No confidence petition collects 1,054 signatures

BY MONICA PIXCE Special to The Arbiter

Students in Morrow's computer policy class were brought into classroom for confidence petition including ASB student Affairs, President David Morriss, and would support a recall if it were to take place. A list of people were listed on a whiteboard in the room as people who would support a recall if it were to take place. The list included students, faculty, and staff members who support a recall of President David Morriss.

The recall petition was set to be held on Tuesday, May 10th, at 4:40 PM in the Student Union on the Boise State University campus. The petition is being held in response to the recent events concerning the diversity gift controversy, which has caused a lot of controversy on campus.

The Boise State Women's Center is leading the charge for the recall petition, and has already collected over 1,000 signatures in support of the recall. The petition is aimed at removing President David Morriss from office due to his handling of the diversity gift controversy.

As the Boise State's contraband policy continues to be implemented across campus, students are seeing the effects of the new regulations. The policy, which was implemented in the fall of 2003, bans the possession of any weapons or dangerous items on campus. Violations of the policy can result in fines, suspension, or even expulsion.

The policy also prohibits the use of any alcohol on campus, with the exception of the A & E bar located in the Student Union. Alcohol is only allowed to be consumed in the bar and cannot be brought anywhere else on campus. The policy also prohibits the use of any drugs, including prescription drugs, on campus.

The purpose of the policy is to create a safe and secure environment for students, faculty, and staff members. The policy is being enforced by the Boise State Police Department, who are working to ensure that the policy is being followed.

The policy has been met with some criticism from students, who feel that it is too restrictive and infringes on their freedom. However, the policy is being strongly enforced across campus, and students are beginning to see the effects of the new regulations.
Gay rights program brought to Boise State

BY BERT ANDERSON Special to The Arbiter

This fall, George Mangel was putting on his pants. He, and other members of the Boise State faculty and students upset for a lesbian wedding, lost it at higher academics.

"We worked really hard to make a program that they would open minds to the idea of homosexuality," said Stephanie Neu, Driscoll Hall resident advisor.

"They weren't so supportive. Posters received among most of their peers take for granted," said Neu.

Morrison has been quick to say he's not the person people are making sour grapes." According to Ishaq, 1,054 signatures were received for the petition and letters asking for support from the Alumni Association. Kustra, the Faculty Senate and Student Senate both endorsed the idea.

"I was a student ID number to Skaggs. Skaggs ran for election with 1,700 votes, petition for the Alumni Association," said Neusaid. "We are going to ask Morriss to work at a state and local level to support the movement of higher education. I wish BSU students to have the one on one contact with professors, to understand the implications of the past-great-graduates.

"In my first three years, I never thought about being in a relationship," said Neu. "I think that a gay couple should be able to have the same love and marriage that I am not for gay."

"You've got seven institutions working at a state and local level to support the movement of higher education. I wish BSU students to have the one on one contact with professors, to understand the implications of the past-great-graduates.

Same-Gender Marriage

By Dr. Debra Butler

Gay and lesbian couples have been living together for the past 30 years. They have been raising children, working, and sharing their lives with each other in their relationships. However, the laws in their respective states have not allowed them to marry. As a result, they have been unable to adopt children, collect inheritance, and receive spousal support, to name just a few examples. The new Supreme Court decision on same-gender marriage may turn this situation around.

Current marriage-centric laws result in the unmarried making an average of 20% less than married couples for the same work due to the structure of health-care, housing, insurance, and income support systems. The benefits granted to singles are denied to gay and lesbian couples. In 2006, the Vermont legislature passed the same-spouse marriage law, which defines marriage as a union between two people of the same sex. The remaining states have either not adopted a specific definition of marriage or are economically and socially unequal.

Marriage is a necessary social institution. It provides a framework for the establishment of monogamous relationships, with nonequivalent rights and responsibilities. It creates a sacramental aspect to the legal institution of marriage. The ceremony performed and sanctified by a minister or judge is necessary to be valid under the law. A marriage will have to be recognized across states as to same-gender couples. This decision may turn the situation around.

In the U.S., the Constitution makes marriage possible for same-gender couples. The U.S. Constitution includes marriage as a fundamental right that the government must respect and protect.

In the United States, the Constitution, which includes the Bill of Rights, makes marriage possible for same-gender couples. The Bill of Rights includes the right to marry, which is a fundamental right of all citizens.

The main concern of the plaintiffs is to be allowed to marry as a same-gender couple, which would include the right to inherit and have the same rights and responsibilities as opposite-gender couples. In 2003, the Massachusetts supreme court held that gay and lesbian couples are entitled to the same benefits as opposite-gender couples, including the benefits granted to singles. Sports
Letter from ASBSU President David Morrise

Fellow Broncos:

I am writing to you today for a number of reasons. First, to ask you to vote for me in the upcoming election for student body president. I have been an active and engaged member of the ASBSU community for the past several years, and I believe that I am well-suited to the role of student body president. I would like to bring to you some of the things that I have accomplished and some of the things that I plan to accomplish if elected to this position.

Firstly, the Club Store and the Student Union have been able to increase their revenue by 50% and 20% respectively. We have also been able to negotiate a new lease agreement with the Boise State Bookstore, which will allow us to continue providing a wide range of services to the student body.

Secondly, I have been involved in the planning and execution of several important events, including the annual Cultural Exchange Day and the national student government conference. These events have allowed us to bring together students from all over the country to share ideas and experiences.

Thirdly, I have been involved in the development and implementation of several important policies, including the new campus safety plan and the student conduct code. These policies have helped to ensure a safe and respectful environment for all members of the student body.

Finally, I have been actively involved in leading the ASBSU budget process, which has led to a significant increase in the budget for the upcoming academic year. This budget will allow us to continue providing the services and programs that the student body values.

I am confident that I can help to lead the student body in the future, and I would be honored to have your support. I look forward to working with you to make Boise State an even better place to be.

Sincerely,

David Morrise
ASBSU President
