Although this file was scanned from the highest-quality microfilm held by Boise State University, it reveals the limitations of the source microfilm. It is possible to perform a text search of much of this material; however, there are sections where the source microfilm was too faint or unreadable to allow for text scanning. For assistance with this collection of student newspapers, please contact Special Collections and Archives at archives@boisestate.edu.
Aging to be studied at new Boise State center

By Brian Lanksy

Boise State University announced the creation of an interdisciplinary center for the study of aging as part of the 2008 White House Conference on Aging. The center was created in “listening sessions” sponsored by Sen. Larry Craig R-Idaho on Oct. 10 in the Jordan Ballroom of the Union Building.

The center will be under the direction of the Colleges of Health Sciences and Social Sciences and Public Affairs. University officials said the center will conduct research and training to the community and serve as a point of departure for interdisciplinary work on aging.

“The center is not for us,” said Suna Cagin, director of Boise State’s Asian Studies Program.

People ages 50 and older are the fastest growing population group in the United States, with that group expected to increase 75 percent by 2030, Cagin said.

The new center will be called the Department of Human Aging and Human Development, and that season should be up to 2020.

Brenda White of the Boise State Asian Studies Program said she had the idea for the center about two years ago. She said the goal is to raise awareness of the aging population and the importance of the center.

White said they need to be a change in the way of thinking and a commitment to identifying the needs of senior citizens.

“Baby boomers don’t want or need the senior care facilities,” White said.

Cagin called for more funding and legal aid for senior citizens.

“The new center will be able to change things,” she said.

The center will be funded by an initial $50,000 grant from the Administration on Aging in the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

The center aims to develop a graduate certificate in gerontological studies and provide non-credit courses for lay persons.

Some of the center’s goals are to involve retired and current seniors, students, faculty and staff as well as those from the fields of nursing, economics, social work, criminal justice and biology.

Those who help develop the program will be given an opportunity to participate in the program. The “By the People” model is a technique of involving citizens in the creation of public policies for their own communities.

“The center will be a part of the Boise State community and its goals will be to help the community and the community will help the center,” White said.

Cagin said she created the center as a “test run” for the Department of Human Aging and Human Development.

The center will be under the direction of the College of Social Sciences and Public Affairs. University officials said the center will provide education and training to the community and serve as a point of departure for interdisciplinary work on aging.

“The center is not for us,” said Suna Cagin, director of Boise State’s Asian Studies Program.

People ages 50 and older are the fastest growing population group in the United States, with that group expected to increase 75 percent by 2030, Cagin said.

The new center will be called the Department of Human Aging and Human Development, and that season should be up to 2020.

Brenda White of the Boise State Asian Studies Program said she had the idea for the center about two years ago. She said the goal is to raise awareness of the aging population and the importance of the center.

White said they need to be a change in the way of thinking and a commitment to identifying the needs of senior citizens.

“Baby boomers don’t want or need the senior care facilities,” White said.

Cagin called for more funding and legal aid for senior citizens.

“The new center will be able to change things,” she said.

The center will be funded by an initial $50,000 grant from the Administration on Aging in the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

The center aims to develop a graduate certificate in gerontological studies and provide non-credit courses for lay persons.

Some of the center’s goals are to involve retired and current seniors, students, faculty and staff as well as those from the fields of nursing, economics, social work, criminal justice and biology.

Those who help develop the program will be given an opportunity to participate in the program. The “By the People” model is a technique of involving citizens in the creation of public policies for their own communities.
Bombsings inside fortified Green Zone kill at least 5

WASHINGTON, Iraq - On the eve of the Monday bombing of Baghdad, Iraq, insurgents carried out at least two simultaneous attacks against Sunni mosques, killing at least five people and injuring four.:

Tensions were high around Baghdad, where American and Iraqi officials had warned of an increase in militant activity during Ramadan, as well as around the country, where the government is trying to maintain order as the U.S.-controlled Green Zone is expanded around the country.

Iraqi security forces on Wednesday night saw the first militant attack in the U.S.-controlled Green Zone, a compound of American bases and official buildings in central Baghdad, after Iran's government was blamed for the attack.

American and Iraqi officials have been warning of an increase in militant activity during Ramadan, as well as around the country, where the government is trying to maintain order as the U.S.-controlled Green Zone is expanded around the country.

The Twin bombings were the first militant attack in the U.S.-controlled Green Zone, a compound of American bases and official buildings in central Baghdad, after Iran's government was blamed for the attack.

American and Iraqi officials have been warning of an increase in militant activity during Ramadan, as well as around the country, where the government is trying to maintain order as the U.S.-controlled Green Zone is expanded around the country.

The Twin bombings were the first militant attack in the U.S.-controlled Green Zone, a compound of American bases and official buildings in central Baghdad, after Iran's government was blamed for the attack.

American and Iraqi officials have been warning of an increase in militant activity during Ramadan, as well as around the country, where the government is trying to maintain order as the U.S.-controlled Green Zone is expanded around the country.

The Twin bombings were the first militant attack in the U.S.-controlled Green Zone, a compound of American bases and official buildings in central Baghdad, after Iran's government was blamed for the attack.

American and Iraqi officials have been warning of an increase in militant activity during Ramadan, as well as around the country, where the government is trying to maintain order as the U.S.-controlled Green Zone is expanded around the country.

The Twin bombings were the first militant attack in the U.S.-controlled Green Zone, a compound of American bases and official buildings in central Baghdad, after Iran's government was blamed for the attack.

American and Iraqi officials have been warning of an increase in militant activity during Ramadan, as well as around the country, where the government is trying to maintain order as the U.S.-controlled Green Zone is expanded around the country.

The Twin bombings were the first militant attack in the U.S.-controlled Green Zone, a compound of American bases and official buildings in central Baghdad, after Iran's government was blamed for the attack.

American and Iraqi officials have been warning of an increase in militant activity during Ramadan, as well as around the country, where the government is trying to maintain order as the U.S.-controlled Green Zone is expanded around the country.

The Twin bombings were the first militant attack in the U.S.-controlled Green Zone, a compound of American bases and official buildings in central Baghdad, after Iran's government was blamed for the attack.

American and Iraqi officials have been warning of an increase in militant activity during Ramadan, as well as around the country, where the government is trying to maintain order as the U.S.-controlled Green Zone is expanded around the country.

The Twin bombings were the first militant attack in the U.S.-controlled Green Zone, a compound of American bases and official buildings in central Baghdad, after Iran's government was blamed for the attack.

American and Iraqi officials have been warning of an increase in militant activity during Ramadan, as well as around the country, where the government is trying to maintain order as the U.S.-controlled Green Zone is expanded around the country.

The Twin bombings were the first militant attack in the U.S.-controlled Green Zone, a compound of American bases and official buildings in central Baghdad, after Iran's government was blamed for the attack.

American and Iraqi officials have been warning of an increase in militant activity during Ramadan, as well as around the country, where the government is trying to maintain order as the U.S.-controlled Green Zone is expanded around the country.

The Twin bombings were the first militant attack in the U.S.-controlled Green Zone, a compound of American bases and official buildings in central Baghdad, after Iran's government was blamed for the attack.

American and Iraqi officials have been warning of an increase in militant activity during Ramadan, as well as around the country, where the government is trying to maintain order as the U.S.-controlled Green Zone is expanded around the country.

The Twin bombings were the first militant attack in the U.S.-controlled Green Zone, a compound of American bases and official buildings in central Baghdad, after Iran's government was blamed for the attack.

American and Iraqi officials have been warning of an increase in militant activity during Ramadan, as well as around the country, where the government is trying to maintain order as the U.S.-controlled Green Zone is expanded around the country.

The Twin bombings were the first militant attack in the U.S.-controlled Green Zone, a compound of American bases and official buildings in central Baghdad, after Iran's government was blamed for the attack.

American and Iraqi officials have been warning of an increase in militant activity during Ramadan, as well as around the country, where the government is trying to maintain order as the U.S.-controlled Green Zone is expanded around the country.
Most Common Mistakes

And How To Avoid Them

1. Failure to immediately validate and attach a tag. No matter what the circumstances, immediately validate and attach a tag to the animal.

2. Failure to leave evidence of sex. The easiest way to deal with this is to simply leave the head attached.

3. Waste of game. Wasting an animal is totally avoidable. Plan ahead and pack enough ice and coolers. Don’t hunt too far from your vehicle and know where you are going to take that animal after the hunt.

BY MICHELLE SELLS

My first deer-hunting trip

On my first deer-hunting trip
I asked my husband, son, and friends, Jerry and James, to take me to their secret hunting spot.

I had gone ahead to set up camp
and fell asleep listening to the alligators, piled on the layers and toured the area. When I awoke,
I enjoyed a simple dinner

feeling and tasting wonderful. We were happy with the outcome
of venison (from the year before)

BY MICHELLE SELLS

My first deer-hunting trip

On my first deer-hunting trip
I asked my husband, son, and
friends, Jerry and James, to take
me to their secret hunting spot.

I had gone ahead to set up camp
and fell asleep listening to the alligators, piled on the layers and
toured the area. When I awoke,
I enjoyed a simple dinner

feeling and tasting wonderful. We
were happy with the outcome
of venison (from the year before)

BY MICHELLE SELLS

My first deer-hunting trip

On my first deer-hunting trip
I asked my husband, son, and
friends, Jerry and James, to take
me to their secret hunting spot.

I had gone ahead to set up camp
and fell asleep listening to the alligators, piled on the layers and
toured the area. When I awoke,
I enjoyed a simple dinner

feeling and tasting wonderful. We
were happy with the outcome
of venison (from the year before)

BY MICHELLE SELLS

My first deer-hunting trip

On my first deer-hunting trip
I asked my husband, son, and
friends, Jerry and James, to take
me to their secret hunting spot.

I had gone ahead to set up camp
and fell asleep listening to the alligators, piled on the layers and
toured the area. When I awoke,
I enjoyed a simple dinner

feeling and tasting wonderful. We
were happy with the outcome
of venison (from the year before)

BY MICHELLE SELLS

My first deer-hunting trip

On my first deer-hunting trip
I asked my husband, son, and
friends, Jerry and James, to take
me to their secret hunting spot.

I had gone ahead to set up camp
and fell asleep listening to the alligators, piled on the layers and
toured the area. When I awoke,
I enjoyed a simple dinner

feeling and tasting wonderful. We
were happy with the outcome
of venison (from the year before)

BY MICHELLE SELLS

My first deer-hunting trip

On my first deer-hunting trip
I asked my husband, son, and
friends, Jerry and James, to take
me to their secret hunting spot.

I had gone ahead to set up camp
and fell asleep listening to the alligators, piled on the layers and
toured the area. When I awoke,
I enjoyed a simple dinner

feeling and tasting wonderful. We
were happy with the outcome
of venison (from the year before)

BY MICHELLE SELLS

My first deer-hunting trip

On my first deer-hunting trip
I asked my husband, son, and
friends, Jerry and James, to take
me to their secret hunting spot.

I had gone ahead to set up camp
and fell asleep listening to the alligators, piled on the layers and
toured the area. When I awoke,
I enjoyed a simple dinner

feeling and tasting wonderful. We
were happy with the outcome
of venison (from the year before)

BY MICHELLE SELLS

My first deer-hunting trip

On my first deer-hunting trip
I asked my husband, son, and
friends, Jerry and James, to take
me to their secret hunting spot.

I had gone ahead to set up camp
and fell asleep listening to the alligators, piled on the layers and
toured the area. When I awoke,
I enjoyed a simple dinner

feeling and tasting wonderful. We
were happy with the outcome
of venison (from the year before)

BY MICHELLE SELLS

My first deer-hunting trip

On my first deer-hunting trip
I asked my husband, son, and
friends, Jerry and James, to take
me to their secret hunting spot.

I had gone ahead to set up camp
and fell asleep listening to the alligators, piled on the layers and
toured the area. When I awoke,
I enjoyed a simple dinner

feeling and tasting wonderful. We
were happy with the outcome
of venison (from the year before)
Letters to the editor

Dear Editor:

I write today regarding the "Letters to the editor" piece on the editorial page of The Arbiter, the student newspaper. It does not accurately reflect the diversity of viewpoints on campus. As an English major and a member of the editorial board, I must speak out against the content of this letter.

The Arbiter should not act as a mouthpiece for any particular group but should provide a platform for all voices. This letter, written by a student named John Doe, expresses a minority opinion that is not representative of the majority of our student body. It is important to maintain a balance of perspectives and ensure that all students feel heard.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]

The Arbiter

Dear reader,

I write to express my concern about the coverage of a recent political debate. The debates have been polarizing, with each candidate presenting a vastly different vision for the country. As a citizen, it is crucial to understand the underlying differences between the two major parties.

Candidate A believes in strong government intervention in the economy, advocating for increased social programs and federal support for education. Candidate B, on the other hand, subscribes to a more laissez-faire approach, prioritizing individual freedom and limited government regulation.

It is important to recognize that both candidates have valid points, and it is up to the public to decide which vision aligns best with their values. As we move forward, let us engage in open and respectful dialogue to ensure a informed electorate.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]

The Arbiter

Two men, two visions, revealed

By SPEAK SPOKESMAN

When voters are faced with a choice between two candidates, it is crucial to understand their distinct visions for the nation. Candidate X believes in..., while Candidate Y stands for... In order to make an informed decision, it is essential to closely analyze their proposals and evaluate which one aligns best with one's values.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]

The Arbiter

Draft bill used as a sick political tool

By SPEAK SPOKESMAN

The recent draft bill introduced in Congress was intended to provide relief for certain industries, but it has been accused of being a political ploy. The bill's real purpose is to distract from more pressing issues, such as healthcare reform and climate change.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]

The Arbiter
The Broncos were ranked 19th in the AP poll, 16th in the coaches poll and 10th by the computers.

Boise is thought of more highly by the computers than, among others, California, Georgia, Texas and Purdue.
The Sooners are the No. 2 team in both polls.

There are seven unbeaten teams in the country, a one, a two, a third.

The Boise State men's lacrosse team hosted the largest lacrosse tournament in the year this past weekend. The team hosted the largest lacrosse tournament in the year this past weekend.

Weekday Jumps as low as $94

(208) 455-2359

4132 Idaho Way
Col Tender, ID 83609

Boise State Lacrosse takes 2nd at home field tournament

The Bundesliga

The Bundesliga is a professional association football league in Germany. It is the first of three professional divisions of the German football league system.
National championship, Heisman Trophy races remain a puzzle

BY WENDELL BRRNHOUSE

CORALGABLES, Fla. - For Brock Berlin, it was a day to locate his passers and push the ball to more talented receivers. For Vinny Testaverde, it was a day to find the right targets to start the season.

"We're spoiled," coach Larry Coker said. "We're used to being good.

"We're just a better offensive team this year," Testaverde said. "We've got better wide receivers and tight ends than we had last year. We're a lot more confident in who we are offensively.

"I think it depends on the end result, whether we come out with a victory. I wasn't even thinking of that. You can't control anything they throw at you. They can call anything they want and you just have to react.

"My goal is to make them love him. If I can throw for 139.3 efficiency rating that's second in the nation, that's pretty good."

"I can't control anything they throw at you. They can call anything they want and you just have to react. My goal is to make them love him. If I can throw for 139.3 efficiency rating that's second in the nation, that's pretty good.''

"We're used to being good. You've got to be a little bit of a confidence booster to come back and prove you can win the game. I wasn't even thinking of that. You can't control anything they throw at you. They can call anything they want and you just have to react."

"Our guys are ready to go."
Typewriter inspires prize-winning poem

"Typewriter Fetish," a form of communication, recognizing that I am half electronic "Electron sound very much like a combination of sounds from their last three albums sound close to a studio recording, "Benaroyal Hall" has the definite sound of a live concert album. Simply put, the sound is not as sharp.

The large problem in this, with the exception of the brief "Lukin", these lesser known jewels. This would be overlooked if the album's contents were at its best, which they aren't. The best of these lesser known jewels. "Both Worlds" includes all the regular album tracks on "Best of, Vol. I," and adds 16 others, not including the three new tracks and the three live tracks. Point being, it may just be a better introduction to Van Halen than the previous hits album, simply for its breadth, but nothing monumental comes out of "Best of Both Worlds." -

Van Halen managed to get their act together and tolerate each other's presence long enough to rake in millions of dollars in a worldwide tour - a tour that includes a stop at the Big Easy on Oct. 15. For some reason "Van Halen III" was totally ignored on this comeback, despite the fact that album's contents were at its best, which they aren't. The best of these lesser known jewels. "Both Worlds" includes all the regular album tracks on "Best of, Vol. I," and adds 16 others, not including the three new tracks and the three live tracks. Point being, it may just be a better introduction to Van Halen than the previous hits album, simply for its breadth, but nothing monumental comes out of "Best of Both Worlds." -

Van Halen, "Without You" was a hit, but its sound is not as sharp. The problem with "Around the Sun" is not so much the style, but the familiar renditions of recent acoustic works. The songs do sound good in cases the best of these lesser known jewels. This would be overlooked if the album's contents were at its best, which they aren't. The best of these lesser known jewels. "Both Worlds" includes all the regular album tracks on "Best of, Vol. I," and adds 16 others, not including the three new tracks and the three live tracks. Point being, it may just be a better introduction to Van Halen than the previous hits album, simply for its breadth, but nothing monumental comes out of "Best of Both Worlds." -
I was held captive for the bulk of last week. I had my right wrist shackled, my left leg shackled. I was chained in a line of six people. I had three bright red pseudonyms attached to me.

They kept broadcasting over the radio that they were looking for an other than your mother, who confess to things they hadn't done. It was ridiculous! Naturally, I submitted an application. My professors gave me permission to submit an application. If I didn't, I'd be held captive for the bulk of the semester. My professors gave me permission to submit an application.

The morning after I submitted my application, I heard the morning show crew cracking up about something.

The premise was that listeners would vote off one participant every day, until on the last day, there would be two guys left for a showdown. The premise was that listeners would vote off one participant every day, until on the last day, there would be two guys left for a showdown. The premise was that listeners would vote off one participant every day, until on the last day, there would be two guys left for a showdown.

I drew pictures of myself making silly faces, and only a few of my marketing management instructors believe I am a normal person.

The morning after I submitted my application, I heard the morning show crew cracking up about something. The morning after I submitted my application, I heard the morning show crew cracking up about something.