile courts, and other segments of social control agencies affecting the delinquent.

Questions regarding the Department of Societal and Urban Planning should be directed to Room A211 or phone 385-3406.

Health Services offers degree

Beginning this fall at BSU, the School of Education is offering a new baccalaureate degree. The bachelor of science degree in Health Science is an innovative program designed for students who want to enter the health field in biological, physical, and health sciences to build a strong foundation so they desire to pursue additional professional or graduate work.

The program is of particular interest to those students who are pursuing medical technology certification. It is also recommended for students in pre-medical, pre-dental, and pre-vegetarian programs.

The Department of Health Science, Room H102, phone 385-678, would be happy to answer any questions.

Urban studies sets four new class offerings

"Sociology of Health and Illness" is a study of the health care system, publicly and privately funded. Considering such variables as age, sex, social class, ethnic background, behavioral factors, values, and attitudes, a look is made at how illness is distributed in the community. There is an examination of health resources with regard to manpower, services and facilities will also be studied.

"Economic Anthropology" is a study of the distribution of wealth in society, analyzing the relationships and cultural values inherent in the economic systems of primitive and peasant people. Emphasis is placed on production, consumption, distribution, and exchange in non-industrial societies. An examination of the federal court system is made through a course entitled "Federal Court and Criminal Procedures." It includes a study of district courts, courts of appeal, and Supreme courts. A study of the "Juvenile Justice System" is an informative look into the multi-dimensional system designed to handle the juvenile offender: Police workings, juvenile courts, and other segments of social control agencies affecting the delinquent.

BSU welcomes former faculty members

Boise State Veterans receive increases in benefits, loans, services

This year, the Boise State Veterans may be eligible for some new benefits under Senate Bill 47. These include a 50 percent increase of benefits of up to 23 percent and change for both of these changes reflect the continuing process of streamlining Veterans of honor and awards. The Office of Veterans Affairs has increased available work study time to 1500 hours and eliminated both state sales tax and the ten-dollar expendable supply limit for Chapter 31 Veterans.

BSU hosts foreign students

BSU will host about 15 new foreign students this semester from such diverse countries as Kuwait, Korea, Nigeria, Venezuela, and Germany. Some of these students will find the alien American culture difficult and a little overwhelming. To ease this situation, the International Club is asking for volunteer BSU students to help, on a one-to-one basis, with the cultural orientation. The BSU student would simply act as a guide, informant, and cultural liaison to the new foreign students, thereby assisting the cultural changeover on an individual level. Interested students should leave a message for Alan LeBaron at the Student Body Office.
Twelve new faculty members bring diverse backgrounds

The twelve new members of Boise State University’s School of Arts and Sciences are from a wide range of educational and professional backgrounds. They bring extensive experience to the BSU faculty as an associate professor after earning a master’s degree in the arts and humanities.

Dr. Benford has been a member of the Latin American Studies Association, the National Humanities Center, the Association of Southern California, and the American Historical Association. Dr. Bonacossa has also been a contributing editor to the Library of Congress Humanities Research Foundation on the Caribbean area.

Robert Marsh, associate professor of sociological and historical studies, comes to BSU from Sam Houston University where he received his M.A. in criminology and corrections. He too, is pursuing a Ph.D. in criminology with an extensive background in criminal and correctional studies.

He has been honored as a Houston Foundation Fellow; served as a consultant to the Peace Corps Programs at Augusta State and St. John’s colleges; and worked as a consultant to the South Dakota police.

To enhance his personal and professional knowledge, Marsh has traveled extensively in Mexico, western Europe, and South Africa. He is currently working on his Ph.D. and has also worked in programming at the University of Illinois at Columbia in 1971. He has been teaching for the past seven years at the University of Wisconsin.

BSU student enrolled in armed forces plan

Boise State University has been notified by the Potato Growers Association of Idaho, Inc., that an agricultural scholarship in the amount of $1000 per year for the next five years has been established.

A recent recipient of her Ph.D. in history at Cornell University, Dr. Susan Caldwell will become an associate professor of foreign languages and will be a teaching assistant at Boise State University. She has a broad background in art, history, and Spanish; and will be teaching at Boise State University.

Dr. Caldwell has taught at Cornell University, Johnson State College, Vermont, and Idaho State College of Education.

Dr. Caldwell spent a year studying French literature and art at the Sorbonne in Paris, France, and has taught at the Middlebury College in Vermont.

Her enrollment in the U.S. Army will begin September 1. Prior to her enlistment, she had been enrolled at Idaho State University in its Licensed Practical Nursing program.

BFA department helps out smaller businesses

The School of Business at Boise State University will, for the second consecutive year, assist small businesses throughout the Treasure Valley.

The Small Business Administration’s (SBA) has signed a contract with the school for the second year in a row to provide services to the students of various academic backgrounds to lend their knowledge to businessmen in need of assistance.

The program is also a practical laboratory experience for seniors and graduate students, according to Dr. Charles Phillips, chairman, Department of Business Administration.

The program offers an opportunity for senior and graduate students to receive hands-on experience in the field of entrepreneurship.

Potato Growers donate $1000 for scholarships

Boise State University has been notified by the Potato Growers Association of Idaho, Inc., that an agricultural scholarship in the amount of $1000 per year for the next five years has been established.

The scholarship, in memory of Dr. Ben K. Humphrey, of Rupert, Idaho, is entitled the “Paato Growers of Idaho, Inc., Scholarship Fund”.

The grant will be awarded to the first student at $1000 per year for five years, or two students at $500 per year for five years.

Students from Idaho’s three universities will be considered for the scholarship. Applicants must be currently enrolled in the institution.

Written applications, in the student’s own words, should be submitted before the first of May by completing the application form and returning it to the Potato Growers of Idaho, Inc., Executive Committee, P.O. Box 949, Blackfoot, Idaho 83221.

New insurance plan raises benefits, accrues advantages

This year’s student health insurance plan is being underwritten by the Dawl Life Insurance Company of Chicago, Illinois. The plan is administered by the Health Services, Inc., a local Boise insurance company. The coverage is paid by Tonyello.

The new plan provides benefits for the BSU student. Two of them are the major Medical Expense Benefit, which is not offered by any other plan.

Under this benefit, the company will pay the first $1000 in full and 80 percent of expenses actually incurred up to, but no exceeding $7500 for any one accident or sickness. In developing the specification for the plan, BSU felt that a student should have some sort of major medical coverage in the event of a prolonged sickness or hospital stay.

The second feature is the hospital room and board. The plan is designed to cover the hospital’s semi-private room rate per day beginning with the first five days of care and limited to $50 per day. In addition to the list of benefits, which are covered in detail in the insurance brochures, all claims will be processed by the insurance company.

Vo-tech receives grant

* People with an interest in office repair can take advantage of openings now available at Boise State University Vocational-Technical education program.

While popularity of vo-tech programs at BSU appears to be at an all-time high, according to vo-tech counselor Charles Dziroukas, the office machine repair program is one of the few with openings remaining.

The two year program is being further upgraded this year, thanks to a grant from the National Science Foundation. Together with matching Bush funds, 42,800 is being used to purchase four oscilloscopes and eight voltage detectors for the program. The new equipment will be used to trace circuits in electronic office machines.

The program is geared for work with the latest and most sophisticated office equipment on the market, including photocopier and duplicating equipment, electronic typewriters, and electronic manual calculators.

To sign up, contact BSU's vo-tech counseling office from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. today or phone 385-1431. Fall semester begins Sept. 3.

Bookstore explains book charges

Many students wonder each semester about the cost of the textbooks that they must purchase for their classes. It might be of interest to know that the Campus Store loses 10 cents on each textbook that is sold. This information comes from a 1967 survey of the Textbook Publishing Industry and the Ernst and Ernst report of College Store Operations with updated material about 1973 prices and not including higher textbook-stores rates resulting in lower charges. The breakdown is as follows:

21.2 This goes to the author for his or her research, typing, editing, travel and other items connected with writing the book.
59.7 Publishers expenses: 5.5 Publishers services. Covers maintaining records, the storage of textbooks, the shipping and handling. Also billing, accounting and financing to move books from the publisher to the college store and keep accurate records.
30.7 Books are bought and sold at a discount. When students request a particular book, the bookstore must order the book. The publisher must then print the book and ship it to the bookstore. The bookstore then pays for the book at a discount.
5.5 Publishers services. Covers maintaining records, the storage of textbooks, the shipping and handling. Also billing, accounting and financing to move books from the publisher to the college store and keep accurate records.
27.1 Publishers production and editorial expenses. Under this, making arrangements for the book to be written; edit manuscripts, prepare illustrations, design, making and proofing galleys and page proofs; making plates to print pages; purchasing paper, printing and delivering to the warehouse.
6.3 Publishers expenses: Covers employee welfare, rent, heating, lights, and salaries not included in other items.
13. Publishers sales and promotional expenses: Covers the salaries and expenses of people in the field plus complimentary copies sent to professors. Also includes printed material: mailing pieces, catalogs, ads in professional newspapers.
7.8 To the publisher: Capital for author advances, reinvestment of capital for new products, new development, and 3 percent annum to stockholders.
10. Store operating expenses: Includes the expenses required to maintain and operate an efficient store. Spans all costs of running the store from cost of physical facilities through accounting, record keeping, transportation and services from publishers and textbooks and a myriad of other expenses.
10. Excludes which do not include sales-tax.
10- Total. This represents a 10- to 10-cent per book loss to the campus store.

Honors program offers six new classes, seminars, special topics

The Honors Program at Boise State University is constantly expanding its classes. This fall will offer six new classes as well as several expanded seminars.

To aid advancement of incoming students who wish to pursue certification, three new classes are being offered. They are: "Principles of Accounting - AC 203-01 & AC 203-02," and "Intermediate Accounting - AC 303-03."

"Foundations of Education" is a seminar course for beginning teachers, for either 1 or 2 credits depending on fulfillment required. Funda-

Basic Library Skills is geared toward incoming students who are registered for an honors seminar at the University Library. Aimed specifically at the BSU Library, the course will offer one hour of self-paced, self-directed study.

This fall, as before, there will be a general meeting of all students who have registered for an honors seminar at time topics and scheduled times will be presented. Those interested may sign up with Dr. William Mech, Room 408-G, BSU Library, phone 385-1431. Students will be happy in answer questions or provide additional information.

Forensic students plan open house, events

An open house for all students interested in debate and individual events is being planned for Thursday, September 5, according to Mr. James DeMoux, forensic's special topics course held in the Tetron room of the SUB at 7:30 p.m.

This year's debate topic is Resolved: That the power of the President should be significantly curtailed. Many events are also available in individuals. Oratory, extemporaneous speaking, impromptu, exposition of interpretation and many others.

The team will be attending tournaments in Washington, California, Colorado, Montana, and Utah among others. Students who participate are eligible to join Pi Kappa Delta, a national forensic honorary. The next Pi Kappa Delta meeting will be held in late March in Philadelphia.

"We think we have a good possibility of doing well," DeMoux said. "We have won 1 or 2 stroke matches at the Idaho Speech Conference this year. At the last National Pi Kappa Delta tournament covered 150 colleges and universities, many of them 'name' schools were represented. Of that total, only 10 schools were awarded superior in debate, Boise State was one of them."

For more information call 385-3328 or come by Room 117 of the administration building.

Minority affairs plans grant proposals, assistance programs

As an expanded minority tutorial assistance program, a regular minority affairs newsletter, and increased grant proposals are only a few of the activities this year by the Minority Affairs Board.

Minority students will be on the floor at registration to answer questions and clear up any specific problems of new students from different ethnic background.

The Minority Affairs Office, Room 117 of the Administration Building is looking toward becoming a "one-stop shop" to the Center this year to permit further increases in facilities and services.

Business seminar slated for September 16 at BSU

An informative seminar for individuals owning a business or planning to start a business will be held September 14 on the Boise State University campus.

Participants: The Donald M. Dibble, author of the book on Your Own Organisation, Dibble has founded five small businesses in the past three years.

Sponsored by the Center for Business Development and Research at the University and the Center for Business and Economic Research at BSU, the seminar will cover the how and where of raising business capital.

The Pop Concerts is alive and well this fall and hopes to have the biggest year yet at Boise State University. We are currently looking to David Loggins, Mac Davis, Earl Scruggs, Jim Stafford and Roberta Flack. We would like to much student input as possible to find out exactly what kind of groups you want to see and hear this year. The Concert Committee is open to any student who is interested. Organizational mail boxes

Each recognized student organization has a campus mailbox in the Programs Office located on the second floor in the Student Union. Please pick up your mail regularly, as these mailboxes are small and your club may have some important mail.

THE ROCKING HORSE WINNER

Made in 1950, before the movies had begun to tap D.H. Lawrence as a literary source, THE ROCKING HORSE WINNER was not much an attempt to introduce Lawrence to movie audiences as it was a means of utilizing one of his more macabre stories at the tail end of a curious cycle of a largely super-famous of all, DEAD OF NIGHT.

Audiences frankly were not ready for it; the Lawrence purists found it too much of a movie, the thriller fanatics found it too literary, and the star devotees were appalled to find their favorites performing in out-of-character and often unsympathetic roles. Early audiences seemed not to understand it — that they had an interesting film and that it has a whole new audience ready to discover one of the most startling and off-beat British films of the early 50's.

Union still growing

The major objectives of the Student Union at Boise State University for the 1974-75 school year is to grow in quality by improving and expanding. We shall at all times strive to enhance and enrich the lives of as many students as possible, by offering a well-rounded program of productive and meaningful, as well as entertaining activities. A special effort shall be made to include a much larger percentage of individual students and student organizations within the various phases of the program.

Perhaps our major objective this year will be to progress with the thought that with every physical expansion and every activity we will first search for quality and a touch that will have a lasting effect for our new university.

Pop concerts alive, well

The Pop Concerts is alive and well this fall and hopes to have the biggest year yet at Boise State University. We are currently looking to David Loggins, Mac Davis, Earl Scruggs, Jim Stafford and Roberta Flack. We would like to much student input as possible to find out exactly what kind of groups you want to see and hear this year. The Concert Committee is open to any student who is interested. Just stop in at the Programs Office in the second floor of the SUB and put in an application. Who knows, we may get Lawrence Welk.

Organizational mail boxes

Each recognized student organization has a campus mailbox in the Programs Office located on the second floor in the Student Union. Please pick up your mail regularly, as these mailboxes are small and your club may have some important mail.

Opportunity to Rush

Rush will move into full swing next week when it officially begins on September 3 at 7:00 PM in the Nez Perce room of the Student Union Building. According to Christa Rix, assistant director of activities, there is more than a one-hundred percent increase this year of the number of coeds who will participate in the social activities over last year. The traditional rush activities are planned to give non-members a chance to look at each house and provide the sororities the opportunity to meet potential members.

Kappa Sigma wins the annual TKE raft race, one of the many events of Greek Week.

Delta Delta Delta stress scholarship, fun

Delta Delta Delta is one of four National "Social" Sororities on Boise State's campus. This chapter was started in 1969 and has a House located at 1010 Lincoln. The officers for this year are: Pati Lind, Social Chairman; Stacie Reichenbacher, Vice-President and Pledge Trainer; and Teri Robinson, President.

Delta Delta Delta's philanthropy is to award a scholarship to any full-time woman student at Boise State University. We also raise money for the research and care of cancer in children.

This sorority also stresses the importance of high scholarship and good study habits. We have always maintained one of the highest scholarship averages for organizations on campus.

Some of our social activities include: Fireales, exchanges with the various fraternities, retreats to increase the numbers of members who will participate in the social activities over last year. The traditional rush activities are planned to give non-members a chance to look at each house and provide the sororities the opportunity to meet potential members.

TKE's sponsor 'Back to School' dance

The members of Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity are starting off the fall semester, 1974, with their annual "Back to School" dance. The dance will be on Wednesday, September 4. Students can Boogie Backwooda from 8:00 to 1:00. Beer will be served and Happy Hour will be from 8:00 to 9:00 PM. The TKE's are actively working in campus affairs, such as IFC, college activities, and Homecoming Chapter functions for the fall highlight exchanges with the other fraternities. Their planned activities also include the annual TKE-IK Toilet Bowl game, and community projects. Their planned activities also include the annual TKE-IK Toilet Bowl game, and community projects. Don't forget Veterans

The Esquire Club is one of the oldest student organizations at Boise State University, having been organized in 1953. It has as its purpose the promotion of social gatherings, aiding returning veteran in any needed adjustments, and the furthering of good will throughout the community.

Membership is open to male and female veterans of the U.S. Armed Forces. Prospect members must have at least two years' active duty time and have been honorably discharged. Members of the reserve must have completed active duty requirements and at least two years' service.

A number of activities include the sponsorship of a Homecoming Queen candidate, softball and basketball teams, and the annual Esquire Club golf tournament for students and faculty. Additionally, the Esquire Club participates in the annual fall race and many social activities such as our fall and spring "Smokers" and Christmas party.

Club service projects have included: "Gold Dust", the BSU Marathon, the Fountain (opposite the Library) which serves meals to others. In addition, the Esquire Club is active in the BSU scholarship program and as a sponsor of Veterans Vietnam Day. Those interested in joining the Esquire Club may contact Gary Berencomo BSU Veterans Affairs Office, 355-3579; Tom Thomas, 375-2053; Chuck Jasper, 375-2661; Tom Litz, 344-3606, or any Esquire Club member. Welcome aboard.
Boise State University’s Art Department is offering four classes this fall that are new to its growing curriculum.

“Beginning Weaving” is a basic, down-to-earth course designed to introduce weaving from its beginning stages. Students will learn on primitive looms and off the loom. They will be instructed on how to wash, card, spin, and dye their own wool.

“Tapestry Weaving” will cover a variety of tapestry techniques. Students will do their weaving on handmade tapestry frame looms.

A Special Topics course being offered is “Fabrics”. The course will instruct students on the art of “designing with various fabrics” which includes such things as stuffed three-dimensional forms, quilt making, macrame, fabric jewelry, and wall hangings.

“Leaded Glass Crafts”, also a Special Topics course, is designed to introduce students to leaded glass as an artistic media and craft. Instruction and actual experience will be implemented in creating artwork using glass with the leaded foil method, cutting, staining glass, etc. Emphasis will be placed on three-dimensional objects such as terrariums, lamps, etc.

Please direct any inquiries to Boise State University’s Art Department, Room LA252-F, or phone 385-1247.

Art classes come in many shapes and sizes and so does the art work the students produce.

Art students do many things besides the usual. Here students work with metals later to be made into statuary.

Different techniques are taught to achieve different effects.

The Theatre Arts Department of Boise State University has scheduled a challenging number of activities for the ensuing year. The department will produce five major productions, host two conferences, offer established and new courses, provide touring children's theatre for Boise area elementary schools, and entertain civic and school organizations with the offerings of the theatre Repertory Group.

Participation in theatre activities is open to all BSU students regardless of major.

This year's theatre season offers a wide selection of dramatic experiences. A Greek tragedy, "The Trojan Women" by Euripides, opens an action-packed season with a ten-night run beginning October 17. This powerful and moving play which concerns the pitiful fate of the survivors of Troy will be directed by Dr. Lauterbach, Department chairman. Dr. Robert E. Ericson will direct the second show of the fall semester, "The Thumber Carnival". This delightful and merry revue by America's beloved James Thurber will play December 5-14.

Samuel Beckett's "Waiting for Godot" will be offered as the first show of second semester, running from January 30 through February 8. Guest director, Larry West, will stage this engrossing comic and tragic view of the human condition.

"Born Yesterday" by Garson Kanin will be performed March 7-15 under the direction of Dr. Ericson. "Born Yesterday," a successful comedy twenty years ago, is again timely through its story of governmental payoffs and arm-twisting.

The season will end on a shivery, shuddery note with the production of "Count Dracula" by Ted Tiller. Dr. Lauterbach will direct this adaptation of Bram Stoker's classic tale of vampires and victims which plays April 24 through May 3.

All BSU students with activity cards may obtain free admission to major productions by calling and reserving seats in advance.

The Theatre Arts Department will host the Rocky Mountain Theatre Conference. Over two hundred delegates from five western states are expected to attend the three-day conference beginning October 31.

In addition to the Rocky Mountain Theatre Conference, the Theatre Arts Department will sponsor the Annual Idaho Invitational Theatre Arts Festival.

In late January, high school students from all parts of Idaho will meet on campus to compete for theatre scholarships and awards. Last year's theatre festival attracted about 500 students.

This year's offerings in the Department of Theatre Arts provide chances for a variety of dramatic and theatrical training. Of special interest this semester is Roger Bedard's class "Creative Writing" and "Creative Theatre," which may be attended by America's beloved James Thurber will play December 5-14.

Children's theatre and repertory theatre are two means by which the theatre department serves the Boise area community. In the children's theatre program, BSU students create short plays and entertainments for elementary school children and perform them in the local schools. Last spring alone, over 14,000 young people were treated to live theatre by the BSU's children's theatre group under the supervision of Roger Bedard.

The repertory theatre program may be unique. In this program, students prepare short scenes from plays and other entertainments. This prepared material is then utilized in a variety of performance experiences. Scenes are presented as an aid to education in the Introduction to Theatre classes for civic groups such as the Rotarians, as well as high school assemblies which are provided with university level performance.

The major activities outlined above consume a great deal of student time and energy. The department can always use talent and skills on and off stage. As Dr. Ericson, Department Chairman, says, "All BSU students are most welcome to participate in any capacity involving theatre programs. It is not necessary to be a theatre major to do theatre work. All we ask is your interest and dedication with just a bit of blood, sweat, and tears thrown in!" BSU students can help theatre on campus by attending Subal Theatre productions. Many students do not realize that they may receive free admission to all Theatre Arts productions. Student fees are used, in part, to produce the plays so it is only fair that students should be allowed to attend plays without cost. Tickets are free, but reservations must be made due to limited number of seats in the Subal Theatre. Productions run for ten nights to accommodate as many students as possible. The Subal Theatre box office will be open afternoons one week prior to opening night. Reservations may be made by phone. Reservations will be held until fifteen minutes before curtain. If tickets are not picked up by then, the reservation is cancelled and the tickets may be given or sold to any waiting theatre patrons.
Besides the usual classes students in choir often travel and perform for the public.

Band students also perform publically.

Knap Greets 1974 Football Squad

Boise State University head coach Tony Knap began his seventh year as the man in charge of the football fortunes of the Broncos Wednesday, August 21, when he greeted some 90 grid prospects.

The Broncos went before the television lights, pictures, and interviews in the traditional "Picture Day" Wednesday afternoon and had physicals and equipment issued to them.

The team members got into their own kind of teaching on Thursday when they held a football clinic for some 100 Optimist "Little League" football players. The Optimist players watched the Broncos go through physical tests on the field and in the afternoon they went out on the field with the Broncos for pointers at their respective positions.

The serious work began Thursday afternoon with the first regular practice session with two-a-days slated for Friday.

"We always face a new challenge in the fall," Knap said. "We have a fine group of returning veterans and newcomers. I am looking forward to the season!"

The Broncos will again be in the running for the Big Sky Conference football championships this year. Last season they won the title with a perfect 6-0 league mark and have been selected to repeat the honor (a selection which has been the "Kiss of Death" in past years).

Boise State will open their season September 14 against Cal Poly (SLO) in San Luis Obispo, California, and then return home for a clash with Chico State University in Bronco Stadium on September 21.

The spirit and color of the Old West are kept alive in this modern era through the rugged sport of college Rodeo. The Boise State Rodeo team is a member of the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association. There are more than 150 colleges and universities in the N.I.R.A.

Boise State is in the Rocky Mountain region of the N.I.R.A. and competes against 15 schools in Idaho and Utah. With a nucleus of many returning members, this year's team could be very strong. Anyone interested in the team, please contact Gary Rebelito at the Food Service Office.

The field hockey team coached by Connie Thorngren will open its season against College of Idaho on September 26. Highlights for the season will be a trip to Moscow on October 26 and 27 to play University of Idaho, Washington State University, and the University of Victoria, and attendance at the Northwest "A" Division tournament at Central Washington State College on November 22 and 23.

The hockey team was undefeated in 12 games last year and this year will have a bigger and tougher schedule. Practice will begin Tuesday, September 3 at 2:30. All women are invited to come out for the team even if they have never played field hockey.

Gymnastics team practice will be daily from 2:30 to 4:30. Contact coach Pat Holman for more information. Gymnastics competition will begin in January.

Tennis buffs who have a hard time finding partners need look no more. The sports department is sponsoring a Saturday morning tennis club open to all men and women from beginners to advanced, according to Jean Boyles, tennis club advisor.

The club is slated to begin play Saturday, September 7 and continue until "The snow flies", according to Boyles. The times are from 9:00 AM until noon.

...The club's main function is to provide partners for tennis freaks and also to provide a place to play.

The women's varsity tennis team is getting underway according to Jean Boyles, coach, and all interested girls are invited to participate. The team plays in inter-school competition and all those who are interested are urged to contact Jean Boyles at 385-1570, as soon as possible.

The Broncos open their schedule in a home game on November 30 against Athletes in Action and then host Utah State on December 2 in Boise. Coach Bus Connor's team then travels to Seattle for a game with the Washington Huskies on December 6.

Two Idaho Baseballers Sign With Broncos

Two baseball players from the State of Idaho have signed national letters of intent to attend Boise State University this fall, according to Bronco baseball coach Ross Vaughn.

The two players are junior college transfer Steve Patton from Payette, Idaho, and freshman Larry Frommington from Caldwell, Idaho.

Patton, who is a infielder and outfielder, played for Treasure Valley Community College where he batted .345 last spring. He was an honorable mention All American in the National Junior College Athletic Association. He bats and throws right-handed.

Frommington was not only a pitcher for the Caldwell High School team, but was also a hurler for the Caldwell Silver Streaks American Legion team. The Silver Streaks were the state American Legion champions.

The left-handed hurler was a member of the All-District high school team while compiling a 7-2 mark. He was 10-3 while pitching for the Silver Streaks this past summer.

Broncos Ranked High

Boise State's football team is fifth in the nation among Division II and III teams in scoring offense over the past five years. In statistics released by the National Collegiate Sports Services (NCSS), the Broncos have averaged 32.06 points per game the past five years.

Leading the list among Division II and III schools was Tennessee State with 37.08 ppg the past five years. The other top schools are Delaware, 36.53; West Chester, 34.57; FI. Valley State, 33.60 and then Boise State with their 32.06.

The NCSS also said that Bronco head coach Tony Knop is ranked 13th among active Division II and III coaches in winning percentage with a .724 mark.

Knop, in 10 years of coaching (four at Utah State and six at BSU), has a 77-20-1 mark. Since coming to Boise State, he has a 32-15-0 mark for a winning percentage of .676. The coach with the most wins is Dave Maurer of Wittenberg, who has a 41-8-0 (.837) mark in his five years of being head coach.

The Broncos are also listed as the sixteenth winningest football team in the past five seasons in Division II and III. Boise State has a 42-12 mark with a winning percentage of .778 in those five years. Leading the list of winningest teams is Tennessee State with a 45-3-1 mark and a winning percentage of .929.
What can just one private citizen do?

Ralph Nader urges you to become a Public Citizen

Dear Fellow Citizen:

Imagine that 25 or 30 years ago citizens concerned about the future quality of life in America had gotten together to do something about it. Suppose they had begun an effective citizen's campaign to make government agencies and industry management sensitive and responsive to the needs of the people. The real needs, of all the people.

Think how much that was already wrong would have been corrected by now. Think how much that has gone wrong since then would never have been allowed to happen.

If the public had acted years ago, we would long ago have eliminated or minimized the inexcusable pockets of poverty in our land of plenty; the vile and violent contaminants that pollute our air and water; the ravaging of our land by insensitive corporate and government forces; the sickness, often lethal, chemicals, gases and dust in most of our factories, boundaries and mines; the unstratified power and expenditures of our military establishment; the inequities in taxation that takes 20% of workers' wages while many with enormous incomes pay little or nothing. Our people would not be disenchanted and disillusioned. And the prevailing mood in America would not have turned from confidence and pride to growing feelings of frustration and outrage and hopelessness.

What if we don't act now?

In another 20 years our population will have doubled. What if our rampant economic "growth" is allowed to continue in disregard of the hopes and interests of the people?

What if we continue to do nothing because we assume that others are taking care of these problems?

Who's taking care of them?

It is clear that our institutions, public and private, are not really performing their regulatory functions. They tend not to control power democratically, but to concentrate it and to serve special interest groups at the expense of voiceless citizens. Almost all the organized legal representation in our country is working to protect private interests and private wealth.

Who represents the citizen? Only our- selves. And that is why I urge you, as a public citizen—a citizen concerned about your community, your country—to support Public Citizen. If we do not speak up in the public interest now, if we allow the problems to multiply, life in America could be intolerable. Perhaps impossible.

Citizen Advocates—Citizen Supporters

A Cause for Optimism

We have seen how a few determined citizens can overcome the overwhelming odds to better their communities. What has been accomplished so far is not the work of one person but of more than 30 young men and women—lawyers, other professionals and students. If more valiant and dedicated people were able to work on a broader scale, think how much more could be accomplished.

Thousands of graduates of law, medical, science and engineering schools and other disciplines want to work long hours, at minimal wages in the public interest. They know that our society cannot solve its problems if all our most highly trained professionals work for private industry or government agencies.

If these selfless young people are willing to sacrifice conventional rewards to pioneer the future, other public spirited citizens will rally to help make it possible for them to do so.

Through Public Citizen, we ask concerned students to contribute $5.00. Non-students are sending $15.00 or more to support a 30-member, hard-working group of these citizen-advocates. Through published studies and documentation, they will help to sharpen pubic awareness of our problems. Public awareness leads to public action. Historically, the idealism and energy of students has been a potent force for change. We hope to provide a dynamic vehicle and clear goals for those hopeful qualities by organizing student supported public interest groups throughout the country to work for lasting change through an orderly, democratic system.

They will represent disadvantaged minority groups, before the various legal agencies of state and federal governments. They will seek to temper the actions of large corporations that have acquired power far out of proportion to their contributions to society.

In an important way, every major company touches on the lives of thousands of people—employees, consumers, retailers, taxpayers and whole communities. Shouldn't these people have a voice about policies that directly and adversely affect them? Must not a just legal system accord victims the ability to deter forces that tend to victimize them?

A way must be found to make a real impact on corporate boardrooms—and on government agencies that often serve as protectors, even service arms, of the industries they are supposed to regulate. Bureaucrats cannot easily resist the overwhelming pressures of special interest lobbies in Washington and state capitals. But there can be a greater countervailing pressure—the determination of citizens lobbying for the public interest.

Once a year, as a Public Citizen supporter, you will receive a report on significant new citizen involvements that have been effective in achieving reform or relief at the local, state, or national level. Hopefully, you will apply them in the areas of your own commitment to action. Citizenship skills must be continually sharpened and used if we are to succeed in preventing or diminishing injustice.

Potentially, there are 200 million of us unaided to work full-time for the public interest but with a full-time anxiety about it. Think how much can be accomplished if enough private citizens become public citizens.

Please mail the coupon and your check for $5 or more to help Public Citizen continue and expand the work that is already under way.

Let it not be said by a future, forlorn generation that we wanted and lost on great potential because our despair was too deep, we didn't even try, or because each of us thought someone else was worrying about our problems.

Sincerely,

Ralph Nader
