Storm water treatment system
Boise State University

Storm water pollution control is an important aspect of urban land development. Boise State University recently completed a project to improve storm water management on campus. The project involved the installation of a vortex type treatment system near the stadium to treat storm water from the complex. The fourth phase of the project is expected to be completed in the fall, which will significantly reduce storm water runoff into the Boise River.

In mid June, BSU moved into the former sports complex of Albertson's library. The fourth phase of the project is expected to be completed in the fall, which will significantly reduce storm water runoff into the Boise River.

Questions:
1. How do you feel about the 911 Commission's findings that the war in Iraq was started under false pretenses? Does this change your view of the war?
2. Do you think there should be a special commission to look into the 911 terrorist attacks? Why or why not?
3. Would you support a special commission to look into the 911 terrorist attacks? Why or why not?
4. What do you think about the 911 Commission's findings that the war in Iraq was started under false pretenses? Does this change your view of the war?

Postpone the election?

Hiphoppers rock the vote

America's first advisor for "urban policy" and "equality" is none other than Fubbas, the populistic songwriting genius. His latest single, "The White America," is a hit among communities of color and has become a rallying cry for their political aspirations.

So thank God that Eminem will be there to lead the march right into the White House / To burn the flag and replace it with a Parental Advisory sticker.

Eminem's politics, and the politics of Hiphit, are better than what we have left. So why not take the left side and shift Fubbas’ political vision to the center?

The Arbiter's advice to all political parties is: Don't do anything that makes you look like a dictator. And don't even think about it.

QB Dilemma one of the many questions surrounding the Broncos’ ‘04 season

WANT TO KNOW THE ANSWERS TO THE BIG QUESTIONS? STOP BY SPORTS ACADEMY ON AUGUST 3 TO SEE THE BRONCOS IN ACTION.

SPORTS WRITER

BY JOHN RASMUSSEN

THESE are the words I began writing as the Boise State football season approached. With the Broncos’ starting quarterback, Ryan Dinwiddie, listed on the preseason depth chart as co-number one with Tad Miller, the question arises: "Who is the starting quarterback and what can we expect from him this season?"

The starting quarterback isn’t the only question we need to answer. The Broncos will open their season against Oregon State, the team that took the 2003 Rose Bowl from their grasp. Boise State will have to overcome last year’s 2-4 record in the WAC and start strong if they want to make a run at the title.

The Broncos will face a tough schedule this season, with games against Fresno State, Stanford, and BYU. They will also play against Nevada, Utah, and Oregon State.

With the depth chart fully revealed, we can begin to get a good idea of who will start as the quarterback. According to the coach, the starting quarterback will be announced during the Boise State’s Fan Fest on August 27.

The starting quarterback isn’t the only question we need to answer. The Broncos have a lot of questions to answer before the season begins.

WHAT DO YOU THINK？

Get ready Broncos fans—fall sports are just around the corner, and we at the Idaho Statesman are excited to bring you all the latest news and updates on Boise State athletics.

The Boise State volleyball team will kick off their season on August 27 against the University of Idaho. The match will be held at Bronco Gym and is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m.

The Broncos have high expectations for this season, with the return of several key players from last year’s team. Among them are senior setter Mindy Bennett and sophomore middle blocker Gabriela Navarrete.

Other returning players include senior outside hitter Jackie Stroud, junior middle blocker Jeff Cavender, and sophomore right side hitter Tad Miller.

With the experience of last year’s team, the Broncos are ready to take on the challenges of the WAC.

Remember to check out the Idaho Statesman for all the latest news and updates on Boise State athletics this season.
BOSCO stirs up Boise's art mix

JAN HOFMANN
For A&E

There is an epiphanic confluence occurring right under the surface of Boise's art community where Something重大 is beginning to stir. It is an exciting time. It is not an easy time; we are all in transition, but the sense of something being born is unmistakable. Artistic life has started to change, and Boise is ripe for such changes. It is not easy to see the changes, but they are there. Boise's cultural life is dynamic, and it is moving forward. The changes are significant, and they are necessary. Boise's art community is growing, and it is becoming more inclusive. It is not easy to see the changes, but they are there. Boise's cultural life is dynamic, and it is moving forward. Drowning Pool rebuilds after frontman's death

BY ERIC D. ADAMANT
The Hartford Courant

When Drowning Pool, singer Joey "Gong" Jones says, "It's a weird thing to have your first record come out with a new singer."

After taking time off to grieve, the remaining members of the Dallas band decided to put together a lineup together with a new singer. Joey Jones, who joined the band two years ago, says he didn't actively try to replace Dave Williams, who was 30, over the long weekend and throughout the summer. The search came to an end shortly after the band reunited for a show in New York City this summer. The band will play a couple of shows in the fall before taking a break.
